YOUNGER DOHENY OMITTED

TRIAL EXPECTED IN OCTOBER

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior; Edward L. Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair were reindicted today on charges of conspiracy to defraud the Government in the leases of the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills naval oil reserves to the Doheny and Sinclair interests.

No new bribery indictments were returned, and whether the accused will stand trial on that charge depends on the decision of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia on the Government's appeal from the decision of Chief Justice McCoy of the District Supreme Court quashing the original indictments on the ground that the presence in the Grand Jury room of an Assistant Attorney General had invalidated them.

The most interesting feature in the new indictments returned today is the allegation in the Sinclair indictment that Mr. Sinclair gave $230,500 in Liberty bonds to Mr. Fall. This is the money which, it is alleged, was traced from the resale profits of the defunct Continental Trading Company, Ltd., of Canada to Mr. Fall and his son-in-law Milton B. Everhart of Pueblo, Col. Mr. Sinclair was a participant in the conference held in the Vanderbilt Hotel, New York, in November, 1921, at which the Continental deal was engineered, and along with James E. O'Neil, President of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company, and Colonel Robert W. Stewart of the Standard Oil of Indiana, guaranteed the transaction, which involved the sale of 33,000,000 barrels of oil by the Mexia (Texas) Companies to the Continental Trading Company.

Not Mentioned in First Indictments.

In the original indictments involving Mr. Sinclair there was no mention of the Continental bonds. Today's action, therefore, for the first time brings that mysterious transaction before a criminal court. It is the understanding that Owen J. Roberts and ex-Senator Atlee Pomerene, counsel for the Government in the oil prosecutions, will redouble their efforts to get the testimony of those who had part in engineering the Continental deal, namely, Colonel Stewart, Mr. O'Neil and H. M. Blackmer, former Chairman of the Board of the Mid-Western Refining Company. There is little hope that H. M. Osler of Toronto, who was counsel for Blackmer and also President of the Continental, can be persuaded to cross the border to tell what he knows about the affair.

For more than eighteen months past O'Neil and Blackmer have been living in France and to date have refused to give any information of any kind to the Government. Their attorneys are authority for the statement that neither will probably ever return to the United States.

Colonel Stewart sailed from New York for Europe Saturday. The Government was acquainted with the fact, and it is said that Colonel Stewart will be on hand if he is wanted as a witness.

In the case of the Elk Hills lease, Edward L. Doheny Jr. was not indicted. The elder Mr. Doheny and Mr. Fall are jointly indicted for conspiracy and their famous $100,000 loan is simply listed as an alleged overt act. The position of the Government is understood to be that it would be extremely difficult to sustain a bribery charge against either of the Dohenys owing to the fact that the only evidence is the statement of Mr. Doheny Sr. before the Senate committee which investigated the oil leases. That statement would not be admissible in court as evidence against him. Government counsel contend, however, that the $100,000 transaction is admissible as evidence to support the conspiracy charge.

Doheny Repeats Political Charge.

Over the telephone tonight the senior Mr. Doheny, who is in Los Angeles, declared that the oil cases were "born of politics," adding that the November election had proved that in the opinion of the American voters the whole thing was a "politically hatched scandal."

Mr. Doheny was talking with his chief counsel, Frank J. Hogan of this city.

"I do not know how I can add anything to the statement made by me when a similar indictment was filed last year," he said. "I said then and I say now that any fair trial of these politically inspired charges will result in showing that our contracts with the Government were honestly awarded and that the Government has received great advantages under them.

"The recent naval manoeuvres in the Pacific have conclusively demonstrated that the naval fuel base built by our company for the Government is the greatest factor in the security of this country against any possible foreign naval attack in the Pacific. We advanced every dollar expended to construct that fuel station, which Admiral Gregory, Chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks of the United States Navy, has described as the finest in the world. The Government has returned to us part of these advances, at actual cost without profit, not in money but in crude

$500,000,000 Cut in Coal Cost By Mine Machinery Predicted

CINCINNATI, May 27 (AP).—Mining men are looking forward to the time when the coal bill of the United States will be reduced $500,000,000 by the perfection of devices for mining coal with machinery, Edward J. O'Toole, General Superintendent of the mines of the United States Coal and Coke Company, in West Virginia and Kentucky, declared before the American Mining Congress here today.

Saying his company has just mined 115,000 tons by the new process, Mr. O'Toole continued:

"This machine makes the use of explosives in the mine unnecessary and will reduce accidents. It undercuts the coal by chewing into it with steel teeth. Then the coal automatically falls down upon a self-loader. We expect this machine to reduce the cost of mining 50 per cent. and to cut the cost down $1 a ton, meaning a saving of $500,000,000."

HUGO STINNES'S SONS PART AFTER QUARREL

Edward Stinnes Will Manage Alone the Firm's Insurance and Auto Interests.

By T. R. YBARRA.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 27.—Barely a year after the death of Hugo Stinnes, Germany's spectacular financial czar, a quarrel between his two sons threatens disruption of the Stinnes interests, one of the most vast, varied, and complex businesses ever welded together in the world's history.

Behind the laconic announcement that Dr. Edmund Stinnes had left the firm lies twelve months of bickering, culminating finally in what may be a step fatal to the continuance of Hugo Stinnes's industrial power. Although it is announced that Edmund Stinnes will continue heading the Stinnes insurance and automobile interests in cooperation with his younger brother Hugo, rumors are rife in Berlin business circles today that the separation means a definite rupture.

Whether young Hugo will be able to manage the vast industrial empire left by his father is doubted here. It was all very well for Hugo Stinnes the elder, with his dominating financial genius, to do so, but the question is asked here whether any other one man is equal to the task. That this other man should happen to be Hugo Stinnes's son seems to many in Berlin almost beyond the range of possibility.

The quarrel between Edmund and Hugo Stinnes the younger started soon after they assumed charge of the vast Stinnes holdings. Their father placed in the hands of his widow the final say as to how his colossal interests should be managed after his death. She arranged with her sons that Edmund should devote himself primarily to industrial undertakings, with his headquarters in Berlin, while his brother Hugo should take up the management of the Stinnes shipping and foreign interests, with Hamburg as his headquarters.

Both brothers are headstrong and self-willed, and trouble soon was brewing between them. Small causes of friction soon appeared, and only a few months after the death of Hugo Stinnes serious business differences arose. It became apparent that a new division of the Stinnes interests was imperative if a possible fatal business setback was to be averted.

After a series of councils with their mother, Edmund and Hugo Stinnes decided to part—though in a limited sense. Edmund undertook to manage at his own risk the insurance and automobile interests, but it is expressly announced at the Stinnes headquarters that this does not mean an actual change in the structure of the great Stinnes organization. This may or may not be true, but the statement is received with considerable skepticism hereabouts.

It remains to be seen whether Edmund Stinnes will give up the numerous directing posts he now holds within the Stinnes concern. It also remains to be seen whether, in seeking to run single-handed the enormous interests in which formerly he was helped by his brother Hugo, he will show himself capable to fill the shoes of Hugo Stinnes the elder.

BUCKNER TO IGNORE PETTY OFFENDERS IN WAR ON LIQUOR

Will Centre Attack on Big Bootleggers and Makers of Contraband, He Says.

IMPOSSIBLE TO TRY ALL

Other Laws Also Must Be Enforced, He Observes, and There Aren't Enough Judges.

POLICE FOLLOW HIS ADVICE

Both City and Federal Authorities Collaborating With Him, Prosecutor Asserts.

In a speech last night on "Law Enforcement" before the Park Slope Masonic Club at 57 Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn, United States Attorney Buckner stated that the police and prohibition officials in this Federal jurisdiction had acceded to a request by him and would not make any more arrests for petty violations of the prohibition law. In a talk with reporters before the speech Mr. Buckner made it clear that in his future attacks on liquor violators he will have the cooperation not only of the city officials but of the Government officials in Washington. He admitted that he now was the overlord here in all matters touching the enforcement of the liquor laws.

Other bits of interesting information furnished by Mr. Buckner were that his methods had deprived agents of bonding companies of incomes running as high as $15,000 a year through liquor law arrests, and that some of the men engaged in giving bonds for such prisoners had defaulted to the tune of about $300,000 in making good bonds furnished by them. These defaulters, he said, would be asked to pay the amounts due, and if they failed they would be sued and their names stricken from the lists of the Federal Court, thus depriving them of a particularly lucrative trade.

Another effect of his methods, it was pointed out, was that fees collected by Federal officials through the thousands of petty arrests had been cut down from something like $40,000 a year almost to the vanishing point.

Must Centre on Big Cases.

In his speech Mr. Buckner said:

"I have requested the Police Department and the Prohibiton Department to stop making petty arrests in the Southern District of New York. My only contribution to the situation has been to realize that I could not effectively prosecute thousands of little cases and at the same time investigate and bring to justice the men higher up, the bootleggers, the financiers behind the bootleggers and the owners of expensive places retailing liquor at fabulous prices. Confronted with the necessity of choice, I prefer to devote my energy, that of my staff and that of our Federal courts to prosecutions directed at the importation of liquor, at the manufacturers right in New York City of 'imported' liquor, the large wholesalers and the flagrant retailers of liquor.

"The Police Department and the Prohibition Department have agreed to follow my request in the Southern District of New York. From now on waiters, peddlers, porters and clerks will not be arrested, but a written report will be made to me by prohibiton agents and police officers of places where they have purchased liquor, and padlock proceedings against the owners will be brought immediately.

"I have scores of criminal cases in my office awaiting trial of waiters arrested for selling beer and of citizens who have been arrested for possessing liquor, where there is no commercial aspect of the case. I have no sympathy with that kind of prohibition enforcement which clogs my calendars with a criminal charge against a man arrested on New Year's Eve for having in his automobile a single bottle of champagne when hundreds of bootleggers and rum-runners go unarrested and unconvicted.

"I now have between 2,000 and 3,000 of these petty cases on my books. I hope to dispose of all of them during the Summer, and I trust that during my term of office no more cases of that kind will be brought unless Congress should see fit to add 10 or 15 Federal Judges to the Southern District of New York, and to add 50 or 75 men to my own staff."

Mr. Buckner explained that no United States District Attorney who had taken the oath of office could have a policy

Liverpool Clerk, Winning $365,000 on Derby In Calcutta Sweepstake, Must Share Half

LIVERPOOL, May 27 (AP).—James Carew, an employe of a shipping firm here, won nearly £75,000 by holding the winning ticket in the Calcutta Sweepstake on the Derby, the world's greatest racing prize.

Carew will have to give one-fourth of the prize money to a London firm that bought a quarter interest in his ticket on Manna, the winner, for £2,000.

Another quarter will have to be relinquished, for Carew sold a second fourth interest in his ticket for £3,000. He will thus net half the prize, about $182,500, plus about $24,000 which he gained from his sales of the two quarters.

Showing that luck never comes singly, Carew learned today that he was entered in another sweepstake in Hull by a friend and had drawn Manna in that, which brings him another £50 in prize money.

Asked how it felt to be such a big winner, Carew said: "I feel very comfortable about it. This morning, to keep out of excitement, I left my office in good time and went home, had luncheon at 3:20 o'clock and went to bed. I lighted my pipe, closed my eyes and smoked."

Carew was smoking peacefully when Manna romped home to make him independent for life. He says he will give some of the money to a Roman Catholic girls' orphanage at Great Crosby.

LONDON, May 27 (AP).—The House of Commons learned the name of the Derby winner today when Sir William Davison, member from Kensington, interrupted a dreary round of questions and answers by arising to ask:

"Is the honorable member aware that Manna won the Derby?"

FUNDAMENTALISTS ARE FIRM

Insist That New York Presbytery Must Obey Orders or Face Dissolution.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 27.—The last hours of the 137th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, which adjourned sine die at noon today, were marked by a closing up of the ranks of the Liberals in opposition to yesterday's ruling of the Assembly and the Supreme Judicial Commission's decision that direct affirmation of the Virgin birth was essential to admittance to the Presbyterian ministry under the Confession of Faith.

Fighting with their backs to the wall, the Liberals, in a formal protest received today by the General Assembly, held that the decision in the case of the Rev. A. N. Gantz against the Presbytery of New York was erroneous because it violated the historic policy of the Church, established in 1729, that each Presbytery might judge for itself as to the satisfactory examination of candidates.

The protest, which was in effect a dissenting opinion because its signers were members of the high court which considered the case, charged that the decision against the Presbytery of New York was a reversion toward Roman Catholic theories of ecclesiastical authority, "which it was the very purpose of Presbyterian Protestantism to overthrow." The decision, it was alleged, called for implicit faith and blind obedience, and would destroy liberty of conscience and reason.

Extreme Fundamentalists and Liberals admitted that a definite break in the Church had been put off for a year pending the work of the special committee of fifteen which will be appointed by Moderator Charles R. Erdman in the next few weeks to report upon present conditions in the denomination.

The New York commissioners, led by Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, left Columbus today depressed by the severe setback, but determined to stand by their interpretation of the constitution that the Presbyteries had power to determine the fitness of candidates for the ministry.

Threat of Dissolution Made.

A threat that if "the seemingly defiant actions of some of the New York commissioners" resulted in open defiance of the General Assembly it would mean dissolution of the Presbytery of New York was made by Dr. Clarence Edward Macartney, leader of the "fighting" Fundamentalists. Such a dissolution would involve setting up another Presbytery by the Assembly, which would be empowered by the General Assembly to take over the property of the old Presbytery, valued at several million dollars. The old Presbytery undoubtedly would resist and the case would go to the civil courts, involving litigation and appeals that might take twenty years.

Commissioners recalled the split in the Scottish Presbyterian Church in the '90s, when the "We Frees" fought for legal possession of the vast property of the Church in Scotland.

The only topic of discussion when commissioners met today was the possible schism in the Church as a result of the positive stand of the Supreme Judicial Commission on the affirmation of the Virgin birth. It was pointed out as anomalous that some ordained ministers had refused to affirm belief in the Virgin birth and had not been tried for heresy, but that hereafter applicants for the ministry would have to make such an affirmation, thus making two classes in the clergy.

The Presbytery of New York, which will meet next month, probably will endorse the stand taken by its commissioners at the Assembly and appoint a committee to study the situation and present its case to the committee of fifteen which will be charged with the task of averting a split in the Church.

The committee of fifteen will have none but recommendatory powers. Nothing that it may suggest can affect the case of Henry P. Van Dusen, who failed to affirm belief in the Virgin birth. If the committee of fifteen recommends that the next General Assembly reverse yesterday's action and this is adopted, the threatened schism will have been averted. The question of control over the licensing of ministers may be sent to the Presbyteries by next year's Assembly, thus further postponing the crisis of a split.

The Presbytery of New York will not give up its constitutional right to license ministers, it is asserted. A change in the Confession of Faith requiring candi-

NAVAL CONFERENCES ON AMUNDSEN RELIEF

DIFFICULTIES EMPHASIZED

MacMillan Says They Cannot Return if Machines Are Wrecked —Norway May Send Planes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—At two conferences held in the Navy Department today, the possibility that the United Sates Government may be asked to attempt a rescue of the Amundsen polar party was considered. Commander MacMillan, who will be in charge of the polar expedition scheduled to start north next month, discussed the subject with Secretary Wilbur and he touched upon it briefly in a talk with Admiral Moffett, Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics.

Secretary Wilbur also canvassed the the situation with Lieut. Commander Byrd, who will be in charge of the naval unit attached to the MacMillan expedition. Lieut. Commander Byrd exhibited to Secretary Wilbur a map of the region penetrated by Amundsen prepared by the Hydrographic Office of the department. This brought out in a striking way, according to Secretary Wilbur, the troubles that would be encountered by a rescue party organized to search for Amundsen and his comrades.

Reiterating a statement he made yesterday that he would be reluctant to order a naval party into the polar regions to locate Amundsen, the Secretary called attention to the difficulties of navigation in the Arctic Circle. He pointed out that in the Arctic Circle the navigator had to contend with the Magnetic Pole as well as the North Pole, and that in such conditions the possibility of losing one's way was vastly increased. He indicated that he believes a search for Amundsen would be long and hazardous, and intimated that the task was one that should receive the most careful consideration.

Denies Speeding Up Plans.

Denial was made by Secretary Wilbur that those in charge of the MacMillan expedition had "speeded up" their arrangements because of the continued absence of Amundsen. He said that his discussion with MacMillan today revolved largely around the navigation problems presented to the polar party that is to go out under the auspices of the navy and the National Geographic Society. Admiral Moffett and other officers of the Bureau of Aeronautics, including Lieut. Commander Byrd, were present during Secretary Wilbur's talk with Commander MacMillan.

An announcement today concerning the navy's Summer plans for the dirigibles Shenandoah and Los Angeles made it clear that if the navy has to send one of these ships north this Summer, to meet an emergency, the Shenandoah will get the assignment. It was stated that owing to a shortage of helium it would not be practicable to keep both dirigibles inflated this Summer. Except for trips to Annapolis and Minneapolis in June, the Los Angeles will spend most of the Summer in her hangar at Lakehurst. Her supply of helium will be transferred to the Shenandoah, which will take part in scouting duties in the Atlantic in connection with the fleet.

The American-made dirigible will thus be in good condition to make the long trip northward in case she is called upon to go to the rescue either of Amundsen or MacMillan. Such a trip has been considered by the Bureau of Aeronautics in the preparation of the plans for navy participation in the exploration that is to be made by MacMillan of the unknown area lying between Alaska and the North Pole.

If Amundsen has not been heard from by the time MacMillan reaches Etah, his base, then, according to Secretary Wilbur, some scouting work for the missing men might be done by the navy airplanes in the command of Lieut. Commander Byrd. Secretary Wilbur appears to realize that in due time, if Amundsen fails to report, public sentiment might demand action by this Government on humanitarian grounds.

MacMillan Fears for Amundsen.

If Amundsen is now at or near the North Pole and his airplanes are down and unfit for further service, he will never come back, MacMillan declared tonight in an informal address before officers of the National Geographic Society, who, with a number of invited guests, assembled to listen to an explanation by Commander MacMillan of the plans and purposes of the expedition which he will lead soon into the frozen North.

MacMillan was in a pessimistic mood, although he asserted that it was still

Fumes Drive Back Rescue Workers, Able Only to Reach Six Bodies.

2 EXPLOSIONS AFTER FIRST

STRICKEN FAMILIES PRAY

COAL GLEN, N. C., May 27 (AP).—Three score or more miners were entombed at 9:30 o'clock this morning by an explosion below the 1,000 foot lateral of the Carolina Coal Company's mine, near here, and their fate was undetermined at a late hour tonight. Rescuers had succeeded in bringing to the surface six bodies but it was feared that most, if not all, of the others had perished.

Records of the mine showed that 59 men, thirty-nine whites and twenty negroes, comprised the crew which went into the mine at 8 A. M. Mine officials, however, reported that 71 miners' lamps were missing, and it was believed that that figure might represent the number entombed on a final check.

Mine authorities said the six men whose bodies were found apparently had died only a short time before they were reached.

While the wives, mothers and children of the trapped miners gathered as close as possible to the mine, some mute, some praying, others frantic, awaiting word of their loved ones, little hope was held that many more of the victims could be reached before tomorrow, despite the steady reinforcement of rescue workers from near-by States.

The experts ordered here by the Federal Bureau of Mines were eagerly awaited, although the services of two lorry loads of troops from Fort Bragg, N. C., were declined by Adjt. Gen. Metts. General Metts arrived late in the day and took charge of the situation on behalf of Governor McLean, with Frank Page, Chairman of the State Highway Commission, who brought a corps of engineers at the Executive's request to assist in the rescue.

Some Hope Expressed.

Hope was expressed tonight, however, by Bion H. Butler, Vice President of the mining company, and William Hill of the Cumnock Coal Mine, near by, that some of the trapped men might have survived. Miners from the Cumnock company aided throughout the day in the work of rescue.

Mr. Hill said that the air was clear in the mine below the point where the bodies were found, and this was held to indicate that the other men might have a chance. The fans were kept going all day in an effort to purify the air in the inner passages, so that rescuers might be able to penetrate further into the dark recesses that are believed to hold the victims of the disaster.

Mr. Butler said the best information he had been able to obtain was that the first explosion occurred in the second right lateral of the mine, approximately a thousand feet from the entrance. If this was true, he added, the main shaft may not have filled with gas, but merely was blocked with debris.

RALEIGH, N. C., May 27 (AP).—The first explosion, according to mine officials, which probably sounded the doom of the miners working 1,000 feet down in the Carolina mine, eight miles from Sanford, came about 9:30 o'clock this morning. It was followed by another at 10 o'clock and a third at 10:30. Fire broke out, adding to the danger of the trapped men and handicapping efforts at rescue.

Fumes Prevent Rescue.

The first explosion, according to mine officials, took place about 9:30 o'clock this morning. It was followed by another at 10 o'clock and a third at 10:30. The mine is located at Coal Glen.

The first explosion occurred when the full crew of the mine was on duty. Dense clouds of yellow smoke and dangerous fumes emanating from the mouth of the mine for a time prevented attempts at rescue. Two men went into the mine equipped with gas masks, but were driven back.

The second explosion came when another effort was made by rescue workers to enter the shaft where the men were trapped. This was followed by the third blast in still another part of the mine. Fumes prevented workers from penetrating further than the first lift.

Howard Butler, surface foreman, with a group of aids, penetrated the shaft for a short distance. He reported that he saw six bodies. He could not, he

Soviet Triples Vodka Output; Plans Increase in Strength

MOSCOW, May 27, (AP).—Russia's production of vodka tripled last year and yielded the Soviet Government the largest revenues in its history.

The Government now maintains 361 national distilleries working at full blast. Prohibition in Russia having been found a failure, it has been announced that the Government next October will increase the strength of vodka to an alcoholic content of 40 per cent., only 5 per cent. below its pre-war strength.

Vodka of an alcoholic content of 30 per cent. costs the equivalent of 27 cents a quart. The Government is engaged in a constant battle against home brewers of vodka, who make a beverage of 60 to 90 per cent. strength. More than 300,000 illicit stills were confiscated and the owners fined, imprisoned or deported during the past year.

DR. STRATON IN CLASH OVER CHURCH FUNDS

SILENCES AN INTERRUPTION

Declares Church Drive Was Called Off Because of Misinformation.

Dissension in the Calvary Baptist Church increased at the regular monthly business meeting last night when there was a clash between the Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, the pastor, and W. A. M. Martin, Treasurer. Dr. Straton demanded that Mr. Martin explain why the church finances showed a deficit in view of the assurance he said the Treasurer had given him that the receipts would more than balance the expenditures. It was because of this assurance, the pastor said, that a drive for funds which would have netted several thousand dollars was abandoned.

"I wish to make a statement for the clerk to take down on the record," began Mr. Martin. "I—"

"You keep silent, sir!" Dr. Straton called out.

"I am the defendant here," the Treasurer answered, "and I demand—"

"Silence!" thundered the pastor. "You keep silent until I have finished!"

Mr. Martin stood mute until Dr. Straton had dictated what he wished the clerk to record, and then Mr. Martin was permitted to give what he said was the explanation of his optimistic but unjustified view of the church's financial prospects.

Calls for Prayers.

Members of the so-called "Straton group" in the congregation dominated the meeting. When Dr. Straton called for prayers from those who wished to testify a woman near the back of the auditorium arose and said:

"Jesus, help us to cast the devil out in this church! The churches are going further and further into apostasy. Make Calvary Church stand and make the gospel of Jesus Christ, which is preached here bring men and women back into Christ's way."

"O God," began another member of the congregation, "we thank Thee for our pastor's stand for righteousness and truth. Uphold him in these days of criticism. O God, speak to some of those among us who we feel are drifting away. They profess to love Jesus, but they indulge in criticism and the meaner things, and we hope they will come again to Thy feet."

Another prayer was offered that "God take in hand this whole situation of the Church and Dr. Straton and work it out for Thine own ends."

When the time for the submission of reports was reached Treasurer Martin made a brief plea that members be more regular in their subscriptions.

"I think," said Dr. Straton, "we would like to have a detailed report of the church finances. It has been many months since one was submitted."

Gives Budget Report.

Mr. Martin walked to the front and drew a typewritten statement from his pocket. The total contributions received for the twelve months ending May 1, last, amounted to $43,458 and the total disbursements for the same period to $43,637, showing a deficit of $179, he said. He gave the church budget for the year ending April 1, last, as $39,920 and said that the expenses had exceeded this sum by over $4,000. During the first four months of 1925 Mr. Martin said that the church had run behind to the extent of $6,464.

"The treasurer told the pastor that it would not be necessary to have the drive, which always has netted us several thousand dollars, in order for us to go over the top," said Dr. Straton. "I would like to ask why the treasurer made that statement and now comes out

SMITH, DEFYING FOES ON PARK PROGRAM, PLANS SESSION CALL

Governor Relies on Public Sentiment Throughout State to Support Him in Fight.

WESTCHESTER AID PLEDGED

OPEN CAMPAIGN FOR VOTES

Backers of $6,000,000 Project Set Out to Line Up Members of the Legislature.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 27.—Despite the failure of Governor Smith to bring the Republican leaders of the Legislature around to his own views at yesterday's conference on his State park program, there is a strong impression in official circles at the Capitol today that the Governor will call the lawmakers back in extraordinary session early next month to enact legislation looking to the immediate realization of his plans.

While the Governor was unwilling to make extended comment for publication on the outcome of yesterday's all-day conclave which failed to bring any sort of an agreement, it may be stated authoritatively that he is not willing to accept the curt refusal of the Republican leaders to accede to his recommendations as the last word on the subject.

The Governor believes that public sentiment, once the people know what it is all about, will strongly assert itself in support of his own view of the situation, just as it did when he rejected the Republican ultimatum against his grade crossings bond issue and his proposal for reduction of the personal income tax during the regular session of the Legislature.

The word went out through the Capitol tonight that the Governor had his war paint on and was determined to fight the issue through.

Some Republicans Back Smith.

The Governor has already received assurance of some Republican support in the Legislature. Word reached the Capitol today that W. Delavan Baldwin, President of the Otis Elevator Company and head of the Westchester Park Commission, had been in conference today with William L. Ward, veteran leader of the Westchester County Republicans and Executive Chairman of the Republican State organization.

Simultaneously it became known here that the two Republican Senators and the five Republican Assemblymen from Westchester would support the Governor's park policies, if an extraordinary session is called.

With further details of yesterday's conference becoming public, it became apparent today that most of the men who are serving on the State Park Council without compensation, and even spending large sums out of their own pockets for realization of the park program mapped out by the Governor, left that gathering utterly disgusted with the attitude of the Republican leaders while the Governor was only an interested spectator.

It was also learned today that the conference at times led to red hot exchanges between Republican members of the Council and the Republican Legislative leaders.

Baldwin and Fancher Fight Leaders.

Mr. Baldwin and former Senator Albert T. Fancher of Cattaraugus County, both Republicans, led the fight for the Governor's park program against the legislative leaders of their own party. Before they left the Capitol last night, they assured Governor Smith that they would stand by him and help him see his fight through regardless of the odds.

Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Fancher entered the conference fray with such determination and such convincing arguments that, when they had finished, the Republican leaders sat speechless, overwhelmed by the opposition, until they finally filed their terse refusal to reconsider and quit the conference.

Conservation Commissioner Alexander MacDonald, an organization Republican, was also in the Governor's corner throughout the day.

It was Commissioner MacDonald who offered at the conference a substitute for the measure passed at the regular session and vetoed by Governor Smith, chiefly because it vested in the State Commissioners of the Land Office the final say over all land purchases for State park purposes. In this substitute bill, supervision over purchases made by the various park commissions was left to the State Park Council, which in turn is made up of the Presidents of the several local commissions.

"Missionary Work" Planned.

There will be another gathering of the State Park Council at the Capitol next week. In the meantime a survey will be made by its members in the localities where they live with a view to ascertaining what assurances can be obtained from Republican lawmakers representing districts affected by the $6,000,000 appropriation provided for in the bill which Governor Smith was compelled to veto.

Public sentiment in these sections of the State, from all reports received by the Governor, strongly favors the immediate realization of plans, which can be carried out only if the money becomes available at once. For this reason it is expected in the Capitol that many Republican lawmakers may be subjected to pressure from their own constituents strong enough to render it necessary for them to break away from the party leaders and support the Governor's plan.

Missionary work, it was agreed at the final conference last night between the SOFIA, May 27.—At 8 o'clock on this warm but gray morning in a large green field under Mount Vitosha, which was formerly a Jewish cemetery, on the outskirts of Sofia, Marko Friedmann, lawyer, Sacristan Zadgorsky and Lieutenant Colonel George Koeff were publicly hanged for their share in the murder of 170 people in the Sveta Nedelia Cathedral bombing on April 16.

A crowd of at least 30,000 people gathered hours before the appointed time. Three white gibbets were erected during the night and three swarthy gypsies acted as hangmen, each receiving 3,000 levas (about $600).

The three prisoners, sitting handcuffed and guarded by ten soldiers, were conveyed in a lorry to the edge of the field and thence walked to the gibbets. The two priests in attendance spoke to the prisoners and afterward the procurator read the act of accusation, which lasted forty minutes.

Friedmann remained calm until the end, protesting his innocence of the cathedral outrage and saying he was being hanged as a Communist conspirator. Zadgorsky confessed his guilt and no sympathy was felt for him, as his acceptance of a bribe of about £16 cost 170 people their lives. Koeff appeared to be on the verge of collapse, continually protesting his innocence.

The actual execution was expeditiously effected, Koeff being the first, then Zadgorsky and lastly Friedmann. A big force of soldiers and police was drawn up between the gibbets and the crowd, but there was no demonstration. This was the first public hanging in Sofia in many years, and it created a deep impression.

The court-martial convicted a second group of conspirators last night of hiding the perpetrators of the crime. Mme. Nicoloya, M. Leger and M. Perchemlieff were condemned to be hanged in public. Mme. Leger was sentenced to imprisonment for life and M. Malef to 18 months' imprisonment.

In addition heavy fines were inflicted, payable to the State and to the relatives of those murdered. The announcement of these sentences caused a great sensation, as the three prisoners are of foreign nationality.

Stevens Student Dies After Wrestling Bout; Opponent Held on Manslaughter Charge

Russell Sheehan, 19 years old, of Paterson, N. J., a student at Stevens Institute of Technology, was arrested at Hoboken yesterday on a technical charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Walter Ratelje, a fellow-student, 18 years old, also of Paterson, who suffered a fracture of the spine and collarbone while wrestling with Sheehan in the school's gymnasium.

Sheehan, who had just returned to the institute on crutches because his ankle was broken recently when an anvil fell on it, was held in $2,500 bail for the Grand Jury. Alexander C. Humphreys, President of Stevens Institute, furnished the bail.

"Mr. Sheehan was in no way responsible for the accident," said President Humphreys. "He was exercising in the gymnasium in the customary way and the incident was an unforeseen misfortune. At the time it was not thought Mr. Ratelje was seriously injured. My first report was that he would be back at his studies within a month."

The wrestling match occurred on May 1. Ratelje, who was stockily built, was hurt when Sheehan, a lighter youth, swung him over his shoulder with a hip lock hold. Ratelje fell on the mat on his head. He seemed only stunned at first, but after being taken home he was removed to Paterson General Hospital, where he died May 17. The two boys were reported to have been on good terms.

Governor and members of the State Park Council, was to be undertaken by them during the week which will intervene before the next conference. It is expected that Governor Smith will withhold his final decision regarding an extraordinary session until after he has received reports.

A preliminary survey, it was stated, has convinced supporters of the Governor's proposal that the Senate may pass the compromise bill submitted to the conference by Commissioner Macdonald. If an extraordinary session is held this measure will be introduced as representing the Governor's views, while undoubtedly the Republican leaders, though to no practical purpose because the Governor would be compelled to veto it again, will reintroduce the measure passed at the regular session which was sponsored then by Senator Warren T. Thayer of Franklin.

The Thayer bill, it was stated authoritatively today, will have no chance of getting through in the Senate if an extra session is called.

Friends of Governor Smith realize that unless Speaker McGinnies of the Assembly can be converted, the fight to get the compromise bill through in that branch would be a much more formidable one. There are only 54 Democratic votes in the Assembly, and, in order to pass a bill, 76 votes would be required, involving the necessity to win over 23 Republicans.

Last night, before the conference disbanded, a cursory inventory was taken and the conclusion was reached that without much trouble a change of twelve Republican votes in the lower house, including the five in Westchester, could be brought about.

To win over an additional ten or a dozen Republican Assemblymen will be the task committed to the members of the State Park Council to be accomplished during the next few days. Nearly all members of the Council are men of great influence in the communities where they live.

Not only will it be necessary to exact assurance from the converts to vote for the Governor's bill if it is placed on the calendar, but also to vote for a motion to bring it out in the open for debate should the Republican leaders, as was strongly intimated by them at the conference yesterday, attempt to bury it in committee.

Well informed Republicans at the Capitol do not believe that the legislative leaders of their party will have the audacity to attempt to make opposition to the Governor's proposal a caucus measure. There certainly is nothing in the Republican State platform to justify such action, or as it was pointed out here, make it obligatory under the circumstances on any Republican member to enter a caucus or abide by its action. It is not regarded as probable that the leaders would invite a vote by calling a caucus.

Park Council Gifts to State.

The membership of the State Park Council was augmented this year from nine to twelve. The members are Robert Moses of Nassau, Chairman and President of the Long Island Park Commission; Albert T. Fancher of Cattaraugus, Vice Chairman and President of the Allegheny State Park Commission; J. Dupratt White of New York, President of the Palisades Interstate Park Commission; Alphonso T. Clearwater of Ulster, President of the Niagara Reservation Park Commission; Dr. George F. Kunz of New York, President of the Scenic and Historic Preservation Society and the Letchworth Park Commission; W. Delavan Baldwin, President of the Westchester Park Commission; Robert E. Tremain of Tompkins, President of the Finger Lakes State Park Commission; George F. Johnson of Broome, President of the Central New York State Park Commission; Richard S. Person's of Erie, President of the State Park Commission; Franklin D. Roosevelt of Dutchess, President of the Taconic State Park Commission; John M. Clarke, Director of the State Museum, and Alexander MacDonald, State Conservation Commissioner.

Nearly all were in attendance at the conference held here yesterday. Not only have they been serving the State without pay or even expense money, but many have given largely of their own means to promote the objects of the Council.

Ex-Senator Fancher, who is the owner of extensive oil properties, gave $50,000 for land purchases and development of the Allegheny State Park. Mr. Tremain, who is a merchant and banker in Ithaca, has donated $100,000 worth of land to the Finger Lakes Commission.

Another Park Commissioner, Hamilton Ward, of Erie, who is not a member of the Council, but who attended yesterday's conference and left in wrath before it was over, gave $40,000 for park land purchases in the western part of the State. Mr. Johnson is the senior member of the shoe manufacturing firm of Endicott & Johnson.

Dr. Kunz is the head executive of the Tiffany Company. All are men of large activities who have given their time freely to the State, because they are strong believers in the park policies advocated by the Governor. The only three Democrats on the council are: Messrs. Roosevelt, Johnson and Tremain.

Criticism of the Land Board.

The proposal advanced by the Republican legislative leaders to have the State Land Board pass on all purchases of State park lands is regarded in official circles at the Capitol as utterly impracticable, largely because the Land Board has no staff to enable it to do the work required. Under the circumstances, it is recognized here that endless delays would retard the acquisition of lands to an extent where the park program would be wrecked.

The Land Board is headed by Lieut. Gov. Seymour Lowman and is composed of the Speaker of the Assembly and all the elective State officials with the sole exception of the Governor. The working staff of the Land Board includes a clerk and secretary, both borrowed from the office of the Secretary of State, one stenographer and two appraisers who have been added recently.

"Entirely aside from the fact that none of the members has any familiarity with the work that would be required from the board and was not elected to perform such functions," said one official at the Capitol today, "just think what delay would be involved when one considers that not less than 200 separate parcels of land would have to be acquired in connection with the construction of the proposed parkway connection between the Bear Mountain Bridge and the Bronx River Parkway, only a very small part of the park project."

It was pointed out that last year the Land Board, which under the law is required to meet once a month at least, did not hold a meeting in any month from June to December, because a quorum could not be obtained. The board, it was pointed out in one quarter, has spent four years passing upon purchase of State forest lands in the Adirondacks. Under the Conservation law such purchases are subject to its approval.

Inasmuch as the proposal for the $15,000,000 bond issue, from the proceeds of which the $6,000,000 appropriations would be made, was approved by the voters with a plurality of about one million friends of Governor Smith believe that the delay in carrying out the park project, caused by the Republicans' opposition, will give rise to resentment throughout the State once the full story of what transpired at yesterday's conference is told.

Fear Party Split on Election Eve.

Some Republicans at the Capitol expressed themselves today as fearful that the attitude of the party leaders in the Legislature might bring on a fight within the Republican Party in the State on the eve of the Assembly election this Fall.

Should the project fail at an extraordinary session, the Governor undoubtedly would make his park policy an issue in the fight this Fall for a Democratic Assembly.

Almost every section of the State, it was pointed out in this connection, would be benefited by the development of the park plans, which can be carried out only if the money is made available.

In the north of the State the forest preserve counties in the Adirondacks would profit to the extent of $500,000 that would be spent for the purchase and development of park lands outside of the preserve.

In the western part of the State $550,000 would be set aside for the Allegany State Park and $750,000 for the Niagara State Reservation. There would be $620,000 for the acquisition of lands and $330,000 for development of lands already acquired for the Palisades Park. For Westchester $750,000 was provided, with an equal sum for land purchases and development on Long Island.

There were appropriations of $250,000 each for the Finger Lakes Park and for the Letchworth Park. The rest of the $6,000,000 appropriation was divided up for land purchases and development in smaller sums for a number of minor park projects in different parts of the State.

ATTACKS EXTRA SESSION.

Long Island Land Litigant Says It Is to "Extricate" Park Board.

Sharp criticism of the proposal to hold a special session of the Legislature to enact park legislation was voiced yesterday by W. Kingsland Macy, President of the Pauchogue Land Corporation, which is contesting possession of the Taylor estate at Great River with the Long Island State Park Commission.

Mr. Macy's comment came in connection with discussing a new phase of the litigation over the property which arose in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday.

"President Robert Moses of the Park Commission," said Mr. Macy, "has got himself into a hole because of the way he has proceeded in this case. I cannot see why the Legislature should be called in special session to extricate him at great inconvenience to its members and great expense to the public."

Charging that the Park Commission had interposed several technical delays in the trial of the suit, Mr. Macy continued:

"A speedy determination of the issue in what the public, the county and the State are entitled to, and it would seem impossible to give any appropriate sincere reason for interposing these delays excepting for the purpose of politics and publicity and perhaps special sessions of the Legislature."

The Taylor estate consists of 1,500 acres of land near Islip and has extensive water frontage. The Long Island State Park Commission took possession of it and put State troopers on guard. Mr. Mack and his associates of the Pauchogue Land Corporation, which was formed for the purpose of holding the tract, brought an eviction suit in December, 1924, and as preliminaries obtained two injunctions forbidding the Park Commission to alter the tract or to deny access to the members of the land corporation. Governor Smith visited the place about ten days ago and while there met and conversed with Mr. Macy.

The legal action yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Van Siclen in Brooklyn was on a motion by the Park Commission to strike certain clauses out of the complaint of the land corporation.

Charles M. Tuttle, of counsel for the Pauchogue Land Corporation argued yesterday before Justice Van Siclen that the Park Commission's purpose in making the motion was to obtain delay in putting in its answer. Justice Van Siclen stated that the suit should have been tried long ago.

Counsel for the Park Commission asked Justice Van Siclen to strike from the complaint several paragraphs, particularly one which charges the members of the commission should be held individually responsible for any loss which may have been sustained by the land corporation. The members of the commission are Robert Moses, President; Townsend Scudder and Clifford Jackson.

Mr. Tuttle argued that the provision in regard to individual liability was important to the plaintiff inasmuch as the Park Commissioners had been advised by the Attorney General before they seized the property that their seizure would be illegal and that they had thus acted with full knowledge of the alleged illegality of their action.

The Park Commission submitted affidavits from Attorney General Sherman and Deputy Goldsmith that the memorandum cited by the plaintiff was not an official opinion rendered to the Park Commission.

President Moses of the Long Island Commission would not comment either on the case or the question of a special legislative session.

Ex-Clown in Auto Kills Boy.

STAMFORD, Conn., May 27 (AP).—John Jones, seven years old, of Springdale, died at the Stamford Hospital late today from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile driven by James Marcelles, of Stamford, former New York Hippodrome clown. Marcelles was held on a technical charge of manslaughter and his bond was set at $2,500.

Jailed for Sitting on Boston Common Grass, Arizona Graduate of Harvard Asks Redress

BOSTON, Mass., May 27.—Charging illegal arrest and alleging that he was roughly treated unnecessarily and subjected to indignities, Clarence Parker Wilson, graduate of the University of Arizona and the Harvard School of Business Administration, started legal action today against Patrolman McNeil of the Lagrange Street Station for arresting him for trespassing on the grass of Boston Common.

Wilson is employed in the office of H. M. Parsons & Co., architects, 1 Beacon Street, and has the backing of his employer in his attempt to obtain redress.

According to Wilson, last Wednesday at 1:50 P. M. he was seated on the grass on Boston Common, near the State House, eating his luncheon, when he was arrested. He says that he saw at least a hundred others lying about on the grass at the time, but that Patrolman McNeil singled him out from all of them.

Mrs. Henning Asserts Salesman Was to Sell Effects, but Has Not Accounted.

Value Overstated, Bond Dealer Declares—She Got $14,000 Back, Police Say.

On complaint of Mrs. Susan Thornton Henning of Shelbyville, Ky., who is stopping at the Colony Club, detectives of the West Forty-seventh Street Station arrested John F. Simmons, a bond salesman, yesterday as he was leaving an office at 11 Broadway, where he said he was employed.

Mrs. Henning charged that she turned over property valued by her at $31,000 to Simmons for disposal and that he had failed to make a satisfactory accounting.

He will be arraigned in the West Side Court today and detectives say, will be rearrested on a bench warrant issued as the result of an indictment brought against him in connection with Mrs. Henning's charges.

Simmons appeared to be indifferent about his arrest. He said that Mrs. Henning had greatly overrated the value of her effects and also that he could explain his action in connection with them. He declared, according to the detectives, that he was to have received a fee of $2,000 for disposing of the property and that he had completed arrangements with a wealthy resident of Boston for the purchase of the effects, which consisted of jewelry, paintings, furniture and other articles in storage in this city.

Mrs. Henning said she met Simmons in Washington and made an agreement with him last November to dispose of her property. After negotiations which were not completely satisfactory, she said, she came to New York and learned that Simmons had left the hotel where he had been staying. She reported the matter to the police of the West Forty-seventh Street Station, and then complained to the District Attorney's office.

It was learned, however, that since her arrival in New York, Mrs. Henning has been in communication with Simmons on several occasions and that they had several consultations regarding the sale of the property.

The detectives who have been investigating the case say that Mrs. Henning is well known socially in Kentucky, where she has a 200-acre farm and that she is a breeder of thoroughbred Jersey cattle. They also say that she has recovered about $14,000 worth of the property said to have been turned over to Simmons.

MEXICO CITY, May 27.—Father Mateos, priest in the City of Orizaba, using a map given to him by a dying Mexican, discovered a hidden treasure consisting of several bags of Colonial coins with a number of manuscripts of early Colonial history.

Following the map, the priest, with a friend, dug in the cellar of a private home and found the entrance of a tunnel where loot from the Spanish viceroy days was hidden.

A number of valuable books of the oldest impressions made in Mexico, and Spanish coins were taken from the subterranean vault.

In spite of the efforts of the priest to maintain secrecy the news of the find spread through Orizaba. Judicial authorities started an investigation finding the excavation, but the priest and his friend had fled.

Orders were issued by the police of Mexico City to investigate the whereabouts of the priest as the Government is now claiming ownership of the books.

HONGKONG, May 27.—The plight of Canton at the present moment may be described as being between the devil and the deep sea. The Tuchun of Yunnan, Tang Chi-yao, having been eliminated, the situation is resolving itself into a straight issue between the Communists and the mixed militarists, who are attempting to get the official revenues while posing as saviors of the province. Fighting is expected at any moment.

Mr. Ma Soo, formerly Sun Yat-sen's New York agent, in an outspoken statement to the press today, says that Moscow is generously arming and financing the Communists, and he believes that military domination is preferable to the "red plague."

In Distance They See 11,000-Foot Peak Gleaming White—Send Back Last Message.

TRAIL END, May 18 (En route to Mount Logan), Via Vancouver, B. C.—This is the last word we shall be able to send out to the world before we make the attempt to scale the peak of Mount Logan. This dispatch will go out to McCarthy by the pack-train which we are sending back today so that they may reach civilization before the river, swollen by the melting snows, becomes too deep and swift for the horses to get through.

Thus far cool weather has permitted us to cross the river and make the journey up the Chitina Valley without difficulty. Mountain sheep and deer abound, but beyond Hubricks Camp, on the north side of the main Logan Glacier, animal and plant life practically ends. For this reason we have left H. M. Laing, the naturalist of the party, at Hubricks, there to pursue his nature studies and await the return of the main party.

At a distance of sixty-five miles to the east we can plainly see the lower slopes of Logan—a mass of glistening ice and snow, but the summit is hidden high up in the clouds.

The large cargo of personal equipment, supplies and instruments we have divided equally, back-packing the fifty miles over the rough and difficult glaciers to the advance base camp. Each man carries seventy pounds on his back. Beyond the advance base camp there lies the unknown—eighteen miles of stiff climbing, rising 11,000 feet to the summit, never before trodden by man.

Thus far everything has gone "according to plan," as old friend Hindenburg used to say in the war. Every member of the party is busy with his particular specialist work—even the amateur cooking is regarded as a great success.

When we see the last packhorse vanishing westward today we shall face the prospect of six weeks on the ice and snow, and provided the weather is favorable, we are confident of making the summit as well as securing much valuable information of a scientific nature. If the weather is unfavorable, at least the expedition will be a fine endurance contest until the provisions are exhausted.

At Hubricks we have left tools, for we plan to build a boat there and come out down the Chitina River unless conditions make this absolutely impossible.

UPROAR IN CHAMBER ENDS RIFF DEBATE

PARIS, May 27.—With a couple of dozen Communists singing the "Internationale" in half a dozen keys and 200 other Deputies thundering against them, today's debate on the Moroccan war ended abruptly. Tomorrow it will be the turn of the Government to explain its position, including the result of Malvy's mission to Madrid. All of today was occupied with criticism by Pierre Renaudel, the Socialist leader, and the Communist Doriot.

For the Government there is no danger in the debate. During the past two days a truce has been arraigned between the two wings of the majority and an agreement has been reached on the motion of confidence, which is phrased in such a way as to represent the war as purely defensive and "opposed to all idea of conquest."

The Socialists will vote for this motion, as will probably all the rest of the House, and in that knowledge the Deputies and the Government listened with comparative tranquillity to Renaudel's criticism of what was left unsaid in preventing the outburst of war with the Riffians. His attack was directed against Marshal Lyautey and the Generals whose occupancy of the rich valley of Guergha, on which the Riffs depended for food, he said forced the invasion.

When he tried to make M. Poincaré responsible for the decision to move the garrisons north of the river, M. Maginot rose in protest, but by order of the President his protest was deferred until tomorrow. The Government and the Chamber, M. Renaudel declared, must show clearly and at once whether they wished to treat with Abd-el-Krim or conquer the Riff. He developed the point that the frontier between the Spanish and French zones had never been clearly defined and war might be ended on the basis of a new and definite frontier settlement.

Points to Cost of Conflict.

The normal garrison of 65,000 men in Morocco, he reminded the Chamber, cost 345,000,000 francs a year in peace time; if that number was doubled and the war cost was added, there was danger that all the great efforts of the country to make the budget balance get back to financial stability might be successful. Both as to the character and cost of the war, he said, the country was asking the fullest information which the Government and the military authorities in Morocco could supply. In the first attacks there had been an element of surprise and the responsibility ought to be established.

All France, he said, was anxious to know just how many men this war would take and how much money. With European peace still far from established on a sound basis, it would be a crime to deplete the country of men. Even for its own reconstruction and normal labor, France had found it necessary, he remarked, to permit the entry of thousands of foreign workmen. She could not afford to have her own sons perish in pursuit of a Colonial adventure while strangers tilled her fields.

He urged the Government to seek by every means in its power to end the war by direct or indirect negotiations. He declared that he and his party were for evacuation of Morocco, but were emphatically for peace there at any reasonable price.

Doriot for Evacuation.

M. Doriot followed him with much more emphasis. He said Morocco for the Moroccans was the watchword of French Communists. They wanted complete evacuation.

Both Briand and Painlevé had to intervene to answer his assertions.

In tracing the history of the Riff movement he tried to show that Abd-el-Krim's repeated attempts, first at Paris and later at Fez, to reach an understanding with the French had been rebuffed. Abd-el-Krim's brother, he said, visited Paris and the Quai d'Orsay in 1923 in an attempt to reach an arrangement, but did not succeed.

Both Briand and Painlevé declared it was impossible for France to treat with Abd-el-Krim while he was at war with Spain. "To do so," said Briand, "would have been a breach of treaty and loyalty to Spain."

Like Renaudel, Doriot attempted to show that the Riffians had been pushed into the war by famine, consequent on occupation of the Quergha Valley by the French. He then began to preach communism and former Premier Herriot, President of the Chamber, had a difficult task to keep order. Half a dozen times he had to reprove the speaker.

"To be always anti-French is not to be an internationalist," he once reminded him. Again he won approval of the house when he thundered against the noisy Communist benches: "It is because you are seeking civil war that you fulminate against foreign wars. You have no right to speak in the name of peace."

When Doriot reached a climax by proclaiming that if the Government didn't stop the war French soldiers would do so by fraternizing with their foes, the patience of Herriot and the Chamber was exhausted.

"What is most abominable in your words," cried Herriot, "is that in saying them you risk nothing, while by inciting some unfortunate soldier to forget his duty, you may be condemning him to death."

With only the Communists opposed the Chamber rose on a motion of censure and Doriot was compelled to leave the Tribune. His fellow Communists greeted him singing and in the midst of the uproar Herriot suspended the session until tomorrow.

PARIS, May 27 (AP).—The French and Riffians are gathering stronger forces daily for the expected clash on the Moroccan front. The French, it was disclosed in the Chamber of Deputies today, have 60,000 men well entrenched for defense, but who are preparing for active warfare.

The Riffians, French Headquarters reports, are gathering food and recruiting tribesmen in the evacuated area north of the Quergha River and are bringing in well-trained young Germans to assist their commanders.

The French are believed to have received a tentative promise from Spain, permitting them to pursue the Riffians across the border, or at least bombard them from the air if necessary, but the exact extent of Spanish cooperation is not announced.

The few reports from the scene of action that have come in the last two days told of some hard fighting and indicated that the tribesmen were by no means discouraged by their defeats.

Abd-el-Krim is actively recruiting supporters among the tribesmen inhabiting the zone north of the Quergha River which has just been abandoned by the French.

Information from sources which the French consider unimpeachable is to the effect that 147 young Germans, trained in various semi-military athletic organizations, have left Germany for Morocco by way of Spain to join Abd-el-Krim's troops. Some, it is said, will receive commissions, while the others will serve as non-commissioned officers.

Report Tribesmen's Losses.

RABAT, Morocco, May 27 (AP).—The Riffians delivered a violent attack last night on the Bibane post, which is said to have completely failed. In retaliation French airplanes today vigorously bombarded the section for several hours.

Colonel Freydenberg also attacked concentrations of tribesman in the region west of Tacunat today and forced them to retire in disorder northward. The enemy's losses in these actions are declared to have been particularly heavy.

with a report showing a deficit. We were ready to begin the drive, but it was abandoned as a result of the treasurer's statement."

It was then that Mr. Martin sought to explain and was interrupted by Dr. Straton. When he was at length permitted to speak he said that, at the time he had made the cheerful forecast, the church was not employing an assistant pastor at a salary of $350 a month, as was now the case.

"That accounts for $1,000 right there," said Mr. Martin. "My statement was made in conjunction with Ely R. Callaway of the Finance Committee. The reason the drive was cancelled was because Judge Black (William Harmon Black, President of the Board of Trustees) said we would have an extra $2,000 from the Tiffany Fund."

"But the point is," said Dr. Straton, "that we were ready for the drive and could have raised several thousand dollars and gone over the top."

"But I can't see ahead for three or four months," complained Mr. Martin. "It's impossible. You are trying to create the impression that I am in error in not reporting that we would have a deficit. I didn't know and I want the clerk to read my annual report in view of this criticism."

"I'm not making any criticisms," Dr. Straton interrupted. "I am asking for information as I have the right to do. We started in last year with a surplus of several thousand dollars and——"

At this point the presence of newspaper reporters was noted and the meeting went into executive session.

Arguments on the application for an injunction restraining Dr. Straton, the Board of Deacons and certain trustees of Calvary Church from proceeding with plans for a combination church and hotel was postponed until June 9 by a stipulation filed in the Supreme Court yesterday. The complainants are Mr. Martin and four other trustees.

71 MINERS ENTOMBED IN NORTH CAROLINA said, tell whether the men were dead or alive, as he was driven back by the second explosion, which sent out gas fumes that made further attempts to enter the shaft impossible.

Governor Gets Report.

Governor McLean received the first official report on the disaster at the Carolina mine this afternoon from Chairman Page of the State Highway Commission, whom he sent to the scene with a corps of engineers. The Governor issued a statement summarising the Commissioner's report.

"The explosion," the Governor said, "destroyed the structure at the entrance to the shaft. That closed the opening and entrapped the men. There are now five or six men working on hour shifts. The opening is so small that a larger number cannot be used.

"Mr. Page told me that those working at the entrance to the mine could see five or six bodies, but they could not tell whether they were dead or alive. It is thought, however, that they are dead and that all those entombed are dead.

"It is not known whether the men working at the other extreme were able to cut themselves off from the fumes. It is possible some may have done so, as I understand there were some safety devices inside.

"I am informed that great crowds are congregating at the scene of the disaster. I am prepared to send troops there at any moment, and perhaps shall do so by night. However, I am waiting on a further report from the Adjutant General, whom I dispatched to the mine when I was first advised of the disaster."

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 27 (AP).—An appeal for help from the Carolina Coal Company to the United States Bureau of Mines headquarters here today caused D. J. Parker, Safety Engineer, to order a rescue car from Thomas, W. Va., to the Carolina mine, near Sanford, N. C.

The rescue car will be rushed to Washington, D. C., tonight. Mr. Parker will join the rescue crews as the car passes through Cumberland, Md. From Washington the car will have the right of way on the Seaboard Air Line to the Carolina. The run would be made in less than twenty-four hours, Mr. Parker said.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 27 (AP).—A mine rescue crew from the Birmingham branch of the Bureau of Mines will leave here at 11:50 o'clock tonight for Cummock, eight miles from Sanford, N. C., to give such relief as they may to the men entombed in the mine of the Carolina Coal Company.

too early to conclude that Amundsen had failed to reach his goal and that he was now in peril.

"If Amundsen is to return to civilization in the flesh he must make a quick getaway," MacMillan said. "The ice areas are rapidly expanding in the Arctic Circle at this season and every day of delay adds to the hazards of the situation that confronts him. It must be recalled that Amundsen depended upon airplanes to reach the Pole and get back. There is a possibility that he and his party may have landed within fifty miles of their objective and, finding conditions favorable, decided to walk the rest of the way. If this program has been followed, all may be well with these brave men.

"If Amundsen effected a landing just this side of the Pole, he did so for the purpose of making observations. If these convinced him that he was only forty or fifty miles away, he acted wisely in continuing the journey on foot. It would only take a few days to reach the top of the earth over such a distance and a like time to return. This is what I think has probably happened and accounts for the delay in his return to King's Bay. He has followed the proper and safe course if he descended to make observations and found that the distance was so short that it would be better to conserve fuel by leaving the planes and continuing the journey on foot."

Extols His Resourcefulness.

"Amundsen is the biggest man engaged in Arctic work today. He is brave, able and resourceful," Commander MacMillan added. "He did not start upon this journey in haphazard fashion. He made his plans carefully, knew where he was going and what he was about. I think he will return. We must be patient."

Commander MacMillan then made the statement that if Amundsen was compelled by force of circumstances to make a forced landing, resulting possibly in damage to his airplanes, that he stood little or no chance of ever returning to civilization.

"It is practically impossible at this season of the year to walk back," he said. "The area of water will have vastly increased by June 1, and from that time on until September the water area will still further expand from day to day. It just happens that Amundsen left for the North at the worst possible time that he could have chosen for his purposes. It is now approaching the dark of the moon. That is the period of high tides. That is the time for the break-up of the ice in the Polar regions. If he penetrated any considerable distance and his planes have gone wrong he can never get overland to Cape Columbia. In my opinion his fate is dependent upon the condition of his aircraft. If they are in good working order Amundsen probably will reach the Pole, making part of the journey on foot and returning with data of great value from a scientific standpoint."

MacMillan expressed doubts as to the feasibility of effecting a rescue of Amundsen through the use of navy dirigibles. He thought, however, that such an attempt should be made if an emergency arose. He stated that if either dirigibles or airplanes were detailed for such a duty, they should follow the track that Amundsen mapped out in advance, and in this way might locate the whereabouts of the Norwegian and his party.

MacMillan declared that if a report had not been received from Amundsen by the time his own expedition reached Etah, he and his comrades would make the rescue of the Norwegian the primary object of their visit to the north.

NORWAY MAY SEND PLANES.

Minister Thinks Move Should Be Made to Rescue Amundsen.

LONDON, May 27.—The shipping Gazette of Oslo reports anxiety growing among members of the Amundsen Expedition over the absence of news of the explorer and his companions. If Capt. Amundsen has not returned by Friday the question of asking for assistance will be considered. In an interview with a representative of the shipping Gazette, Rolf Jacobson, Norwegian Defense Minister, said that no assistance has been asked for, but that steps ought to be taken for the relief of Amundsen if necessary.

According to another Oslo dispatch Jacobsen said that these steps would probably be the despatch of two naval flying boats from Horten which would be based on Spitzbergen and not sent to the pole, but working together and flying in wide circles would be able to survey a large area.

If Amundsen's machines were forced to land not too far from Spitzbergen the chances of finding them are good.

The Danish explorer, Knud Rasmussen, who returned to Copenhagen today from America is quoted in a Copenhagen despatch as saying that because Amundsen has not yet returned did not necessarily mean that he was unable to fly back. Observations took time, he said, and Amundsen certainly could not be expected to be able to return in a day or two. If he had, however, been forced to land and was going to East Greenland news from him could not arrive before the autumn of 1926. If he arrived in North Greenland, he said, he would certainly go to Thule and in that case news could be expected about November this year.

DEPRECATES RELIEF TALK.

Bernon S. Prentice Says Amundsen Planned to Go to Alaska.

In saying yesterday that plans for the relief of Captain Amundsen were premature at present, Bernon S. Prentice, brother-in-law of Lincoln Ellsworth, Amundsen's American associate, made the flat statement that he knew that it was Amundsen's plan to fly to Alaska, if conditions were favorable. Mr. Prentice's statement follows:

"Having noticed in the newspapers that a movement had been started by Mr. Hans Nansen of San Diego, Cal., to raise funds for the relief of the Amundsen-Ellsworth Expedition, I have telegraphed Mr. Nansen that any effort of this kind just yet is premature and that in case of necessity for relief effort will be made at the proper time. Mr. Nansen has telegraphed me that his was merely a friendly idea and the extent of it has been publicly exaggerated. He will discontinue his efforts and kindly offers his assistance in case anything further is required.

"The facts are that prior to entering on this expedition Captain Amundsen and Mr. Lincoln Ellsworth, his associate, named an American Advisory Committee, of which I am Chairman. The other members are Charles Hayden, E. Roland Harriman, Grayson M.-P. Murphy, James H. Perkins, Marshall Field and Bayard Dominick.

"In the event that any relief measures are necessary or any special funds required this committee will endeavor to obtain them.

"I happen to know that it was Amundsen's intention, if conditions were favorable at the Pole, to go on to Alaska. I know that he sacrifices the advantages of having a radio apparatus with him in order to be able to take on additional gasoline.

"Though naturally there is occasion for some anxiety, none of us familiar with the conditions feel that there are substantial grounds as yet for assuming that the expedition has met with disaster."

ORDERS SHIP TO POINT HOPE.

San Francisco Firm Acts on Chance That Amundsen Is There.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 27 (AP).—An effort to establish connection with the Amundsen polar expedition was started here this week when Arnold Liebes of the H. Liebes Company, furriers, sent a radio to the Liebes ship Charles Brower, off St. Lawrence Island in the Bering Sea, to proceed to Point Hope, 300 miles distant, and seek trace of the aerial explorers.

The instructions were given on the possibility that the Amundsen party may have landed on the Alaska Coast.

A radio message today said that the ship started for Point Hope four days ago on receipt of instructions from San Francisco, but had encountered a storm when within forty miles of King's Island and had been forced back to her base.

Arnold Liebes was with Amundsen at Point Barrow two years ago and aided the explorer in laying out an airplane landing field to be used if adverse winds blew him across the North Pole. In that event, Liebes said, Amundsen would mush by dog team from Point Barrow to Point Hope and thence to Nome.

The Charles Brower is under instructions to proceed to Point Hope as soon as weather conditions permit.

SHORTAGE OF HELIUM TO RESTRICT AIRSHIPS

Los Angeles Not to Go to Panama, but Will Fly to Minneapolis and Honolulu.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Owing to a shortage in the production of helium the flight of the navy dirigible Los Angeles to Panama, which was scheduled for June, has been called off, according to an announcement made at the Navy Department today. The flight of the dirigible to Honolulu, which was decided upon some weeks ago by the Bureau of Aeronautics, will take place late in August or early in September, the exact date of departure to be fixed later.

As a result of the failure of the navy to get adequate supplies of helium, a radical change has been made in the Summer plans for the dirigibles Shenandoah and Los Angeles. The Los Angeles will spend most of the time between now and its flight to Honolulu in the hangar at Lakehurst and its supply of helium will be transferred to the Shenandoah, following the visit of the Los Angeles to Minneapolis. The ship will fly to Annapolis on June 7 and remain there three days during the commencement exercises. On June 7 it will fly to Minneapolis to take part in the Norse centenary, which will be attended by President Coolidge, Secretary of State Kellogg and other high officials of the Government.

Returning from Minneapolis the Los Angeles will go out of commission temporarily in order that its helium may be transferred to the Shenandoah, which will scout with the fleet on the Atlantic for a brief period this Summer.

On the trip to Annapolis the Los Angeles will carry a party of thirty civilians in addition to its crew. This party will be made up largely of newspaper men.

Hammer Halts Relief Plans.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 27 (AP).—Plans for a seaplane expedition to go to the relief of Roald Amundsen, which have been going forward here for several days under the direction of Haakon H. Hammer, who led the relief of Amundsen in 1923, have been halted on advices from Spitsbergen headquarters of the American-Norwegian Expedition that such a program is premature. This announcement was made here today by Hammer.

FUSION PLAN FINDS TWO GROUPS WARY

ANTI-HYLAN DRIVE TANGLED

Although Republican leaders at their meeting on Tuesday night to agree on fusion plans for the Fall municipal campaign united in deciding not to seek partisan advantage in naming an anti-Hylan candidate, two elements in the Citizens Union did not take kindly to the outcome. They failed to be convinced that the Republicans really would get behind any one but a Republican.

Since the Union professes to be able to sway the deciding block of independent votes, its reaction to the Republicans' decision was regarded as further tangling the anti-Tammany situation.

One group in the Union is of the opinion that if Tammany shows its desire to get rid of Hylan by refusing him a renomination, the Fourteenth Street organization should be met more than half way. Even the nomination of a Tammany Democrat will be acceptable to this group, if he measures up to the other requirements. The second group believes that an independent Democrat, with no party affiliation whatever, but with a clean record as a successful business man, will be more likely to win, for such a candidate would draw strength from both the Republicans and Tammany, besides getting all of the independent vote.

Both elements in the Citizens Union are frankly suspicious of the attitude of Jacob L. Livingston, the Brooklyn Republican leader, in the matter. They recall that Livingston has insisted all along that a Republican must head the ticket and his compromise in agreeing with the other leaders on Tuesday night in favor of an indefinite plan for fusion is taken to mean that Livingston will insist upon the selection of a Brooklynite to head the ticket. The union leaders do not want to be committed thus early in the proceedings to a candidate from any borough.

Meanwhile anti-Hylan sentiment within the Tammany organization continued to grow yesterday, judging from the expressed opinions of the rank and file. While these Tammany men would not be quoted, they freely predicted that if Hylan was the organization's standard bearer, the revolt among the decent voting element in the city would be so great that Tammany would be likely to lose its entire ticket.

Inclined to Let Smith Decide.

These men reason that Tammany can afford to lose the head of the ticket if it can retain control of the Board of Estimate and elect the majority of Borough Presidents and other city officers. They will not be adverse to an independent Democrat heading the ticket if the bulk of the other officers are assured of Tammany control. Everywhere in the organization, however, there is a disposition to leave the matter of ticket selection to Governor Smith, for his antipathy to Hylan and Hearst are relied upon to keep the nomination from going in that quarter.

Mayor Hylan was the only leader of prominence to comment openly upon the action of the Republicans and the officials of the Citizens Union. His statement ridiculing the anti-Tammany forces was taken to mean a desire on his part to warn Tammany adherents that they must show a united front to the enemy and not be alarmed at stories of strife within the organization. He made it plain that his whole campaign would be conducted along the familiar lines of a five-cent subway fare. He said:

"Of course, the traction schemers who intend to seize control of the city Government and don't care how they go about it to put over the billion-dollar traction steal are behind the principal drive and are furnishing the money to keep it alive.

"Charles D. Hilles, the Republican National Committeeman, is one of the chief movers behind the drive. This is not surprising. Hilles is at least consistent in his traction professions. He did his utmost to prevent the people of this city from getting the $275,000,000 exemption to build new subways. He gave the benefit of his traction advice in writing the transit plank in the last Republican State platform which denounced the present city Administration for preventing the robbery of the people of over $400,000,000, through increased carfares and which denounced the Mayor in particular for the speed that marked the construction of the city's independent subway system.

"Hilles, in turn, represents Oggie Mills, whose family fortune of many millions is largely placed in traction and public utility enterprises. Back of Hilles and Mills and other traction sympathizers is the Aron Republican Advisory Committee, the expenses of which are defrayed by the traction corporations.

"Still further back is the old decrepit Citizens' Union with Schieffelin and Wallstein, which has been a traction mouthpiece for a quarter of a century and is now broadcasting the dictation of Jerry Dahl and Tom Chadbourne of the B. M. T. and Herbie Swope of The New York World.

Sees Scheme to Create Dissension.

"The important point to keep in mind is that the purpose of all drives, regardless of their source, is to create dissension in the Democratic Party. And the generals of this political Coxey's Army are willing to employ Democrats friendly to them to hound other Democrats who have lived up to their oaths of office and fought the battles of the plain people—Democrats and Republicans alike.

"The Citizens Union and the traction interests have been very influential in the formulation of the policies of the Republican Party in the past. Now they want to run the Democratic Party in the city. They want the Democratic leaders to listen to them so that the city Democracy may be run the way the traction and public utility corporations, which are the sponsors for the Citizens Union, want it run—for the benefit of the corporation, not for the people.

"Party politics means nothing to this crew, which carries on a Captain Kidd marauding expedition, pillaging the people and their property whenever public officials are in office who will permit them to do so or are asleep on the job.

"As the weeks roll by the line-up will become clearer. It will be seen more plainly that there are really but two divisions among the people of the city. One will contain within its ranks the Republican-Fusion-Citizens Union-traction increased fare crowd. The other will be the plain, everyday citizens interested in receiving continued protection from the extortions of public utility and traction interests, in the maintenance of the five-cent fare and in the preservation of honesty in municipal government.

"At the meeting of the Republican traction clans last night they painted with the traction brush upon their standard the glowing words, 'Honest, Constructive, Businesslike Administration.'

Speaks of His Seven Years.

"Just words, nothing more. It is only a will-of-the-wisp coming from such a quarter. It is just a sirupy invitation to the people to walk into the traction trap, and once in the trap they will have their pockets picked clean by the traction-public utility groups and their official sympathizers who will be placed in power.

"For seven years New York City has received an honest, constructive, businesslike Administration, which has not only cared for the neglected twenty years but for the anticipated wants of many years to come. And that kind of an Administration has been possible because of our insistence that the Government of the City of New York shall be run in the interest of the people and not for the benefit of a favored few—individuals or corporations."

Republicans in Brooklyn took the attitude yesterday that the action of the Republican leaders on Tuesday night in favor of a fusion ticket did not preclude the chances of the nomination going either to Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Lewis or Justice James C. Cropsey, although it was said that the latter's hopes would be slightly damaged because he has always stood for straight tickets from the bottom. Leader Livingston will keep in close touch with the situation by holding weekly meetings of the County Committee.

Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the New York County Committee, went to Washington yesterday. It was said that he would call on President Coolidge and get the President's views as to the bearing the election in New York this Fall will have on the national situation.

STATION WFBH LOSES INJUNCTION PLEA

Supreme Court Justice Guy denied yesterday the application of the Concourse Radio Corporation for an injunction restraining the Majestic Hotel management from interfering with the programs broadcast from the roof of the hotel from Station WFBH, and vacated a temporary injunction obtained by the Concourse company last week and reserved decision on a counter plea by the hotel to prevent the broadcasting concern from removing the equipment until it had paid what it owed to the hotel.

William S. Evans, counsel for the Concourse company, said that his client had been operating from the Majestic roof for a year under a written agreement, but that on Wednesday night last Copeland Townsend, the manager of the Majestic, shut off the current and silenced the plaintiff's program. Mr. Evans admitted that while the contract provided that nothing should be broadcast from the hotel which was objectionable to the management or guests, the action of the Majestic management was arbitrary.

Replying to the argument for the broadcasting company, Hiram C. Todd, attorney for the hotel said: "The plaintiff has broken the contract with us in several particulars. We are entitled to 5 per cent. of the gross receipts, but although we understand they have taken in $25,000 we have not received a cent. We have guaranteed payment for the electricity used, and the last bill for $300 has not been paid.

"The chief objection however, is to the character of the programs which the station has been sending out. Not only has it been broadcasting jazz music from the Cotton Club up in the Harlem section, thereby creating the erroneous impression that the music was being played at the Majestic, but the station's so-called 'health talks' have been positively indecent."

Justice Guy asked Attorney Evans if it was true that his client had failed to give the hotel any statement of its receipts, according to agreement, and when Mr. Evans asserted that the contract had been complied with, the Court said:

"On the strength of what I have just heard I shall deny the application for an injunction against the hotel."

MARY QUEEN OF SCOTS GUILTLESS, SAYS EXPERT

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 27.—Nearly 350 years after her execution for conspiracy against the life of Queen Elizabeth, modern science in the rôle of a belated champion of Mary Queen of Scots has declared her guiltless of the charge. Ainsworth Mitchell, Home Office expert, after spending several years collecting and examining original records and actual documents, ink parchment seals and details of handwriting, has stated definitely that Mary Queen of Scots could not possibly have written the letters which caused her to be sent to the scaffold.

Mr. Mitchell, publishing the result of his investigations in the June number of Discovery, produces evidence to show that the letters ascribed to Mary were in the handwriting of her secretary and betrayer, William Maitland of Lethington. Mr. Mitchell, who is the author of "Science and Criminals" and other works, has figured in important trials where the authenticity of documents played a vital part.

Collector Who Took Bribes Jailed.

Charles Tremonti, one of the Deputy Collectors of Internal Revenue, who pleaded guilty to accepting bribes from taxpayers for helping them defraud the Government, was sentenced yesterday by Federal Judge Knox to thirty days imprisonment. Seven other Deputy Collectors, associates of Tremonti in the Bronx and Westchester, who also pleaded guilty to the same offense, were sentenced to short prison terms on Tuesday.

Gas Kills Andrew Hicks, Comedian.

PASSAIC, N. J., May 27.—Andrew J. Hicks, 55 years old, of St. John, Mich., old time burlesque comedian, who had been appearing at the Montauk Theatre here this week, was found dead by gas asphyxiation in his room in the Hygeia Hotel, adjoining the theatre, this morning. The police reported the death as accidental.

Battle Over Evolution Spreads to Kansas; Friends Burn School's 'Book of Knowledge'

TOPEKA, Kan., May 27.—The evolution battle has spread to Kansas. Last week patrons of School District 18, Jewell County, of which Ray D. Hodgell is Superintendent, voted 14 to 5 to order a set of "The Book of Knowledge" burned.

The books were purchased by the school board about two years ago. The books were said to contain a thorough discussion of the theory of evolution.

"Those who burned the books were members of a strict religious sect," said Mr. Hodgell.

From the report of the County Superintendent it appears those who favored the destruction of the books had their plans all laid and were out in force when the annual meeting was called. Other patrons, who did not care much about evolution or any other theory, were not in attendance.

The action has aroused bitter feelings. The anti-evolution faction, which numbers about half the taxpayers, is composed of an old-time sect of Friends, which is more rigidly Fundamentalist than the modern Quakers.

According to leaders of this group, the present excitement in Tennessee over evolution has nothing to do with the burning of the school's books. The fight against implanting the theory of evolution in the minds of the school children has long been waged, they declare, in the school district.

Arlo Howell, aged 32, the school teacher, is a supporter of the evolution theory.

SCOPES EXPLAINS HIS EVOLUTION VIEW

Accused Teacher Is Ready for Trial for Breaking State's Anti-Evolution Law.

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 27.—Professor John T. Scopes of Dayton, Tenn., who is under indictment by a Tennessee Grand Jury for violation of the anti-evolution teaching law, was here today. He said he had the courage of his convictions and was looking forward to his trial at a special term of the Rhea County Circuit Court, July 10, as an event which affected not so much himself as the educational progress of Tennessee and other States.

"I believe that man and all animals ascended from the lower orders, but I have never seen or read any scientific statement that man is descended from a monkey, and I do not believe that," he said today.

Professor Scopes denied any pretensions to scientific knowledge, or that he had ever professed to teach any science except the elementary high school courses in general science.

"No person could teach even the most elementary courses in biology without recognition of the evidences of man's evolution," the Professor said, in affirming his acceptance of modern scientific theories of evolution and the development of man. He stated his acceptance of the belief that man and the anthropoid apes came from a parent stem, but not that one descended from the other.

Professor Scopes said he had made no attempt to teach evolution either as a theory or a fact, except as it came up incidentally in discussion of text books adopted by the State of Tennessee, which are used in his classes. To the best of his memory, he said, he first mentioned the question several months ago, when one of his students in a physics class asked his belief about the theory of evolution. He then explained as simply as possible the knowledge which he had obtained while a student at the University of Illinois and the University of Kentucky.

The test case, the professor said, originated in a drug store conversation some weeks ago, when some of the Dayton citizens were discussing the Tennessee law prohibiting the teaching in public schools of any theory of creation contrary to the biblical account. Professor Scopes stated that Dr. J. W. Rappleyea asked if he would be willing to submit to arrest to test the law, and he consented.

The forces of the defense are being marshaled by John R. Neal, a prominent Tennessee lawyer, who, it was stated, was ousted from his position as Professor of Law at the University of Tennessee two years ago because he affirmed his belief in evolution. There was no Tennessee law against the teaching at that time. Mr. Neal's case being handled by the university authorities. He was defeated later as a candidate for Governor.

Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, head of the Department of Zoology, University of Kentucky, has been requested by Mr. Neal to take part in the proceedings. Mr. Neal and Professor Scopes's friends, the latter said, will also ask leading American educators, scientists and clergymen who have expressed their belief in evolution to attend the trial as witnesses for him. Among those asked will be Dr. David Starr Jordan, President Emeritus of Leland Stanford University; Dr. James Rowland Angell, President of Yale University; Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard University, and Henry Fairfield Osborn of the Pan-American Museum.

Knoxville Teachers Seek New Textbook.

Special to The New York Times.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 27.—Teachers of biology in Knoxville high schools today sent written recommendations to State Commissioner Harned urging that "New Biology," written by W. M. Smallwood of Syracuse University, Ida L. Revely of Wells College and Guy A. Bailey of Genesee State Normal School, replace at the beginning of the Fall term a "Civic Biology," by Hunter. The book contains a short outline of the evolution of a tadpole into the frog, and then drops into a brief statement on heredity and influence of environment.

One of the teachers said of the substitute proposed:

"The book we have recommended contains a much better outline of biology than any we could use for class work in high school. In view of the recent anti-evolution law, I am quite sure that the substitution of the new book, containing no theories of any evolutionist and no discussion of anything regarding that subject other than the evolution of the tadpole into a frog, would aid us in teaching biology to high school students."

Bars All Believers in Evolution.

HUNTINGDON, Tenn., May 27 (AP).—The Board of Education of Carroll County, Tennessee, adopted resolutions today announcing its purpose to employ no teachers who believe in evolution. The resolution supported in strong terms the Tennessee law prohibiting the teaching of evolution in the public schools.

DYNAMITE OUTLAW MOROS.

Philippine Constabulary Kills Two, Wounds Many in Fort.

MANILA, May 28 (AP).—The constabulary today blew up the Moro fortress in Lanao Province which it stormed yesterday, dislodging a number of Moros who had been defying the authorities and making raids on the surrounding country. Two additional outlaws were killed and a number wounded.

$4,000 Left to Polite Conductor.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—James Gray, a street car conductor, has been notified by Miss Annie Ward that her mother, Mrs. Mary Ward, who died recently in Cincinnati, had left to him a legacy of $4,000 in return for his kindness in helping her on and off his car. Mrs. Ward, it was said, was frequently a passenger on Gray's car.

JOHN MAHER, 323 Pacific Avenue, Jersey City, N. J., fifth prize $25.

THE WOOD CLARKE PRESS, 75 Broad Street, Boston, Mass.
WIENES TYPOGRAPHIC SERVICE, INC., 203 West Fortieth Street, New York City.

The contest created unusual interest among typographical experts all over the country, including advertising agencies, printers, compositors, students of typography—among them twenty-four pupils of the Brooklyn Vocational School for Boys and students of the Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh. There were entries from clergymen, newspaper owners and editors and men and women engaged in many other pursuits. There were 501 entries, several entrants submitting two or more specimens, bringing the total close to 600.

Specimens were received from twenty-two States and the District of Columbia and from two provinces in Canada.

A large percentage of the entries were in the form of proofs, but many excellent specimens were carefully drawn with pen or pencil. Other rougher layouts had upon them instructions for styles and sizes of type. In most of the specimens the selection of type faces and the arrangement indicated considerable study of type and much taste. The judges found their task difficult because of the uniform high grade of the specimens.

The entries were studied from the point of view of design, typographical arrangement, good judgment in the selection of words or phrases to be emphasized and craftsmanship. The judges believe that the high standard of the specimens submitted in the contest indicates steady advance in taste, design and attention to detail of newspaper advertisements.

The judges were: Frank W. Harold of THE NEW YORK TIMES Censorship Department; Elmer Adler of the Pynson Press Printers, and W. A. Penny, Superintendent of THE NEW YORK TIMES Composing Room.

An exhibition of the specimens will take place on the twelfth floor of THE TIMES Annex, 229 West Forty-third Street, New York, during the two weeks beginning June 1, which will be open to the public from 10 A. M. to 10 P. M., excepting Sunday.

LORD DERBY DISPOSES OF TWO BIG ESTATES

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 27.—Lord Derby has sold practically his whole Bury and Pilkington estates in Lancashire in one of the biggest transactions of its kind in this country. The purchase price, it is stated, is in the neighborhood of a million sterling.

The estates comprise about 5,000 acres, one-fifth of which are developed urban land and the rest agricultural. The main block consists of some fifty farms, 500 houses and shops and upward of 2,000 leaseholds.

The purchasers are Messrs. Green of Chesterfield.

The executors of the late Lord Leverhulme have decided to dispose of the Grosvenor House, famous London mansion, once the town house of the Duke of Westminster. Lord Leverhulme bought the lease of it for a long period last October at a price stated to be half a million sterling. The house was originally named the Gloucester House. It was built by the Duke of Gloucester, the younger brother of George III.

BOYS DROWN BABY 'FOR EXCITEMENT'

Two Lowell Lads, 9 and 6, Confess, Police Say, to Throwing Infant Into River.

LOWELL, Mass., May 27 (AP).—Vivian Mary Husson, 20 months old, was drowned today when two boys, 6 and 9 years of age, threw her into the Merrimac River here "for excitement." A passerby saw the child in the water and notified the police. They took John Veres, 9, and Miltiades Karitos, 6, into custody.

Both boys, the police said, told the same story, except that neither would admit he was the one who threw the child in. Veres was held pending further investigation, but Karitos is below the legal age of responsibility (7 years) and was returned to his parents.

Evidence In at Stack Murder Trial.

CAIRO, Egypt, May 27 (AP).—Evidence was closed today in the trial of the nine men accused of the murder last November of Sir Lee Oliver Stack, the Sirdar or British Commander of the Egyptian army. The prosecutor began his final summing up, but a verdict was not expected before the last of this week.

BROKER IN AIRSHIP TRADES OVER RADIO

DIRIGIBLE SKIMS THE CITY

Radio trading on Wall Street by persons in the air was developed yesterday on the flight of the dirigible Los Angeles over New York City and up the Hudson River.

E. O. McDonnell of the firm of Smith & McDonnell bought 500 shares of stock as he sat in the control car of the Los Angeles 3,000 feet above the Hudson River near Newburg. His order was wirelessed to the Lakehurst station and relayed by telephone to his firm, which executed the order on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

Charles Lawrance, President of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, another of the thirty passengers carried by the Los Angeles, put in a flying radio bid for the purchase of twenty-five shares of stock in the new Madison Square Garden Corporation, but was informed that no quotation of this stock was available. Mr. Lawrance wirelessed a request for quotations on the Wright stock and got a reply.

The Los Angeles flew from Lakehurst to New York Harbor, being sighted from St. George, S. I., at 2:30 P. M. Crowds on the streets, in parks and on rooftops watched the hugest of flying things moving lazily northward, at a height of about 1,000 feet, over Manhattan, its silver body flashing intermittently as the sun hit it now and then through ragged clouds.

The Los Angeles made the trip yesterday on three of its five motors. One went out of commission on Tuesday and the other yesterday. Both mishaps were of a minor nature and will not interfere with the flight of the Los Angeles on June 7 to Minnesota, where President Coolidge is to make an address at the Minnesota State Fair. Captain George W. Steele, executive officer of the naval air station at Lakehurst, who commanded yesterday's trip, said that it was successful and uneventful. J. L. Burge, one of the passengers, said:

"You could see that street stretching away like a golden ribbon, flecked with spots of shadow from the tall buildings, people stopping singly and in large groups to gaze aloft, automobiles halting and people putting their heads out of windows high up in office buildings. We passed by the World Building and hung over the Woolworth. The sun was strong, and every detail stood out clearly when seen through field glasses."

FINDS 'GREATEST POET' OF ALL KNOWN TIMES

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 27.—The greatest poet who ever lived was not Shakespeare, nor Homer, nor anybody enshrined in the front rank of the world's Hall of Fame, according to Professor Hans Delbrueck. They must take a back seat and hand over the laurels to Walter von der Vogelweide, a German medieval bard. The latter already is known through an excellent lyrical output which has placed him high among the world's poets, but Professor Delbreuck now announces that research conducted by him shows that Vogelweide wrote the "Nidelungenlied," Germany's famous national epic on which Wagner based his great music dramas.

According to Professor Delbrueck, the "Nibelungenlied" surpasses anything ever written by Homer, Shakespeare or any other giant of the pen. Therefore, he continues, the combination of being the author of this super epic and of wonderful lyrics already credited to Vogelweide makes the latter "a poet who has attained the loftiest heights in the entire history of poetry."

Professor Delbrueck bases his assertion that Vogelweide wrote the "Nibelungenlied" on allusions therein to events in the poet's lifetime—the thirteenth century of our era. He also notes that the author of the "Nibelungenlied" was acquainted with princes of the Babenberg dynasty of Teutonic medieval rulers, also with the Bishop of Passau and with Thuringia, all of which was true of Vogelweide.

Professor Delbrueck also remarks that the author of the "Nibelungenlied" sojourned on the Danish border, as did Vogelweide, and that the latter was the only German medieval lyricist using in his poems the same meter as occurs in the "Nibelungenlied."

ORDERS POST RESTORED TO TEACHER WHO WED

Commissioner Graves, in Albany Case, Holds Marriage Insufficient Cause for Dismissal.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 27.—The Albany Board of Education has been directed by Dr. Frank P. Graves, State Commissioner of Education, to reinstate as a teacher Mrs. Emma McCollom Thomas, who was dismissed because she had married last August and had concealed the fact from the board.

Dr. Graves in sustaining an appeal from the dismissal said that "my conclusion is that the statute which gives to teachers in the public schools in several cities of the State permanent tenure after a probationary service for a prescribed period and provides that thereafter a teacher 'shall not be removable except for cause,' after a hearing, prevents the removal of a woman teacher who is entitled to permanent tenure because of the fact that subsequent to her appointment as a teacher she has become a married woman."

It was alleged by the board as a defense to the appeal that her continued use of her maiden name constituted "misconduct, insubordination and deceit in office."

The Commissioner, in determining the appeal, assumed that the only question pertained to the validity of the regulation and the effect of a violation thereof upon the right of permanent tenure which belongs to a teacher who has served the probationary period of three years prescribed by the Educational law.

Army Warrant Officers Convene.

A three-day convention of the Army Warrant Officers' Association opened yesterday at Governors Island with more than fifty delegates attending from all corps areas throughout the United States. The opening address was made by Major Gen. Charles P. Summerall, who praised the ideals of the association and welcomed the warrant officers to Governors Island. Today's session will be devoted to business and at night a theatre party will be held at the Hippodrome.

BERLIN-MADRID TREATY PASSES IN REICHSTAG

Late Night Victory for Accord on Wine Averts Stresemann Resignation.

By T. R. IBARRA.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 27.—The Government escaped a crisis when it got a majority in the Reichstag for the German-Spanish commercial treaty late tonight. Foreign Minister Stresemann said a few days ago that the non-passage of the treaty might lead to his resignation, and Chancellor Luther announced that he supported Stresemann. Thus the fuse was set for a first-class crisis. But the match was not applied. Tonight all is serene again.

The main opposition to the treaty came from the Right parties, who considered it a menace to German wine growers, since it favored the importation of Spanish wines into Germany. The Government argued that the good of all Germany came before special interests. It declared that the failure to ratify the treaty would be a serious setback to the policy of concluding commercial treaties with other countries and place it at the mercy of selfish internal partisan considerations.

It became apparent early today that the Government would win its point. Nevertheless, the debate lasted until 11 P. M. amid stormy scenes. The German wine growers will get concessions to console them for the probable invasion of Germany by Spanish wines.

GUILTY OF $600 FRAUD.

E. A. Noblett Is Convicted of a Sales Agency Swindle.

Edward A. Noblett of 131 Riverside Drive, who has served eight and a half years in Sing Sing for grand larceny, was found guilty Monday by a jury before Justice Lauer in the Ninth District Municipal Court of having obtained $600 by fraudulent representation. The plaintiffs were William L. Biber and Nicanor L. Diaz, both of 132 West Forty-seventh Street. They received judgment for $600 and costs.

Biber and Diaz, through their attorney, William Hatfield Jr. of 799 Broadway, alleged that Noblett had answered their newspaper advertisement seeking capital to organize a branch sales agency in Philadelphia for Republic trucks with a proposal that he raise $25,000 capital and himself draw up the incorporation papers. According to testimony, he was to receive 70 per cent. of the shares on a $100,000 capitalization basis. Noblett then induced Diaz and Biber to advance him $600. They declared that after going through the formula of incorporation Noblett had dropped out of sight with the $600.

Noblett has a jail record extending back to 1893. He long has made a practice of answering business advertisements with different sorts of swindling schemes. He has used the aliases E. Arden, H. C. Schulz, E. Bogert, W. Tallman, E. Hague and G. Hollis.

SHOPLIFTER PLEADS GUILTY

Mrs. Kervorakian Fined $25—Mrs. Chakmakjian Not Involved.

Mrs. Mary Kervorakian of 430 West Thirty-sixth Street in Special Sessions yesterday changed her plea of not guilty to that of guilty to a charge of shoplifting at Macy's on April 6 last. She was fined $25 for the offense and paid the fine.

In reporting the arrest of Mrs. Kervorakian THE NEW YORK TIMES in its issue of April 7 last inadvertently used the name of Mrs. Hoohan G. Chakmakjian of 434 Ninth Avenue as the person arrested.

The records of the case show this to have been an error and in fairness to Mrs. Chakmakjian THE TIMES so recorded it on April 30. This further opportunity is taken to present again the correct facts.

TWO KILLED BY AUTOS.

Youth Rode Bicycle Against Traffic in Fifth Av., Policeman Says.

Salvatore Destro, 20 years old, of 439 East Thirteenth Street, while riding a bicycle at noon yesterday, was knocked down and killed by a motor truck at Fifth Avenue and Forty-third Street. The accident blocked traffic on the Avenue when hundreds of persons gathered at the scene.

Policeman Moran of the East Fifty-first Street Station, who arrested the driver of the truck, John T. Miller, 30 years old, of 80 Thirteenth Avenue, Long Island City, on a technical homicide charge, said that Destro tried to ride his bicycle through the streams of east and westbound traffic.

Joseph Megnar, 11 years old, of 2,453 Eighth Avenue, stepped from behind some material for the construction of the new subway in St. Nicholas Avenue at 130th Street last night and was struck and killed by an automobile owned and operated by Max Bornstein, 26 years old, a broker, of 45 West 110th Street. Bornstein carried the boy to Harlem Hospital, where Dr. Rosenberg found he was dead.

While walking across Manhattan Bridge last night Gilbert Ault of 1,668 East Thirteenth Street, Brooklyn, found a soldier's blouse on the north promenade with a note pinned to it. The note read: "I have gone for a long journey and you will find my body at the bottom of this water. Signed, Morley D. Wright, First Casual Company, Fort Hamilton."

Detectives of the Bridge Precinct learned that a soldier of that name was to have sailed on the army transport Chateau Thierry today for Panama. He returned a few days ago from a month's leave and yesterday received a pass allowing him out of barracks until 9 A. M. today. His home was in Rosedale, Va., and he enlisted for foreign duty from Fort Thomas, Ky., two years ago.

Smith Names P. H. Donnelly Judge.

ALBANY, May 27 (AP).—Announcement of the appointment of Philip H. Donnelly of Rochester as County Judge of Monroe County was made today by Governor Smith. The appointment follows enactment of legislation providing for an additional County Judge in Monroe. Judge Donnelly is a graduate of Holy Cross and of the Albany Law School and served overseas during the World War.

Mayor Endorses Training Camps.

Mayor Hylan endorsed the citizens' military training camps yesterday in a public statement given out at the City Hall. The Mayor announced his intention of encouraging policemen, firemen and other city employes to take advantage of the Government's offer of thirty days in the open at Plattsburg and the five other camps of the Second Corps Area.

DAWES TAKES FIGHT ON RULES TO SOUTH

Supported by Underwood, He Assails Procedure Allowing Minority to Sway Senate.

WILL APPEAL TO VOTERS

Senator Assures Alabama Manufacturers They Need Not Fear Adoption of Closure.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 27 (AP).—Vice President Dawes hopes to take his campaign for reform in the rules of the United States Senate to the voters, he said in an address here tonight, in which he again condemned existing Senate procedure and answered arguments of its proponents.

He appeared jointly with Senator Underwood of Alabama before the annual meeting of the Associated Industries of Alabama.

"As Vice President, and not as a partisan, I hope to visit some of the States which will elect United States Senators in 1925, and ask that the constituencies of those States, of all parties, see to it that this non-partisan issue is clearly defined in the primaries for the nomination of Senators," General Dawes said.

He added that he would not visit Alabama for such a purpose "because the leading proponent of this great reform is Senator Underwood, who has been for years a standard bearer in a courageous fight for the reform of the Senate rules on the floor of the Senate itself."

General Dawes asserted that the existing Senate rules encourage parliamentary misbehavior in individual Senators and invite selfishness, mediocrity, vanity and personal purpose to cloak themselves in the robe of arrogance. He advocated that the rules be changed by a provision for majority closure, so drawn that it would not prevent any Senator from being fully heard upon any question, but would prevent a minority or an individual Senator from prolonging debate in order to destroy the constitutional right of a majority to legislate.

Under its present rules the United States Senate is "controlled by and reflects the will of a minority," Senator Underwood declared, endorsing the campaign for modification of the rules undertaken by the Vice President.

"The rules of the Senate today stand for delay—endless delay—if a Senator desires to enforce them," Senator Underwood added. "That some rule must be adopted that will enable the majority of the Senate to control its affairs and conduct business in an orderly and effective manner is an issue that appeals to the common sense and good judgment of the people of this country."

Vice President Dawes's Speech.

"As I studied these rules," said the Vice President early in his speech, "there came to me the conviction that it was the duty of the Vice President of the United States, the only elected official having constitutional relations to the Senate of the United States as a whole, and charged, as is every presiding officer, with concern for the common-sense expediting of business, to carry, if possible, the issue of the rules to the voters of the country who—not the Senate—elect the Vice President, and who alone can exert the great power needed to shake men loose from a system designed to fortify personal and individual prerogatives at the expense of the American people and of the constitutional rights of the majority.

"What is the nature of the arguments used against reform?" he continued. "Minimizing the real issue of whether the principle involved is right or wrong, they consist largely of an attempt to create the impression that the rules have not been greatly productive of evil, but, on the contrary, of some benefit. Is it true, as they maintain, that unlimited debate checks multiplicity of laws? Quite the contrary. It has not checked multiplicity of laws but has resulted in their passage without proper consideration.

"Others, upholding the dictatorship of minorities, maintain that this power given by the Senate rules to minorities and individuals, which this nation has seen so often misused, makes impossible the so-called dictatorship of the majority; that the Constitution recognizes that a Federal system of government cannot be operated by pure majority rule under the Constitution; that because nine great States, including about one-half the population of the United States, have only eighteen Senators out of the ninety-six, that the exercise, by individuals or minorities in the Senate of a usurped right of government not contemplated by the Constitution is justified.

"Our Constitution rightly affords protection to minorities and individuals against the wrong dictatorship of majorities. But while the checks and balances of the Constitution operate to protect minorities and individual rights, the Senate rules operate at times to destroy majority rights given by the Constitution.

"Can it be forgotten that the threat of the smaller States that they would not enter the Union unless they were granted equal voice in the Senate was that alone which made possible the adoption of the Constitution? In this can be found a fair illustration of what minorities will demand where they have the power.

"And now can it be maintained that the Senate, with its undemocratic structure, shall still further by its rules put the American people and the American nation at the mercy, at times, of small minorities, sometimes composed of only one Senator?

"This demand from Senators that they retain power to obstruct the constitutional right of a majority to legislate is undemocratic and assumes not only an incompetency to properly decide questions involving their own interest by the people themselves, but as well by a majority of their representatives legally and constitutionally elected. Is this demand made to give American individual liberty a protection additional to that provided by the Constitution, or is it based upon a desire to individually exercise a governmental power which adds to personal prestige and prerogatives at the expense of constitutional majority rights?

"It is significant that the arguments which are advanced against improved cloture in the Senate come chiefly from those whose individual power, through ineffective cloture, is augmented at the expense of the constitutional right of the majority of the Senate to legislate. The reason that the Senate has done business for 119 years without effective cloture, almost alone among the deliberative bodies of the world, in my judgment is not because it has been regarded in the best interest of the nation, but because the power to correct this defective method of transacting business rests under the Constitution in the Senators whose individual power and prestige are enhanced by the opportunity to arbitrarily obstruct the due course of business by the Senate in accordance with the will of the majority."

Underwood Backs Revision.

Saying that since 1806 numerous efforts had been made to limit debate in the Senate, Senator Underwood declared that "the Senate continues to be controlled by, and reflects the will of, a minority rather than a majority of the Senate, much less a majority of the United States."

After reviewing the various efforts made to amend the rules, he continued:

"This review brings us to the main issue, and that is whether the Senate of the United States should adopt a rule by which the majority may be allowed to determine when debate shall close and when the legislation pending before that body may be voted. The rules of the Senate today stand for delay, endless delay, if any Senator desires to enforce them. Shall we change them; and if not, why not? The freedom of our Government and the personal liberties of the citizens of the United States are not protected by a minority band of Senators, but by the Constitution of the United States. The property rights of the people of the United States are not protected by the Senate, but by the Constitution of the United States, which provides that private property may not be taken except on the payment of just compensation.

"Do you fear, then, an uncontrolled Senate may talk you to death? The high taxes of the war are being gradually diminished. The tendency of every legislative body elected by the people is to reduce taxation, not increase it. Shall we longer contend that a minority of the Senate has more wisdom, more capacity or more honesty than the majority of that body? The Constitution of the United States authorizes a majority to govern.

"The legislation passed by the Senate is no better than that passed by the House of Representatives, where a drastic closure rule prevails. For the last half century some of our people in the Southern States have been apprehensive that if there were a closure rule adopted in the United States Senate the South might be in danger of having its civilization overthrown and a weaker race placed in charge of their State Governments. This may have been true a quarter of a century ago, but it certainly is not true today, and no man can justify his opposition to a closure rule in the Senate on the ground that he is preserving the rights and the liberties of the Southern people thereby.

"We find that since the '90s Mills of Texas, Blackburn of Kentucky, George of Mississippi, Vest of Missouri, White of Louisiana and John Sharp Williams of Mississippi introduced resolutions in the Senate seeking to cut off unlimited debate and allow a majority of the Senate to attend to the business of the country. Surely they would not have proposed closure for the Senate if they thought for a moment that it endangered the civilization of their home people.

"As far as I know, opposition to a closure rule in the Senate comes from two sources. From some of the Senators themselves because they enjoy debate and like unlimited discussion, but the other source lies outside of the Senate. It is from those persons who are interested in special legislation, or more particularly, are interested in preventing legislation being passed in which they are opposed, and it is very much easier for them to accomplish the result they desire through delays in debate rather than to command the votes of a majority of the entire Senate."

BOARD DECIDES ROUTE OF NEW QUEENS LINE

Long Island City-Jamaica Subway to Run in an Open Cut on Queens Boulevard.

Officials of Queens Borough were informed yesterday that the Board of Transportation had decided upon the route of the proposed Long Island City-Jamaica Rapid Transit Line, and also that the broad would propose an open cut in the centre of Queens Boulevard along the route which the subway will follow for the greater part of its length.

According to the information given out by the board, the proposed subway will start at Van Alst Avenue, Long Island City, and run along Jackson Avenue to Broadway and First Street, Woodside, thence via Broadway to Sixty-third Street.

From Broadway and Sixty-third Street to Queens Boulevard there are two optional routes. One would cut diagonally through private property to Fisk Avenue and then via Woodside Avenue to connect with the Boulevard at Forty-fifth Avenue, Winfield, formerly Laurel Hill Boulevard. The other would continue through Broadway to Justice Street, Elmhurst, and thence across private property to meet the Boulevard at Caldwell Avenue.

There are two projected branches of the new line when it reaches Hillside Avenue and Queens Boulvard, Jamaica. One would continue on to the Long Island Railroad station and the other would run along Hillside Avenue to 178th Street. The line will be approximately twelve and three-quarter miles in length, with a total trackage of thirty-eight miles.

Broadway Temple Workers in Race to Meet Rockefeller Terms.

Dr. Christian F. Reisner's efforts to complete the sale of $2,000,000 of bonds to build the Broadway Temple of the Chelsea Methodist Church were increased yesterday in a race to meet the conditions imposed by John D. Rockefeller Jr., who bought $250,000 of the bonds on the condition that $750,000 be sold by June 1.

Only two working days remain to comply with Mr. Rockefeller's terms, and, it was announced yesterday, $200,000 of bonds remain to be sold. The race started April 30, when a committee of business men pledged $100,000 of the $500,000. Members of the church have sold $42,000 of an allotment of $100,000. A group of ministers underwrote $20,000, a group of laymen from other churches took $70,000 and smaller sales have made the total approximately $300,000.

ROADS FINALLY WIN MILEAGE BOOK FIGHT

Commerce Board Rescinds 20 Per Cent. Cut Rate Order, Following Court Decision.

COUPONS AT REGULAR FARE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The Interstate Commerce Commission rescinded today a previous ruling ordering Class 1 railroads to sell interchangeable mileage books at a 20 per cent. reduction in the regular passenger rates, thus bringing to an end a long-fought legal battle between organizations of traveling salesmen and others on the one hand and the railroads on the other.

The carriers are directed on and after July 15 to sell interchangeable mileage books in denominations of $15, $30 and $90 at the standard rate of fare for one-way trips.

The original order of the commission was to have become effective on May 1, 1923, but some of the carriers obtained an injunction in Massachusetts, contending that the commission in directing that a lower rate be charged for mileage books, had exceeded its authority. Appeal was taken to the Supreme Court of the United States and the injunction was sustained.

The present order directing the issuance of the books at the standard rate, as a matter of convenience to travelers, was the logical outcome of the court battle. The order contains the following instructions:

"That the respondents hereinafter named, being all Class 1 steam railroads operating as common carriers, subject to the Interstate Commerce Act, except switching and terminal companies, be, and they are, and each of them is hereby notified and required to establish, on or before July 15, 1925, upon notice of this Commission and to the general public by not less than five days, filing and posting in the manner prescribed in Section 6 of the Interstate Commerce Act, and thereafter to issue and maintain, for use in Interstate Commerce, interchangeable scrip coupon tickets in denominations of $15, $30 and $90, which shall be sold at the standard or basic rate of fare for one-way passenger tickets, good within one year from date of sale on all passenger trains operated by the said carriers, except that in the case of extra fare trains their use shall be subject to the payment by the passenger of the extra fare, and which shall be good for one or more persons traveling at the same time."

Law Failed to Order Lower Rate.

The Supreme Court held that while the legislation adopted by Congress owed its origin to the movement on the part of traveling salesmen and others to obtain interchangeable mileage at a reduced rate, the object of the salesmen was defeated because Congress failed to include in the legislation direction that a lower rate be allowed and simply authorized the issuance of scrip tickets.

The Interstate Commerce Commission goes at length into investigations held by the commission beginning March 3, 1924, after the Supreme Court ruling. In these proceedings the question of a fair and reasonable charge for the mileage books came up and after an inspection of all the facts presented the commission concluded that under the provisions of the law and as a result of the Supreme Court decision there was but one course to follow, namely, direct the issuance of the mileage books at the same fair and reasonable rate as that fixed for regular passenger travel.

The commission further holds, however, that it shall be left to the discretion of the managements of any or all of the railroads whether interests will best be served at any season of the year by the sale of mileage books at lower than the standard rate. Attention is called to the fact that some railways do issue seasonal tickets at reduced rates, and carriers individually and collectively are left free to experiment, if they see fit, with reduced rate mileage tickets.

Commissioner Cox dissented from the opinion issued today, contending that the argument that revenue would be lost is not sound.

"It is my opinion, based upon the record," he said, "that passenger travel would so increase that the net revenues of the carriers from passenger train operation would not be reduced by establishing and maintaining an interchangeable scrip coupon ticket in the denomination of $90 to be sold at a reduction of 20 per cent. from the face value of the ticket, and that rates resulting from such a reduction would be just and reasonable."

Ask Early Jamaica Sugar Preference

WANTS US TO ADMIT 50,000 FROM AUSTRIA

Vienna Labor Chamber Says United States Could Thus Relieve Unemployment There.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, May 27.—A proposal that the United States should help solve the unemployment problem in Austria by a special emergency law to be passed by Congress admitting 50,000 Austrian skilled workers was announced today by the Chamber of Labor here. The chamber has asked the Austrian Government to intercede with the United States Government to obtain such legislation.

The proposal emphasizes that there is no question of suggesting any modification of the United States immigration laws, but merely a request to Congress to pass a measure applicable to this single emergency without establishing a precedent.

The memorandum submitted to the Foreign Office here argues that the upkeep of 170,000 unemployed persons through doles is one of the heaviest burdens of the Austrian State. Every five employed workmen are feeding one unemployed. The unemployment question also is one of the chief reasons for social tension.

Austria's vital problem can be put thus: How many people can make a living in Austria? It is absolutely impossible that Austria as now constituted should be able to maintain her total population. The country is over saturated.

On other hand, 50,000 workers selected from the most desirable class could easily be absorbed in the labor market of the United States. They would not make a noticeable difference. This might be the United States' contribution to solving the wide European problem.

If the Austrian Government's request is unsuccessful the memorandum suggests that perhaps a joint request by the League of Nations and all the States interested in the stabilization of Mid-Europe might induce the American Congress to help Austria by an emergency law.

Newspaper comment on the proposal points out that if the matter were feasible shipping one unemployed worker to America and establishing him there would cost the Austrian Government about $150, on $7,666,000 for 50,000. This sum is only one-half the cost of maintenance of 180,000 unemployed in 1925. If the project is realized it would lift a very great burden off Austria.

ANTI-SOVIET SPEECH STIRS VIENNA CHAMBER

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, May 27.—A violent storm broke out today in Parliament as the Social Democrats in interpellations bitterly assailed Foreign Minister Mataja for his recent anti-Soviet speech, which was provoked by attacks from abroad.

M. Mataja could hardly deliver his reply, his voice being almost drowned by the hooting of the Social Democrats. He denied the rumor that as a result of his speech 40,000 workmen here will lose their employment on account of the cancellation of Russian orders. The Social Democratic former Chancellor Renner, however, maintained this was a fact.

Chancellor Ramek, who in a long speech defended M. Mataja, was also constantly interrupted.

It is learned from an authoritative quarter that in Austrian Government circles the Soviet Government's anger over the Mataja speech is regarded as a complete face-about from its former attitude. Hitherto the Moscow Foreign Office has always emphasized that the Soviet Government was not identical with the Third International and that the latter's propaganda cannot be charged against the Soviet. Now, however, the Soviet is waging a diplomatic offensive against Austria because M. Mataja attacked the Third International.

RIVALS FOR AUSTRIAN LOAN.

German and Italian Bankers Enter Field to Delight of Vienna.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, May 27.—Great satisfaction is felt here in political and financial circles in the last few days not only because of the interest manifested by American bankers in the proposed joint loan but also because new English, Dutch and even German and Italian bankers have entered the field.

Offers for a loan from these have been received by the Governor of Styria, who is negotiating the loan.

Whereas a few weeks ago the terms offered by certain American bankers were so rigorous that several provinces refused to join in the negotiations on account of infringement of their sovereignty, the bankers now competing are presenting acceptable terms. The joint loan would amount to about $15,000,000. The offers from the German and Italian bankers are said not to be without political motives, the Germans being anxious to oblige the provinces with a view to promoting the idea of a union, whereas the Italians are just as anxious to counteract Austrian union with Germany and even to create sentiment in favor of some form of Austria's union with Italy.

FALL, SINCLAIR AND DOHENY REINDICTED

oil. We have expended on this great work to date more than $2,000,000 in excess of what the Government has returned to us. I have voluntarily assumed personal liability for this sum.

"I would not hesitate to face a score of indictments for the opportunity of thus contributing to the defense of my country. I am sure that by this time the American people are satisfied that these oil cases were born of politics, and I really think that the American people very decisively showed what they thought of this politically hatched scandal by their votes on Election Day last November.

"I have already said that a fair trial can have but one result. I may add that in the courts of the United States we are certain of getting a fair trial. Government witnesses who were not called before the Grand Jury cannot be kept from testifying in open court. It is possible to tell half or a quarter of the truth behind closed doors of a Grand Jury room, but that is impossible in a United States court room. I await the final outcome of our cases with absolute confidence."

No Evidence on Young Doheny.

The failure to indict young Mr. Doheny was solely due to the fact that the only evidence involving him in any way with Mr. Fall, was the fact that at the instance of his father he delivered the $100,000 to the then Secretary of the Interior. There is no evidence that he had any part in any alleged conspiracy or that he at any time ever sought to bribe Fall. Young Doheny, therefore, is eliminated from the criminal phase of the case.

Two new indictments replace four other indictments which were quashed by Chief Justice McCoy because of the fact that the Grand Jury deliberations were attended by Assistant Attorney General Oliver E. Pagan. The original indictments charged Mr. Fall and Mr. Sinclair with conspiracy to defraud the Government and also alleged the same offense in the case of the two Dohenys. Mr. Sinclair has never been charged with bribery. The other two original indictments charged Mr. Fall with accepting a $100,000 bribe from the Dohenys, while the fourth indictment alleged that the Dohenys had bribed Fall.

The new indictments involving Mr. Doheny and Mr. Fall charges they entered into a conspiracy on Nov. 11, 1922, to lease the Elk Hills reserve to the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company, a corporation controlled by Mr. Doheny. It is charged that other bidders for the lease were ignored and that in the end the lease was arbitrarily and unlawfully awarded to the Doheny interests. The alleged $100,000 bribe is listed as overt act No. 3. Other overt acts which the Government alleges are six in number.

The first is a letter written July 8, 1921, by Mr. Fall to Mr. Doheny in which Mr. Fall said that "there will be no possibility of any further conflict with Navy officials," and that he would, under the direction of the President, conduct the negotiations without calling into consultation any of the naval officers under Secretary Denby, although he would if occasion offered, confer on matters of policy with Mr. Denby.

Telegram to Finney Cited.

The fifth is the execution on Nov. 25, 1922, of the contract between the Government annd the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Co., by which the Pan-American agreed to furnish the materials, labor, &c., for the construction of the Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, naval oil reserve tanks, and next the contract under the terms of which the Pan-American agreed to build these tanks. The seventh and last overt act alleged was the lease on Dec. 11, 1922, of the Elk Hills reserve to the Doheny interests.

The first is a letter dated Feb. 2, 1922, from Mr. Sinclair to Mr. Fall, in which Mr. Sinclair evidences his willingness to take over the Teapot Dome reserve in Wyoming.

The third is a letter dated March 30, 1922, from Mr. Fall to J. W. Clarke of Leadville, Col., in which Mr. Fall said the naval reserves were not being developed more rapidly than necessary.

The fourth alleged is a letter under date of March 20, 1922, in which Mr. Fall informed one F. E. Kistler that no policy had been agreed on as to the disposition of the reserves.

The fifth concerns the $230,000 in Liberty bonds which Mr. Fall and his son-in-law, Mr. Everhart, are alleged to have received from the profits of the Continental Trading Company. It is alleged that Mr. Sinclair "delivered or caused to be delivered" the bonds which the Government asserts it traced into the hands of Mr. Fall and his son-in-law.

The fifth alleged overt act is the contract with the Mammoth Oil Company, of which Mr. Sinclair is the head, for the construction of certain tankage in connection with the Wyoming reserve.

The seventh is the contract for the construction of certain tankage to be filled with fuel oil by the Mammoth Oil Company. The indictment does not mention the $25,000 in Liberty bonds which Mr. Sinclair admits having lent to Mr. Fall after the latter retired from the Interior Department.

The conspiracy trials are expected to begin some time next Fall, probably in October.

FALL IS NOT SURPRISED.

Says Grand Jury Only Got What the Prosecutors Desired.

EL PASO, Texas, May 27 (AP).—His reindictment with Edward L. Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair on conspiracy charges in connection with the Teapot Dome and Elk Hill oil leases was no surprise, Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, said at his home here today.

Mr. Fall made the following statement:

"Under the peculiar tactics used by United States Attorneys, nothing else could have been expected. These attorneys have only to present what they desire to the Grand Jury, although they have gone fully into two cases before and are thoroughly familiar with them. Everybody was expecting that Mr. Doheny, Mr. Sinclair and myself would be reindicted, I guess."

TROTSKY IS ASSIGNED TO ECONOMIC BODY

He Is Also Made Chairman of the Concessions Committee to Watch Foreign Grants.

HAS CHANCE TO MAKE GOOD

Moscow Expects He Will Become Head of Council When He Proves His Communism.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, May 27.—Leon Trotsky was appointed today a member of the Presidium of the Supreme Economic Council and Chairman of the Concessions Committee. This decision was made last night at a meeting of the Council of Commissars after a long hesitation as to which post Trotsky should be assigned.

Prior to his return from the Caucasus it was planned to give him a post as a member of the Government, but the situation changed after the Communist Party conference, and at the Federal Congress the Council of Commissars was re-elected without changes, thus leaving no vacancy for Trotsky.

His appointment to an administrative post means that Trotsky will not engage immediately in active political or party work—at any rate not until after the party congress, which will be held in November.

The Supreme Economic Council, which is under Dzerjinsky, has charge of all Soviet industry, managing the nationalized works, factories, mines, commercial navigation, &c. Its Presidium consists of twelve members, among whom the work of the various departments is divided.

Trotsky will have charge of the electro-technical branch and will direct the carrying out of Lenin's plans for the electrification of the country, to which the dead leader attached the greatest importance, proclaiming the slogan, "Socialism plus electrification means communism."

Trotsky will also manage the scientific and technical branch of the Supreme Council, but most important of all, perhaps, is his appointment to the chairmanship of the Concessions Committee, where he replaces his closest friend and truest adherent, Piatakoff, who, it is rumored, will get a diplomatic assignment.

Trotsky has long been known as the keenest advocate of attracting foreign capital, believing that in the absence of the forthcoming revolutionary support from Western countries Soviet Russia would be unable to re-establish her national economy without bringing in foreign capital for the reestablishment and development of its industrial strength to maintain the proletariat dictatorship.

The recently granted concessions to the Lena gold field and to the British Ayan Company are regarded here as an indication of the change in the general attitude of the Soviets toward concessions to foreign interests and the appointment of Trotsky, it is believed, will be welcomed in every quarter.

MOSCOW, May 27 (AP).—Communist observers say it is possible for Trotsky, after retrieving his political prestige and providing that he will be a good Communist, to succeed Dzerjinsky as Chief of the Council, which would have a wider sphere of duty. No such change is likely, however, until the Communist Party Congress in November, which is likely to examine Trotsky's political status anew, to see whether his policies warrant further promotion.

It is thought evident that a man of Trotsky's ability and caution, who is daring with his projects, was deliberately selected for this post, which Communists consider of great importance because of the care that must be exercised to prevent capitalism from making inroads upon the principles of orthodox communism.

Trotsky undoubtedly has promised to be a good Communist, and his reinclusion in the Government councils is a victory for Stalin, Commissar for National Minorities, who is eager to promote harmony in the Government. The selection is a setback for Zinovieff, who has attempted to keep Trotsky in the background.

DUDLEY DIGGES WINS SUIT.

Actor Said Hair-Restorer Concern Refused to Repurchase Stock.

Dudley Digges, who portrays the character of the Critic in the Theatre Guild's production of "The Guardsman," will confine his talents to acting and relinquish all claims to being a business man, as the result of a ruling of Justice Thomas E. Murray in the Third District Municipal Court yesterday.

Justice Murray granted the application of the actor to withdraw as a stockholder in the Frances Fox Institute, at Thirty-fourth Street and Fifth Avenue, and gave him a judgment of $2,100 against Henry A. Miller and Anna Fox, the proprietors of the establishment.

Digges said he was persuaded to invest $3,000 in the Institute after he had undergone some treatments which resulted in hair being restored on a section of his head. Afterward, he said, his finances were depleted and he tried to sell his stock back to the proprietors but all they gave him was $860. They refused to give him permission to withdraw from the business, he said. Then he brought suit.

TOPEKA, Kan., May 27.—Eight Missouri Pacific passenger trains succumbed to buses today, the Public Service Commission authorizing their withdrawal on the request of the company and proof that the service on the same routes was adequate.

W. F. Kirk, General Superintendent for the Kansas lines of the Missouri Pacific, told the commission that the bus service was more convenient and the fare much less than the railroad could afford to charge. In all the towns that would be affected business men were satisfied with bus service.

JOINT DRY FLEET PUT OUT TO SEA

FEW SHIPS IN RUM ROW

But They Are Said to Be Desperate —Patrol Line Stretches for Miles.

Extraordinary activity on the part of the United States Coast Guard boats that have been converted into a prohibition navy, as well as on the part of the police of the Marine Division, late yesterday gave rise to reports that important developments were expected out at Rum Row. By sunset all but one of the Coast Guard boats had put to sea. The only cutter, the Red Wing, that stayed behind, was in drydock, undergoing repairs at Base 2, Stapleton, S. I.

The boats of the Coast Guard were strung out all the way from Sandy Hook to Atlantic City. In the line which it was rumored the rum runners would try to break through were counted forty-two fast picket boats of the Coast Guard, including speedboats of the 75-foot and 36-foot type, and nine cutters and torpedo boat destroyers.

In the afternoon three police boats, the Manhattan, Gypsy, fastest ship in the Marine Division, and the Patrol Boat No. 4, went down the bay. In Staten Island it was reported that Deputy Chief Inspector Cornelius J. Cahalane, in charge of the Police Marine Division, was going down the bay at midnight.

While all the activity on the part of the Federal and municipal navies was in progress, the sea was calm and the skies were clear. There was only a light breeze rippling the waters, beyond which the liquor fleet rode at anchor. In Rum Row, according to the latest reports, there were only one steamer and four schooners.

But those ships were reported to be desperately anxious to land their cargoes. It is not known whether the bootleggers' information service sprang aleak and allowed information to get out that a bold attempt would be made to land cargoes last night, or whether the prohibition navy was making preparations for another kind of emergency.

Every boat in the Coast Guard Service was advised from Base 2 at Stapleton that three ships loaded with liquor had departed from Halifax for Rum Row. The information was broadcast to the captains of all the Coast Guard boats soon after the receipt of an Associated Press dispatch from Halifax reporting that two steamships and ten schooners of the liquor fleet which retreated from the Coast Guard blockade had departed from Halifax and Lunenburg for St. Pierre-Miquelon, and Southern ports, including Nassau and Bermuda.

ST. LOUIS CASE ARGUED BY MRS. WILLEBRANDT

Assistant Attorney General Calls Beer Graft Defense of the Nations Brothers a 'Bluff.'

ST. LOUIS, May 27 (AP).—Arguments began tonight in the case of Heber Nations, former State Labor Commissioner, charged with conspiracy to violate the Volstead act by "protection" of the Griesedieck brewery in the manufacture and sale of real beer in St. Louis in 1923 and early 1924.

The chief witnesses for the defense, which rested its case today, were Nations and his brother, Gus O. Nations, former group chief of Federal Prohibition agents in Missouri.

"I should say not," was his reply to the query whether, as had been testified by Charles S. Prather, former Food and Drug Commissioner of Missouri, he took money through Prather from Raymond B. Griesedieck, Vice President and Manager of the brewery.

Gus Nations denied that he told Heber when he and his men were to leave the city, or that Heber knew of his intended departure more than once. This was to combat the statements of Prather and Griesedieck that the "protection" of the brewery consisted of information from Heber as to his brother's movements.

For the first time in an important trial here the voice of a woman was heard in Judge Faris's Federal court. It was that of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General of the United States, in charge of prohibition enforcement.

Mrs. Willebrandt argued and summed up what she termed "a splendid going, grafting concern." Heber Nations's story, repeated by his brother Gus, she called a "bluff" in which the defendant persisted.

The whole situation, Mrs. Willebrandt told the jury, simmered down to a matter of "Nations versus Prather."

RUSES OF HIS SLEUTHS AMUSE GEN. BUTLER

He Hears Philadelphia 'Mystery Squad' Tell of Training Field Glasses on Police at Brewery.

PHILADELPHIA, May 27 (AP).—Director of Public Safety Butler got a lot of smiles today out of the proceedings of the special Board of Police inquiry, appointed recently to investigate alleged grafting by policemen.

He sat among the audience as his investigators recounted what they had seen the fourteen policemen on trial do and how they had fooled them in obtaining that knowledge.

Among the ruses employed by General Butler's detectives were those of observing by high-powered glasses from a distance the Feil Brewery, from which the policemen are charged with having permitted illegal beer to be hauled away, and also for having accepted money for "overlooking" these activities.

The members of the "mystery squad" told how they disguised themselves as laborers and garage workers and watched the defendants enter and leave the brewery. By night they secreted themselves in a house near by and watched through binoculars.

The accused, twelve Corporals and patrolmen and two District Commanders, all of whom have been under suspension for a month, denied having entered the brewery except in the course of duty.

Bolivian Attache to Quit.

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP).—Don Jorge Biscud Jofre, attaché of the Bolivian Legation, has decided to cut short his diplomatic career. The decision results from an accusation by a policeman that he was undiplomatic in trying to force the law enforcement representative to eat an egg sandwich.

HONOR CITY EMPLOYES WHO DIED IN THE WAR

Mayor Hylan Gives Address at Service for 240 on the Steps of the City Hall.

The firing of a funeral volley by the veteran squad of the riot battalion of the New York Police Department, sounding of taps by police buglers and music by the Municipal Band marked a memorial service yesterday at noon on the steps of the City Hall in memory of the 240 city employes who were killed in the World War.

The ceremony was under the auspices of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States. Major Joseph Caccavajo, who is aid to the National Commander-in-Chief of that organization and is also a city engineer, presented to Mayor Hylan a wreath of "buddy" popies, which was displayed upon an easel in the City Hall corridor. The Mayor, accepting the memorial token in behalf of the city, delivered an address in which he said, in part:

"There were several hundred employes of the city—men and women—who made the supreme sacrifice on the field of battl or in the hospitals at the front, or at home. Such patriotic service is not possible of human recompense."

"During the trying days of the war's duration the city, in a small way, did endeavor to make some provision for the relatives of its employes who had been called in the national defense. Pursuant to law, the salaries of these employes were continued, less the small sum paid by the Federal Government; and special consideration was given to those who returned to take up their former tasks.

"But there was little which the city could do in manifestation of its gratitude or its people's appreciation to compensate the mothers and fathers of the boys who did not return.

"It is such an occasion as this that forcibly reminds us of the brave mothers who sent their boys to rally to the standard of their country. In that act of surrender they displayed equal heroism with their boys who sealed their loyal pledges in blood in exchanging the gift of life for the quest of a heroic death. We know of the awful suspense through the dark hours, of the waiting and praying and weeping, and the last crushing blow when the terrible news came of the passing on of a loved one.

"The loss was too tragic and the grief too unutterable to yield to well-meaning words of consolation. But let every woman who gave a son or brother or husband in the World War find some measure of comfort and pride in the knowledge that her loss is shared by the city, the State and the nation, which were so valorously, unselfishly and patriotically served by these heroic defenders."

OPENS PARIS EXHIBITION TO UNITE ALLIES BY ART

Mrs. E. H. Harriman Organizes 'First Trinational' Representing All Schools in Three Nations.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 27.—An art exhibition of unusual character and novel aims is scheduled to open tomorrow in Paris when a selection of paintings and sculpture by living French, American and English artists, chosen without regard to tendencies or schools, will be shown at the famous Durand-Ruel Galleries.

The exhibit was organized under Mrs. E. H. Harriman of New York to create a better understanding among the three peoples, the theory being that they can more intimately be united by sentiments and ideals than by material interests.

From Paris the collection, which is named the "First Trinational," will be taken to London and New York, and it is hoped to hold the exhibition yearly on similar lines.

Among the American artists whose works will be shown are Arthur B. Davis, Walt Kuhn, Max Weber, Jo Davidson, Cecil Howard, Allan Tucker, Mrs. H. P. Whitney, Charles Sheerer and Pop Hart.

The French artists chosen represent such widely different tendencies as those expressed by Laurens and Picasso, which is proof of the fact that schools were not considered, the aim being to give what is best of all schools, whether academic or radical.

SEA SERPENT SEASON OPENS

Boston Fishing Crew Repor Gigantic "Eel" Off South Banks.

BOSTON, May 27 (AP).—News of the first sea serpent of the 1925 season was brought to port today by Captain James Doyle of the Boston fishing steamer Foam, returning from a two weeks' fishing trip to South Channel Banks. The members of the crew stood back of the skipper's story.

Last Sunday, eighty-eight miles southeast by south of Boston Lightship, a strange fish appeared off the starboard bow, the captain said. It was longer than the vessel, which measures 136 feet over all, and in general conformation, color and the shape of its head resembled a gigantic eel. It was as big around as a barrel, according to Doyle. The fish swam about the Foam several times, and was visible about twenty minutes.

SAYS CRAIG HELD UP HIS PAY ON SCHOOL

Builder Charges Delay Was to Keep Him Buying One Flooring Material.

SEES FAVORITISM AT WORK

Tells Hirshfield He Was Threatened With Trouble If He Bought Another Product.

Charges that payments upon public school contracts were delayed to Thomas Dwyer, contractor, after he had been threatened with such a penalty if he ceased using "nalecode" flooring, were made against Controller Craig and Deputy Controller Charles F. Kerrigan by Mr. Dwyer yesterday in the investigation which Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield is conducting into the affairs of the finance department.

Thomas Dwyer and his son, Pierre, in business as contractors at Broadway and 216th Street, declared that payment of about $44,000, due upon their contract for building Public School 64, in the Bronx, was held up nearly a month, after the son had been informed by William Bonner, Vice President of the "nalecode" concern, that John F. Kleist, President of the firm, "had certain influence at the Controller's office." It is alleged the payment was held up because another building product, "nalecrete," was used instead of "nalecode" on the public school building, and because the Dwyers had not sent in their order for "nalecode" on two other school contracts.

Thomas Dwyer testified briefly that he had been in the building business forty years, had built six schools for the city since 1920 and had used "nalecode" on all but P. S. 64, the Bronx. He said he had used the other product, "nalecrete," only after he had obtained permission from the Board of Education. He said the city specifies a fireproof floor support of the nature of these products. He used "nalecode" on the two other school buildings since he constructed P. S. 64, "in part because this product seems most satisfactory to the Controller's office, and so that future contract payments may not be held up."

When asked if he had been called into the investigations of the Sinnott & Canty firm by the Deputy Controller, the witness said "No," and that he had not given the firm any of his business because he had relatives in the insurance business. He declared he was not mixed up in a partisan way in the squabbles of city government.

Pierre Dwyer, who gave most of the testimony at the hearing, said Bonner called on him the latter part of 1923, after "nalecrete" had been used on P. S. 64, and told him that "everybody is using nalecode" on schools, and he would like to supply the product for the two new contracts, P. S. 70, the Bronx, and the Parental School, Flushing, L. I. Dwyer said Bonner furthermore told him he had "a partner who has a certain influence at Albany and at the Controller's office."

"Then early in January," young Dwyer declared, "Kleist called me up on the phone and asked me if the orders had been sent in for 'nalecode.' I told him, 'No.' Then he told me if I put the matter off further the $44,000 due on the contract for P. S. 64 might be held up unless I decided to use 'nalecode.' I told him I thought so long as the terms of the contract with the city were fulfilled, no trouble would result. He then asked me if I would 'go to the bat on that' and I said, 'Yes.'

"Sure enough," the witness said, "the payment of the $44,000 was due on Jan. 23, and it did not come when due." He further explained that a letter was written to Controller Craig, Jan. 29, inquiring about the delay, but he received no answer. When he believed the matter of influence through Kleist on the Controller's office "effective," Pierre Dwyer said, he went and saw Kerrigan.

"That very day," Feb. 6, 1924," the witness continued, "we gave the contract for 'nalecode' with the Kleist firm, and three days later $41,534.67 of the back pay due on the Public School 64 contract came in from the Controller's office, and the remaining amount of more than $2,000 came soon afterward."

"I'll have Kerrigan come here any time he wants to explain why he is so much interested 'in Mr. Dwyer using 'nalecode,'" Commissioner Hirshfield declared. "I'll also ask him why he did not examine Mr. Dwyer. The letter of Mr. Dwyer to Controller Craig, which was unanswered, put it up to the Controller as well. Mr. Dwyer is not the only one we are going to have testify here, and he is not the only builder whose payments have been held up."

Woman Hurt in B. M. T. Crowd.

Miss Sarah Marx, 40 years old, an interior decorator, of 171 Albany Avenue, Brooklyn, received lacerations of the scalp and severe bruises when she was thrown to the concrete platform by a crowd changing trains at the B. M. T. station at Fourteenth Street yesterday morning. She was picked up unconscious by a station guard and taken to Bellevue Hospital.

BUCKNER TO IGNORE PETTY OFFENDERS

of not attempting to enforce the laws which he had sworn to enforce but that his policy must be one of law enforcement.

"He can," he said, "have a policy of method of enforcement, of dividing his efforts between all of the laws equally entitled to enforcement; he can have a policy of using his own time and that of his assistants and of the Federal Judges to the best possible advantage; but in the end his policy must be to accomplish the greatest possible results under all the difficult circumstances surrounding."

He said that he had steadily refused to state whether he personally believed in the prohibition law in his district, because his personal viewpoint had nothing to do with the fact that it was his duty to enforce all the laws within his jurisdiction. He continued:

"Speaking for myself; I also think that my oath of office requires me to exercise what I regard the best common sense of which I am capable in order to make my efforts the most effective. I find that it is physically impossible, because of lack of assistants, lack of clerks, lack of Judges and lack of court rooms, to prosecute petty offenders against the Prohibition law, who have been arrested by the thousands in New York during the past few years."

Concerning his idea that it was not necessary for prohibition agents to make arrests whenever they saw the law violated, he said he had been asked how he could conscientiously make such a suggestion, and he explained it this way:

"I have been told that this is requesting them to violate their oath of office. This is pure nonsense. A man who uses common sense and directs his energies to getting important violaters of the law instead of unimportant violaters of the law is obeying his oath of office and not violating it.

Less Time, With More Results.

"I find nothing in the Prohibition law which provides that all other Federal laws shall be repealed, and yet to attempt to handle the petty cases which have been brought into the United States Attorney's office during the past few years with anything like vigorous and effective action would result in neglecting the other Federal laws which were on the statute books before the Prohibition law was passed. I want to give the Prohibition law all the time and attention, both of my office and of the Federal Judges, to which it will entitled and no more. My policy will greatly reduce the time devoted to prohibition and yet, I hope, will increase by 1,000 per cent. the effectiveness of what we actually do."

Mr. Buckner was the guest at dinner in the Montauk Club of Justice Callahan of the Supreme Court.

CALLS RUM PATROL A WASTE

Anti-Prohibition Body Says Millions Go to Stop 1 Per Cent. of Flow.

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP).—The rum blockade is described in a statement published today by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment as "throwing away" of millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money "to stop less than 1 per cent. of the flow of liquor in the United States."

"Figures compiled by Dr. Rufus Stucker, special agent of the Department of Commerce, at the direction of the department, show that imported liquors to the value of $40,000,000 were smuggled into this country in 1924," said the statement. "He estimates that this value will be reduced by $10,000,000 this year.

"Prohibition officials, basing their estimate on the report of William V. Linder, chemist of the prohibition unit, declare that the amount of illicit imported liquor in the country is less than 1 per cent. of the total illicit booze supply.

"The recent much advertised rum blockade, resulting in the concentration of nearly 400 ships in a given area, convinced one that the dry officials are paying much more attention to the 1 per cent. liquor source than the internal source which supplies 99 per cent. of the nation's thirsty."

THAW DENIES STORIES OF NIGHT CLUB LIFE

Says Tales of Gifts to Dancers Are Ridiculous—Leaving the City Today.

Harry K. Thaw, who is on an extended visit to New York, declared yesterday that reports of his attentions to various supper club dancers and lavish gifts to them were untrue.

He told his lawyer, Bartholomew B. Coyne of 2 Rector Street, with whom he has been consulting on legal affairs since his arrival last Sunday, that "the stories were too ridiculous for him to answer in any way."

It was reported that Fawn Gray, dancer at a cabaret in Lynbrook, L. I., received from Thaw a diamond bracelet valued at about $5,000, and a pedigreed chow dog. Miss Gray formerly was a student at Erasmus Hall High School and lives with her parents at 168 East Twenty-ninth Street, Brooklyn. Her father said yesterday that the report of the gifts from Thaw to his daughter was all news to him and his family, as they had not seen any such presents.

Mr. Coyne characterized the stories as "just a case of persons taking advantage of Thaw's presence to press-agent themselves."

Thaw is staying at the Hotel Roosevelt, and plans to leave for Pittsburgh today. His main purpose in coming here, it was said in his behalf, was to consult with his lawyer, who was instrumental in obtaining his discharge from a sanitarium in Philadelphia last year.

O. T. Waring Estate $1,832,181.59.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., May 27.—The inventory of the estate left by Orville T. Waring, Vice President of the Standard Oil Company of New York, who died at his home in Plainfield on May 18, 1923, was filed in the Union County Surrogate's office here today. His personal estate amounted to $1,832,181.59. Of this $1,755,254.90 consisted of stocks, bonds and securities. The inventory was filed by his two sons, Orville G. and Lewis E., both of Plainfield.

DIVORCES GIUSEPPE DANISE.

Singer's Wife Gets $20,000 Settlement in Lieu of Alimony.

Mrs. Raffaela Z. Danise of 115 Nostrand Avenue, Brooklyn, wife of Giuseppi Danise, a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company, obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce from Supreme Court Justice John MacCrate in Brooklyn yesterday. The decree carries with it in lieu of alimony a complete financial settlement of $20,000 to Mrs. Danise.

Danise offered no defense. His chauffeur, Salvatore Dentale, who was subpoenaed as a witness, testified that a woman he had known as "Mrs. Danise" in the apartment of the singer at 285 Central Park West, Manhattan, was not the Mrs. Danise who was in court.

It was said that Mrs. Danise, who lived at Pazzuoli, Naples, while her husband filled his singing engagements, came here to institute the suit against him. They were married in 1905, and have two daughters, aged 17 and 18, both of whom remain with their mother.

FIXED WHEAT PRICES SAVED OUR FARMERS

Grain Corporation Expert Shows It Kept Market Steady and High, Even After War.

ALLIES FORCED TO SUBMIT

Whole Story of Wilson-Hoover Stabilization Effort and Its Results Are Told.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The fact that the price of wheat was fixed during the war to prevent the collapse of the farmers, and saved them millions of dollaar, is revealed for the first time in a report covering the activities of the United States Grain Corporation by Dr. Frank M. Surface, an economist of the Grain Administration.

The report was prepared at the request of several members of the committee appointed by President Wilson to determine a fair price because of the "persistent misrepresentation" that the price fixed was not in the best interests of the farmers. It is pointed out that, while Mr. Wilson acted at the instigation of Herbert Hoover, Mr. Hoover had no actual part in the fixing of the price.

The report states that in the Spring of 1917 the Allies, by bidding against one another, had forced the price of wheat from $1.50 to more than $3 a bushel. In order to abolish this competition between themselves, it is said, the allied Govments, before we came into the war, had consolidated their purchasing of world wheat into one buying agency. Through the control of world shipping and the blockade against the enemy, this agency, it is declared, was the sole buyer of export wheat.

"The domestic price of wheat to the American farmer was fixed by the price which could be realized for the export surplus," says a summary of the report, "as export buying was all in one hand, the operation of the law of supply and demand had been abolished and the price of wheat to the American farmer, therefore, would be determined by the price which this buying agency determined to pay. Price fixing for American wheat was thus already under way in foreign hands. Congress had provided a minimum price of only $2 per bushel for the 1918 crop, and it had made no provision for the 1917 crop then being harvested.

Allies Had Fixed Price.

"The Allied Governments had fixed prices of wheat in their own countries at about $1.80 per bushel, and in order to lay down American wheat to their people at this price they considered that they should pay the American farmer about $1.50 per bushel at Chicago for the 1917 crop. In support of this contention their agents felt that any higher price to the American farmer would require an increase in the price of bread in the allied countries; that the American farmer had realized only about $1.30 per bushel for his previous year's wheat, despite the $3 corner on the Chicago market, which occurred after nearly 95 per cent. of the wheat had left the farms. They also pointed out that they could purchase abundant supplies of wheat in Argentina and Australia at $1.50 per bushel or less, and that the only reason they were prevented from availing themselves of such cheaper supplies from these more distant markets was because of the demand of the American Government for the use of their shipping for transporting our troops and supplies.

"In the face of this situation, it was clear that unless action should be taken the American farmer would receive $1.50 per bushel for his wheat, and the price was already falling rapidly toward that level. To prevent this, Mr. Hoover took the matter up with President Wilson.

"'In order to do justice to the producers who have shown great patriotism in special effort to increase production,' Mr. Hoover wrote the President in July, 1917, 'it is absolutely vital that we shall protect the farmer from a slump in price this year due to glut or from the uncontrolled decisions of any one buyer.'

"Acting on this recommendation, President Wilson appointed an independent committee which comprised six farm representatives, two consumers' representatives, three economists and business men. This committee determined on $2.20 at Chicago as a fair price.

Dr. Surface in his report states that it is obvious that had it not been for this decision by the committee the American farmer would have received far less for his wheat than was the case. The report shows that Mr. Hoover, then Food Administrator, took no part in the committee's determinations, thus disposing of the myth that Mr. Hoover fixed the price.

Shows the Farmer Fared Well.

Dr. Surface has examined the justice of the committee's award, showing statistically that the price realized for wheat during the period of Government marketing was higher than the relative prices of other farm produce where there was a free market, and also that the minimum price of wheat was fixed by this committee at a higher relative level than the prices fixed by the Government for steel, copper and other commodities.

It appears from the report that the maintenance of the minimum price was accompanied by a great many hitherto undisclosed difficulties. At one time the Food Administration Grain Corporation was compelled to invest nearly $600,000,000 to maintain the price. Nearly $400,000,000 of this had to be borrowed from banks and elsewhere. It is also pointed out that the price of wheat was maintained by the Government for a year after the armistice to enable the farmer to liquidate his war production. Dr. Surface declares that the war action of the Government obviously had no responsibility for the great fall in the price of wheat which occurred two years after the armistice as a part of the general world-wide slump in the prices of all commodities.

Dr. Surface also clears up the "misrepresentation" that the price determined by the committee was a maximum price. He states that the result of the committee's decision was not only protection for the 1917 harvest but in reality was a revision of the Congressional minimum from $2 to $2.20 for 1918 wheat.

In a foreword to the report, Mr. Hoover notes that the economic fact must not be neglected that any minimum price automatically tends to become the actual price during the period of surplus marketing in the Fall, and that the subsequent reselling of the accumulated surplus at the same price automatically makes it the actual price during the period of distribution, but that nevertheless the price, after these periods of support, rose above the minimum each year without restraint, except for a short period in the Spring of 1918 when, after the farmer had disposed of his crop, measures were introduced to prevent profiteering in flour and bread.

Dr. Surface also declares that by the elimination of war speculation the retail price of flour was reduced to the consumer from $18 to $13 a barrel, while the farmer received much more for his wheat than in the speculative period.

MARY NEWCOMB INSOLVENT.

Actress in Bankruptcy Petition Says She Owes $1,805.

Mary Newcomb Edeson, an actress at present starring in "The Night Hawk," filed a petition in bankruptcy in the Federal Court yesterday. She listed her liabilities at $1,805 and her assets at about $300.

The petition states that she owes Henri Bendel of New York and Paris $1,000; the "Unique" of Los Angeles, $232; the United States Government for taxes, $300; Dr. Francis Murray, $20 and several other creditors various small amounts which she said she was unable to pay. Miss Newcomb gave her address as 50 West Fifty-fifth Street.

DR. STIRES WEIGHS COADJUTOR OFFER

Praises St. Thomas's Rector—Convention Names Delegates to New Orleans Meeting.

The Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, rector of St. Thomas's Church, will not make known his decision on the acceptance or refusal of the Bishop Coadjutorship of Long Island, to which he was elected Tuesday night until after he returns from his Summer home at Bolton Landing, N. Y., on Saturday. This was learned yesterday when Dr. Stires gave word to the committee named to inform him of his election, that he would not come to the city until the end of the week.

The general impression among the delegates to the Fifty-ninth annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Long Island which held closing sessions in the Cathedral of the Incarnation in Garden City yesterday, was that Dr. Stires would accept the place. The delegates saw in an exchange of telegrams between Bishop Frederick Burgess, whose illness necessitated the appointment of an assistant, and Dr. Stires, a hint of acceptance by the rector of St. Thomas's.

Has Refused Many Offers.

Dr. Stires has repeatedly refused offers to leave St. Thomas's to take important posts in broader fields of church work and when informed of his election as Bishop Coadjutor said that he would have to weigh the situation carefully before giving his decision. He will probably consult with Bishop Manning and Bishop Burgess soon after his arrival in the city and then make the announcement of his position.

The telegram sent by Bishop Burgess to Dr. Stires was read at the morning session of the convention by The Rev. Dr. James Clarence Jones, the Chairman. It said "I am delighted at your election and shall be glad to see and talk with you as soon as you can come." Dr. Stires answered as follows: "Most gratified for your assurance. Coming to see you soon."

Dr. Jones also read a letter from Bishop Burgess to the delegates in which the Bishop said that it was with great gratitude to God that he could inform them of the satisfaction he felt at their election of Dr. Stires, whom he praised highly.

The chief business of the convention yesterday was the election of four clergymen delegates and four lay delegates to the triennial Episcopal General Convention at New Orleans next October.

Oppose Women Delegates.

Twenty-four clergymen and fourteen laymen were nominated and the following were elected: Clergy, the Rev. Dr. James Clarence Jones, Rector of St. Mary's Church, Brooklyn; the Rev. Dr. Robert Rogers, Rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Brooklyn; the Rev. Dr. Roy F. Duffield, Archdeacon of Queens and Nassau, and the Rev. Dr. Frank W. Creighton, Rector of St. Ann's Church, Brooklyn. Laymen, William J. Kelly of Locust Valley, William M. Baldwin of Garden City, Raymond S. Barnes of Garden City and Origen S. Seymour of Far Rockaway.

A resolution to permit one of the three lay delegates from each parish to future diocesan conventions to be a woman was defeated by a large vote. The resolution was introduced by the Rev. Dr. J. Howard Melliah, Rector of the Holy Trinity Church of Brooklyn. There was some spirited debate on the question. Dr. Jones, the Chairman, was among those who opposed the resolution.

FOSDICK ANSWER IS READY.

Clergyman to Send It to Park Avenue Church Before Saturday.

The answer of the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick to the invitation of the Park Avenue Baptist Church to become its pastor may be made public today. Dr. Fosrick said yesterday the answer had been prepared but not yet sent to the church. He said it would be before Saturday.

The terms upon which Dr. Fosdick would accept the pastorate have already been submitted to the congregation and were voted upon favorably. Dr. Fosdick would not comment yesterday upon the purchase of the block front on Morningside Drive between 117th and 118th Street by John D. Rockefeller Jr. It has not been denied that the site may be used for a new church and office building combined, the erection of which "near Columbia University" was one of Dr. Fosdick's terms of acceptance.

dates for the ministry to affirm belief in the Virgin birth requires a two-thirds vote of the Presbyteries. Efforts may be made at next year's Assembly to make such amendment to the Confession. If this change is made, the Presbytery of New York will be faced with the alternative of accepting the decree or withdrawing from the Church.

There was some talk today of the possibility that the Presbytery of New York, which licensed Mr. Van Dusen, might institute a "friendly" heresy trial because the Supreme Judicial Commission ruled that the Presbytery erred in licensing him. In that case the Presbytery, dominated by the Liberals, undoubtedly would find him not guilty. An appeal would be taken to the Synod of New York, which probably would sustain the Presbytery.

The case then would be carried to the General Assembly and the Church, which still regrets the Briggs heresy trial, would be faced with the dilemma of branding as a heretic a man who failed to affirm belief in the Virgin birth, or of siding with the Liberals. Support of the former viewpoint, it was said by Liberals, would "make the Church ridiculous."

Soon after the opening of the final session of the Assembly today Moderator Erdman announced that he had erred yesterday in excluding the protest against the action of the Supreme Judicial Commission proposed by the Rev. Joel B. Hayden of Cleveland. He said no protest from the Presbytery or Synod of New York was in order because they were on trial.

Dissenters Enter Protest.

Thereupon Dr. Charles D. Swarts of the First Presbyterian Church of Chicago, delegated by Dr. Hayden to take up the case, read a formal protest, which was received by the Assembly. This protest, or dissenting opinion, signed by Commissioners who voted yesterday against sustaining the Judicial Commission, was as follows:

"The undersigned Commissioners to the 137th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America do hereby respectfully protest, as provided in Chapter X of the Book of Discipline, against the decision of the General Assembly upon the complaint of Albert D. Gantz against the Synod of New York, deeming the said decision to be erroneous for the following reasons:

"1. It violates Chapter XXXI, Section IV, of the confession of faith, which provides:

"'All synods and councils since the Apostles' time may err, and many have erred, therefore they are not to be made the rule of faith or practice but may be used as a help in both.'

"2. It violates the historic policy of our church, established in 1729, and faithfully adhered to for 196 years until now, that each presbytery shall judge for itself as to the satisfactory examination of candidates, which policy has made possible that liberty of belief which makes the Presbyterian Church an inclusive church instead of a narrow sect.

"3. It requires absolute conformity to the doctrinal belief of a general assembly in violation of Chapter XX., Section II., of the confession of faith, which states:

"'The requiring of an implicit faith and an absolute and blind obedience is to destroy liberty of conscience and reason also.'

"4. By requiring such absolute conformity it restores those Roman Catholic theories of ecclesiastical authority which it was the very purpose of Presbyterian Protestantism to overthrow.

Says It Unlawfully Adds to Vows.

"5. It does, in effect, add to our constitutional ordination vows further requirement which cannot lawfully be done without vote of the presbyteries.

"6. It violates the spirit of the act of reunion of old school and new school in 1870.

"7. It violates the basis of reunion with the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, viz., the declaratory statement of 1903, which was constitutionally adopted by vote of the presbyteries.

"8. The examination of the candidate, Van Dusen, and particularly his written papers, showed his wholehearted belief in the deity of our Lord. In his paper he stated, among other things:

"'I acknowledge Jesus Christ as my Lord, my Master and my Saviour, and I affirm absolutely and unqualifiedly my belief in His divinity. I acknowledge that He was truly human, but I believe it to be far more significant that He was divine. And in a day of theological controversy I affirm that now, as through all Christian history, it is Christ's divinity which is chiefly important, and any effort to describe the difference between Him and ordinary humanity as merely one of degree must be utterly inadequate.'

"We respectfully submit that these views are not heretical nor uncertain, and that the candidate would have been admitted (and rightly admitted) in almost any presbytery in our church.

Many Signatures Obtained.

The same protest also was circulated among the Commissioners, in order that those who did not vote against the Judicial Commission's report might append their names to an identical document. This paper, also to be presented to the Commission of Fifteen, will be unofficial, but will include a long list of names of prominent Presbyterian liberals in all parts of the country.

In a short time today approximately 125 names were signed to the protest, and it is expected that by the time it is turned over to the commission it will bear the names of 300 or 400 of the best-known liberals of the Church. Such signatures, it is expected, will carry weight with the Commission of Fifteen and will be an indication as to how wide the split in the Church will be if the commission is unsuccessful in its mission.

It is pointed out that in order to maintain their victory the extreme Fundamentalists must now institute heresy trials or move to exscind rebellious Presbyteries. They must prepare for all eventualities, including a fight in the civil courts for Church property involving hundreds of millions of dollars, and they must maintain the upper hand by winning additional victories in future General Assemblies.

The attitude of the extreme Fundamentalists was announced today in the following statement by Dr. Macartney:

"We earnestly hope that the Presbytery of New York will obey the order of the General Assembly and cease to license men who refuse to affirm the essential doctrines of the Confession of Faith.

"I believe that wiser counsel will prerscago; Robert E. Reed, Iowa City; fest by the extraordinary and seemingly defiant actions of some of the New York Commissioners.

"Should the Presbytery of New York continue in its unusual course and defy the highest court of the Church, then the law and authority of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America will be upheld. Presbyterians have never been known as men who were intimidated by threats and who have not sufficient courage to vindicate the honor of their government.

"Open defiance of the General Assembly could have no other issue than the dissolution of the Presbytery of New York."

Liberals who were asked to comment on Dr. Macartney's statement declined on the ground that it was "calculated to be provocatory."

Sees Break Averted for a Year.

"A definite break in the Church has been averted for at least another year," Dr. Coffin declared in summarizing the position of the Presbytery of New York. "We must look upon the Committee of Fifteen hopefully. They may well propose that the matter in question be sent down to the presbyteries. In that case the presbyteries would vote with their eyes open, conscious that if they approve the doctrine it would mean a break in the church. The great majority in the Church do not want a break.

"The reason we made the statement yesterday that he would maintain our constitutional rights was that we were one of the parties involved in a case, hence could not vote. Our statement was the only way we had of making our position known.

"Some said we were poor losers, but our difficulty was that we hated to leave the assembly in silence. We wanted to state our position, and if it ever comes up in civil court that would be the basis of our case. I hope it never comes to that."

Among the final acts of the General Assembly was the approval of a communication from Mary Baldwin College, which is planning the erection of a birthplace memorial to Woodrow Wilson in Staunton, Va. The communication was read by Elder William Bryan, who delivered a eulogy on the life of Wilson.

Mission Contributions Set New Mark.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 27 (AP).—The annual report of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, presented today to the Presbyterian General Assembly, declares the work to be more encouraging that ever before and the contributions more than in any previous year in the history of the Church except one, when a large deficit was raised.

The total contributions for the year were $4,430,028.74. This includes $2,-189,306.57 from churches, $1,357,438.90 from women's and young people's societies, $176,743.11 from Sunday schools, $393,032.48 from individuals and $311,-607.68 from legacies. The net income from securities and cash deposits was $183,908.62. Other credits, including foreign exchange, receipts and savings on the mission fields, &c., brought the total credits up to $4,670,299.13. After paying $28,697.89, the balance of the deficit left over from the previous year, there was $6,641,601.29 available for the work of the missions and for administration and promotion purposes.

MISSIONARIES NOW ACCUSED

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 27 (AP).—Charges that modernism had cropped out among Presbyterian missionaries in foreign fields were made in the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, United States, today.

The Assembly instructed the Executive Committee on Foreign Missions to investigate all charges of unorthodoxy in the mission fields and report to the proper Church court for action.

The discussion arose during consideration of the report on the Committee on Foreign Missions. An overture from the Presbytery of Dallas, Texas, charged that "the conviction is widespread through our church that there is an entirely too willing tolerance with modernism which has invaded our missionary forces."

AMERICAN PROPOSAL HALTS ARMS PARLEY

OPPOSING NATIONS ACTIVE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, May 27.—The effort of the United States delegation to have Brazil included among the States whose ratification is essential to the operation of the convention on the traffic in arms has created one of the most serious situations in the conference and it can only be settled by a general committee to which the matter has been referred by the Military Commission.

It is provided in the draft of the convention that entry into force of the convention depends on the ratification by twelve countries, including the six great producing nations, the United States, Britain, France, Japan, Italy and Belgium.

Theodore E. Burton, American chairman, announced recently in general committee that he thought the Latin-American bloc, though comprised wholly of nonproducers, should, in view of their size and the interests at stake, have one country among the essential ratifying powers. When this proposal was advanced to the Military Commission several nations who are opposed to the convention controlling traffic in arms immediately seized the opportunity to try and increase the list of necessary ratifying States to the extent that practically effects prevention of entry into force of the convention.

As soon as Brazil was mentioned, France suggested Chile and Argentina. Italy followed with Turkey but opposed Argentina, Czechoslovakia, Sweden and Norway were then mentioned and Japan suggested that twenty nations be named.

It may easily be seen that as the number of definitely specified States is increased the possibility of entry into force of the convention was decreased, as there are always several nations which sign international agreements and then refuse to ratify them. At the same time the various nonproducing nations who are mentioned have been flattered by their potential self-importance and will not readily surrender the idea of playing a new rôle.

There were free expressions of censure among delegations for the unpolitic gesture of the American delegation.

It is no secret that if all the producing nations ratify the convention and it then goes into force, the nonproducing nations who are opposed to it can whistle, as they will be caught between the clauses of the convention and their purchases controlled. The nonproducing nations have shown no great enthusiasm for the convention.

There is now a move afoot on the part of nations interested in the convention to make its operation dependent on the ratification of six producing nations, plus any other three nations. Even this compromise, if accepted, would greatly delay the date of entry into force of the convention.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE JOIN IN BERLIN NOTE

List of Arms Defaults Is Agreed Upon and Will Be Dispatched Next Week.

DAWES PLAN DECLARED MET

LONDON, May 27 (AP).—Germany's defaults relative to disarmament as specified by the Treaty of Versailles have been outlined for presentation to Berlin in a note that probably will be dispatched next week by the Council of Ambassadors.

The note and a covering letter which have been agreed upon by France and Great Britain will point out that in view of the fact that the Allied Committee of Control has concluded that Germany has not fulfilled all of her disarmament obligations the allied experts have agreed upon a list of defaults which will be described in very plain language.

This will be done so that there will be no chance of further misunderstanding in Berlin regarding what Germany yet has to accomplish before the evacuation of the Cologne area is considered.

On the whole, France considers Germany has fulfilled her obligations in the destruction of armaments, say French authorities here, but there are still thirty or forty factories for war materials which yet are to be transfromed into commercial establishments. These include the Krupp Works and those at Spandau, which the French believe still capable of being quickly changed into plants for turning out great quantities of war munitions.

Objection also has been raised to the large German war staff, the State police, and regarding a number of other points of secondary importance. French opinion regarding these questions, as expressed here, is that what yet remains to be done by Germany may be effected by the end of September if the Berlin Government displays the proper spirit.

If the note is successful and its recommendations are carried out it is considered probable that the British will withdraw from Cologne soon after September.

It is reported that at its meeting in Paris on Friday the Reparation Commission will formally signify that Germany has carried out her financial obligation under the Dawes plan.

What bearing the statement of the Reparation Commission will have on the evacuation of the Cologne area is uncertain, but it is stated authoritatively that evacuation is unlikely until Germany has carried out both her financial obligations and those regarding disarmament.

It is probable that the Council of Ambassadors will meet Saturday to consider the Reparation Commission's report, and the note to Germany would then be dispatched next week.

LEAGUE WELFARE BODY ADOPTS AMERICAN PLAN

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, May 27. — The Advisory Committee on Traffic in Women and the Protection of Children adjourned today after adopting for recommendation to the Council of the League of Nations an almost wholly American program.

Complying with suggestions of Miss Grace Abbott of the Children's Bureau, Department of Labor, Washington, the committee decided to change its name to "Advisory Commission for the Protection and Welfare of Children and Young Persons" and to be divided into two sections. The first will be called the "Traffic in Women and Children Committee" and the second the "Child Welfare Committee."

Delegates of Governments named by the Council of the League will sit with both sections, while to the first section will be attached assessors nominated in connection with the traffic in women and children, and to the second assessors nominated in connection with child welfare.

Both committees normally will be summoned to meet at the same period of the year, one meeting following immediately after the other.

The program presented by Miss Abbott and adopted almost in entirety provides principally for generalization rather than specialization of efforts and consideration of all phases of welfare of all children rather than the welfare of unfortunates. It also calls for the study of children's law and their enforcement in various countries.

Miss Abbott, in presenting the program, stated she was rather reluctant to suggest so much when for obvious reasons her Government was not contributing to the budget of the League of Nations. She said, however, there was much interest in the United States in child welfare efforts and it was not unlikely that some of the numerous philanthropic associations interested in this work would contribute toward the expenses.

At present the commission is receiving from the League budget 50,000 Swiss francs yearly in addition to secretarial expenses.

GENEVA, May 27.—Although Great Britain, in killing the protocol, has to a certain extent repudiated the arbitrary powers of the League of Nations, she finds enough value in the League as an international cooperative organization to warrant the payment of $1,578 daily toward its upkeep.

For the year 1925 Great Britain is assessed $411,000, which is the equivalent approximately of $1,400 daily for the 300 working days of the year. The 1926 budget shows an increased assessment of $48,000, or approximtaely $178 more per day for each working day. This increase has been accepted.

BUCHAREST, May 27.—Codreanu, the student tried for the murder of the Chief of Police at Jassy, was acquitted last night when a jury at Turnu Severn returned a verdict of not guilty. The Chief of Police was shot on Oct. 27 by Codreanu as a protest against bad treatment alleged to have been inflicted on students arrested for anti-Jewish agitation.

The acquittal was celebrated by a great students' manifestation in Bucharest. Military patrols were called out to keep order. Similar manifestations were reported in other provinces.

SECRET GERMAN ARMY CHARGED BY RED PAPER

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 27.—Yesterday's Reichstag discussion of the proposed budget for the German army elicits today an attack from the Communists. The Communist organ "Weltam Abend" publishes this afternoon a virulent article, directly hinting the Army expenditures are not what they seem, but really are wanted partly to finance a "Black Reichswehr," or military organizations secretly fostered by the German army authorities.

This Communist organ is furious and attacks the demand of the Army chiefs for a budget aggregating 560,000,000 gold marks ($140,000,000). It points out that one soldier now costs Germany five times as much as under the Empire, which is far too much, it says, even considering increased post-war costs. Whereas the old Army got along with 40,000 horses for 800,000 men, continues the "Weltam Abend," the present Army of 100,000 men needs 40,000 horses.

Another point cited by the Communist critic is that the Imperial Army demanded 81,000,000 marks annually for artillery peace-time manoeuvres and the requisite ammunition, whereas now 75,000,000 marks are demanded, or nearly the same amount then deemed necessary by the Imperial German Army eight times as large.

Another budget item criticized is the big sum for fortresses, despite the fact that most of these were razed by order of the Entente. Exception is also taken to the more than 1,000,000 marks set aside for special expenditures by War Minister Gessler and General Von Seeckt, the German Army commander. An item of 2,000,000 marks yearly for "carrier pigeons and dogs" likewise arouses the Communist wrath.

In concluding its article the Weltam Abend openly dares the Government to proceed against it for high treason, declaring that the constitutional provisions regarding treason cannot indefinitely hide what really is going on in German Army circles.

Of course, such accusations, coming from the Communists, must be taken with a large grain of salt. However, not only the Communists have been aroused by the big appropriations requested in the Reichstag yesterday for German military and naval expenditures. The Socialists also grew restive. They objected especially to the amount of the salary asked for War Minister Gessler.

WON'T TREAT WITH REDS.

Chamberlain Tells Commons Government Has No Idea of Parley.

LONDON, May 27 (AP).—Foreign Minister Chamberlain, answering questions today in the House of Commons, declared the British Government had no intention of resuming negotiations with Soviet Russia.

Mr. Chamberlain said:

"I should, of course, consider any proposals made to me, but I have no intention of initiating them."

Under the Premiership of Ramsay MacDonald the Labor Government of Great Britain extended diplomatic recognition to the Soviet Government of Russia. Later a Russian delegation representing the Moscow Government came to London to discuss all outstanding questions between Great Britain and Russia.

These negotiations ended without agreement when the MacDonald Government fell. The publication of the so-called Zinovieff letter, the authenticity of which was denied by Russia, contributed to the termination.

SOFIA, May 27.—It is reported that ten persons have been killed and twenty injured in the wrecking of a passenger train on the Kustendil line, near Gorna Banya, outside of Sofia.

Few details have been received, but a switchman apparently was guilty of a mistake which derailed the train.

It is impossible to say as yet whether any political significance should be attached to the accident. The switchman has been arrested.

F. W. STEARNS TELLS OF INDUSTRY ABROAD

W. A. HARRIMAN RETURNS

Sees Hindenburg's Election as Forerunner of Commercial Improvement on the Continent.

Frank W. Stearns, Boston merchant and close friend of President Coolidge, returned yesterday with Mrs. Stearns on the White Star liner Olympic from a two months' tour through France and Italy. The merchant said he went abroad for change and rest and got both. When asked for his opinion about conditions in Europe, Mr. Stearns replied that the people in Italy were working from dawn till dusk and he had observed a good deal of industry among working men abroad. It was his third voyage to the other side of the Atlantic, he added, spread over a great many years.

When informed by the reporters it had been rumored from Washington that President Coolidge would make his Summer residence at Swampscott, Mr. Stearns said: "I had heard the same rumors before I left but nothing had been settled."

"Will the President occupy your house?" He was asked.

"No. My house is a cottage. It would not begin to hold the Summer Capitol. The President will undoubtedly use the house next door to my bungalow, as it is very large and has conveniences for entertaining guests."

Another passenger on the Olympic was William Averell Harriman, Chairman of the United American Lines, who was accompanied by his two daughters, Miss Mary and Miss Kathleen Harriman.

Mr. Harriman made a tour of the principal Channel ports in England, France and Germany and said the shipping situation has not changed. He looked forward to increased freight business in Germany, but it had not set in, Mr. Harriman said. He added that the factories in Germany were running continuously and a good deal of the manufactured articles were being stored in warehouses to maintain employment for workmen. Production per man had shown a marked increase during the past twelve months, he said.

Speaking of the Presidential election in Germany, Mr. Harriman said that instead of meaning a return to militarism, the election of Hindenburg was really a return to conservatism and, in his opinion, would result in an industrial improvement not only in that country but throughout Central Europe.

Americans returning on the Olympic from London said that the latest fashion in evening dress shirts for men is the new cow-heel shirt cuff, which has rounded corners and is so narrow that it has to be fastened with links after it is on. The shirts are worn with two studs, and the dress waistcoats are single-breasted with four buttons at the waist. Apart from this alteration in the evening apparel of modish men, all is well in London, the passengers said.

M'ADOO SAYS PISTOLS ARE CURSE TO NATION

Revolvers, narcotics and automobiles were named by Chief City Magistrate William McAdoo to a delegation of Chicago prison officials at a luncheon at Welfare Island yesterday as the greatest contributors to crime.

The pistol, he declared, was the most pernicious of the three, and "the curse of the American nation." He said there were more people carrying pistols in the United States than in all Europe, Asia and Africa.

"The time will soon come," he continued, "when the bride, stepping up to the altar, will have the family revolver strapped to her side. Pistols are becoming as common in this country as leadpencils."

Magistrate McAdoo, who was sponsor of a bill which would practically legislate pistols out of existence by imposing a tax of $100 on each one sold and a tax of $1 on each cartridge sold, declared that the daily murders reported in New York could be practically averted if pistols could be placed beyond the reach of people.

The Chicago party is inspecting prisons in the East to get ideas for a new city prison in Chicago to cost $2,500,000.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 27.—The greatest cause of crime in this country is the selling and carrying of pistols, according to General E. O'Duffy, Commissioner of the Civic Guards of Dublin, who is in this city with delegates from the recent international police conference in New York. The party will return to New York tomorrow. General O'Duffy said that in the Irish Free State no revolvers were sold and that the penalty for carrying one was from two to seven years in jail.

APPEALS IN CHEMICAL SUIT.

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP).—The Government filed in the Supreme Court today an appeal in its suit to recover German patents from the Chemical Foundation.

The Government lost in both the District Court of Delaware and in the Circuit Court of Appeals.

Certain persons and corporations engaged in the dye and chemical industry, the Government charged in its bill, conspired to acquire a great number of American patents, copyrights and trade marks owned by Germans and thereby obtain a monopoly of the dye industry in the United States. The conspiracy, it alleged, also was entered into by officers and agents of the Government, and in pursuance of the scheme, it added, the Alien Property Custodian during the war seized approximately 4,500 such patents, copyrights and trade marks. He sold them, the bill stated, at private sale to the Chemical Foundation, a corporation of which he was alleged to be an officer and the stock of which was held by persons and concerns accused of having taken part in planning the seizure and sale.

MUST ENDURE FACTORY DIN.

Residents in Vicinity of Steel Plant Lose Court Action.

In a decision handed down yesterday, Vice Chancellor John H. Backes, in the Court of Chancery in Newark ruled that where "industrial works are * * * conspicuously carried on * * * noise, characteristic of such enterprises, must be endured by those who, by choice or by necessity, live in the vicinity."

The decision brought to an end an injunction action started previous to the World War by a number of residents of Irvington, N. J., headed by Emil Hauser, against Krauter & Co., Inc., steel manufacturers. The action to restrain the steel plant from operating in its present locality was dropped during the war on account of the necessity of keeping all steel plants in full swing, but was taken up again recently.

MUSSOLINI'S VISIT MYSTIFIES ITALIANS

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, May 27.—Premier Mussolini's visit to d'Annunzio's villa at Gardone is rapidly degenerating into a farce if press accounts, based on no news from Gardone are to be believed. As there is nobody present to witness or report the doings of the two Italian notables, the "reports" of activities vary.

According to the papers, the pastimes of the two include among many other things, long conversations in the inviolable privacy of a gun-turret of a warship which is being erected in d'Annunzio's garden; listening to Gregorian chants rendered by a choir especially provided from Venice for this purpose; the lighting of "fires of remembrance" on rocks from Italy's mountain battlefields; eating with curious Franciscan rites in monkish seclusion around a refectory table with Mussolini sitting in a prior's chair; the receiving of deputations of war veterans in the penumbra of a room lighted only by a few candles in an atmosphere heavily impregnated with incense and with d'Annunzio and Mussolini seated in ancient choir stalls and the making of trips on the lake dressed in curious clothes in a submarine chaser laden with all sorts of lethal weapons.

Fortunately, perhaps, Mussolini's visit to d'Annunzio ends this evening.

The two sent a telegram to the King which furnishes no clue to what they have been doing in the last three days.

Every one is still at sea concerning the meaning of all this stage setting and the reconciliation of d'Annunzio and Mussolini under such strange circumstances. The most popular theory is that they are to make some dramatic appeal for pacification and brotherhood of all Italians. This theory, seemingly, is borne out by the words of d'Annunzio, supposed to have been addressed to a deputation of war veterans:

"What does this meeting mean? What language does it speak to you and all Italians? It means an appeal for concord, addressed to all those who bore arms for their country. It speaks the language of peace to all Italians who suffered in the long war. We must again find the luminary symbol of love and make it the loadstar of our destiny. We must always remember the sacrifices we all sustained, not forgetting for a single moment the brotherhood of blood which united all soldiers in the trenches. To disarm among men of the same blood means to arm against an external enemy. Go you and bear your brothers the memory of this visit as the best omen of peace and prosperity."

Another popular theory is that the Premier went to Gardone to induce d'Annunzio to participate in the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the King's reign. This also seems probable in view of a statement d'Annunzio is supposed to have made to a representative of a Milanese paper. According to this report, he said:

"Whatever may be said to the contrary, I am a fervent, loyal monarchist and shall prove it by making a personal manifestation on the King's jubilee, which will leave no doubts on the subject."

ITALY WANTS MORATORIUM.

Says Payments Could Not Be Made to Us for Several Years.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, May 27.—Ambassador de Martino's interview with Secretary Mellon about Italy's wartime debt is considered here to be the logical outcome of the steps taken by France and Premier Mussolini's speech in the Senate, wherein he again affirmed Italy's recognition of her war debts. It was intended more to find out the official view in Washington on this important question and to dispel the fears expressed in some quarters that European countries were contemplating debt cancellation, it was explained here, than to open proper debt-funding negotiations. The moderate intentions attributed to Secretary Mellon were received here with great satisfaction.

The opinion unanimously expressed in all quarters here is that it is impossible to begin payments for the present, or even for the next few years. The budget has only just been balanced this year, for the first time since the war, it is pointed out, at a cost and sacrifices which render it impossible to impose any further burdens upon the taxpayers. In addition, it is considered that under present conditions payments would adversely affect exchange, endangering Italy's economic situation.

The official view is that any negotiations which may eventually be begun should start from the following fundamental points: Several years' moratorium, reduction of the total debt, a very low rate of interest, payments to be spread out over many years and preferential import tariffs for creditor countries.

3 RESTAURANTS ROBBED.

Four armed men held up Max Katz's restaurant at 1,719 Madison Avenue early yesterday. They robbed the proprietor and Julius Meyer, an employe, and four customers of $140 and two gold watches, and then, driving them into a rear room, made their escape in an automobile.

Later in the morning four men held up the Washington Restaurant at 1,581 Third Avenue. Guy Laimes, the proprietor, Michael Zappa, the chef, and two customers were robbed of $135. These men also escaped in a machine and are believed to have been the men who held up the first restaurant.

John Sheehan, 17 years old, of 204 West 149th Street, who was released from a reformatory last week, was arrested yesterday after Arthur Cohen's restaurant at 1,710 Amsterdam Avenue had been held up by two youths and robbed of $38. Sheehan, who was caught after a chase, carried a revolver, the police said. He was accused of the hold-up.

VON SWERINGEN AID ATTACKS MERGER

MAKES EARNINGS HIS BASIS

But Admits Other Factors Enter Into the Value That Each Merged Road Contributes.

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP).—On the basis of earnings without considering other factors, W. W. Colpitts, a railroad valuation engineer, testified today before the Interstate Commerce Commission that railroads concerned in the Nickel Plate merger project should have been rated otherwise than they were in the assignment of stock in the new Nickel Plate company.

Though called as a witness in support of the plan of O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen for the merger with the Nickel Plate of the Chesapeake & Ohio, Erie, Pere Marquette and Hocking Valley systems, Mr. Colpitts set forth his conclusion as to earnings on the basis of records of all five of the corporations for a three-year period ending with 1924.

He explained, however, that the questions of debt maturity, business anticipation and Government policy toward consolidation all should be considered as well as indicated earning power, and that these factors he had excluded from the calculations he was giving. As to whether the percentages of new stock contemplated in the plan were fair, Mr. Colpitts would express no opinion.

In summing up his findings, on the basis of earnings, he said, Chesapeake & Ohio common stockholders, who have been tentatively assigned $55 in preferred and $55 in common stock of the new Nickel Plate corporation for each share they now hold, should receive $59 of each stock class instead.

Erie, Pere Marquette and old Nickel Plate company stockholders, on the other hand, he said, under the Van Sweringen plan would receive amounts of new stock in excess of a standard based exclusively on earnings. As a member of the Pere Marquette Directing Board which transacted negotiations with the Van Sweringen interests, he added, he had asked and received for that corporation a somewhat larger percentage of new stock than was originally offered.

The Hocking Valley shares, which are to bring $50 in common and $50 in preferred of the new company for each unit of the old, Mr. Colpitts said, would be entitled on the basis of earnings to receive approximately $90 in their classes of new Nickel Plate stock.

H. W. Anderson, counsel for dissenting minority stockholders of the Chesapeake & Ohio, attempted in cross-examination to have Mr. Colpitts place a higher earning power rating on that system, because of its status as a carrier of non-union coal. The witness, while agreeing that its business had grown largely in recent years, insisted, however, that no permanent increase in values could be assigned on this score.

C. F. Lingo, traffic manager of the Inland Steel Company, asked the commission to allow the merger to come into existence, on the ground that it would increase business facilities.

MURDER SUSPECT GIVES UP.

After detectives of the Clinton Street Station had spent ten days looking for him to question him regarding the murder of Meyer Albert in front of a restaurant at 168 Attorney Street, early this month, Morris Zeig, proprietor of a candy store at Willett and Stanton Street, walked into the District Attorney's office yesterday in company with his attorney and surrendered. He will be arraigned in the Homicide Court today. Witnesses to the shooting of Albert were unable to identify Zeig when taken before him at Police Headquarters.

Albert was killed by one of two men who called him out from the restaurant and fired five shots at him. Immediately after the shooting Zeig disappeared and persons who were present when Albert was shot furnished a description of one of the men which tallied with that of Zeig. Yesterday when questioned he refused to say where he had been or to discuss the shooting.

COUZENS INQUIRY NEAR END.

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP).—The special Senate committee which has been investigating the Internal Revenue Bureau, with particular attention to its administration of income tax matters and prohibition enforcement, plans to conclude its hearings Friday, although the resolution under which it is acting would permit it to continue until the end of May.

With the hearings discontinued, the committee, which is headed by Senator Couzens of Michigan, plans to hold frequent executive sessions for discussion of the testimony it has taken. Its hearings have been held behind closed doors and little of the testimony has been made public.

The committee's report to the Senate in December probably will make recommendations concerning the administration of the tax laws, and members also expect it to deal pointedly with prohibition enforcement. Some members predict that the committee will favor the consolidation of all prohibition enforcement agencies.

CHAUFFEURS SENT TO JAIL.

One Gets 90 and Another 120 Days for Traffic Violations.

Two chauffeurs were sentenced to workhouse terms of ninety and 20 days, respectively, when they were found guilty yesterday of violations of the Motor Vehicle laws in the Traffic Court. James Corbett, 18 years old, of 64 Leroy Street, received ninety days for speeding away in his machine after it had knocked down Marcella Canale, 8 years old, in front of her home at 237 West Houston Street last Saturday.

The longer term was imposed on Vincent Fiscella, 19 years old, of 230 East 114th Street, when he was arraigned before Magistratee William A. Farrell on charges of driving a taxicab without a license and disobeying an order of the court in December last not to operate a machine, after Magistrate Frederick B. House had revoked Fiscella's license.

Dress Theft Charge Dismissed.

A complaint charging larceny, made against Irving Taube, a cleaner and dyer at 2,582 Eighth Avenue, by direction of Magistrate Edward Weil in Washington Heights Court last week, when Taube refused to pay $55 demanded by a customer for a dress which was lost while in his charge, was dismissed yesterday by Magistrate James M. Barrett. He held that the case could be handled only in a civil court. The complainant, Miss Augusta Elmer, 18 years old, of 574 St. Nicholas Avenue, had produced a bill showing that the dress cost $90, but said she was willing to accept $55 in full reimbursement for her loss. Taube refused to pay more than $55.

Bank of Japan Subscribes Loan.

The Bank of Japan has subscribed all of a 34,400,000 yen Japanese Government loan issued for consolidation or redemption of outstanding loans, according to word received yesterday by the Japanese Financial Mission in New York. The issue price was 91¼ yen, making a yield of 6.30 per cent. The bonds are to be redeemed on or before March 1, 1936.

GETS YEAR IN ATLANTA FOR SMUGGLING ALIENS

Canadian Is Told in Syracuse His Countrymen Must Learn Immigration Laws Have 'Teeth.'

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 27 (AP).—Declaring that "Canadians living on our northern border must be taught that our immigration laws have teeth," Judge Frank Cooper in Federal court today sentenced Chester Hampson of Huntington County, Quebec, to one year and one day in Atlanta and a fine of $6,000, after Hampson had pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with smuggling six aliens across the border into Malone.

"One of the greatest burdens now borne by the Government is enforcement of the immigration law," said Judge Cooper. "When aliens not living here make a business of bringing in other aliens, in violation of our laws and for their own gain, they add to that burden.

"We must teach Canadians living north of the border that our immigration laws have teeth and that violation of them is not an offense to be taken lightly."

Hugo Richard Sigismund and Carl F. Gahsmann, German seamen who deserted ship at Montreal and entered this country illegally, were sentenced to three months in jail and fines of $1,000 each. They will be deported after their sentences are served.

STRANGE BIRD A STOWAWAY.

Unidentified Feathered Waif Flew Aboard Westphalia.

The Hamburg-American liner Westphalia docked yesterday at the foot of West Forty-sixth Street with ninety-five cabin and a hundred third-class passengers from Hamburg and Queenstown, a large collection of rare birds and beasts from India, and an unidentified bird which flew aboard the ship about 250 miles east of Sable Island, and was adopted by Captain Conrad Luck.

The bird resembles a cross between a magpie and a canary, but has a dark cowl of feathers around its neck. Apparently it is of the genus known as Oriole Nun.

Captain Luck thought that it was a Northern migratory bird which had been blown out of its course by last week's storm and which had been attracted toward the ship by the large cargo of birds in charge of Albert Weems, the explorer.

Mr. Weems's collection of birds and beasts, which is valued at $50,000, includes 5,000 canaries, ten llamas, two 7-year-old Burmese elephants from Tongoo, Burmah; one Himilayan bear from Darjeeling, one spotless leopard, the gift of the Sultan of Mysore; twelve deer, four capuchin monkeys, six nightingales, 100 parrots, three rheas, which resemble small ostrich, thirty Indian whistling ducks which roost in trees, and three gladiator cranes from the Argentine. These have the heads like geese and the bodies like pheasants.

The collection was gathered by Mr. Weems after months of hunting in Asia, Africa and the Indian jungles. It is consigned to Louis Ruhe, an animal dealer, of 351 Bowery.

ATTACKS LAUSANNE TREATY

Senator King Says He Will Work for Armenian Independence.

Five hundred Armenians, meeting last night in the Metropolitan Life Auditorium, 1 Madison Avenue, applauded Senator William H. King of Utah when he said that the Lausanne treaty was "unjust, wicked, a compounding of crimes and felonies, a taking to our bosom of people who have thriven on perfidy and bloodshed."

The meeting, which was a testimonial to Senator King, was organized by Vahian Kardashian, Secretary of the Armenian Press Bureau. Professor C. N. Brown of City College was Chairman. A brief cablegram was read from former Ambassador James W. Gerard, now in Paris, expressing regret that he could not be present and commending the Armenian cause.

"I have to criticize France and Italy and Great Britain for failing to vindicate the Treaty of Sèvres," Senator King declared. "They let the perfidious Kemal Pasha tear up that treaty and dictate his own terms. I don't like the conduct of France in giving Kemal moral if not financial encouragement. Therein France wrote a sordid chapter in the hisotry of international dealings."

He blamed France and England for the fact that Armenia was not now an independent nation.

The Senator declared that he would do all in his power to prevent the United States's "shaking the bloody hand of the Turk," by ratifying the Lausanne treaty. "If the country takes the position she should," he maintained, "the Kemalist régime will be thrown out. There must be a new treaty in which and by which an independent Armenia shall be recognized."

FIND CANOE, PAIR MISSING.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 27 (AP).—Searching parties from the Naval Academy at a late hour tonight were still without a trace of Lieut. Gerald Selby, aged 36, a medical officer in the Naval Hospital here, and Miss Lucille Merrill, aged 25, a student nurse at the institution.

Lieut. Selby, whose home is in Atlanta, Ga., and Miss Merrill, of Roxbury, Mass., have not been seen since embarking on a canoe trip on the Severn River at about 9 o'clock Tuesday night.

A canoe found today floating bottom upward in the river has been identified as that in which the couple set out, and a coat picked from the water near by contained documents and letters bearing the name of Selby.

These are the only clues so far uncovered, although the search for the canoeists, begun early today, has been carried on continuously, with several boats exploring and dragging the river.

Mrs. Florence Selby, wife of the missing man, was notified of his disappearance in Washington, where she had been visiting for several days. Dr. W. T. Merrill, father of the girl, who is attached to United States Veterans' Hospital No. 44, at Boxbury, also was notified.

A DOG—FISH STORY.

"Buddie," a dog of no pedigree, and has never been entered in a dog show, is the wisest dog in the world, according to his owner, Cortlandt Luce of Cedar Manor, L. I., who is employed by the Long Island Electric Company. Several of Luce's friends substantiate his claim for the dog. Luce is an ardent huntsman and "Buddie" goes with him to hunt ducks in Suffolk County, rabbits in Nassau County and coons in Maryland.

Yesterday morning Luce told his wife he was going fishing. When his tackle and his lunch were ready, he missed "Buddie." From the back porch he called the dog several times. "Buddie" was not in sight nor did he obey his master's hail.

Luce searched for him, for on all his trips from home, "Buddie" goes with him. In back of the Luce garage was "Buddie," assidiously digging into the soft earth for fishing worms, Luce said.

All Saints' Church 101 Years Old.

All Saints' Episcopal Church, Henry and Scammel Streets, celebrated its 101st anniversary last night. Vestryman Grover Sniffen said that All Saints still was practically self-supporting, but had gone without a rector for some time. The old rectory next door, now rented out, he said, furnished enough to keep up the parish. All Saints' Church was organized in 1824, in the library of the Rev. William Atwater Clark, in Grand Street.

The Small Grand
This is musically and artistically the most beautiful small grand piano in America. Terms to suit your convenience.

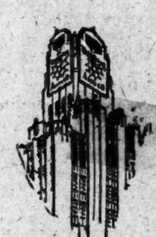
HAPPY indeed is the home that houses America's most beautiful piano—the Chickering. The small grand, illustrated, is but five feet, three and one half inches long—exquisitely designed for that new home of modest proportions. And yet within its compact and beautiful case is the sweet, rich, human tone that won Jenny Lind; that stirred Liszt, Von Bülow, Busoni, to reverent admiration and praise; that, today, sings to huge audiences under the caressing fingers of the great Lhévinne, Dohnányi and other giants of the concert halls.

The important major inventions in American pianoforte development were inaugurated by Chickering. It was Chickering that designed and created the first small grand piano. And today this same Chickering experience has made it possible to build the piano that has been justly called "America's most beautiful small grand."

With the incomparable Ampico

The Chickering can also be obtained equipped with the Ampico. To the home that possesses this modern miracle come over two hundred great artists, playing their concert programs, entertaining with their happy dance music.



Tower of the new Chickering Hall

TERMS WITHIN THE PURSE OF ALL

A REASONABLE deposit, two years to pay the balance, and your present piano in part payment. Chickering prices: $875 up. In addition, you will also find here a full line of quality pianos, including the Marshall & Wendell and the Brewster, at prices starting with $395.

An interesting booklet describing both the Chickering and the Ampico will be gladly mailed without obligation.

Finkelstein & Maisel Invite the Public to Enjoy Greater Savings Than Ever Before

The following statement, delivered in the characteristic straight-from-the-shoulder manner of these well known clothing manufacturers, will undoubtedly satisfy seekers for the truth in the men's clothing situation—and will incidentally introduce them to the finest line of suits and topcoats obtainable anywhere—at prices that defy duplication elsewhere!

We're plain men and we deal in plain figures. The proof is clearly marked on every suit and topcoat in our great new stock. This three price range only—nothing higher:

For Suits, Topcoats and Tuxedos

Many with two pair of pants. In all sizes—for slim, stout, tall or short men. The workmanship and trimmings equal to the finest custom made suit. The materials are the best procurable—Serges, Worsteds, Gray Mixtures, Gray Imported Flannels, Cheviots and Tweeds from the Greenwich Worsted Mills, Stillwater Worsted Mills, Dunn's, Acme Worsted Mills and American Woolen Company. These fine fabrics are developed in the very newest styles for Young Men. Also Conservative 3 button and 2 button English Models, Collegiate single and double breasted and Business and Sport Suits.

"How do you do it?" you'll ask. And here is the answer: We actually make every suit and topcoat shown on our premises—in fact until a few years ago we were wholesale manufacturers exclusively.

Now we are manufacturers who sell direct to you—the public—at our factory salesrooms. Here, one flight up, you will not find the expensive fixtures or high store rents that compel jacking up of prices to pay for an expensive overhead.

But you will find just the suit or topcoat you've been looking for at the price you want to pay. Our top price is $32.50, and this suit is comparable with one that you would pay $60 for elsewhere.

And don't forget our ironclad guarantee that protects your purchase—money back promptly if within five days you are not completely satisfied with your purchase.

Living up to this guarantee and selling to you at less than actual wholesale prices has gained for us a unique distinction you should get acquainted with—meet us face to face—it will save you money.

MORE JUDGES HERE ARE URGED BY FISH

DRY CASES SWAMP DOCKET

Three to Six Additional Jurists Wanted—Proposal Is Supported by Taft and Hughes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—In a call at the White House today Representative Hamilton Fish Jr., who lives at Garrison-on-the-Hudson, told President Coolidge that the delay in the business of the Federal courts, due to lack of Judges in the Southern New York District, which includes New York City, was a disgrace. He explained to the President that when Congress met he would introduce a bill authorizing the appointment of from three to six new District Court Judges for the Southern District and providing also that all Federal District Judges should receive a salary of $10,000. They now receive $7,500.

The principle of the legislation which will be submitted to Congress by Representative Fish is supported by Charles E. Hughes, who recommends three additional Judges for the Southern New York District, and Chief Justice Taft, who holds that at least three new Judges and maybe more are needed in that district, while Palmer Canfield, Federal Prohibition Director for New York, has suggested that six new Judges are needed to handle the growing volume of cases in the New York City district. Representative Fish said he did not expect any difficulty in obtaining authority for the appointment of three additional Judges, and he hoped for at least four.

Representative Fish said he told the President that the lack of Judges in the Southern New York District caused chaotic legal conditions and seriously hampered the dispensation of justice. He pointed out that there were more than 6,000 cases on the calendar, half of which were cases involving alleged violation of the prohibition statutes, and that both the criminal and civil calendars are three years in arrears.

Mr. Fish said further he told the President he would insist that one of the new Judges should come from his (Mr. Fish's) Congressional district, the Twenty-sixth, which he asserted, was "solidly united in this demand, and had determined not to be sidetracked for any consideration."

Has No Candidate, Says Fish.

The Twentysixth District, Mr. Fish added, is wholly within the Federal Southern Judicial District and cast a large Republican vote, but was without representation among the present six Judges. He had no candidate, Mr. Fish declared, but there were several eminent lawyers and Judges in his District well qualified for such a position. With the Twenty-sixth District having two Republican Senators and five Republican Assemblymen in the State Legislature, he felt that they were entitled to insist upon the appointment of a Federal Judge.

There were sufficient prohibition law cases along the Hudson River to have the Judge whom he wants appointed from his district to hold court alternately at Poughkeepsie, Kingston, Goshen and Newburgh, according to Mr. Fish. It was now almost impossible, he insisted, to take these cases to New York City for trial, and in view of the fact that there was no State enforcement law the need of a Federal Judge in the Central Hudson district was both apparent and essential.

The Congressman asserted that he concurred with Chief Justice Taft that if a number of Judges were authorized by Congress for the Southern District, the Democrats should be recognized. This, he said, was not only just but would help to expedite the enactment of the proposed legislation.

According to Mr. Fish, President Coolidge was interested and promised to look into the situation.

INDEPENDENT TAXI MEN TO CONFER WITH DALY

A conference between independent taxicab associations, federated in the Empire State Taxicab Chamber of Commerce, will be held this morning with Deputy Police Commissioner John Daly, in charge of taxicab regulation. Several problems raised by recent police taxicab orders will be discussed with the Commissioner.

The conference will be the first activity of a new organization in the taxicab field, a federation of most of the important independent operators' organizations brought about by the Taxicab Chamber of Commerce.

Among the organizations in the new body are the Amalgamated Taxi Association, the Broad Street Taxicab Owners' Association, the Twentieth Century Taxicab Association, the Sixtieth Street Association, the Independent Taxi Owners' Association and the Luxor Cab Owners' Association. The following operating units will also cooperate: The Green Diamonds Corporation, Premier Cab Service, Checker Cab Service, Hegeman Transportation Company and the D. M. P. Taxi Company.

Finance companies identified with the taxicab field were also organized into a new unit yesterday at a meeting under the auspices of the Empire State Taxicab Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber is cooperating with the Automobile Merchants' Association to recommend that a Traffic Court be established in the midtown section of Manhattan, preferably in Fifty-seventh Street, between Lexington and Third Avenues.

USE TEAR GAS IN ARREST.

Especial to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 27.—Atlantic City's recently formed tear bomb squad of three ex-service men went into action for the first time today when they were called upon to dislodge Joseph Wolfson, 60 years old, yesterday, who had barricaded himself at the top of a stairway and defied the police.

Armed with a hatchet, Wolfson, who was said to have threatened members of his family, held patrolmen off until the arrival of the special squad. Donning gas masks the bomb squad members were able to reach their quarry, who had been overcome by the tear gas. Wolson is being held for examination into his sanity.

Richmond Democrats Favor McKay.

The Executive Committee of the Richmond County Democratic Committee, at its first meeting under the leadership of Public Works Commissioner David S. Rendt, yesterday, endorsed J. P. McKay, Superintendent of Highways, as Tax Commissioner, to succeed the late Thomas R. McGinley. McKay will be succeeded by Superintendent of Street Cleaning John E. Minneran, who will in turn be replaced by William K. Walsh, present assistant to Borough President John A. Lynch.

WHAT THE SMALL BOY SAID ABOUT SALT APPLIES TO BLUE SUITS!

THE small boy described salt as something that makes a baked potato taste funny without it!—and the same salt-sense of incompleteness applies to a wardrobe that lacks a blue suit—in fact, blue is more than a color, it is a condiment!—you really can't be well-dressed without one—but in it you are well-dressed though it be the only suit you own—THAT'S HOW GOOD A BLUE SUIT IS!

means many extra miles of service from balloon tires

BALLOON tires must be more than just flexible. They must be uniformly flexible. The tread, as well as the side-walls, must be flexible.

Miller Uniflex Cord Balloons are built that way. The whole tire flexes evenly from top to bottom. No concentrated stress; no sharp bending of the cords; no excessive distortion. Each ply flexes in harmony with every other ply—internal friction is reduced to the minimum.

The result is an even-wearing tire that'll give you more miles, better service and more complete satisfaction than you ever thought possible in a pneumatic tire.

Put on Millers and travel on tires that are world-standard for quality and endurance. Dealers everywhere—look for the Miller sign.

DENIES USING PISTOL TO COLLECT $10,000

W. K. Gough Says Oil Man Willingly Cashed the Check for Him at a Bank.

Guiberson Gave One Payment to Permit Mrs. Gough to Win a Decree, Witness Asserts.

William K. Gough, a salesman and former oil well driller, of Cincinnati, took the witness stand yesterday in Judge Allen's part of General Sessions, where he is being tried on the charge of robbing Samuel A. Guiberson Jr. of Los Angeles, head of an oil drilling manufacturing corporation, of $10,000. He is accused of having threatened Guiberson with a pistol in the Fifth Avenue branch of the Guaranty Trust Company shortly before noon on Saturday, Oct. 4, last, thus forcing him to cash a check and hand over the money.

Gough admitted that on the day of the alleged robbery he had demanded and received $10,000 from Guiberson. He denied, however, that he had threatened the manufacturer with a pistol in a taxicab on the way from the Biltmore to the bank or that he pressed a pistol against Guiberson's body while the complainant was writing out a check at the bank. He said he did not have a pistol nor was there any need to display one.

Gough told the jury that the check was made out at the bank by Guiberson voluntarily. He declared that Guiberson cashed the check and turned the money over to him near a desk, away from the teller's window, and said it was in part payment of "a substantial sum" which Guiberson had agreed to pay him in 1923, when, he testified, Gough consented to a plan mapped out by the manufacturer that Gough's wife be permitted to obtain a divorce.

Gough explained that his wife was Miss Eunice Sergeant, and was Guiberson's private secretary in Los Angeles when they were married in 1919, after she had returned from France, where she served as a Red Cross nurse.

They went to live in Lima, Ohio, the witness added, but made many trips to California and on their return home each time Guiberson followed them. Mrs. Gough refused to go with him to South America in 1922, where he had obtained employment as an oil driller, his testimony continued. He gave up the job in February, 1923, he said, and on his return to this country learned that Mrs. Gough and Guiberson were in Los Angeles. He went there, he said, and Guiberson urged him to keep quiet about the matter "as it would hurt his reputation."

Gough testified that Guiberson added: "Now you are just a youth and I am an old man. Don't lose your head. This may seem bad to you, but it is only a hardship any man might run across. Let's make an amicable arrangement." The defendant then swore that Guiberson, the next day, induced him to go to Montana to permit Mrs. Gough to obtain a divorce in his absence. Guiberson, he said, gave him $600 for the trip. While in Montana, the $10,000 which he demanded from the manufacturer as part of the "substantial sum" Guiberson had promised to pay him before his start was not sent him, he said. Then he returned to Los Angeles, he went on, and threatened to sue Guiberson for alienating Mrs. Gough's affections.

The witness said that Guiberson met this demand with the payment of $9,400, and promised to pay the remainder of the "substantial sum" when the final decree of divorce was signed in California. The promise was not kept, said Gough. Several times here Guiberson repeated the promise, said Gough, and on Saturday, Oct. 4, he testified, Guiberson, who had breakfast with him, told him he would take him to the bank and get the $100,000 which Gough had demanded.

The defendant declared that they spoke amicably when riding in a taxicab to the bank, and that the actual transaction was equally amicable.

Two Reported at Manhasset, L. I., and One Each at West Haverstraw, N. Y., and Roselle, N. J.

New cases of smallpox developed on all sides of New York City yesterday. Two new cases were reported in Manhasset, L. I., centre of the epidemic in Nassau County, and one new case each in West Haverstraw, Rockland County, N. Y., and Roselle, Union County, N. J. All cases were mild. To date no death has resulted from the disease since the vaccination movement was started locally several weeks ago.

The two new cases of smallpox in Manhasset developed in a house already under quarantine, according to Dr. Charles A. Steurer, Health Officer of the North Hempstead Township, where there are now a total of thirty-five cases.

The first of five smallpox vaccination clinics was opened at 38 Mitchell Avenue, Manhasset, in the afternoon, Dr. Steurer said. The clinic will be open from 4 to 8 P. M. for four days. On Monday and Tuesday a vaccination clinic will be opened at Westbury, L. I., and on Wednesday at New Hyde Park.

Temporary vaccination stations also have been opened in Douglaston, Bayside and Queens Village by order of Health Commissioner Monaghan.

The public will be asked to go to these centres within the next ten days for vaccination. Since the epidemic started in North Hempstead Township 9,000 persons have submitted to vaccination, Dr. Steurer reported.

"I believe we are getting the situation in hand," said Dr. Steurer. "Most of the citizens who have not been vaccinated are being immunized. It will take another week to complete our vaccination program and in that interval we may expect a normal increase in the number of new cases. After another week I confidently expect to see the epidemic die out."

The first case of smallpox reported in Union County, N. J., was brought to the attention of Health Officer William Morris of Roselle yesterday when Herman Zeitchit, 13 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zeitchit, 1,007 Chandler Avenue, was stricken with a mild form of the disease.

Roselle adjoins Elizabeth, N. J., and the county health authorities are taking every precaution to protect the latter community. Four thousand employes of the Standard Oil Company in Elizabeth were vaccinated last week.

The West Hoboken, N. J., Board of Health announced last night that a meeting would be held within twenty-four hours to determine the advisability of vaccinating 1,000 pupils of Public School 6 following the report that the sister of a child ill with smallpox had been attending classes for the past three days. The victim of the malady is Helen Allessandro, 5 years old, of 618 Paterson Plank Road, West Hoboken.

All prisoners of the Rockland County Jail in New City, N. Y., were vaccinated after a case of smallpox was reported in West Haverstraw. A check is being made of all the school children of Rockland County and those who have not been immunized will be vaccinated before they are permitted to return to school.

ATTACKS DIVORCE OF MRS. E. H. BENET

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 27 (AP).—The Providence Journal will say tomorrow morning that the divorce granted on March 23, 1923, to Elinor Hoyt Hichborn Wylie, daughter of the late Judge Henry Martyn Hoyt of Pennsylvania and former Solicitor General, poetess and prominent member of New York and Washington society, is among more than 100 divorces which Attorney General Sisson will seek to have vacated on the ground that they were fraudulently secured through the Rhode Island "divorce mill."

Mrs. Wylie is now the wife of William Rose Benet, literary critic and associate editor of The Saturday Review. Her New York address is 142 East Eighteenth Street, but she is said to be living at present in Bridgeport, Conn., or its environs. She married Mr. Benet on Oct. 5, 1923, soon after her divorce from Horace Wylie, then a wealthy Washington clubman, became absolute.

Mr. Wylie is an accountant for the Couzens committee investigating the administration of the Federal revenue laws, having left the bulk of his $300,000 estate to the wife and four children, whom he deserted in 1911 to elope to Europe with the present Mrs. Benet, who was then Mrs. Philip S. Hichborn.

At that time Philip S. Hichborn, who was the son of the late Rear Admiral Philip Hichborn, for many years Chief Constructor for the United States Navy, petitioned for a divorce from his wife, but before he obtained it he committed suicide at the home of his sister, Mrs. James G. Blaine Jr. of New York and Providence, now Mrs. Paul Pearsall of Washington. The Court disregarded Mr. Hichborn's death and granted the divorce plea, which named Mr. Wylie as corespondent. A son, Philip S. Hichborn Jr., who is 16 years old, was adopted by Mrs. Pearsall.

Francis P. Dougherty, a Providence attorney, recently indicted for "divorce mill" operations, was Mrs. Hichborn-Wylie's attorney when she obtained her divorce in Providence from Horace Wylie.

O'SHEA BACKS PLAYGROUNDS

Wants Them Part of School System —No Burden on Teachers.

Superintendent of Schools William J. O'Shea said last night that the tentative plans undertaken by the Department of Education to provide playgrounds for the children of the schools were intended to be developed as a permanent part of the school system, regardless of difficulties that might result in getting a supervising force of teachers for these recreation centres. His statement was made in a brief address at the second annual dinner of the Junior High School Association at the Hotel Commodore, which was attended by 400 teachers.

When the suggestions for these playgrounds first reached the teachers some time ago some of them demurred to the plan on the ground that it would greatly add to their regular work, without providing any additional compensation. It was proposed to have the playgrounds open from the closing hour of the schools until 8 P. M. This would mean four to five hours of work for each teacher engaged in the playground work.

Superintendent O'Shea said he had no desire or intention of putting any additional burdens upon the teaching staffs of the schools, and that, so far as they were concerned, none would be asked to engage in the playground work as a part of their regular work. He said that the department hoped that the teaching staff would volunteer cooperation.

YOUTH ACCUSED OF ARSON.

On a charge of arson by Fire Marshal Thomas Brophy in the Gates Avenue Court yesterday Abraham Balaban, 20 years old, was held for the Grand Jury without bail for the alleged burning of the plant of the American Book Match Company at 338 Flushing Avenue, Brooklyn, of which the defendant's uncle, Morris Balaban, is the chief owner. The youth denied the charge and waived examination. The fire caused $25,000 damage.

The Fire Marshal told the Magistrate that the prisoner, an employe of his uncle's company, might have had a motive for setting fire to the place because his wages had been reduced $10 a week and his hours of work increased.

INVESTIGATE CHILD'S DEATH

Mother Charges Aged Man Struck Girl With Cane.

Mrs. Sadie Mendell of 119 East 105th Street told Magistrate Jean Norris in Harlem Court yesterday that her daughter, Rosie, 10 years old, died in the Hospital for Joint Diseases, at 124th Street and Madison Avenue, on May 17 as the result of injuries she received on April 25 when the child was struck with a cane by Samuel Friedman, 75 years old, of 117 East 105th Street.

Mrs. Mendell said that Rosie and two other girls were playing on the steps of Friedman's home and that Friedman came from the house and struck her daughter.

Magistrate Norris dismissed a summons issued for Friedman before the child died and suggested the case was one for investigation in the Homicide Court. Friedman was cited to appear in the lower court at 2 P. M. today.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 27 (AP).—The largest single cargo of silk brought into this port arrived today from the Orient aboard the Siberia Maru. The shipment consists of 4,777 bales and is valued at $4,750,000. It will be reloaded for shipment to New York immediately.

N. Y. U. STUDENTS ELECT.

Choose Class and Council Officers by Secret Ballot.

Voting for the first time by secret ballot the students of the College of Arts and Engineering of New York University elected class officers and representatives to the newly organized Student Council yesterday. Election excitement ran high and more than 90 per cent. of the student body voted. Two tickets were in the field for most offices.

ARTIST'S WIFE A SUICIDE.

Worried over the future of her two sons by a former marriage, Mrs. Sallie Peroff, 40 years old, the wife of a former Russian naval officer, committed suicide last night by hanging herself in her room in the old Spencer Lorillard mansion, near Pelham Bay, the Bronx. A number of Russian immigrants live in the house.

Boris Peroff, the husband, who is an artist, found the body of his wife when he arrived home. He said that her two sons have been attending a French military academy in Tunis, Algeria, but that word was received a short time ago that they would have to go back to France at the close of the session.

Mr. and Mrs. Peroff, who have been in straitened circumstances since their arrival here two years ago, could muster enough funds for only one passage, and it was arranged for Mrs. Peroff to sail next week. Her husband said that she feared the trip would not result in her being able to insure the future of her two boys.

Donoghue Wins His Sixth Epsom Derby in Riding Manna to Victory by 8 Lengths

ZIONIST FINISHES SECOND

KING AND QUEEN SEE RACE

EPSOM DOWNS, England, May 27 (AP).—Manna, by Phalaris out of Waffles, and owned by H. E. Morriss, won the Derby today. Steven Donoghue had the mount and passed the winning post a full eight lengths in advance of a field of twenty-eight runners, his sixth victory in the most highly coveted of English turf classics.

Donoghue pushed his mount in front from the start and kept him there, even rounding the difficult Tattenham corner with such ease that he completed the mile and a half course pulling up, while those behind him were using whip and heels.

The much fancied Zionist of H. H. Aga Khan was second and two lengths further back in third place came the Sirdar, the entry of the American, A. K. Macomber. The time for the distance was 2:40 3-5 seconds.

The betting was: Manna, 9 to 1 against; Zionist, 10 to 1 against and The Sirdar, 50 to 1 against.

Lord Astor's Gross Bow, which reigned favorite for the last week, and Lord Derby's Conquistador, second favorite, and the French hope, Ptolemy II, Runymede and others fought for places, but the soft track kept them well in the rear.

The Going Is Heavy.

A drenching rain had softened the course and the going was heavy. This favored Manna and the second and third horses, which had shown they were good on sticky ground.

Salmagarry was away first, but Manna joined him and they ran together for the first three furlongs. Then Manna got to the rail and took a good lead before the half-way. Conquistador, Warminster, Zionist and The Sirdar fought evenly up the hill at Tattenham, but the soft turf was not to their liking and Conquistador and Warminster fell back. From then on the race was largely a procession.

The rains which fell overnight and all day upset the calculations of the experts and Manna suffered the early morning indignity of being reduced from second to third favorite.

Spectacle Is Dimmed.

Long before the start of the Derby all points of vantage were taken up by thousands, who stood for hours in the downpour for a chance to glimpse the horses flying past. Hundreds of hawkers and sideshows, which are always prominent on Epsom Downs on Derby Day, were absent because of the weather, but good profits were forthcoming for those thus cheated of their usual labor in pulling hundreds of motors out of the thick mud of Surrey Downs.

The King and Queen saw the race and watched the King's entry, Runnymede, go down in defeat. But the pomp and display of the usual parade before the grand stands were lacking, as the parade was abandoned.

Low Right Unintentional, It Appears—Had Clear Lead on Points Till Then.

Charlie Rosen, East Side lightweight, was disqualified on a foul last night in the seventh round of his scheduled ten-round bout with Len Kemp of England, which was the feature at the closing boxing show of the season at the Manhattan S. C. An erratic right which landed low and apparently incapacitated Kemp caused Referee Eddie Purdy to rule out Rosen and give the honors to the English lad.

At the time of the foul Rosen was unquestionably leading on points. Under the rules of the State Athletic Commission Rosen's money for the bout was withheld as a consequence of the unintentional foul, and will not be released until the Commission has conducted the customary investigation.

It was a satisfactory battle until its unexpected end. Rosen, working cleverly, if a bit cautiously, out-boxed and out-hit the aggressive Kemp in the rallies which marked the contest. Kemp fought hard to overcome the superior boxing of the East Side youngster but his efforts were unsuccessful.

The low punch came after the seventh round had progressed about a minute and a half. When it was landed Kemp fell forward into the arms of Referee Purdy. Rosen weighed 134¼ pounds and Kemp 131.

The ten-round bout between Doc Snell, Tacoma, Wash., featherweight, and Al Clitty of Washington Heights, a return engagement, was declared a draw, a verdict which was unpopular with the crowd, judging from the demonstration of disapproval. Snell, in the opinion of the fans, appeared to have earned the decision.

George Levine, East Side featherweight, knocked out Mickey Marks, English boxer, in the second round of their scheduled ten-round encounter. This battle was halted after the second round had progressed 2 minutes 10 seconds, when Marks motioned the referee that he had done enough fighting for the evening.

40 ELIS ENTRAIN TODAY.

Trackmen Will Make Big Effort to Win Philadelphia Meet.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 27.—The Yale track team, numbering thirty athletes, with Coaches Connors, Thomson and McGall, managers and trainers, making a party of forty, will leave New Haven tomorrow afternoon for Philadelphia, where the Elis are entered in the intercollegiate track and field meet.

The Yale team will carry six men of the ten who won the championship last year. They are Captain Gage in the 440, Norton in the sprints, Durfee in the pole vault, Earl in the hammer throw, Bench in the javelin and Cole in the low hurdles.

Donoghue Leads Jockeys In Winners of the Derby

"Quite the easiest derby I ever won," said Donoghue afterward. "Manna is a perfect little horse. I never showed him the whip. I don't know how much I could have got out of him had I asked." Manna and Papyrus, the winner two years ago, are the property of men owning only one racer. H. E. Morriss, the owner of Manna, is a wealthy broker in the china trade who spends most of his time in Shanghai. Manna is the second racehorse he ever bought. It won the 2,000 guineas at Newmarket a month ago. Mr. Morriss paid 63,000 guineas for the horse at the Doncaster yearlings sale.

TANGARA CAPTURES LOUISVILLE RACE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 27.—Tangara brought home the silks of S. N. Holman in the feature rate at Churchill Downs today when he won handily in the Manslick Road Purse. Tangara was rated behind the pace all the way to the stretch. The colt had plenty of speed left and soon overcame Buck and Laveen, which were under hard drives. Buck took the place and Laveen captured the short end of the purse. The winner paid equivalent odds of 5 to 1. Buck, coupled with Fancy Me, was the favorite.

There was another upset in the sixth race when Belle, from the stable of G. F. Croissant, beat the red-hot favorite, Indianapolis. The latter lost a lot of ground, came fast at the end but could not get up and just managed to take the place, with Cameo third.

HARVARD SPRINTER HURT.

Pulled Tendon Will Keep Miller Out of the Intercollegiates.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 27.—Albert Miller, Harvard's indoor intercollegiate sprint champion, will not take part in the Intercollegiates at Franklin Field, it was announced tonight. Miller pulled a tendon while winning the 100-yard run in the Princeton meet last Saturday and will remain here to take daily treatment so as to prepare himself for the meet with Yale on June 13.

NAVY SECOND CLASS WINS.

Takes Baseball Game From First Class and Gets Harvard Shield.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 27.—The Harvard shield presented by that university to the Naval Academy to be kept during the year by the class making the best showing in interclass competitions has been won by the second class.

The result depended upon the outcome of a baseball game today between the first and the second classes, and the latter won, by 8 to 7.

PRINCETON COACHES SIGN.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 27.—Dr. Charles W. Kennedy, Chairman of the Princeton Board of Athletic Control, announced tonight that Bill Clarke, head baseball coach at Princeton for the last fifteen years, has just signed a contract to continue as head coach for three more years. At the same time Jack Coombs, pitching coach, also signed a three-year contract with the Tigers.

STING EASILY WINS 4TH STRAIGHT RACE

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

The Bouquet Claiming Stakes for the juveniles and the Salvator Handicap for the older division divided interest at the Belmont Park race course yesterday afternoon. In the former Woods Garth's Crimper filly Ingrid gained her second straight victory in a field of six over the five-furlong straightaway course. She was the 8-to-5 favorite and won by a head in 1:00 flat over a fast track, earning $4,075. Shanks had the mount and the filly carried 111 pounds.

The Salvator was the medium of the fourth consecutive victory for James Butler's four-year-old Sting, which toyed with two others over the course of nine furlongs, running the distance in 1:51 under top weight of 131 pounds. Brunner was up and the son of Spur and Gnat was the 1-to-12 choice. His victory brought in $1,170 to the Butler coffers.

Only a half dozen paraded for the Bouquet and they were six minutes at the post. Edward Arlington's Janetta showed in front durmg the early part of the race, but weakened toward the end.

Ingrid was closest to the leader throughout the dash. She swerved over to the outside in the last quarter, but was the best of the lot and drew out in the last sixteenth to win by a head from Janetta.

Sting Wins Galloping.

J. B. Smith's King Solomon's Seal and Gifford A. Cochran's Dangerous were scratched out of the Salvator Handicap, leaving only Sting, the Log Cabin Stud's Resolution and F. M. Kelly's Sleepy Head, recently winner of the Commonwealth Handicap and which originally carried the Butler silks. Sleepy Head drew the rail position, with Resolution in the middle and Sting on the outside.

There was no competition to the event, as Sting quickly raced into the lead, came over on the rail and saved ground all the way. Breaking had him under wraps throughout the journey and he won galloping by four lengths from Resolution, which raced gamely. Sleepy Head was outrun and finished ten lengths back. The fractional times were as follows: 0:24 3-5, 1:12 1-5, 1:38, 1:51. Sting opened at 1 to 10 and was backed to 1 to 12 at post time. Sleepy Head was second choice at 10 to 1. Resolution opened at 50, went to 60 and closed at 20 to 1.

The Hylas Steeplechase, over the course of about two miles, was easily won by the French-bred chaser Vox Populi II. The old Voter gelding ran into a long lead in the first turn of the field, fenced well and at the end held John W. Converse's Silver Threads safely. The latter ran away before the start, but during the race made up a lot of ground. The winner was held at 5 to 1.

Blind Play Best of Field.

The Log Cabin Stud's four-year-old Blind Play easily accounted for the Mineola Purse. He was the even-money favorite and was the best of the lot. Clarence Kummer had the leg up and took the bay son of Fair Play and Blue Grass to the front at the far turn and he won breezing, four lengths separating him from E. Plath's Danby.

Almost half the field was scratched from the first race—the Farmingdale—leaving fifteen to go to the post. It was a claiming dash of six and a half furlongs on the main course for three-year-olds and upward and the winner was W. J. Both's four-year-old colt Finn Lag.

GENARO MEETS SMITH IN BATTLE TONIGHT

Pair Will Open New Dexter Park Stadium in 10-Round Bout —Other Ring News.

The gates of Dexter Stadium, Brooklyn's largest outdoor boxing arena, will swing wide tonight to admit boxing fans attracted by the club's first show which has been arranged by Matchmaker Joe Jacobs. Frankie Genaro, American flyweight champion, is to engage Harold Smith, Chicago bantamweight, in the inaugural feature, a ten-round battle which has attracted considerable attention. Supporting this contest will be a ten-round semi-final in which Johnny Leonard, Allentown junior lightweight, will engage Jack Hausner of the east side. A third ten-round bout will be between Eddie (Kid) Wagner, Philadelphia lightweight, and Joey Silvers, Brooklyn favorite. A six-round bout and a four-round encounter complete a card of forty scheduled rounds.

A ten-round bout between Black Bill and Joe (Scotty) McKean, flyweights, will feature the fistic card tonight at the Commonwealth S. C., which has transferred this week's show to tonight because of the holiday on Saturday. A six-round bout and six four-round engagements also are scheduled.

Barney Shaw and Jimmy Collins will be rivals in the principal eight-round bout tonight at the 102d Medical Regiment Armory. In three other eight-round events the principals will be Jimmy Carroll vs. Eddie Crozier, Dave Astey vs. Jack Rafferty and Frankie Houlihan vs. Willie Clarkson.

The Crescent A. C., Brooklyn, will hold an amateur boxing tournament tonight with contests in five classes. The weights are 112, 118, 128, 138 and 147 pounds.

A six-round bout between Arnold Ryan and Wee Jimmy Collins, bantamweights, will be the stellar attraction tonight at the Fourteenth Regiment Armory, Brooklyn. Johnny Dean and Irish Mickey Whalen, lightweights, will clash in the six-round semi-final.

Post and Paddock

The Salvator Handicap was a nice workout for Sting for the Suburban Handicap, in which he will be the Butler reliance for the gallop of a mile and a quarter on Saturday, June 6.

At a meeting of the Stewards of The Jockey Club held at the Belmont Park course yesterday afternoon applications for jockey licenses were denied to F. Weiner, G. Carroll and E. Jelly.

John E. Madden's Marche Militaire ran like a good colt to win the Flower Hill Purse. In his only other start he was hopelessly in the ruck in a field of sixteen. This time he ran straight and true and out in front all the way.

Local race followers will have their first glimpse of the Preakness winner, Coventry, in the Withers Stakes this afternoon since he ran unplaced in the Wood at Jamaica. The Cochran colt will again meet Backbone at even weights.

With the historic Withers and the Beldame Handicap for mares as the features, this afternoon's card is unusually attractive.

Olympic Games Barred Until After Church; American Move for Full Sunday Ban Fails

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, May 27 (AP).—Sunday morning events in the Olympic Games were abolished today by the International Olympic Congress in session here. The motion was made by General Charles H. Sherrill, American representative. He first sought the elimination of games all day Sunday, but the congress refused that proposal.

After the congress refused General Sherrill's motion for a complete Sunday elimination of Olympic Games he asked that there be no events on Sunday until after church time. The congress approved this proposal and the Holland delegation officially announced that during the 1928 Olympic Games at Amsterdam the Sunday programs will not commence until 1 P. M.

The congress also decided that Winter sports would continue to be separate from track, field and other events. A resolution was adopted that countries unable to organize Winter sports could, with the International Committee's approval, designate another country to hold such games. This would be the case with Holland, and Chamonix will be a candidate for the cold weather games. Los Angeles, likewise, must give these sports to another city or country.

It was further decided that Winter sports would be held in the same year as the other games and be designated as first, second, third, &c., the term "Olympiad" not being employed. The congress will choose a locality giving reference to the country organizing the other games. Switzerland officially announced its candidature for the 1928 games, France and Italy supporting the proposal.

The congress then fixed the next session to be held in Lisbon in 1926 and appointed a permanent art jury consisting of President Clary and Vice President Rosen and General Sherrill, to serve four years. Olympic Games in Africa will be held for the first time in 1927, at Alexandria.

Colonel Robert M. Thompson, President of the American Olympic Committee; Murray Hulbert, President of the Amateur Athletic Union, and Gustavus T. Kirby, former President of the American Olympic Committee, arrived here today to participate in the meeting of the International Sporting and Athletic Federation.

WALTHOUR FLASHES TO VICTORY ON BIKE

NEWARK, N. J., May 27.—Walthour, blond-haired youngster, scored his most notable victory of the season when he defeated Willie Spencer, national sprint champion in 1922 and 1923, in two straight heats of a thrilling mile match at the Newark velodrome tonight.

In the first heat Spencer led at the bell but at the eighth pole Walthour, who has one of the fastest jumps of any rider, dashed past him and won by more than two lengths. Spencer elected to try from the front in the second heat and jumped past his youthful rival and as the bell sounded for the last lap he opened up a gap of about five yards on Walthour. Walthour streaked along the track in pursuit. At the turn he pulled almost alongside but Walthour jumped at the tape and won by an eye lash.

By brilliant riding Orlando Piani, the Italian star, gained first place in an alternating race in which his opponents were Arthur Spencer, eight Brigade champion; Pete Moeskops, world's king, and Alf Goullet. Piani got two firsts and a second, amassing 25 points. Goullet and Moeskops finished in a tie for second with 18 each. Each got a first, second and third. Spencer had 11 tallies.

The summaries:

Half-Mile Handicap (professional)—Won by James P. Cobert, Newark (60 yards); Costello, Newark (70 yards), second; William Fenn, East Orange (40 yards), third; Louis Benezatto, New York (— yards), fourth; Fred Weber, Newark (40 yards), fifth; Tom Bello, Brooklyn (40 yards), sixth; William Coburn, Kearny (40 yards), seventh. Time—0:55 4-5.

One-Mile Match Race (professional)—Bobby Walthour, Arlington, vs. William Spencer, Newark. Won by Walthour. First heat won by Walthour. Time—2:52. Last eighth mile, 0:12 2-5. Second heat—Won by Walthour. Time—3:05.

Miss and Out Invitation (Professional)—Won by Anthony Beckman, Secaucus; Fred Taylor, Newark, second; William Keller, Newark, third; William Coburn, Kearny, fourth; Alfons Verraes, Belgium, fifth. Distance, three miles. Time—6:16 2-5.

Alternating Match Race (Professional, One Mile)—Arthur Spencer, Newark; Orlando Piani, Italy; Peter Moeskops, Holland; Alfred Goullet, Newark. Won by Piani (25 points); Moeskops and Goullet tie for second (18 points); Spencer (11 points) third.

Five-Mile Open, Paced (Professional)—Won by Fred Spencer, Plainfield; Alex McBeath, Australia, second; Fred Hill, Boston, third; Reggie McNamara, Newark, fourth; Bobby Walthour, Arlington, fifth; Cecil Walker, Australia, sixth; Mario Bergamini, Italy, seventh. Time—9:58.

Fifteen Mile Motor-Paced Race (Professional)—Charley Jaeger, Newark, paced by James Hunter, Newark; Paul Piscotti, Newark, paced by Otto Miller, Brooklyn; David Landa, Irvington, paced by William Zipp, Newark; Lucien Bergamini, Italy, paced by Jean Antenucci, Newark. Won by Jaeger; Landa, second; Bergamini, third; Piscotti, fourth. Time, 21:52 4-5.

Two Mile Open (Amateur)—Won by Charlie Winter, Century Road Club; Jack Costello, Bayview Wheelmen, second; Frank Keller, North Hudson Wheelmen, third; Louis Hartman, Acme Wheelmen; fourth; Al Hatos, Metuchen, fifth. Time, 4:16 2-5.

One Mile Novice (Amateur)—Won by Frank Importico, Newark; William Acker, Bayview Wheelmen, second. Time, 2:12 1-5.

RUBINSTEIN LEADS IN CHESS TOURNEY

MARIENBAD, Czechoslovakia, May 27.—Instead of using the day for adjourned games from earlier rounds, the management of the International Chess Masters Tournament at the Kurhaus scheduled the sixth round for today. However, two of the seven unfinished games were decided by agreement without further play, leaving five to be played off later.

Rubinstein of Poland scored his game with Michell of England from the third round, while the game between Sir George Thomas of England and Spielmann of Austria, from the fourth round, was recorded as drawn. Rubinstein also won his game with Spielmann in today's sixth round, thereby recovering the lead with a clean score of 5—0 and one game with Reti still pending. In this game Spielmann had the black pieces in a Zukertort opening, lost a pawn and resigned after fifty-nine moves.

Marshall, the United States champion, playing black, was held to an even draw in a queen's gambit declined by Przepiorka of Poland, the game going to forty-eight moves. The American dropped to third place below Dr. Tartakower of Austria, who today defeated Michell of England in brilliant style. The winner adopted the Sicilian defense and achieved victory in sixty moves.

Torre, the New York State champion, who has two unfinished games, had another long session with Sir George Thomas, the British champion. The game, in which Torre selected the French defense, lasted sixty moves at which stage the players were still on even terms. Thus Torre has three adjourned games in all.

Gruenfeld of Austria holds fourth place by virtue of a draw with Opocensky of Hungary, in a queen's gambit lasting fifty-four moves. Gruenfeld had the white side and yielded the half point when a repetition of moves made it useless to continue.

Reti of Czechoslovakia profited by a blunder on the part of Saemisch of Germany, who played the queen's pawn opening and resigned after thirty-one moves. Reti is in fifth place.

Winning a piece from Janowski of France, who also opened with a Queen's Pawn game, Niemzowitsch of Denmark placed the point to his credit in 24 moves and thereby took sixth place in the race. Another brilliant game was won by Yates of England from Haida of Hungary whose Sicilian defense collapsed after 26 moves.

The pairings for the seventh round: Reti vs. Michell, Spielmann vs. Saemisch, Haida vs. Rubinstein, Torre vs. Yates, Opocensky vs. Thomas, Niemzowitsch vs. Gruenfeld, Marshall vs. Janowski, Tartakower vs. Przepiorka.

Players.	W.	L.	Players.	W.	L.

Syndicate Will Hold Craft Until a Racing Purchaser Makes an Offer.

The sale of the New York Yacht Club forty-footer Typhoon to a syndicate of yachtsmen who are owners in the forty-foot class was announced yesterday. The yacht was purchased from the estate of the late W. J. Ehrich, Stock Exchange member and yachtsman, who had raced Typhoon for several seasons and who died in March.

The forty-foot class is one of the keenest of the Long Island Sound racing units and the other owners did not wish Typhoon to fall into the hands of a non-racing yachtsman. In order to make sure that this would not happen, a syndicate formed by Harry L. Maxwell, owner of Banshee; W. B. Bell, owner of Mistral, and J. B. Dunbaugh and W. H. Hoffman, joint owners of Shawara, purchased the sloop yesterday.

Typhoon will be held by the syndicate until she can be sold or chartered to a racing yachtsman.

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON,
Special to The New York Times.

LONG BEACH, N. Y., May 27.—A record-shattering 70 by that metropolitan district homecomer, Macdonald Smith, professional at the new Lakeville Country Club, Great Neck, was the particularly outstanding feat in connection with the first qualifying round for the national open golf championship at the Lido Country Club today. Had it not been for this spectacular display of golf pyrotechnics by the holder of the North and South open and the California open titles the day would have been featureless, for there were no other unusual happenings, either good or bad.

Everything went along smoothly and evenly. There were no calamities and none of the recognized stars was eliminated, although some are on the border line. One hundred and eighteen golfers, professionals and amateurs, teed off for the first eighteen-hole test to eliminate all but the first sixty-five and ties. When they had completed their rounds only forty-three of these had been dropped, for there were seventy-five who turned in scores of 83 or under, which was the dividing line today.

The second half of the Eastern qualifying section will have its inning tomorrow and then those survivors and the ones of today will play another eighteen-hole round on Friday and the low fifty-eight and ties for the thirty-six holes of play will be eligible for the open proper at Worcester.

Weather Is Ideal.

The weather for the first day's play was hand-picked and if the scoring was on the nigh side certainly the elements were not to blame. In the forenoon, when Macdonald Smith and some of the others went out, the sun shone bright and there was scarcely enough wind to flap the flags on the greens. Toward later afternoon the wind came up out of the East and made the holes coming toward the clubhouse considerably more difficult, but at no time was it strong enough to prove an actual handicap. About the only cause for complaint that the golfers had was the bumpiness of the putting greens, which were not so good as they were even a week ago.

Smith was the first of the outstanding stars to tackle the pencil-and-card test, his partner being Tommy Kerrigan of Siwanoy. What gallery there was at this early hour flocked to watch the Carnoustie Scot, who is one of the red-hot favorites for the crown now worn by Cyril Walker. Their reward was a demonstration of how delightfully easy golf can be made even at Lido. For the six holes this machine-like artist went along in even 4s, his only near approach to an error being a spoon shot to the fourth hole, which he pushed a bit, but which cost him nothing in so far as par was concerned.

Going to the seventh he got his drive too far to the left of the fairway and his ball ran down into a trap. It was lying well and he gambled with reaching the green, more than 200 yards away, with a spoon and failed, knocking his ball only a short distance ahead, still in the rough. Taking a No. 3 iron he went for the green and caught another trap so that the hole cost him a 6 instead of the 5 he might have got by more conservative methods.

Out and In in 35s

He finished the first nine with two birdies, holing a putt of twelve or fifteen feet for a 2 at the short eighth and chipping up and holing a two-yarder at the ninth, so that he was out in 35, two under par. From the edge of the short fourteenth he knocked off two more birdies and finished 6, 4, a hooked second costing him a stroke on the seventeenth, so that his total on the incoming nine was another 35 for a 70.

The former competitive record for the course was 73 made by Paddy Doyle, the Lake Placid professional, when the course was practically identical in length. Smith's mark was due to wonderful putting chiefly, yet other parts of his game were letter-perfect, so letter-perfect as to elicit praise from Bobby Jones, who called it one of the greatest rounds ever played.

Before Smith's score was returned, Marty O'Loughlin, pudgy Plainfield professional, who won the metropolitan open championship here in 1922, held the place of honor on the score-board with a 73, which might have been several strokes less except for his putting on the first nine. Out in 39, O'Loughlin reeled off the low incoming score of the day—a 34—in which he had five 3s.

Kirkwood Hurts Hand.

Two New Englanders, John G. Curley, a young golfer from the Sankuty Head Club at Nantucket, and H. C. Lagerblade, followed with 74s, and after them came Doyle and Walter Hagen with 75s. Francis Ouimet of Boston, former national open and amateur champion, led the amateurs with a 76, which tied him with Freddie McLeod and Joe Kirkwood, who played his round with a badly lacerated middle finger on his left hand, the result of a losing argument with a locker before starting his round.

There were eight tied at 77, among them twenty-year-old Henry Ciuci of Westchester Hills, one of the country comers; Tommy Armour, former Scottish amateur star, whose putting let him down badly today, and Johnny Golden, North Jersey professional, who was one of the big winners during the Winter season.

Ten were tied at 78, among them Tom Kerrigan, Clarence Hackney, Willie Ogg, Jack Forrester and Jimmy Maiden, the Long Island champion. Among those above that figure and who have their work cut out for them on Friday are Emmett French, Youngstown, Ohio, star; Wilfred Cox of Marine and Field, Jack Dowling of Engineers, Cyril Hughes of Lancaster, Pa., and John Bredemus of San Antonio, Texas.

The afternoon gallery was divided in allegiance between the Hagen-Ciuci and Armour-Kirkwood pairs. Hagen and Ciuci were the first to start and for the first three holes it looked as if the youngster was going to give the master a lesson in golf, particularly in putting, which is one of Hagen's many fortes. Ciuci dropped a good twenty-footer for a birdie 3 at the first hole after a beautiful pitch from the edge of the fairway. On the second he holed a ten-footer for a par 4 after overplaying the green.

He got a par 3 at the third and led Hagen by two shots at that point. Then he ran into bad luck in having his perfect drive to the fourth hole bury itself, robbing him of a chance to get home on his second. He tried and was trapped below the green, came out short and then overran the hole. Hagen used his "big bertha" driving iron for his second and was hole high to the right. Ciuci led Hagen by a shot going out, but Walter struck his stride coming home and finished with a 75 to his partner's 77.

Despite the pain that his injured finger gave him, Kirkwood went out in 36 to Armour's 38, but the twelfth hole cost him a sad 7. He attempted to bite off distance by purposely slicing over the water, plumped in, and was playing three from the tee. He then pulled his approach to the "punch bowl" green into the sand and whiskers at the left and only saved himself from an 8 by a wonderful recovery to within holing distance.

LONG BEACH, N. Y., May 27.—An amateur, Philip Turnesa, brother of the famous Joe Turnesa, today got in the qualifying round of the first half of the Eastern test, which is preliminary to the national open play, by virtue of a hole in one, which enabled him to score an 82, the highest which permitted a contestant to enter the select division. His ace was scored at the 148-yard fourteenth hole, where three shots are the par limit. His mashie shot landed about twenty feet from the pin and the ball then rolled into the cup.

MISS ORCUTT FALLS IN MET. GOLF PLAY

MRS. JACKSON IS PUT OUT

Special to The New York Times.

SHORT HILLS, N. J., May 27.—The gaunt, gray shadow that menaces most medalists caught up with Maureen Orcutt as it stalked through the hills of Baltusrol today. The 18-year-old school girl, who plays from the White Beeches Club, after leading the field in the qualifying round and winning her first match easily, was eliminated from the women's metropolitan golf championship by Mrs. Thomas Hucknall of Forest Hills in the second round.

It was the collapse of high hopes for the youngster, but she brought it on herself with a display of golf that was far below her usual form. The day was ready for par performances, but there were none. The turf was soft enough to hold pitch shots and hard enough for substantial rolls after the wood was applied, but Maureen could neither hold her approaches on the green nor carry far from the tee.

She reached the turn in 40, but even at that figure managed to be one up, as Mrs. Hucknall was having her own troubles. Miss Orcutt held her own until the thirteenth, but the Forest Hills star then started playing close to par and carried off three holes in a row, winning by a margin of 4 and 2.

The others to advance to the semi-final round were Mrs. Wright Goss of Baltusrol, who showed a thorough knowledge of her home course and took full advantage of it; Mrs. Joseph Davis of the Women's National and Miss Marie Jenney of Hudson River. The four left in the fight were among the leaders in the qualifying round.

Former Champion Loses.

Mrs. Goss gained her semi-final bracket by eliminating Mrs. Arnold Jackson of Greenwich, who twice has held the national championship. The Baltusrol star had to fight an uphill battle most of the way, but when she came over the country that leads toward the clubhouse she was a very good 3 and overtook her opponent on the sixteenth green, clinching the victory at the next, 2 and 1.

Mrs. Davis furnished something of a surprise when she eliminated Mrs. N. K. Toerge of Nassau by the wide margin of 5 and 3. Mrs. Davis took advantage of her opponent's misplays and every time that an opportunity presented itself she came through with her best shots, laying her pitches dead to the pin and winning the hole on the green on more than one occasion after having been outdriven by several yards.

Marie Jenney, the hard-driving young player from Hudson Valley, scored her victory over Mrs. W. S. Bird of Sleepy Hollow at the home hole. Mrs. Bird put up a strong game against the longest hitting player left in the championship, but when she was on the verge of victory she went to pieces, missing a shot coming to the eighteenth green and losing a chance to carry the match to extra holes.

Miss Orcutt Starts Poorly.

Miss Orcutt got off to a bad start in her session with Mrs. Hucknall, taking a 7 on the first hole and faltering badly all the way. Mrs. Hucknall took the fifth to square the match and then halved the next two. Miss Orcutt went one up at the eighth and with a half at the ninth was leading at the turn. Coming home Mrs. Hucknall started to swing into her tee shots with extra energy and when she was within striking distance of the green she seldom failed to use her irons to the best advantage. The sudden change in her play could not be matched by the youngster, who was going along in faltering form. Mrs. Hucknall won the eleventh with a 5 against Miss Orcutt's second 7 of the day, halved the twelfth and then proceeded to win the next four holes in one over par figures, clinching the match on the sixteenth green.

The cards:

McKisse, Wykagyl, 2 up; Miss Cecile Behm, Rockland County, defeated Mrs. George Boschen, Englewood, 2 and 1; Mrs. D. M. Millard, Winged Foot, defeated Mrs. C. Moore, Siwanoy, 3 and 2.

NEW JUNIOR TENNIS MATCH.

Play Between New York and Middle States Teams on June 6.

An annual intersectional junior tennis match will be held between the New York and Middle States Sectional Associations of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. Announcement was made yesterday that arrangements had been completed for the match at the East Orange Tennis Club on June 6. Six singles matches and three doubles will be played and each team will be represented by a team of six to eight juniors.

The Middle States team will leave Philadelphia on the morning of June 6 and will be met at Newark by representatives of the East Orange Tennis Club, the New York State Association and members of the local junior team. The party will have luncheon at the Newark A. C. and will then motor to the East Orange club. The personnel of the New York team has not yet been completed. Players will be selected on the basis of their records. All juniors who desire to be considered as candidates for the team should send their ecords to Louis B. Dailey Jr., 120 Broadway, New York.

Carter and Rood to Meet.

Carl Carter, Cuban, and Al Rood, Long Island City heavyweight, will furnish the action Saturday night in the main bout of six rounds at the Ridgewood Grove S. C., Brooklyn. Four other six-round matches have been scheduled by Matchmaker Clarence Gillespie.

Tennis Entries Close Tonight.

Entries for the Brooklyn tennis championship, which starts at the Terrace-Kings County Tennis Club on Saturday, close tonight at 6 o'clock with Fred C. Anderson at the club house, 1,576 Ocean Avenue, Brooklyn. More than 100 entries are expected.

Connecticut Adopts Boxing Bill.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 27 (AP).—The House today adopted the State Boxing Commission bill, which provides for one instead of three Commissioners, the one Commissioner, appointed for four years, to have control of professional boxing and wrestling in the State.

Wins Golf Match as Shed Is Removed to Allow Shot

WESTWARD HO, England, May 27 (AP).—In the golf tournament for the British amateur golf championship here today the match between H. S. T. Tubbs of Stinchcombe Hill and the Hon. Michael Scott of Royal North Devon reached a sensational climax when a shed was ordered removed at the nineteenth green so that Tubbs could play his ball, which he had sliced on the second shot to a position under the shed. This order of the referee enabled Tubbs to halve the hole and to win on the twenty-first.

MEHLHORN'S PAR 71 SETS PACE IN WEST

Three Tie for Second in Golf Qualifying Test in Chicago —Chick Evans Has 74.

CHICAGO, May 27 (AP).—Bill Mehlhorn of the Westmoreland Club of Chicago, Western open champion, took the lead today in the midwestern elimination play of the national open golf championship at Onwentsia by scoring 33, 38—71, compared with par 35, 36—71, for the 6,440-yard course. Three others tied for second place at 72. They were Larry Nabholtz of Cleveland, Lloyd Gullickson of Columbus and Laurie Ayton of Chicago. It remained for Ayton to provide the fireworks on the second nine, for after taking a 40 he made five birdies on the way home for a brilliant 32.

Chick Evans of Chicago, former national and open amateur champion, outstripped the amateurs in spite of a recent illness and scored 37, 37—74, to nose out Bob Gardner, twice national amateur champion, by one stroke on Gardner's home course.

In contrast with improvement in form shown by Ayton was the upset experienced by Al Espinosa of Chicago, who, after going out in par 35, took seven above par on the return trip for a 43.

Out of 139 entrants nearly a score failed to report at the first tee, including Eddie Held of St. Louis, trans-Mississippi champion, who had been counted on to shine among the amateurs. A dozen more withdrew during the round and only 109 players finished, including one who scored 94 and two who required 90 strokes.

LAST OF AMERICANS BRITISH GOLF LOSER

CRUICKSHANK UNDEFEATED

WESTWARD HO, England, May 27 (AP).—America's chances for victory in the 1925 British amateur golf championship were crushed today when Douglas Grant, the lone American survivor, was eliminated by R. W. Crummack, the Lancashire champion, two up and one to play. The defeat of Grant, the former Californian, was the sensation of the round. Grant started well, but began faltering after the third hole and failed to play up to the standard again.

The play over the rain-soaked links today reduced the amateur championship field to eight players, of which the Argentine champion, J. I. Cruickshank, who brilliantly disposed of H. N. Hodge, is regarded by the experts as likely to be the contender in the finals, probably against the Scotchman, Robert Harris, who is co-favorite. Cruickshank surmounted the difficulties of casual water and heavy greens, which were added to those already existing on the course, without faltering.

In the fourth round Cruickshank lived up to the expectations of the gallery which followed him, by almost perfect play on the homeward half, winning by two holes on the home green after turning one down.

The Cruickshank-Hodge cards:

Out—
Cruickshank	4	5	5	4	3	5	5	2	5	—38
Hodge	6	4	4	4	4	5	4	3	4	—38
In—
Cruickshank	4	4	5	5	5	5	3	5	4	—39—77
Hodge	5	5	5	5	4	4	3	6	6	—43—81

In the fifth round Cruickshank, who was paired with Boumphrey, won the first hole in four and then won the seventh and eighth, at the latter of which—192 yards—he had a two. He got into the rushes on the ninth, losing the hole, then lost the tent with a bad approach, and was stymied at the eleventh, which made a trio of lost holes. He won the twelfth with a two-yard putt and became dormie three, and halved the sixteenth, winning the match.

Harris had a seesaw match in the fifth round with Major C. O. Stedet, neither playing brilliantly, but the Scotchman holed a long putt for a dormie two at the sixteenth and halved the seventeenth. Harris won by 2 and 1. In the fourth round Harris defeated T. A. Torrace by 4 and 3, while Major Hezlet beat W. L. Hartley by one hole.

Today's matches were made most trying by all-night rains which continued through the morning, and caused the start to be postponed until shortly after noon. Only once before in Hoylake in 1921, have the contenders had to play their matches under such flooded conditions, and then the final was only held up while the water was swept from a few holes. Today in all the matches the players had to contend with extensive sheets of casual water and heavy turf. It was not until 9 o'clock in the evening that the program was completed.

CANNEFAX KEEPS LEAD.

CHICAGO, May 27. — By winning the fifth block this afternoon by 50 to 48 in forty-one innings Bob Cannefax, world's three-cushion champion, kept the lead in his special 600-point three-cushion match wit Willie Hoppe. Cannefax now leads by the score of 250 to 240. Cannefax won the first block on Monday, 50 to 21, but Hoppe took the second, 56 to 50. Hoppe won the third block, at 47 to 50, but lost the fourth block last night by 50 to 28.

Mercur Beats Crocker in Orange Tennis

CROCKER PUT OUT AS TENNIS STARTS

Fritz Mercur Conquers Canadian, 8-10, 6-3, 6-2, in Opening Round for Gillespie Trophy.

STARS OF COURT GATHERED

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNTAIN STATION, N. J., May 27.—High on the slopes of Orange Mountain, amid one of the most pleasing and restful settings offered in New Jersey, leading players of the United States, Canada and Japan gathered today for the annual invitation tournament of the Orange Lawn Tennis Club. Here, on the carefully nurtured turf courts, in the hollow of an old estate in the English style, William T. Tilden 2d, Vincent Richards, Jack Wright of Canada, Masanosuke Fukuda of Japan, Wallace Johnson of Philadelphia and Dr. George King of New York, among others, will compete for the challenge trophy put up this year by President Thomas H. Gillespie. It is the first time this season that the outstanding players of the East have come together in tournament play in the metropolitan area.

Two other players were originally numbered among the outstanding contenders, but one of them defaulted and the other was put out in his first match today. Owing to the blistered conditions of his hands, which compelled him to retire from the Queensboro championship, Zenzo Shimizu, captain of the Japanese team, informed R. P. Bennett, Chairman of the Tournament Committee, that he would be unable to play.

Crocker Bows to Mercur.

Willard Crocker of Canada, winner of the Castle Point tournament at Hoboken, drew Fritz Mercur in the first round and Mercur, who learned his tennis abroad and learned it well, eliminated the Canadian. Crocker played far superior tennis to that he showed in defeating Horace Orser at Hoboken, which tells how well Mercur played. The score was 8—10, 6—3, 6—2. Better tennis in a first round match than these two played is found only in story books.

Neither Tilden nor Richards appeared today to the disappointment of the large gallery. Both will get into action tomorrow afternoon, when play will be resumed at 3:30 o'clock. Tilden is already in the second round, having drawn a bye, and between him and his third bracket stands Mason T. Ackerland of Elizabeth, N. J. Richards will meet Carl N. Jolliffe of Montclair.

The champion and his New York rival, who has grown out of the protégé stage, are placed at the top of the upper and lower halves, respectively, and if the play pursues its normal course the final should find Tilden and Richards facing across the net.

Among the other players to advance are Dr. King, who eliminated Anton F. Von Bernuth at 6—1, 6—2; Fukuda, who defeated Philip Vandeventer of Plainfield after a wicked first set, at 9—7, 6—4, and A. B. Sheridan of New Rochelle, former Yale star, who fell across the tape after a two-hour struggle with Ludlow Vandeventer, the winner, at 8—10, 10—8, 7—5.

Excellent Tennis Promised.

Crocker and Mercur were the first players to walk on the court, and if their match may be taken as a criterion the next few days should be crowded with the best tennis seen in these parts since the national championship at Forest Hills last August.

Mercur did not get going until Crocker had gained a lead of 3—1, but, starting with a rally that carried him ahead at 4—3, he played with compelling strategy and precision.

The Canadian stood up under the strain with a fine display of grit, for he is wearing a brace on his knee and is badly in trouble with blisters. Unmindful of these, Crocker constantly went to the net and gave a beautiful exhibition of volleying. He broke through in the seventeenth game and won the set in the eighteenth, but his legs failed to carry him fast enough in the next two sets, and he was unable to plug the gaps in his court against the position play of Mercur.

First Round—Jack Wright won from Walter Merrill Hall by default; Dr. George King defeated Anton F. Von Bernuth, 6—1, 6—2; A. B. Sheridan defeated Ludlow Vandeventer, 8—10, 10—8, 7—5; Dean Mathey won from Dr. Philip B. Hawk by default; Masanosuke Kukuda defeated Philip Vandeventer, 9—7, 6—0; Edward C. Oelsner defeated I. Saprustegui, 6—0, 6—2; Fritz Mercur defeated Willard Crocker, 8—10, 6—3, 6—2; Lindsay Dunham won from Zenzo Shimizu by default.

COMMERCE DEFEATS HAAREN NINE, 3 TO 2

Wins in Seventh on Single by Kozera—Clason M. A. Scores Victory—Other Results.

When Captain Peterson, with his own single, a sacrifice by Worshawsky and a single by Kozera, raced over the plate yesterday in the seventh and last inning of the baseball game between High School of Commerce and Haaren H. S. at Van Cortlandt Park, he carried the run which gave his Commerce lads victory by a score of 3 to 2 in a keenly fought struggle.

Albany to Enter Speed Boat In Race for Gold Cup Here

The City of Albany will enter a speed boat in the competition for the Gold Cup on Manhasset Bay next August, it was announced here yesterday by Charles F. Chapman, Secretary of the Gold Cup Regatta Committee. Mr. Chapman, who is well known as an amateur speedboat driver, accompanied Gar Wood on the fun down the Hudson on Tuesday against the Twentieth Century. A fund has been opened by the Albany Yacht Club and $5,000 has been contributed by club members as a basis for the "Gold Cup Fund." The entry in the race will be named Miss Albany.

MISS CASSEL GAINS JERSEY SEMI-FINAL

Defeats Mrs. Deane in Title Tennis—Mrs. Sohst and Miss Francis Also Advance.

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNTAIN STATION, N. J., May 27.—Three players reached the semi-final round of the women's New Jersey State tennis championship today at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club. They were Mrs. Theodora Sohst, Miss Clare Cassel and Miss Alice Francis. Mrs. Sohst defeated Miss Helen McAuslan, 6—1, 6—2, in a match that was much closer than the scores show, and Miss Cassel had a struggle for one set before she eliminated Mrs. A. G. Deane, 6—1, 9—7. Miss Francis put out Mrs. E. L. MacDonald, 6—2, 6—4, and will meet Miss Cassel tomorrow.

Mrs. Sohst will meet the winner of the third round match between Mrs. J. Saunders Taylor and Miss Florence Sheldon. The former experienced stubborn opposition from Mrs. E. B. Koukol, who carried her to 6—4, 7—5.

Play in the doubles championship started with ten teams entered. Mrs. Sohst and Mrs. Tayler advanced two rounds, defeating Mrs. William H. Pritchard and Miss Alice Francis in the second round, 6—3, 6—1. Other teams to advance were Mrs. John E. Bailey and Miss Hermine Kuhn and Mrs. John Coumbe and Miss McAusian.

Singles—Second Round—Mrs. J. Saunders Taylor defeated Mrs. E. B. Koukol, 6—4, 7—5; Miss Florence Sheldon defeated Miss Hermine Kuhn, 6—1, 6—0; Miss Clare Cassel won from Mrs. Eustace S. Miles by default.

Third Round—Mrs. Theodora Sohst defeated Miss Helen McAuslan, 6—1, 6—2; Miss Cassel defeated Mrs. A. G. Deane, 6—1, 9—7; Miss Alice Francis defeated Mrs. E. L. MacDonald, 6—2, 6—4.

Doubles—First Round—Mrs. John E. Bailey and Miss Hermine Kuhn defeated Miss Evelyn Pitshke and Miss Colby, 6—3, 7—9; Mrs. Theodora Sohst and Mrs. J. Saunders Taylor defeated Mrs. Martin Vorhaus and Miss Dorothy Brand, 6—1, 6—0.

Second Round—Mrs. Sohst and Mrs. Taylor defeated Mrs. William H. Pritchard and Miss Alice Francis, 6—3, 6—1.

BRITISH WIN TWICE IN DAVIS CUP PLAY

COPENHAGEN, May 27 (AP).—In the first match of the second round of the Davis Cup elimination matches in the European zone J. P. Wheatley, Great Britain, defeatel Axel Peterson of Denmark, 4—6, 6—4, 1—6, 6—2, 6—2. The British also took the second singles when J. B. Gilbert defeated Einar Ulrich, 6—1, 9—11, 2—6, 6—4, 6—2.

VIENNA, May 27 (AP).—The second round of the Davis Cup elimination tennis competition between Austria and India was postponed today to June 11, 12 and 13.

Defeats University of Rochester In Loosely Played Game.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 27.—Cornell defeated the University of Rochester in a loosely played game here today, 14 to 4. The game was featured by two home runs and two double plays. Two Rochester pitchers gave the Ithacans thirteen hits, which, coupled with errors and passes, acounted for heavy scoring in the early innings.

ST. MARK'S NINE WINS, 14-9.

SOUTHBORO, Mass., May 27.—St. Mark's School defeated the Groton nine here this afternoon in the annual game between the two rivals. Errors and weak pitching on the part of the losers accounted largely for St. Mark's victory, as the latter got only six safeties, to seven for Groton. In the fourth St. Mark's scored eight runs, and this was largely responsible for its winning score of 14 to 9.

The score by innings:

St. Mark's	0	2	1	0	6	2	2	0	0	—	14	6	3
Groton	3	0	2	0	0	3	1	0	0	—	9	7	0

BROOKLINE, Mass., May 27 (AP).—Joseph Russell of Manila, P. I., captain of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology tennis team, defeated Franklin P. Osgood of Pleasantville, N. Y., Dartmouth tennis captain, in the finals of the New England intercollegiate singles tournament today. The scores were 6—2, 3—6, 6—3, 6—3.

Osgood, paired with K. Boyd, won the doubles title for Dartmouth in the afternoon, the two defeating Clifford Marsh, last year's singles champion, and Mills F. Baker, the Williams Captain. The scores were 6—2, 6—3, 1—6, 2—6, 6—3.

DONALDSON SERVES ABELS TO DOWNFALL

TERRACE STAR IN RALLY

Overtakes Rival With Series of Service Aces to Carry Off Victory by 7-5, 6-4.

The semi-final round brackets were filled in the Queensboro tennis championship at the Kew Gardens Country Club yesterday when J. Cecil Donaldson of the Terrace Club and S. Onda won the remaining two matches in the fifth round. Donaldson, playing the same sterling brand of tennis that he has put up since the tournament started, eliminated Walter J. Abels at 7—5, 6—4, and Onda defeated Dr. William Rosenbaum at 6—2, 6—4.

S. Howard Voshell, the defending title holder, will face Reginald Talmage of the Terrace Club in the upper semi-final match this afternoon and Donaldson and Onda will meet tomorrow. The final will be held on Saturday.

Donaldson's victory over Abels follows in succession the victory of Abels over E. W. Wilson, who eliminated Ernest Kuhn, the conqueror of Percy L. Kynaston. According to the way the play has been going, Donaldson should be slated to lose to Onda, but if the Brooklyn star puts up the sort of tennis in his next match that he did against Abels he will be a hard man to beat.

Donaldson's service was one of the biggest assets in his victory. After Abels had gained a lead of 4—0 in the first set the Terrace Club star began to score on service aces and to force his opponent to make weak returns, which he put away with sharp volleys. His forehand drives carried the full length of the court and kept Abels on the run, compelling him to time many of his shots hastily.

The rallies were generally long, with Donaldson showing the greater steadiness and the better finishing shots. Abels had a good chance to take the first set when he led at 5—3, only to weaken and drop four games in a row.

GEORGETOWN TRIMS ARMY.

WEST POINT, N. Y., May 27.—Georgetown defeated the Cadets here today by a score of 12 to 3, making it the tenth defeat in a row for the Army. Bryan started for the Cadets and held the visitors until the fifth. After allowing three more runs in the sixth he was relieved by Carroll, who was unable to stop the visiting sluggers and was relieved by Easton, who held them in check.

The Cadets were unable to hit Burch consistently. Home runs by Scheppa and O'Neill were the features.

Title Contenders to Meet.

Championship contenders in the welterweight and featherweight ranks will exhibit their skill in two of the three ten-round bouts at the Queensboro Stadium, Long Island City, Monday night. Willie Harmon, welterweight challenger, is to face Sergeant Sammy Baker in one of the bouts, and Edouard Mascart, French featherweight, will engage Carl Duane of the Bronx in the other.

Clason Wins Track Meet.

MISS SAMUELS WINS AT NET.

Reversing the result of a year ago when the same two girls took part in the finals, Miss Ethel Samuels yesterday defeated Miss Nettie Rosenblatt in the final of the Spring tournament for the girls' championship of New York University. The score was 6—1, 4—6, 7—5, and the match was played on the courts of the Women's Athletic Center. By her victory Miss Samuels is the 1925 winner of the silver loving cup, competed for annually, which was won for the first time last year by Miss Rosenblatt and which is emblematic of tennis supremacy for girls at New York University.

The Country Has A Thousand Eyes

¶ To misquote the poet, "The country has a thousand eyes and the town but one." Absorbed in the pursuits of business, your fellow-men may not notice your clothes so keenly. However, when you are out in the country or on the links and men, having locked their cares in their desks, feel at ease and at leisure, no detail of your personal appearance escapes commendatory or condemnatory observation.

¶ Golfers particularly scan another golfer's get-up searchingly in quest of sprucer style, newer patterns, trimmer fit—or the reverse. You pass as a thoroughbred, or you are passed up as one who doesn't "belong."

¶ Willy-nilly, every sportsman is on exhibition. Don't take a chance; take a tip. The country has a thousand eyes. Be sure that you acquit yourself creditably before them.

BOB MEUSEL'S BAT REPULSES RED SOX

HE LEADS THE LEAGUE NOW

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

It was no trick at all for the Yankees to roll the Red Sox for another 4—3 victory yesterday. If the Boston folks haven't any harder puzzles than this to offer, they had better stop taking up the Yanks' valuable time.

The depression of the Bostonese can readily be traced to a homer by Bob Meusel in the sixth inning with two on bases. Bob has come in for a bit of booing lately. There have been subtle hints from the grandstand that Eddie Bennett, the mascot, would look better in left field. A few of the fans said that if Meusel was a slugger, then they were reigning princes of Hindustan.

As a result of all this goading, the Californian has hit two homers in two days. Greeted with a salvo of jeers in Tuesday's second game, Robert dented the left field grass with a lengthy drive. Yesterday, in response to another raspberry chorus, he flicked a fly in the same direction and made the round trip standing up and going away. It was his tenth homer of the season and put him into the lead in the American League.

With Babe Ruth leading the cheers from the steps of the dugout, the Yanks scored all four of their runs in the sixth. Paul Wanninger tripled to right with one out and scored on Dugan's two-bagger, which dropped into an unguarded spot down the left field foul line. Ordinarily it was only a single, but Bill Wambsganns forgot to cover second base. Bill must have been dreaming of the day he made an unassisted triple play in a world's series.

Then Comes Meusel's Crash.

Combs followed Dugan with a walk and Meusel came up to catch the opening bars of the anvil chorus. Suddenly a loud crash was heard and the Boston outfielders were seen running hurriedly toward the fence. The ball landed on Meusel's favorite spot, abaft the running track, and rolled to the fence. Despite the best efforts of the Sox and Coach Charley O'Leary, Meusel scored. O'Leary, at third, held up a stern warning hand, but Meusel only giggled loudly at this signal and came on around the base.

The game was one of those sad affairs that are bound to break out despite the best efforts of the baseball authorities. It was soporific and dull, even when the Red Sox uncurled a futile rally in the eighth that carried them to within a run of the home side. This had the effect of banishing Alex Ferguson, but Waite Hoyt strolled in and rendered the Sox null and void without much effort.

Charley Ruffing, a twirler whose previous appearances in these parts have been confined to daily dozens in the bull pen, started in the box for Boston. For five innings it was feared that this stripling youth would foil the Yanks. They made but two hits in that time and enjoyed only a nodding acquaintance with first base. At the height of his success, however, Charles fell with a thud in the sixth. Paul Zahniser, the recent Washington twirler, and Chester Ross, a previous acquaintance of the Yanks, divided the rest of the labor.

Ferguson Issues Eight Walks.

The chief trouble with Ferguson was that he couldn't propel the pill over the plate. In seven and a third innings he conferred eight walks. This was all the more foolish because when Alex did put the ball over the Sox couldn't hit it. He was on his way to a low-hit game when he fell afoul of rallies in the sixth and eighth.

One Boston run resulted in the sixth when Ike Boone started with a double to left. Todt lined to Veach for the second out but Wambsy walked and Prothro singled to centre, scoring Boone.

It was this same Boone who rocked the boat in the eighth. As a signal he laced a rugged homer into the right field bleachers. Ferguson passed Todt and Wambsy cut a single to left. Prothro's bunt was gobbled by Pipp, but young Vache, hitting for Lee, shot a hit to centre, which scored Tedt.

Out went Mr. Ferguson. Hoyt, spinning a fast ball, fanned Heving but walked Connolly, a pinch hitter. With the bases full Williams was persuaded to fly briefly to Meusel.

Ruth was in full view all afternoon. With his cap turned around in catcher fashion, he perched comfortably on the second step of the dugout, looking as contented as a small boy at the circus with a bag of peanuts. Before the game he went through the customary batting and fielding antics. Every time Ferguson got into a hole, the Babe megaphoned advice and encouragement. Consequently he was shouting most of the afternoon.

GIANTS DROP THIRD IN ROW TO BRAVES

By HARRY CROSS.
Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., May 27.—Another infant pitcher of the Boston Braves distributed considerable anaesthetic southpaw pitching at the Giants this afternoon and gave them the terrible shock of a third straight defeat. He was Ike Kamp of Pittsfield, Mass., and when he got through he had the Giants dangling at the tnin end of a 5-to-3 score.

Grover Hartley, who had been nominated to play first against left-handed pitching, and George Kelly were the only New Yorkers who showed any familiarity with Kamp's curves. They got three hits each.

Jack Scott, entertaining on the mound for the champions, was bruised for six hits in the sixth and seventh innings, just enough to give the Tribesmen a worthy claim to the game.

The Giants have lost eleven games this season and the Braves have taken five of these. And it was only a few days ago that baseball fans feared that the Giants were going to make a runaway race of this year's flag pursuit. You never can tell much about this game of baseball.

Braves Burst Out in Seventh.

The seventh movement of the day's tone poem in which the Braves hurdled to the lead was fraught with tingling nerve disorders. Bob Smith nicked Scotty for a single to centre and Gibson forced him, Jackson making a great play to do it. Kamp helped himself to a single and Bancroft snapped a hit to short, for which Jackson uncorked a flying tackle. The bases were filled, neighbor.

Neis rolled an irresponsible sort of tap toward first and Hartley got it as soon as possible to chuck home for a force-out, but Gibson was safe at the plate on the fielder's choice.

Marriott nudged his third hit of the matinee to left and Kamp and Banny did the Charleston over the plate. Wilson juggled the ball long enough to permit Marriott to go to second. Harris snapped a noisy one to Lindstrom, who pegged home and exterminted Neis.

The chapter had reached the point where it was decidedly distressing when Jackson threw Burrus out and called a halt.

Hartley Halts and Is Out.

A bit of mysterious base-running squelched some New York run ambition in the first. With two gone, Hartley singled to left. Kelly smashed a seething slam to centre and Hartley, after passing third, stopped as if he had been held by a traffic cop. Then he started ahead on full steam and was out at the plate by numerous and sundry feet, Felix to Smith to Gibson.

Kamp did some devastating pitching to the Giants in the second. He whiffed Walker and did the same thing to Wilson, Jackson going out to centre by air line.

The Braves contributed some foolish base-running in the second. After Harris had fanned, Burrus singled to centre. This lad has hit safely in the last fifteen games. Felix hit a hopper at Scott, who chucked to third and Burrus was run down. For some unknown reason, Felix had taken such a big lead off second that he was doubled up by half a block.

Well, the Giants quit fooling for a moment and harvested a couple of runs in the fourth. Harris captured Young's high flier as a starter and Hartley smacked a single to centre. Kelly's rap to right sent Hartley to third from whence he counted a ticket and Jackson's single to centre pushed Kelly over while Wilson went to third. Gowdy could not prolong the good work rolling out to Kamp, who carried the ball over to first to make the putout himself.

Braves Recover One.

The Braves got one back in the same inning. Neis singled to right and went to second on Marriott's one-base slap to centre. Harris's sacrifice transported the boys along a station as it was intended to do. Burrus hopped a bouncer to Jackson and while Marriott was being run down between second and third, Neis was across with a unit.

Old man Hartley got his third hit of the game in the sixth, but none of his clubmates were successful in imitating him at this particular time.

These young pitchers of the Braves are all perfect strangers to the Giants. When Mr. McGraw gets back on the job he is going to take steps to get them better acquainted.

To the rest of the baseball world the Braves may be accomplishing an unusual feat in trimming the Giants three times in a row, but the Bostonese in their conservative way are not excited about it. They probably don't believe it.

The attendance here has not been as large as that of an Indian medicine show. Today's assemblage was about the same as one would see in front of a drug store window watching a demonstration of a razor sharpener.

Pickups and Putouts

The Yanks made ten hits but only four had any bearing on the game. The others will be useful when they check up on the batting averages.

One of the things that made it a pleasant afternoon for Lee Fohl was Veach's sturdy batting. Fohl traded Bob on the ground that he was wornout ivory, but the old-timer was present with three singles.

Lee also got rid of Ferguson, who allowed only one run in seven innings. This makes Miller Huggins look like David Harum.

The Los Angeles cruised over the park before the game and then turned around and went home after recognizing the Red Sox.

Picinich got a raw deal in the seventh. Batted for Ruffing and poked a wicked grounder back of second, but Wanninger slipped over for a gaudy gloved hand stop.

FORDHAM SUBDUES CITY COLLEGE, 11-1

GRAHAM GETS A HOMER

Fordham administered a severe beating to the City College baseball team, 11 to 1, yesterday at Fordham Field. Joe Harrington led the Maroon to victory from the mound, letting only two C. C. N. Y. batters hit safely. Halsey Josephson was hit thirteen times by the Fordham batters, including a home run by Zev Graham.

The first three men to face Josephson drove out singles. White hit to right, while Landry and Woerner followed to centre, White scoring. Malone grounded out, advancing the runners, and Carter singled to left, scoring two more. Carter figured in the Maroon's run in the third when his hit counted Malone, who had walked, stolen second and gone to third on a passed ball.

Four more runs were added to Fordham's column in the fourth inning. Again Carter batted in a run when he tripled with Malone on first. The Maroon third baseman then beat Stolkin's throw to the plate on Dunn's ground ball, and Graham hit a home run over Plaut's head in centre, scoring two more. Josephson then fanned McPeak and Harrington.

Harrington's vision of a no-hit game was spoiled when Hodesblatt singled to left in the sixth. Halpern, who had walked, taken second on White's fumble and third when Raskin forced Plaut. Harrington did not allow another safe blow until the ninth, when Match hit to left.

In the eighth, Fordham's last turn at bat, White singled and went to third on Delaney's smash. Josephson hit Woerner with a pitched ball, filling the bases, but two errors by Raskin let two more Fordham runs come over the plate.

Gets 12 Hits and Big Lead in First Six Innings—Ruckstall, Dixon and Hoffmann Star.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 27.—The Brown University nine beat Harvard, 7 to 2, on Soldiers' Field today. Captain Trumbower of the Bears held Harvard to six hits, three of which were bunched in the first inning when the Crimson scored both its runs.

Brown made twelve hits against "Babe" Hormann in six innings, later being stopped by Spalding, who was hit safely only once in the last three frames. Ruckstall, Dixon and Hoffmann each made three hits, and Keefer, the Bears's football star, made two fine catches in right field.

PRINCETON WINS IN NINTH.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 27.—Princeton defeated the Crescent A. C. here this afternoon, 12 to 11, after the visitors had tied the score in the ninth. Twelve extra-base hits rattled off the bats of the players, Slagle leading with a homer, a triple and two singles in five times up. After the Crescents had tied the score in the ninth on Formosa's triple and an infield out, Slagle laced the first ball pitched to deep centre for three bases. La Beaume's hit to deep left scored the winning run.

SKEETERS SPLIT 2, ORIOLES LOSE LEAD

Drop Opening Game of Double Header, 4-3, Then Capture Final, 10 to 6.

By coming through with a victory in the second game of yesterday's doubleheader at Jersey City by a score of 4 to 3, after losing the opener to Baltimore, 10 to 6, the Jersey City Skeeters pulled the Orioles from the lead in the league race, a position they had maintained ever since the start of the season. The Toronto Club now leads in the standing.

JOE HARRIS'S BAT SUBDUES MACKMEN

Gets Two Homers and His Triple Gives Senators Margin of Victory in 10-9 Battle.

LOSERS WELCOMED HOME

PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—This usually placid city went a little bit baseball mad today when the Athletics came home to dedicate their enlarged park and entertain the world's champion Washington Senators. A big crowd packed into Shibe Park and rooted through an old-fashioned slugging bee that unfortunately did not have the proper Philadelphia climax, for the Senators won, 10 to 9.

The fifth inning proved the unlucky one for Mack's warriors, who again have revived pennant hopes in American League circles here after a lapse of more than ten years. In this exciting session Joe Harris of the Senators slashed out his second homer of the game with two on base, and before the inning was over Washington had made seven runs and had driven Slim Harris, the Athletics' hurler, from the mound. In the eighth Joe Harris tripled and gave the Senators a run, and this one proved the margin of victory, for the Athletics scored two in their half o fthe same inning. Harris's first home run came in the fourth, but with no one on base.

GENERAL DAWES KEEPS IT UP.

In his address at Birmingham, Ala., yesterday Vice President DAWES was fortunate in having the presence and support of Senator UNDERWOOD. The latter has long believed in the desirability of a new rule in the Senate to end debate. If this gave General DAWES somewhat the appearance of preaching to a man already converted, it yielded him the advantage of being backed up by a moderate and sensible speech from OSCAR UNDERWOOD. That Senator showed from history and from his own Senatorial experience the real purpose of those who insist upon the right to filibuster indefinitely in the Senate. It is true that some bad bills have been killed in that way. But a much larger number of good bills have been slaughtered. And behind all has been the incentive to grasp by means of the filibuster at "political power or political advantage." Senator UNDERWOOD would never think of denying a "reasonable opportunity for debate." But the unreasonable debate which is permitted by the present rules of the Senate not only defeats the very purpose of calling together a legislative body, but often is used so as to "enable a minority to dictate to a majority the terms on which legislation may be passed."

General DAWES pointed to the position taken by Senator UNDERWOOD and by some other members of the Senate as proof that the campaign upon which he has entered for a revision of the Senate rules is non-partisan. He describes himself as a man who had not sought the Vice Presidency, but who, finding it thrust upon him, conceived it to be his duty as "the only elected official having constitutional relations to the Senate of the United States as a whole" to carry to the voters the issue of so altering the rules of the Senate as to secure "the constitutional rights of the majority." About the Constitution, in fact, as bearing on his argument, the Vice President had a good deal to say, not always convincingly. He seems to think that it confers upon a majority the right to have its way. This must be a matter largely of vague inference. The direct and explicit provision of the Constitution is that the Senate is entitled to make its own rules of procedure. If they deny, or seem to impair, the rights of the majority, there could at least be cited for such rules a definite constitutional warrant. Should the Vice President ever succeed in forcing discussion of this point in the Senate he will have to listen to Expounders and Defenders of the Constitution until he drops from his chair in sheer exhaustion.

If the complaint could be narrowed to the long and irrelevant speeches delivered in the Senate, it is probable that General DAWES would evoke a wider popular response. The abuse of the freedom of speech in parliamentary bodies is coming in for criticism in other countries. The Canadian Parliament is considering plans to shut off long-winded and time-consuming orators. The same trouble is constantly rising to vex the House of Commons. The matter was referred to in the tributes paid to Lord OXFORD, formerly Mr. ASQUITH, on receiving the Freedom of the City of London a few days ago. He himself said in reply to the praise bestowed upon him:

> I do think I did something to shorten speeches. I have always had in my mind what was once said of a famous American orator—that he was like a train of fifteen cars with only one passenger. That is prolixity, and prolixity, believe me, is the child of idleness. If people would take pains to be as industrious and prudent in condensing and concentrating their remarks as so many seem to be in expanding, embroidering and exaggerating them, I think that in the House of Commons we should have a higher and more effective standard in our public speech.

PARKS OR POLITICS?

The question at Albany is whether the Republican leaders are willing to give the people of New York State the parks for which they have voted $15,000,000 or will prefer to play politics. For six hours and more Governor SMITH confronted them with this alternative, and their ultimate choice was for politics. As rewritten in the Legislature, the Thayer bill vested authority as to all purchases of park and parkway sites in the State Land Board and all responsibility as to the titles with the Attorney General. The delay and expense involved in this have been conspicuously and repeatedly set before the public in statements from various State Park Commissions. Governor SMITH characterizes these statements as "unanswerable," adding the qualification, which in effect is even more damaging, that "at least no attempt was made to answer" them. His original charge, in his veto message, that the bill would enable the Republicans to "build up a patronage machine" and to "dip at will" into the park funds is likewise unanswerable and unanswered. The Republican leaders, in their brief statement of Tuesday, said only that they could not "take the responsibility" of agreeing to change the provisions which their followers had made.

How profitable this obstructionist policy will prove politically remains to be seen, though Governor SMITH's record in like situations makes possible a shrewd guess. As to its effect upon the future of State parks there can be no doubt. Local commissions have secured options upon sites that are invaluable and unreplaceable, yet the options will expire in a few weeks. Delay at Albany may cramp and dwarf park development for all time. To the sum total of present purchases and developments, delay is equally unfortunate. Returning prosperity has already increased the demand for country places, and the rising price of land will be reflected in extensive acquisitions yet to be made. At best fifteen millions is no great sum when spread over a State so large and so richly varied in beauty spots that of right should belong to the public.

Fortunately, the State Park Council, though its members are Republicans, finds the position taken by the majority leaders nothing short of "amazing." There is hope also in the fact that not a few members of the Legislature come from constituencies interested in park development—as who is not in this day of motor recreation? No step should be omitted that will tend to get behind the Governor.

ANOTHER "MENACE" IN KANSAS.

"ED" HOWE once tempered his praise of "the fairest and most agreeable of all the Good Gentlemen" of Sunflower Land by saying that although politics is "BILL" WHITE'S "dearest pleasure, he knows practically nothing about it." If this judgment could be accepted, lovers of Kansas would be less perturbed by Mr. WHITE'S assertion that the State "is resting under a real danger." Some elders may be reassured, even by a statement so portentous. They know that Kansas never rests; and that "dangers" and "menaces" are always as thick there as grasshoppers used to be. Mr. WHITE'S newest "menace" is the re-election of former Governor DAVIS, lately acquitted of a criminal charge. Mr. WHITE fears a great wave of sympathy for JONATHAN, who, after all, is a "bungler." The election of this "bungler" would be "dire calamity piled upon disgrace." Yet, if Mr. HOWE is right, Mr. WHITE is a political bungler himself.

All may yet be well if Governor "BEN" PAULEN "plays no politics." He has "played a decent game." If he doesn't keep it up, "hell will be out for noon" next year. We had great confidence in JONATHAN DAVIS because he was the essential man, a dirt farmer. We have great confidence in "BEN" PAULEN because, though he is an outlander, like the Pythagoras of Potato Hill, he came into the State in the sacred vehicle, a covered wagon. Probably "ED" HOWE never rode in anything more nearly resembling one than a baby carriage or a limousine. And we have great confidence—and delight—in Mr. WHITE'S temperament. If, on Thursday, he was shuddering at "a terrible menace," on Friday he was happy as a big Sunflower because GEORGE SNODDY, "only yesterday a bright, eager-faced schoolboy" in Emporia, had been appointed Professor of Clinical Psychology at the University of Indiana; happier still because a Chicago Professor had verified his contention that "Utopia is in the Middle West"; that the "Central West, prepared by geologic forces for man's use for one billion years, is the most favorable place for developing a great civilization."

What, then, happened on Thursday? Mr. HOWE has told us of Mr. WHITE'S revels last Fall. He boasted of breaking all the dietary rules imposed on him for his own good; of wandering joyfully about the State, drenching himself with coffee, eating two orders of pancakes at breakfast, two ducks at dinner in Mr. HOWE'S palace. Thursday the longing for that free, epicurean life was strong in him. There must be a "menace," another independent campaign, another joyous progress in the most humorous of Fords, flocks of roast duck, mountains of pancakes, oceans of coffee. "He boasted," says "Ed," that "he was the only man in America of 56 who could carry that many ducks. He is as fat as a seal." We must expect to be "confronted," from time to time, with the "menace." What is "menaced" is not good government, but the efforts of Mr. WHITE'S wisest counselors to train, diet and reduce him.

IRELAND AT WORK.

In going back to his old occupation as teacher of mathematics, EAMON DE VALERA is at one with his countrymen. They, too, have gone back to work. A popular epigram once reported that peace had broken out in Ireland. The present state of peace in the Irish Free State has rather stolen over the country while observers from the outside were still poised in the watch for trouble in the most distressful country. Routine has succeeded strife. President COSGRAVE has said that the problem of standardizing the Irish egg and Irish butter is now realized to be of greater importance than the interpretation of political formulae. The budget introduced last month testified to political and economic improvement by a reduction of the income tax and abolition of most of the breakfast table duties. In large measure tax reduction was made possible by the cessation of civil strife and a consequent cut in the armed forces. The immediate concerns of the Government are with reconstruction, humdrum or dramatic. The beet-sugar industry is to be inaugurated next Fall. At the same time work will be begun on the scheme for turning the romantic waters of the Shannon into power and light.

The process of recuperation was perceptibly stimulated by the outcome of the Ulster Parliamentary elections at the beginning of April. Sir JAMES CRAIG appealed to the country on the boundary issue. Ulster responded with a reduced majority for CRAIG. Two Nationalists, including JOSEPH DEVLIN, have taken their seats in the Belfast Parliament. The intransigent Ulster attitude on a boundary settlement has thus been weakened. Meanwhile, the Boundary Commission under Justice FEETHAM of South Africa has been hard and silently at work. The forecasts are that the commission will not report any radical changes in the frontier, but sufficient rectifications will be made to strengthen the Free State Government against its republican critics.

Whether DE VALERA'S return to the ways of peace means permanent peace we shall have to wait to see. With more than forty followers, he refuses to take his seat in the Dail. A fortnight ago there arrived at Washington an "envoy of the Irish Republic," who announced that he was acting under orders from DE VALERA. Yet these may be gestures to keep the republican record clean. Irish weariness of strife is manifest. Dissensions within the Cosgrave Government have disappeared. The fuel famine in Western Ireland, which involved great suffering and might have been expected to threaten the stability of the Government, has been surmounted. Ireland is now among the happy nations whose newspaper annals are reduced to a minimum.

THE AMUNDSEN MYSTERY.

In the discussion about Captain AMUNDSEN'S course in the event of inability to return from the Pole to Spitzbergen his plan of action, given in his own words, seems to have been overlooked. The explorer intended to make his way to Cape Columbia. If his party has escaped disaster, the march probably has begun. After his arrival at King's Bay AMUNDSEN made this statement:

> The distance from the Pole to the depot already established on Cape Columbia is about 437 miles. With provisions sufficient for six weeks and taking twelve miles as the average day's march, we should be well on the safe side. North of latitude 85 degrees we could not hope to eke out our stores by shooting anything, but south of that we should be able to do so at that time of year if necessary.

Before his departure from Oslo the leader of the expedition declared that it would be so well equipped that if anything went wrong, which would be indicated by the failure of the planes to return to Spitzbergen in about two days, a relief party need not be sent out. AMUNDSEN was confident that he could take care of himself and his companions. He held the view that no following expedition could be any better equipped. There seems to be no reason to doubt that both the machines made a non-stop flight to the vicinity of the Pole on May 21. If one had got out of control and fallen, the other, it may be assumed, would have returned to King's Bay. When last seen, after an easy start, they were flying smoothly. The plan was to proceed along the coast to Dane's Island, and "if all is well," said AMUNDSEN, "we shall then turn straight to the Pole. But if everything is not satisfactory, we shall return to King's Bay or land at Dane's Island, to await there the arrival of ships." It was his design to spend only enough time at the Pole to take observations and fly back. There is no longer any doubt that something happened to prevent the return of AMUNDSEN'S party to Spitzbergen, unless the leader, having made landings and found his planes in good condition, decided, after taking complete observations, to go aloft, reconnoitre for land in the area southwest of the Pole, and then lay his course for Cape Columbia. There would be 900 miles of flying left in his machines, and a bit over. AMUNDSEN would be capable of such a change of plan. He has the imagination and the daring. Clearly the hazard would be less than that to be incurred in a trek to PEARY'S old base.

If the engines were properly tuned up and the planes sound when King's Bay was left behind, the expedition, with good luck, would be in a position, if a safe landing were made, to go on to Cape Columbia. There is one thing that conflicts with this optimistic speculation and that is AMUNDSEN'S implied obligation to report at King's Bay after a successful flight to the Pole. The world would know in less than three days of his achievement, whereas if he flew to Cape Columbia it would hear nothing of him for months, perhaps for almost a year.

One or both of the planes may have crashed in attempting a landing near the Pole. Then there would be nothing for the survivors to do, if physically able, but to set out over the ice to Cape Columbia. But the odds would certainly be against them.

ONE MORE CHILD OF THE INTERESTS.

Mayor HYLAN'S colleagues do not imitate his indefatigable vigilance. He was compelled to "name" two who absented themselves from a meeting especially summoned to listen to his exposure of the Port Authority. But this did not prevent him from defying it to secure tax-exempt property:

> I am going to continue my fight against the Port Authority. This is an infant super-government, a child of the interests, and I am going to fight it as long as there is life in my body.

Thus the city learns of the Mayor's determination to make his ideas law despite the enactments of two States and of the United States. The Federal Government yielded to the claim of the Port Authority that, as a governmental instrument, the salaries it pays are exempt from taxation. New York and New Jersey enacted that there should be no taxes levied upon the bridges to be built over the Arthur Kill, because taxes would obstruct the creation of taxable values which never would exist if the bridges were not built. The vehicular tunnel between New York and New Jersey is exempt as property and is built with tax-exempt bonds.

There might well be praise of the Mayor's vivid imagination which enables him to foresee railways and dock companies selling their property to the Port Authority and thereby securing tax exemption. The Port Authority's plans are of public record and propose no such thing. If the Mayor should succeed in subjecting the Port Authority to New York City taxation, he must concede the same right of taxation to the 180 cities within the Port jurisdiction. The credit of the Port Authority could not survive such a threat to its solvency.

AN AMPUTATED NATION.

The troubles of Austria may be better understood by the somewhat imperfect analogy of supposing New York State to be suddenly cut off by military and tariff frontiers from the rest of the country. The territory thus isolated is rich, but inadequately balanced to meet the demands of the State's population. New York City in particular lives largely on trade and other relations with the rest of the country. Erect a high barrier between New York and its market and source of supplies, and the result would be embarrassing, to say the least. Vienna finds itself in a somewhat similar situation. Having for generations been the financial and business centre of a great empire, dependent for its supplies and its business life on intercourse with all its parts, it found itself left with only a small strip of agricultural territory and a fine collection of mountains. High tariff and political barriers were erected between the remnant and the new nations formed out of the former imperial territories.

Since then it has become clear that the political barriers cannot at present be removed. All efforts have therefore been concentrated on lowering the tariff barriers. During the last two years a series of trade treaties has been negotiated with neighboring States, which has done much to ease the strain. In this work Austria has had the support of Dr. BENES, the able Foreign Minister of Czechoslovakia, who is broad-minded enough to see that the resumption of trade relations to the fullest possible extent is in the interest of all the States that have grown out of the old Austrian Empire. At the coming session of the League of Nations in Geneva the Austrians are expected to make new and strong pleas for further lowering of the trade barriers still existing between Austria and her neighbors. It is the hope of the Austrians thus to facilitate the resumption of those former trade relations which made the existence of Vienna possible.

The importance of doing everything feasible to encourage the full flow of trade between the various nations of Central Europe cannot be too greatly stressed. In particular is this true in the case of Austria, whose economic future is precarious despite the aid given her by the League. Many Austrians still hope to be able to develop sufficient water power in the mountains to facilitate manufacture and reduce coal imports. Others believe that the agricultural resources can be increased so that Austria will not have to import much food. But in the meantime Austria must try to live by her trade. The fewer the obstacles that exist, the more rapid will be her recovery and the sooner will come the time when she will be self-sustaining.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

An Attack Gave It Importance.

WARD GREENE, evidently writing from personal knowledge, presents in the June issue of The American Mercury what he calls "A Note for the History of the Klan." It is the story of the starting of the Ku Klux Klan as this generation knows it, with the name of the old one but not much else.

It was a very small beginning by two men, SIMMONS and CLARK, who were regarded by their acquaintances in Atlanta with humorous and half-pitying tolerance, as engaged in a queer money-making scheme of next to no importance to anybody except themselves. According to Mr. GREENE, nobody in Atlanta took the new Ku Klux Klan with any seriousness or ascribed to it any merit until The New York World chose to attack it and in a series of carefully documented articles exposed the sordidness of its leaders and the ruthless exploitation to which their followers were subjected. Immediately the organization profited in a way that would have been impossible in any other part of the country. Nobody in Atlanta took the trouble to refute The World's charges, but there was a general feeling of resentment that Northerners should have presumed to meddle with a matter that belonged exclusively to the South.

The result was that The World's campaign was the making of the absurd and noxious Klan. It at once found defenders in men who only had laughed at it before, and Mr. GREENE'S implication is that except for outside interference the Klan would have remained the weakling it was then and perished soon. He also says that LEO FRANK never would have been lynched had not his Northern friends "moved heaven and earth to save him"—that again it was Southern resentment of attempts by outsiders to tell the South what it should and should not do.

One wonders that a Southern writer should put forward a theory so little creditable to the intelligence of his section, but the theory has a certain plausibility. It would have more if the Klan had not spread through several States before The World attacked it, and if it had not gained, later, great power in many parts of the North, where the same feelings do not prevail.

Case of Another Meddling.

By whatever of accuracy there is in Mr. GREENE'S explanation of the Ku Klux Klan's rise to power, and of the LEO FRANK lynching, by so much is there created a likelihood that it was a grave mistake, from Professor SCOPES'S point of view, for CLARENCE DARROW and DUDLEY FIELD MALONE to offer their services as counsel in his approaching trial for teaching evolution in the Dayton High School.

Tennessee is not Georgia, to be sure, but it has a good deal of the general Southern confidence in its own ability to attend to its own affairs without help from the North, and of the ineradicable Southern belief that Northerners do not and can not understand Southern problems. It may be, therefore, that these eminent lawyers will hurt rather than help the professor's case.

Whether Mr. BRYAN counts as a Southerner or not we do not know. If the title is refused to him, he may balance the other two as a meddler on the other side—create, that is, equal motives for acquittal and conviction of Professor SCOPES, and what will happen then?

Incidentally, why does Tennessee stop at biology in its maintenance of the Bible's authority on scientific questions? The astronomy textbooks used in the State's schools are contradicted by a far larger number of biblical texts than that supporting belief in the special creation of man, and there is a lot of very high and old authority for maintaining that the astronomers are not only wrong, but wicked and blasphemous, in contending that the earth goes around the sun, instead of the sun going around the earth, which anybody can see with his own eyes is what the sun really does. The ecclesiastical magnates of GALILEO'S day energetically characterized him as a sinner who was as poor as a philosopher and physicist as he was as a theologian.

The geologies now used in Tennessee's schools, too, are quite as objectionable as the astronomies and the biologies, and in consistency the State should bar all science teaching of every kind. None of it is based on the Book of Genesis. Even Mr. BRYAN seems willing to grant all the animals to the evolutionists. That is just as heretical as is the inclusion of man in the common system.

His Case Is Good but Hopeless.

Having noted that our alphabet hasn't half enough characters to give a separate symbol to each separate sound in spoken language, which is what a perfect alphabet certainly would do, FRANK H. VIZETELLY solemnly proposes the addition of thirty-six new letters to the twenty-six we now have! He even has gone further and has drawn the forms of the new letters as he would have them! They include eight variants on our present "a," five on our "e," and so on.

This is an excellent idea, with a lot of good arguments in its favor. There is probably only one against it—people simply will not take the trouble that would be involved in substituting an ideal alphabet for our admittedly imperfect and insufficient collection of letters. Perfect alphabets have been made before, just as have perfect languages, but they all have been rejected, and in all probability they never will be accepted anywhere. Somehow they are out of harmony with fundamental human instincts, and with our inveterate tendency to put up with familiar ills until they become really intolerable.

The estimable spelling reformers have run up against that tendency. They have dented it a little, but it still stands firm, though they ask far less than does Mr. VIZETELLY. And then there is M. B. CORSWORTH, with his admirable year of thirteen months, each with twenty-eight days. He, too, is unanswerable in argument, and is confident of winning at last and even soon, but the rest of us have more than doubt.

Medicine's New Department.

There is a lot of talk about "glands" at the big medical convention in Atlantic City. Some of the speakers have only derision for the more sensational claims made for extracts from these mysterious organs, and none of them seems to believe that youth can be restored by their use.

The denials, however, are by no means as numerous as are the assertions that this or that gland serves enormously important purposes in the physical economy, and that the much already accomplished with them is going to be multiplied as time goes on and knowledge increases.

Several of the gland products already have entered into the routine practice of medicine, and there is every indication that they are worthy of further study and research. There are quacks in that field, but there are also wise and careful men not a few.

ORIGIN OF DIVING HELMET.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of May 22 you publish a wireless communication from William Beebe relative to the use of the diving helmet in submarine zoological work at Cocos Island, in the Pacific Ocean, southwest of Panama. With regard to the use of the diving helmet, Mr. Beebe says that he and others are "surprised that such a simple method has not been used before for serious scientific collecting. I consider it as one of the most important discoveries of the expedition."

Now "to keep history straight" I wish to present the following facts: In The Journal of the American Museum of Natural History for February, 1918, Vol. 18, pages 134-38, I published an article entitled "On the Use of the Diving Helmet in Submarine Biological Work," illustrated by four figures. In this article I traced backward the present day diving suit to an apparatus that was essentially a diving helmet with a skirt coming below the wearer's shoulders, invented and used by Siebe in 1819. Earlier than this an egg-shaped metal cylinder had been used by Kleingert of Breslau in 1798. This in turn was preceded by the leather helmet of Vegetius.

The first known use of the helmet in submarine biological work was by Milne-Edwards, the distinguished French zoologist. Some time between March, 1844, and June, 1845, Milne-Edwards descended to the bottom of the Bay of Taormina and thoroughly explored its reaches, as he did other bays on the southern coast of Sicily. The full account may be found in A. de Quatrefages's (E. C. Otté translator) "The Rambles of a Naturalist on the Coasts of France, Spain and Sicily." London, 1857, Vol. I, pages 158-60; Vol. II, pages 15-18.

The diving helmet, or rather the helmet of a diving suit, was extensively used in the shallow water work on the extension of the Florida East Coast Railway from Homestead to Key West. I so saw it used at Key West in July, 1914. In 1915 Professor W. H. Longley of Goucher College, Baltimore, and Dr. Lewis R. Cary of Princeton University did considerable experimental work with the diving helmet at the Marine Biological Laboratory of the Carnegie Institution of Washington at Tortugas, Fla. This I myself saw.

Since 1915 the diving helmet has been a part of the regular equipment of the Tortugas Station, and during every season since then Professor Longley has spent hours of almost every working day down among the coral growths studying the adaptations of the fishes to their habitat.

In the course of this work he has originated a method of taking notes while seated on a block of coral with the fishes nibbling at his pencil and fingers. Furthermore, he has devised an effective technique for taking submarine photographs, and has an extensive collection (amounting to hundreds of negatives) of the most extraordinary photographs that have ever been made in the history of the world.

Studying Fish Under Water.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a communication published this morning Mr. Beebe refers to his use of a diving helmet in the study of underwater animals, and expresses surprise that no one has previously thought of using this apparatus. May I say that Professor Longley of Goucher College has used such apparatus each season for the past ten years in a study of the coloration of tropical fish in the West Indies, Hawaii and Samoa? His results have appeared in various papers published by the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

GEN. MILES'S LAST ACT.

He Died as He Resumed His Seat After Saluting the Flag.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An interesting incident in connection with the death of Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles has gone untold. I venture to send it to you because I know that his many friends will find in this story something characteristic of his whole life and service which they will delight to remember.

General Miles, as the news reports told, was at the circus. For many years it had been a special pleasure of the old soldier and Indian fighter to go to this event, and to take either his grandchildren or other youngsters. He had had a gay lunch at the home of Mrs. William E. Noble, the mother of his son's wife, anticipating with his grandchildren the joy of the afternoon at the show.

The General was in his seat when the show began. He watched the grand march of the acrobats, chariots and clowns about the arena. Then, just as the performance began, according to custom, "The Star-Spangled Banner" was played by the band and the Stars and Stripes were unfurled. The General rose, with every one of the spectators, and stood with his hand at salute. It was exactly at the moment he sat down that he collapsed; and death was virtually instantaneous.

The last act of the old warrior's life was to stand and salute the flag of his country, to which he had given his life's service. I am sure that that is as he would have wished it to be—and that his friends will be glad to know of it, as I was.

TWO WEDDING SONGS.

(For Laura.)

She'll make you pies from cherries,
She'll baste and brown your meat;
In all the town and country
No house will be so neat.
Her busy hands will fashion
An ordered garden close
Where punctual beds will blossom
With hollyhock and rose.
But, oh, my lad, she'll never
Go out at fall of dew
And come back, bringing softly,
A bunch of stars for you!

(For Lysiane.)

Little hands she has and lovely,
Little mouth of bittersweet—
Lad, she'll pluck you stars but never
Keep your cottage neat.
Narrow shoon she wears, my laddie,
Narrow, narrow shoon—
Climbing to the moon.
Honey-dew she'll be, and poppies;
Sodden crust she'll bake for you;
Not a lass you're safe to marry—

KATHRYN WORTH.

AGAINST LISTING ALIENS.

Representative Celler Says Registration Would Be Persecution.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial in your issue of May 19 concerning Secretary of Labor Davis's advocacy of registration of aliens is well taken. Those who are legally here should undoubtedly be protected against the passage of coercive legislation, like the registration of aliens, which is advocated by the Secretary of Labor in the vain hope that it will prevent smuggling or "bootlegging" of aliens. Only a border control can prevent the surreptitious entry of immigrants, and the Secretary of Labor is enthusiastically misguided if he thinks that registration or finger-printing of aliens already here will prevent others from coming in illegally.

Catherine the Great of Russia was once asked to affix her name to an edict which would abridge the liberties of her subjects. She said, "If I sign my name to that parchment, I will be signing my name upon the skins of my people, and they would resent it."

Any law that would require aliens to register would get under the skins of over five million aliens in our country and cause untold hardship and resentment, and would serve no useful purpose. A flood of bills has been introduced into Congress, and shot through them all runs the requirement of yearly registration upon the payment of a fee of $25 per year under penalty of banishment and deportation for failure to register.

Registration of this type has always been utterly foreign to us. We have always treated citizen and non-citizen alike, which treatment is required by our Constitution. Registration of aliens would give rise to an espionage that would be as remorseless as it would be cruel. It would be a harking back to the days of the spy system of Czaristic Russia and the practice of espionage of the Kaiser. Annual registration would require the alien to go through the torture of an inquisition, wherein he would have to give information concerning his past, his present and his future, and some of the plans even require that he be finger-printed.

We have had sad experiences with previous attempts to register aliens. It was the enforcement of the Alien and Sedition laws by the Federalist Party under President Adams, back in 1800, that swept the Federalists from power and gave rise to the Democratic-Republican Party and the consequent election of Thomas Jefferson.

It is known that from 20,000 to 25,000 French aliens left the country upon the passage of these Alien and Sedition laws, fearing the dire consequence thereof. They left the country rather than suffer the indignity of registration. During that turbulent period thousands of humble individuals were harassed, oppressed and punished most unjustly. All those who had been arrested for failure to register were pardoned by Jefferson, who in his Presidential message of 1801 said: "Every man has a right to live somewhere on this earth, and if somewhere, no one society has a greater right than another to exclude him."

We had another sad experience with registration of aliens when we attempted to register the Chinese. At the time of the Chinese exclusion laws there were about 100,000 Chinamen in the country. There was ushered in the train of these laws requiring registration an unparalleled amount of blackmail, extortion, chicanery and most excessive zeal on the part of Chinese inspectors. Despite registration, Chinese still entered in droves.

Furthermore, these bills contain no statute of limitations. An alien who has been here for many years could be pounced upon and ripped from the bosom of his family and banished. An alien may have crossed the border without paying a head tax some twenty or thirty years ago and may have firmly and fairly established himself here. Yet he would be subject to the drastic provisions of the act despite his long stay.

Registration would unduly force naturalization, as a citizen would not have to be registered. Naturalization should never be hastened. Embracing our citizenship and disavowing foreign allegiance is not like the taking off of an old coat and putting on a new one. It should be a deliberate act and should be replete with patriotism and a love of our country's institutions.

Furthermore, such a law would not detect and ferret out anarchists and criminals. Criminals would register. They would be too slick not to do so. It does not necessarily follow that our criminal class are only aliens. Statistics manifestly show that aliens have no monopoly of crime.

Registration is only an entering wedge to greater danger. Already the Police Commissioner of New York City, having returned from South America, brings back the idea that in addition to registration of aliens, which he has recommended, all citizens should be compelled to carry finger-printed cards of identification with photographs affixed. We are told that the honest citizen can get his card for a dollar a head. The crook, however, as the system is worked in South America, cannot get one; without a card, we are told, he cannot get employment. It seems to me that under these circumstances he would rob all the more diligently, because he could not get means of subsistence by work.

How under the sun could we finger-print and photograph the constant stream of visitors going in and out of New York City? I am sure the citizenry of New York would not relish being finger-printed and mugged for the edification of police officials. Let the citizenry of New York and the country beware lest such a thing befall if we allow the entering wedge of registration of aliens.

Earnings of Princeton Men.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have just seen the letter by C. H. J. of Brooklyn, dated May 11, recently published by you, in regard to the incomes of the Class of 1915 of Princeton University. Mr. C. H. J., by some process of calculation which his letter does not make quite clear, has arrived at a yearly salary of $3,200, instead of the $7,503 which was announced in these statistics. Inasmuch as I have had the opportunity of seeing the individual questionnaires upon which these statistics were based, I am forced to question his conclusions.

The questionnaires show that, of the men who have changed their occupations once or more, the average earned income is just as high as those who have not changed and who C. H. J. presumes have been placed in these occupations through family connections.

A further interesting fact is that the man who has by far the largest earned income in the Princeton Class of 1915 is a man who worked his way through college and who has made his way in business absolutely without family connections of any sort.

FISH WOULD PUNISH DEBT CRITICS ABROAD

KAHN DIRECTLY INDICATED

Representative Insists Banker and Others Are Misrepresenting This Country.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—American citizens who have been leading French officials to believe that this country would approve a cancellation of the war debt are liable to prosecution under the Logan act, which forbids Americans from making plans with foreign Governments to defeat the policies of the United States, President Coolidge was told today by Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. of New York, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

While he mentioned no name, a statement given out later by Mr. Fish showed that he had in mind Otto H. Kahn, for he said he would like to see a test case made against "a prominent New York international banker for apologizing for the United States having asked France to recognize and fund the war obligations," and who was reported as saying the presence of Premier Painlevé at the Inter-Allied Club: "If at times you hear words that offend you, always put it down as the fact that they do not come from the soul of the American people, but from the politicians, who do not represent the nation."

Mr. Fish said, "By whom was this banker authorized to speak for the soul of America, and to belittle the President and Congress in foreign lands?"

Asks President to Act.

A request that the Logan act, with its penalties of a fine up to $5,000 and imprisonment up to three year, be enforced against "a number of American bankers and newspaper men who have been misrepresenting the views of the Administration and Congress in talks with French Government officials," was made to the President by Mr. Fish, but it is understood that Mr. Coolidge did not commit himself one way or the other.

Mr. Fish stated later that if the Department of Justice did not carry out this part of the Criminal Code he probably would bring the matter up in Congress. He said a member of Congress had assured him that when a copy of the act was printed in the newspapers he would at once demand of Attorney General Sargent that prosecutions be instituted.

The attitude of Mr. Fish is regarded as a direct reflection of the recent indignation of the Administration over expressions made to the French by several prominent men, who, the Administration considers, are not only working fruitfully against its plans but are doing great harm to the French by raising unjustified hopes. Spokesmen acquainted fully with the Administration's ideas have denounced such utterances within the last two weeks.

Terms of the Logan Act.

The Logan act, to which Mr. Fish called the President's attention today, is Section 5 of the Criminal Code and reads:

> "Every citizen of the United States, whether actually resident or abiding within the same, or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, or in any foreign country without the permission or authority of the Government, directly or indirectly commences or carries on any verbal or written correspondence or intercourse with any foreign Government or any officer or agent thereof, with an intent to influence the measures or conduct of any foreign Government or any officer or agent thereof in relation to any disputes or controversies with the United States, or to defeat the measures of the Government of the United States; and every person being a citizen or resident within the United States or in any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, and not duly authorized, counsels, advises or assists in any such correspondence with such intent, shall be fined not more than $5,000 and imprisoned not more than three years; but nothing in this section shall be construed to abridge the right of a citizen to apply himself or by his agent to any foreign Government or the agents thereof for redress of an injury which he may have sustained from such Government or any of its agents or subjects."

"Presidents of Chambers of Commerce, bankers, eminent lawyers, journalists, former diplomats and many of the officers, commanders and chevaliers of the Legion of Honor have rushed over to France to settle the war debts by an offer of cancellation or by other misrepresentations," Mr. Fish declared.

"Practically all these would-be negotiators hail from New York City, except a few from New England, and unless a stop is called to their un-American propaganda it will be useless to try to convince France and other European debtor nations that the United States Government means what it says.

Hits at "New Type" of Citizen.

"At the outset of the World War we were troubled by the presence of hyphenates, but now we are annoyed by a new type of American citizen, who applauds all things foreign, particularly French, and finds fault with all things American, particularly our Government.

"We must not forget that the American taxpayers are still paying $900,000,000 a year in interest on the war debts and that the taxpayers of Great Britain and several smaller nations have recognized the validity of their war obligations and are paying up, but that France, Belgium and Rumania, instead of funding their debts, have been either loaning money to other nations or making payments in spite of the prior claims of the United States.

LOUISE CANTWELL TO WED R. OHMER

To Wed Robert B. Estelle, Who Served Overseas in Essex Troop—Miss Mary MacBurney Betrothed.

Mr. and Mrs. John Andrew Cantwell of Utica, N. Y., who have been in New York for a few days, announced yesterday the engagement of their daughter, Miss Louise Cantwell, to Raymond Ohmer of this city and Dayton, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Cantwell came here for the commencement exercises of the Spence School, from which their daughter was graduated yesterday. The engagement was made known to the classmates of Miss Cantwell at the senior class luncheon of that school, which was held at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Mr. Ohmer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Francis Ohmer of Dayton, and he has been here for some months in the interests of the Ohmer Fare Register Company, of which his father is the President. He is secretary of the company. The wedding of Miss Cantwell and Mr. Ohmer will take place in St. John's Church, Utica, on June 24.

Riker—Estelle.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Pierson Riker of 1,050 Park Avenue have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Enid Ambrose Riker, to Robert Bruce Estelle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Estelle of this city and Belmar, N. J. Miss Riker is a graduate of Dana Hall and was introduced to society three years ago. She is a descendant of one of the earliest families settling in this country. She is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ambrose and a great-granddaughter of General Patten, who fought under General Jackson in the Civil War.

Mr. Estelle, who served overseas during the war in the Essex Troop, lives at the Calumet Club. No date has been set for the wedding.

MacBurney—Bumsted.

Mr. and Mrs. Elgin L. MacBurney of 97 Gifford Avenue, Jersey City, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Eleanor MacBurney, to J. Howard Bumsted, son of Mrs. Daniel Bowley and the late J. Howard Bumsted of Jersey City.

Miss MacBurney attended Smith College and will be graduated from the Columbia School of Journalism in June. Mr. Bumsted was graduated in 1922 from Williams, where he was a member of Psi Upsilon fraternity. He is a member of the Williams Club. No date has been set for the wedding.

Levy—Beekman.

Mrs. L. Napoleon Levy of 101 East Seventy-fourth Street, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Alma Hendricks Levy, to Robert S. Beekman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Beekman of 30 West Seventieth Street. Mr. Beekman served overseas as an officer in the Rainbow Division during the war. The wedding will take place early in the Autumn.

FREDERICA WATRISS TO MARRY TODAY

The marriage of Miss Frederica Watriss, daughter of Mrs. Charles Delavan Wetmore of 8 West Fifty-third Street, and Frederic N. Watriss, to Edward A. Weeks Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Weeks of Elizabeth, N. J., will take place at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the chantry of St. Thomas's Church. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Dr. S. Taggart Steele of Grace and St. Michael's Church, Baltimore, and will be followed by a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wetmore.

The bride, whose uncle, Walter S. Thomson of Philadelphia, will give her in marriage, will have her sister, Miss Martha Watriss, as her only attendant. Rufus King Weeks will be his brother's best man. The ushers will be William Wetmore, William Whitman 3d of Boston, Peirce Romaine of New York, Robert Alden Reaser of Yonkers, Paul V. Mravlag of South Orange, Bradley Davidson of Philadelphia, Rutgers Brewoort Jones of Princeton and Arthur Gardiner of Kent, England.

Following their wedding trip to Virginia the couple are planning to make their home in Cornwall. The engagement was announced the last of February. Mr. Weeks, who is a graduate of Harvard, class of 1922, was the Fiske scholar at Cambridge University, and is now an associate editor of The Atlantic Monthly.

TOUR BY H. E. MANVILLES.

Family Will Visit Glaciers on Horseback and Camp in Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Edward Manville of 125 East Seventy-second Street and their children, Miss Estelle Manville and H. Edward Manville Jr., will leave New York on July 11 for Glacier Park in the Rocky Mountains, where they expect to arrive on July 14. Thence they will ride horses to Many Glacier, a journey of a week, stopping at chalets on the way. From the glacier they will start out with a new pack train, including horses, guides, cooks and a camping outfit, and will cross the Canadian border to the Canadian Rockies.

On their return here, about Aug. 19, Mr. and Mrs. Manville will go to their new country place, Hi-Esmaro, at Pleasantville, Westchester County.

Grandson's Name Changed on New Yorker's 70th Birthday.

In celebration of the seventieth birthday of Frank B. Wiborg, his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald C. Murphy, whom he was visiting recently in Paris, legally changed the name of their son, Beith Murphy, 6 years old, to Frank B. Wiborg 2d. Mr. Wiborg has just returned from a visit to Europe.

Miss Mary Hoyt Wiborg has returned to London from a visit to Spain, where she was the guest of General and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt. She plans to return to New York late next month.

Adolph Lewisohn Has 76th Birthday

At a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Lewisohn, 881 Fifth Avenue, last evening in honor of Adolph Lewisohn's seventy-sixth birthday, a number of the guests spoke of Mr. Lewisohn's varied philanthropies. They include a yearly gift of $50,000 to the New York Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies. He is a liberal donor to Mount Sinai Hospital, stadium concerts and technical schools in this city.

Dance by Overseas Aviators.

An informal dance will be given tonight at the Town Hall Club by members of the First Reserve Aero Squadron Club of Overseas Aviators, of which Dr. E. Garnsey Brownell is President. Mrs. Charles Addison Miller will receive the guests.

SOCIAL NOTES

New York.

Mrs. Walter Phelps Bliss of this city and Wendover, Bernardsville, N. J., accompanied by her daughters, the Misses Sibyl and Priscilla Bliss, will sail today on the Belgenland. Other passengers will be Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Dudley Kerr of Carlton House, Mrs. R. Stanbury Sutton, Mrs. L. Sutton McKee, Miss Harriet McKee, Mrs. William V. S. Thorne, and Wylys, Walter and Baldwin Terry.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Low Pierpont of 580 Park Avenue will sail next Saturday on the Olympic.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Bjornstrom Steffanson of 50 East Fifty-seventh Street, who sailed on the Aquitania, will make a short stay in Sweden. They will return to New York early in July and will pass the remainder of the Summer in Newport.

Mrs. Mordecai Jackson Crispin of 375 Park Avenue gave a luncheon yesterday for Mrs. Freeman Hall of Dallas, Texas, who will sail on the Carmania on Saturday.

Miss Emily Schniewind, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schniewind Jr. of 8 East Seventy-ninth Street and Wyndhem, Glen Cove, N. Y., sailed yesterday on the Suffern under the care of Mlle. Berthe Bert to take a post-graduate course in music in Paris. Miss Margaret Schniewind already is in Paris studying the violin. Mr. and Mrs. Schniewind will sail on the Mauretania June 24, accompanied by their son, Henry Schniewind 3d, and their youngest daughter, Miss Emily Schniewind, to travel in Switzerland.

Mrs. A. F. Lauterbach of 763 Fifth Avenue will leave on June 1 for her apartment at 156 Twenty-second Street, Jackson Heights, where she will remain during the Summer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Balfour Clark of Bernardsville are at the Ambassador. Mr. and Mrs. Fran's X. Sadlier, who are at the hotel, will leave today for trout fishing in Canada.

Mrs. Frank Earle Hayward has returned to 156 East Seventy-ninth Street after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Terry West in Biltmore Forest, Biltmore, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. de Lancey Rankine of 334 Buffalo Avenue, Niagara Falls, N. Y., have sent out invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Gertrude Ruth Rankine, to Paul Drane Van Anda, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carr V. Van Anda of this city, which will take place on June 20 in St. Peter's Church, Niagara Falls. The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Robert L. Kane and Miss Alice Kane of Woodmere, L. I., and Awosting, N. J., will sail on the Olympic June 20 for a tour of the Continent.

Mrs. Frank H. Platt and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Livingston Platt, have come in from Rye and are at the Weylin.

The former Governor of Rhode Island and Mrs. R. Livingston Beeckman, who have arrived from White Sulphur Springs and are at the Madison, will leave tomorrow to open their house at Newport for the summer.

Mrs. Charles E. Pettinos and Miss Eleanor Pettinos, who have been at the Plaza, plan to sail for Europe on the Mauretania on June 3.

Mrs. Armstead Davis of Washington, is at the Ritz-Carlton.

LAMBORN IMPROVES BY SERUM TREATMENT

MONTCLAIR, N. J., May 27.—A cablegram received today by Mrs. Joseph A. Hufmann of 72 Watchung Avenue said that the condition of John Warren Lamborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Lamborn of 250 Upper Montclair Avenue, who was stricken with pneumonia last week while on his honeymoon aboard a steamship bound for Bermuda, was markedly improved and that he was expected to continue to show improvement.

When news reached Mr. Lamborn that his son was ill, he cabled to doctors at the hospital in Hamilton, Bermuda, where the ship was to arrive, and was informed that they had no serum for the treatment of pneumonia.

Mr. Lamborn obtained serum in New York and, accompanied by his wife, boarded a Porto Rican-bound ship after getting special Government permission to land at Hamilton. He and his wife, on being taken off the ship there by a tug, found their son in such a critical condition that the doctors had to use oxygen to keep him alive.

Young Lamborn was married to Miss Elizabeth Holden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Flynn of Fall River in the Hotel Biltmore, New York, on May 16. Mgr. Michael J. Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, performed the ceremony.

PROF. WHICHER HONORED.

A marble character study of Professor Emeritus George Meason Whicher, poet and classicist, was presented today to Hunter College by Miss Yan Macleod, sculptress and alumna. Miss Rose Lewisohn of the Board of Trustees accepted the gift for the college.

Miss Macleod eulogized the attainments of Professor Whicher and his influence upon his students. Tribute to his work was also paid by Dr. L. G. Reiss, his successor, and by Professor Helen Gray Cone.

Professor Whicher retired a year ago after serving twenty-five years as head of the Latin and Greek Department. He now lives at Amherst, Mass., and devotes much of his time to lecturing.

Dinner for Miss Helen M. Hines.

Miss Marion Leary gave a dinner at Sherry's last night for Miss Helen Macfarlane Hines, whose marriage to Paul Tison will take place on Monday in St. Bartholomew's Church. Besides Miss Hines and her fiancé, the guests included Mr. and Mrs. Van Dyke Cox, the Misses Mary Van R. Cogswell, Mary Steers and Claire Tison, Douglas Allen, E. E. Watts Jr., Mason Partridge Jr. and Alexander Tison.

General Crowder Enters a Hospital.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Major Gen. Enoch H. Crowder, U. S. A., retired, American Ambassador to Cuba, arrived here from Havana this afternoon and went to Walter Reed General Army Hospital, where he will be operated on for double hernia.

Mary Miles Minter's Sister Weds.

LOS ANGELES, May 27.—Margaret Shelby, sister of Mary Miles Minter, former film actress, yesterday became the bride of Hugh Fillmore, a manufacturer. Miss Minter was not present.

SIR W. F. BARRETT, SCIENTIST, DEAD

PIONEER IN PSYCHIC FIELD

LONDON, May 27 (F).—Sir William Fletcher Barrett, scholar and scientist, died here today at the age of 81.

Sir William founded the Society for Psychical Research and formerly was its President. He discovered in 1899 certain magnetic and electrical properties of the silicon-iron alloy, now known as stallory, which has been of much value in electrical engineering for the construction of transformers and dynamos. His writings covered a wide field of philosophy, science and psychical researches.

He was born on Feb. 10, 1844, the son of an English clergyman, and was educated at Old Trafford Grammar School in Manchester and through private study.

Began Career at 19.

When he was only 19 his aptitude for scientific work was such that he was engaged by the famous physicist, Professor John Tyndall, to assist him in his researches. Four years later Sir William became the Science Master of the International College, and in 1869 became a lecturer on physics at the Royal School of Naval Architecture.

In 1873 he was appointed Professor of Physics in the Royal College of Science, Dublin. He taught that subject there for thirty-seven years, resigning in 1910.

Sir William's untiring investigations and his achievements in physics were rewarded by the Universities of London, Edinburgh and Dublin with the degree of Fellow of the Royal Society. Other honors were memberships in the Institute of Electrical Engineers and the Royal Irish Academy. He was also made a Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature, and elected a Justice of the Peace of the County of Dublin. In 1912 he was knighted by the King.

A Prolific Writer.

A prolific writer on scientific matters, Sir William is known not only for his views on physical phenomena but also on their relation to the psychic. His most notable works are "On the Threshold of a New World of Thought," "On Creative Thought," "On Swedenborg," "On Psychical Research," "On the Threshold of the Unseen," "Discovery of and Papers on Sensitive Flames," "Shortening of Nickel by Magnetization," "Thought Transference," "Researches on the Electric and Magnetic Properties of Alloys and Iron" and "Researches on Entoptic Vision."

Throughout his mature life Sir William defended the temperance cause and engaged extensively in philanthropic work. His chief recreation was gardening.

Lady Florence Elizabeth Barrett was a noted English physician when Sir William married her in 1916. Her record of medical achievements occupies nearly half a column in the English "Who's Who."

THOMAS R. MARSHALL ILL IN WASHINGTON

Ex-Vice President Suffers From Nervous Exhaustion and a Cold, but Is Slowly Improving.

WASHINGTON, May 27 (F).—Despite his 71 years, Thomas R. Marshall, former Vice President, who is suffering in his suite at the New Willard Hotel here from nervous exhaustion and a cold, was said by his attendants tonight to be making his way slowly toward recovery. Dr. B. L. Hardin, his physician, declared his condition improved through the day, but estimated that it would take a week to put the patient on his feet.

Atlee Pomerene, former Ohio Senator and Government counsel in the oil reserve cases, called to see Mr. Marshall late today, but was not admitted to the sick room. Mrs. Marshall, who had made several brief excursions from the hotel during the day, informed Mr. Pomerene that the former Vice President was "getting better," but was asleep at the time.

Brig. Gen. John H. Rice Here to Inspect Du Pont Powder Plants.

The French liner France arrived late yesterday from Havre and Plymouth with 342 passengers and mails. As it was too late for the fifty aliens in the first class and the seventy-eight in the second class to pass the immigration doctor they were detained on board for the night and will be examined early today. The American citizens in the first, second and third class were landed at the pier.

Among them was Brig. Gen. John H. Rice, U. S. A., retired, who is now ordnance engineer with the du Pont Powder Company, and has his headquarters in Paris. For nine months during the war he held the rank of General and was Chief Ordnance Officer of the American Expeditionary Forces. He has come over to visit the company's plants and will be here for a month.

Others on the France were Mrs. Howard E. Cushing, J. D. Sawyer, Mrs. George S. Kaufman, Mr. and Mrs. John Van S. Bloodgood and Comm. Vincenzo Fago.

Captain M. Blancart, the master of the France, said that the ship was late in arriving due to strong head winds and fog.

OPPOSES WAR MONUMENT.

Astoria Legion Commander Is Against Association's Plan.

Announcement by Moses Symington, President of the Long Island City War Memorial Association that a monument was to be erected in Astoria Park with the $20,000 new in the society's possession has caused a storm of protest among World War veterans in Long Island City. John Prowse, commander of Astoria Post, American Legion, said last evening that his post was almost unanimously opposed to the erection of the monument. He said the post had entered the campaign to raise the money now held by the society with the understanding that a club house was to be provided. The decision of his post led others to join in the campaign.

"What is a public memorial today," said Commander Prowse. "A place for children to crawl around and soil, and where dust and dirt collects. All the veterans in Long Island City could use a memorial building. If the directors feel they want to do the community real good I would suggest they devote the $20,000 to the American Legion Endowment Fund for the rehabilitation of veterans."

J.

GOLD STAR MOTHERS HONOR FRENCH DEAD

PARIS, May 27 (F).—The group of American gold star mothers, whose ranks have been slightly depleted by attacks of grip caused by the fickle temperature of Paris and today's showers, placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier this afternoon. They were accompanied by French women representing the "Souvenir Français" Association, who are their sisters in sorrow. The ceremony was brief and informal but impressive.

The French and American mothers, despite their differences in language, are finding a common bond of sympathy. Following the exercises the whole party attended a reception in the apartment of Mrs. Johnston Preston, whose son was shot at Verdun in September, 1918.

At the reception Robert P. Skinner, American Consul at Geneva, representing the United States Government; Count Fleury of the French Government and Countess de Caen welcomed the Americans on behalf of the French mothers, assuring them that French women would never fail to decorate their boys' graves on Memorial and All Saints' Days. Mrs. H. A. Vedder expressed thanks in behalf of the American delegation.

Only eight of ten gold star mothers are indisposed by the climate and fatigue of the journey. They are remaining in bed as a precaution in order to be able to attend memorial exercises at the cemeteries and battlefields next Saturday, and are receiving the best attention.

All of the American mothers have been deeply moved by the reception accorded them by the French generally and the American colony.

MARRIAGE UNITES OLD TANGIER FAMILIES

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TANGIER, May 27.—A marriage was celebrated today in the principal synagogue of Tangier, which presents features of exceptional interest. The bride is of a distinguished local family named Toledano. She is a descendant of an Israelite of Toledo, who fled from Spain and settled here in the fifteenth century. The family of the bridegroom, Maurice Abensur, goes back in an unbroken line to the same period.

Both pedigrees are preserved in the synagogue, and as is customary they were read by the Rabbi at to-day's ceremony.

The earliest Abensur ancestor mentioned in the pedigree was a refugee from Spain, who arrived in Tangier in 1491, immediately after his father was burned alive by the Inquisition in Spain. Formerly, when this tragic detail was read by the rabbi at the weddings of this family, the cry was raised in the synagogue:

"May God avenge him!"

But, thirty years ago, at the demand of the Spanish representative to Morocco, this cry was suppressed, and the response was changed to:

"May God pardon them" (meaning the Spaniards).

J. DE WITT WARNER DIES FROM STROKE

A WRITER ON MYTHOLOGY

Once President of City Art Commission and Former Head of American Free Trade League.

John De Witt Warner, former Congressman and New York lawyer, died yesterday in his home, 103 East Seventy-fifth Street, from the effects of a paralytic stroke suffered about one month ago. Mr. Warner was 73 years old, having been born in Yates County, N. Y., Oct. 30, 1851.

He was educated in Cornell University, where he received his Ph. B. degree in 1872. Then he enrolled in the Albany Law School, from which he was graduated in 1876 with the degree of LL. B. The same year he was admitted to the bar and established practice in New York City. A staunch espouser of the Free Trade principle, he was elected to Congress on the Democratic ticket, serving from 1891 to 1895. He then resumed the practice of law here, with offices at 302 Broadway.

Mr. Warner, in 1911 and 1912, served as special counsel for the Dock Department to advise it on questions concerning terminal improvement work. In 1920 he became publicly conspicuous for criticising the Judiciary Committee, which failed to recommend Justices John Ford and Peter A. Hendrick of the Supreme Court for renomination—a measure which violated the tradition of re-endorsing candidates whose previous official records had been on the whole satisfactory.

The lawyer was an ardent lover of art and was the oldest member of the Sculptors Society. Last year this fact was recognized formally by the society, which tendered him a dinner at which a medal was presented to him.

He was President of the Art Commission of the City of New York from 1902 to 1905; President of the American Free Trade League from 1905 to 1909; Governor of the Municipal Art Society, President of the Shakespeare Club and belonged to the American Playgoers, National Society and Mural Painters. His other affiliations included the National Arts, the Cornell University, the Delta Kappa Epsilon Clubs of this city and the University Club of Washington, D. C.

He was the author of many articles and addresses on comparative mythology, Shakespearean studies, tariff discussions, monetary standard subjects, and also topics dealing with banks, church policy and development, municipal administration, and public art. In 1913 he served on the commission to revise the New York banking laws.

Mr. Warner will be buried Saturday from his country home in Rock Stream, N. Y., in the Warner family plot, there. He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. William J. Barney with whom he lived at the East Seventy-fifth Street address, and a son, Joseph De Witt Warner.

John Drebinger Sr.

John Drebinger Sr., a violinist in the Metropolitan Opera House Orchestra for twenty-seven years, died yesterday in the New York Hospital for the Ruptured and Crippled, where he had undergone an operation three days ago. Mr. Drebinger, who was 58 years old, lived at 28 Smart Avenue, Flushing, L. I. He numbered among his intimate friends many of the Metropolitan star including Caruso, Mme. Schumann-Heink and Geraldine Farrar. Before coming to this country in his youth from Germany, his native land, he had studied there under Jean Bott, the famous violin maestro.

BANKERS TESTIFY AGAINST BRICKLEY

DEFENSE TO BEGIN TODAY

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 27 (AP).—Charles E. Brickley, former football star at Harvard, will take the stand tomorrow morning in his trial before Judge Hugo A. Dubuque and a jury in Superior Criminal Court, to tell his version of the circumstances in the Summer in 1922, which resulted in his indictment for forgery and larceny in connection with certain stock transactions.

Bank officials and a number of other witnesses testified against Brickley today, among them Montgomery S. Gibson, one of the firm of Gibson & Co., former brokers here, with whom Brickley traded in 1922 and who aided in securing from the Commercial Trust Company a loan of $8,300 on stock which the Commonwealth claims Brickley obtained fraudulently from William J. Hines of Thompsonville, Conn.

Gibson testified that the stock, when brought to his office by Brickley, was unendorsed by Hines, and he told of calling in Kurt Sternburg, a former employe, to come in and sign Hines' name to powers of attorney. Sternburg did so as a favor to Gibson.

Gibson then told of getting the loan with the fraudulent power of attorney in the name of Gibson & Co., and of giving Brickley $1,900.

Testimony showed that Sternburg acted in ignorance in signing the powers of attorney, and his wife, on the stand, told of Brickley visiting her home and threatening that if the loan he had secured on the forged stock were not taken up, her husband would be sent to jail.

The day's evidence against Brickley closed with Raymond H. Flagg, Treasurer of the Commercial Trust Company, on the stand. Mr. Flagg told of loaning Gibson and Brickley two sums totaling $10,500, with the stock in question as security, and declared that no part of the loans has been repaid. The stock was recovered from the bank by Hines in civil proceedings.

DONATES 500 VOTES IN JEFFERSON CONTEST

Joseph S. Marcus the Benefactor of Candidates of Seven High Schools.

Joseph S. Marcus, President of the Bank of United States, yesterday contributed 500 votes in a contest being conducted by the Jefferson Centennial Committee to acquire Monticello, Thomas Jefferson's home in Virginia, to the candidate of each of seven New York City high schools. They were the George Washington, Morris, Evander Childs, Thomas Jefferson, Textile, Theodore Roosevelt and Commerce.

THINKS SHE HAS A RAPHAEL.

Will Ask Experts to See Madonna Left Her by Old Frenchman.

Mrs. Helen Jurkop of 125 Corson Street, New Brighton, S. I., said yesterday that she would ask art appraisers to examine a miniature picture of the Madonna which was left to her recently under the will of Amand Martin Hurel, a refugee who came to the United States in 1871, after the Franco-Prussian War. Hurel told her the picture was an original by Raphael. She said he told her he frequently refused large offers for it.

The painting, which is of the Madonna with the infant Christ, as well as Joseph, is on a wood panel measuring 8 by 10 inches. It was found in a safe-deposit vault in Manhattan, the key of which was on a ring found in Hurel's pocket when he died on Welfare Island in 1919.

Mrs. Jurkop said Hurel claimed to be descended directly from Napoleon Bonaparte, and that he had often spoken of the picture. He had told Mrs. Anna Fieldman, who is Mrs. Jurkop's mother, that he was going to leave it to Mrs. Jurkop. According to Mrs. Jurkop, Hurel had been a friend of her mother's for many years. In 1917 he had worked as a gardener on Staten Island. After giving up his job he had boarded with her mother.

RABBI J. B. WISE GETS CALL.

Will Connect With the Central Synagogue in September.

The Rev. Dr. Jonah Bondi Wise, rabbi of Beth Israel Temple in Portland, Ore., was unanimously chosen rabbi of the Central Synagogue. Lexington Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, at a special meeting of the congregation last night.

Dr. Jonah Wise will succeed the Rev. Dr. Stephen S. Wise, who is rabbi of the Free Synagogue. Two years ago the Central Synagogue became allied with the Free Synagogue, and it was planned to merge the two at the end of a year or more, but recently it was decided that the union should not take place. On June 1 the congregations will again be separate.

Dr. Jonah Wise will not assume the office of rabbi here until sometime in September. About a week ago a despatch from Portland said that he had referred to the trustees of his congregation an invitation to consider a call to New York as rabbi of the Central Synagogue, and that they had granted the privilege.

Dr. Wise was born forty-four years ago in Cincinnati, the son of the late Rev. Dr. Isaac M. Wise, who was the founder of Reform Judaism and the founder and President of the Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati.

Fires Two Shots to Kill Himself.

Max Fischer, 48 years old, a retired accountant living at the Hotel Alamac, committed suicide yesterday morning in his bathroom by shooting himself in the head. The body was discovered by a maid, who notified the manager. Detectives from the West Sixty-eighth Street Station found that Fischer had fired two shots. Dr. Herbert Adler, the hotel physician, told the police that Fischer had been ill for several months.

BLAMES LIFE IN CITY FOR DELINQUENT BOYS

Modern Youngsters No Worse Than Predecessors, Federation Speaker Says.

Boys of today are no worse than those of former years, but the changed environment of city life is responsible for their apparent delinquency in most cases, R. K. Atkinson, of the Russell Sage Foundation, declared in an address yesterday before the delegates to the Nineteenth Annual Boys' Work Convention of the National Boys' Club Federation in session at the Hotel Commodore.

"The modern boy is not bad at heart," he said, "but he has found a conspiracy against his natural desires. A boy is a hunting, building, acquisitive gangster, not because he wants to be in conflict with adults, but because his ancestors for ages past have done these things which had a normal and legitimate place under a different environment, but which bring him into conflict with society as it is now organized. These instincts, in so far as they do not fit a city environment, must simply be sublimated into wholesome channels. Repression and a negative attitude are as dangerous as holding down a safety valve."

The men delegates were guests of honor of the Kiwanis Club at the Hotel McAlpin. C. J. Atkinson, Executive Secretary of the federation, presided. Women delegates were luncheon guests of the convention at Wanamaker's.

Mrs. Mary K. Simkhovitch, founder of Greenwich House, spoke at the afternoon session on "Boys' Club Cooperation With the Home." The convention will be concluded today, with a business meeting and awards of prizes for vocational work. At the closing dinner tonight at the Commodore the speakers will include John Hays Hammond, Vice President of the National Boys' Club Federation, and the Right Rev. Herbert Shipman, Suffragan Bishop of New York.

GETS RIVER OUTLET FROM COAL MINES

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, May 27.—Transactions involving the expenditure of approximately $2,000,000 whereby the West Virginia Coal and Coke Company has obtained a river outlet for its coal mined in Logan County and adjoining sections of West Virginia, have been completed, according to B. Lee Hutchinson of Cincinnati, one of the principals in the project.

At least $1,000,000 already has been spent in the acquisition of a half interest in the $1,225,000 dock of the Logan Dock Company at Huntington, W. Va., and in the construction of 30 new steel barges and a towboat of the latest design for the transfer of coal from the dock at Huntington to Cincinnati.

Land has been acquired along the river in one of the suburbs of Cincinnati, which ultimately will be used for storage and transfer purposes. It is expected that another $1,000,000 will be spent on additions and improvements before the project is in full operation.

FINDS FIGS POISONED GIRL.

Prosecutor Investigates Trouble With Accused Grandmother.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 27.—Miss Fanny Leona of 68 North Avenue, Mount Vernon, who has accused her grandmother, Mrs. Angelina Guido of 13 North Bond Street, Mount Vernon, of sending her poisoned figs, ate figs and took mercury poison into her system, Assistant District Attorney John Holzworth announced today. He said that this had been ascertained by a report from Dr. Alexander O. Goettler of Bellevue Hospital, who made an investigation.

Angelo Leona, father of the young woman, was examined by Mr. Holzworth regarding family disagreements, which were said to have been responsible for the alleged poisoning attempt. Mrs. Guido is at liberty under $3,000 bail.

CORNELL PRIZES AWARDED.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 27.—Woodford Patterson, Secretary of Cornell University, today announced the awarding of nine endowed prizes. The Fuertes Undergraduate Prize in Civil Engineering was awarded to Herman G. Veeder of Pittsburgh and David W. Punnell of Stamford, Conn., and the Graduate Prize to Charles S. Whitney of Adrian, Mich.

Henry F. Cook received the Corson Browning Prize for the best essay on Robert Browning. The Barnes Shakespeare Prize of $30 was awarded to Miss Helen M. Peavy of Franklinville, N. Y., for her essay on the writings of Shakespeare.

Richard Beck of Reykjavik, Iceland, won the Early English Text Society Prize for passing the best examination in early English. The Sampson Fine Arts Prize was given to Edgar F. Biesants for exhibiting the most intelligent appreciation of graphic and plastic arts and architecture.

Gardiner N. Bump of Binghamton was the winner of the Charles Lathrop Pack Foundation Prize, the income from $1,000, for the best all-around record.

D. E. Measley of Arlington, N. Y., received the first Major Louis Seaman Prize of $200, and Charles A. Gilbert the second of $100 for the best essays on the United States Army ration in peace and war.

CONVICT NAVY LIEUTENANT.

Roland Hill Is Found Guilty in Beaufort Liquor Case.

NORFOLK, Va., May 27 (AP).—Lieutenant Roland D. Hill Jr. was found guilty by a court-martial today of two charges and acquitted on another charge growing out of the finding of liquor aboard the naval transport Beaufort when she docked here Feb. 24 from the West Indies.

Hill was found guilty of importing twenty-seven quarts of whisky in violation of Federal prohibition laws and having liquor in his possession aboard a naval vessel in violation of service regulations. He was exonerated of the charge of making a false statement to his divisional office in regard to dutiable and contraband articles in his possession through failure to report the presence of the whisky which was alleged to have been found in his stateroom.

From the Founder's Writings

Every woman's bright visions dawn upon her as if she were endowed with percipience and here eyes were suddenly opened to see what you never thought of.

Women were the first buttonmakers and suggested the sewing machine and a thousand other devices of ingenuity and labor saving, as one may find out at the Patent Office in Washington.

Any man with but one eye will realize almost without an hour's thought that no others have done so much for the world as women.

Every one has his day, and at last the woman's day has come, when she shall rise to her noblest mission.

The Small FELT HAT

"Small hats of high-colored felt," says Paris. And, the Gray Millinery Salon presents at this incomparable price a fascinating new collection of small felt hats—the types that are at the very top of the mode today—in pink, turquoise blue, beige, gray, ashes of roses, peppermint green, orchid, gobelin blue, bishop's purple and white.

Many, many models with the new narrow cut brims, or with the slightly wider brims subtly turned to achieve smart new effects. The trimmings, of course, are very simple. Second Floor, Old Building

DINARD
A Smart Slipper
And only $10

A new one-strap slipper ingeniously designed to give the effect of interwoven strips of leather. Paragraphs could be devoted to the importance in today's mode of this type of slipper. Paris, you know, has even extended the vogue to the evening, creating stunning new models in gold and silver kidskin.

DINARD has been made expressly for us in three modish leathers—white calfskin, tan calfskin and white calfskin combined with patent leather, which Paris says is very chic.

Women's Silk Ensembles $27.50

A smart suggestion for the week-end wardrobe

Yes, think of it—a charming crepe de chine frock and an unlined crepe de chine coat at the usual cost of the frock alone. The frock is of the new polka dot crepe de chine in degrade effect and the coat is made in solid color in the predominating tone. Both are a delightful expression of the chic of simplicity in the present day mode. Sizes 36 to 44.

DELIVERIES IN TIME FOR MEMORIAL DAY EXCEPT WHERE ALTERATIONS ARE TOO GREAT

This is about the lowest price the Burlington Arcade Store at Wanamaker's has recently been privileged to quote on clothing of so high a grade. It is impossible now only because the maker who has been supplying some of the men's specialty shops decided to close his business because of ill-health and sold us his entire stock on hand.

Every suit was made this year; no old stock.

Fabrics are the newest woolens—worsteds, cassimeres, tweeds, cheviots in plain colorings, in herringbones, diagonals, and bird's-eye patterns in shades of gray, blue grays, tans, lovats, and in darker grays, blues, browns, and fancy mixtures.

Patterns are mostly the lighter, cheerful tones that add so much these days to the gayety of youth.

Models are single and double-breasted—two or three buttons, with the wide, straight-hanging trousers.

SIZES 33 TO 42 IN REGULARS AND 34 TO 40 IN SHORTS

Sale opens today at 8:30, and extra salesmen and fitters will give quick service—those who purchase early will be surer of having the suits delivered for Memorial Day.

DRUG ACT A FAILURE, DOCTORS ARE TOLD

Has Not Reduced Number of Addicts, Says Louisiana Official, and Is Cruel Besides.

WAR ON CANCER DESCRIBED

SEE NEW BEAUTY METHOD

Two Physicians Talk on Ductless Gland Extract They Hope to Develop for Women.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 27.—The first meetings of the scientific assembly of the American Medical Association convention were held this morning and afternoon. Sixteen scientific sections, covering every branch of medicine and surgery, opened a three-day session. About fifty scientific papers were read today by research workers and specialists.

Dr. Oscar Dowling of Shreveport, La., discussed "Three Great National Health Problems," which he described as the prevention of drug addiction, social disease and rabies. He declared that the Harrison Narcotic act had failed to accomplish its objects, that it had given an enormous impetus to illicit drug habits and that it had resulted in a condition where smuggling of drugs is the greatest factor in the situation.

Many physicians, he charged, are prescribing illegal amounts of drugs under the pretext of treating incurable diseases.

"In 1919 there were held to be anywhere from 80,000 to 4,000,000 drug addicts," said Dr. Dowling. "The situation has not improved. The Harrison act attempts to cure a deep-rooted evil with one stroke of the pen. There is no provision for the care of drug addicts except sending them to jail. We know drug peddlers and smugglers are active and that there is prescribing by unscrupulous doctors. We know, above all, that producers of opium in Oriental countries are bending every effort to maintain the export of opium.

Must Circumvent Selfishness.

"The control of drug addiction is inevitably doomed to failure unless some method of circumventing this national selfishness on the part of Oriental countries is discovered.

"We cannot treat drug addicts as criminals and degenerates, as the Harrison act regards them. We must distinguish between the criminal and the unfortunate addict. We must provide institutions for drug addicts, must wage relentless war on drug peddlers and smugglers, and, above all, again, on the brains of the 'dope ring.'"

Dr. A. E. Harding of Manchester, England, said that the use of radium was greatly strengthening the fight against cancer. Dr. G. E. Pfahler of Philadelphia described methods of using the X-ray and radium in destroying cancers and other growths. He said that radium capsules are inserted into the organs directly, and that in some cases needles loaded with radium emanation are permanently buried in the tissue.

Dr. Rhadi G. Corbus of Chicago discussed the treatment of cancer of the mouth, by the application of heat, by means of a high-frequency electric current, before the section on Mouth and Teeth Diseases. He said this was a comparatively new method and was very effective in destroying malignant growths.

Dr. George F. Dick of Chicago, author of the Dick test, who is largely responsible for the new methods of preventing and curing scarlet fever, described his work. He said that the discovery of the specific toxin of scarlet fever had made possible the production of a scarlet fever anti-toxin. The serum, he went on, can be used both for preventing and treating scarlet fever. If used early enough, he continued, the serum shortens the length of the disease and prevents such complications as inflammation of the joints and infections of the ear, nose and throat.

Dr. W. H. Park of the New York City Department of Health said he had been able to confirm the Dick methods in the discovery of the cause of the disease, its prevention and its control.

Dr. Melvin S. Henderson of the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., said that cases of compound fractures might be handled more effectively by raising the calcium content of the blood.

Too Many Deaths in Operations.

Dr. Bertram M. Bernheim of Baltimore, at the section on surgery, urged the keeping of more careful records on deaths and complications following operations.

"The operative mortality in this country is unknown," he said. "There seems to be a general feeling that it is rather low for such things as appendicitis, biliary surgery and gastro-enterostomy, but this feeling is based on statistics quoted by a comparatively few of the better surgeons of the country. They cannot be truly indicative of the mortality of surgeons taken by and large. Investigation points to the fact that the real mortality is very much larger than any one imagines—so large, in fact, as to demand the most careful consideration with the view to determining why it is so great and what measures should be taken to reduce it."

Statements with reference to spread of goitre because of the present day high tension living and "rush to be amused," were made by Dr. Israel Bram of Philadelphia, noted goitre specialist. "The curtailment of these unnatural influences," he said, "the substitution of a phlegmatic temperament for a state of emotional alertness is a desirable goal. Adherence to the broad principles of the simple life will bring immunity to exophthalmic goitre. The physician should teach such a patient how to eat, how to work, how to sleep and even how to think."

Dr. Edgar Allen of Columbia, Mo., and Dr. Pratt of Detroit, Mich., said they had succeeded in isolating an active principle from the ductless glands of women which, when more full developed, might be used as an injection to stimulate female beauty and health. The hormone or active substance, it was said, could be obtained from various animals, such as the hen, pig, sheep or cow. Experiments with rats, it was added, have been successful, and tests are being made on monkeys. In one or two cases, it was said, women have received injections.

Dr. Linsly R. Williams of New York urged the correlation of the Federal Government's health work and said an ideal arrangement would be to have a member of the Cabinet as Secretary of Public Health.

Extension of Federal meat inspection as a public health measure was urged by Dr. W. H. Lipman of Chicago.

"Because the law of 1906 covers only those meats which enter into interstate or foreign commerce," he said, "the meats sold and consumed in the States where they are prepared are not inspected. These constitute about 40 per cent. of the meat consumed in this country."

ELECTRIC HORSE EXHIBITED.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 27.—The electric horse, the automatic "shimmy," the "shivering chair," the "electric knife" and a man whose heart is covered only by a layer of skin, are outstanding features among scores of interesting exhibits on the Steel Pier here in connection with the annual convention of the American Medical Association, now in progress.

The electric horse, similar to the one used by President Coolidge, but said to be more effecient y "gaited," is a full fledged saddle and stirrups mounted on a metal framework which, by turning a handle in front of the rider, "gallops, canters and lopes," either fast or slow, as desired. The contrivance is declared to give all the beneficial effects of horseback riding in the privacy of a home without danger of the "horse" running away or "bucking" his rider off.

Vibrating handles and quivering straps on the automatic "shimmy" makes the body of the user shake in highly effective modern jazz style, a similar effect being produced by the rapidly moving chair.

The "electric knife" would make carving of the second joint a pleasure. With electrical sparks spitting from the end of a needle affixed to a handle, the instrument was passed through thick steaks as easily as if they were butter, making clean and automatically cauterized cuts. In actual operations the "knife" draws no blood.

Throngs on the pier were startled at sight of a tall thin man with bare chest and with physicians listening intently to the beating of his heart, which could be plainly seen. The patient, it was explained, had had several operations in which the ribs on his left side were removed, leaving only a covering of skin over his heart.

TO TELEPHONE HEART-BEATS.

Specialist in Chicago Will Send Back Diagnosis by Radio.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 27.—For the first time in the history of medicine a photograph showing human heart-beats will be sent over the telephone wires tomorrow night from New York City to Chicago where a heart specialist will diagnose the case and give his diagnosis over the telephone and amplifiers to the American Medical Association in assembly on the Steel Pier here.

The entire procedure will require less than ten minutes. The sending of the photograph of wave lines caused by the heart-beats is possible through use of the electric stethoscope and an Elmthoven galvanometer installed at 195 Broadway, New York, where the sending will be conducted by Dr. H. R. Williams of Columbia University. The photograph will be received in Chicago by Dr. James Richard Greer, a heart specialist, who will at once diagnose the case and telephone to the convention here. The new apparatus enables a specialist in one city to consult a heart specialist in another city without going there and within a very short time.

SEVERAL ARE BIDDING FOR BIG LINERS

Offers Are Reported for Leviathan and Others Now Operated by United States Lines.

There was considerable speculation among shipping men yesterday as to who would be the successful bidder for the six liners operated by the United States Lines which are reported as involved in negotiations with the Shipping Board. The Harriman interests, represented by the United American Lines, which operate a joint service with the Hamburg-American Line, are understood to be one of the bidders, while another bid presents an American company not yet revealed.

It has been rumored in shipping circles for several weeks that the United American was seeking the vessels, which include the Leviathan, George Washington, Republic, President Harding and President Roosevelt. Likewise there have been published intimations, unconfirmed, that Henry Ford was in the market for the Leviathan, but local officials of the Shipping Board do not believe it.

The United States Lines operated last year at a loss of more than $3,000,000.

None of the Harriman or United American Line officers would discuss yesterday the report that they were negotiating for the vessels.

The bid of some $14,000,000 by the International Mercantile Marine Company, made in 1920, and enjoined by W. R. Hearst, was for the Leviathan, the America and several other vessels. Since then the Government has spent about $10,000,000 for reconditioning and improving the Leviathan alone. Disinterested shipping men believe an offer similar to the one made in 1920 by the I. M. M. would take the vessels named.

Whether the I. M. M. is still in the market for them is known only to the Shipping Board in Washington and the company itself. Thomas H. Rossbottom, General Manager of the United States Lines, was in Washington yesterday.

It was pointed out that the craft can only be sold to a company guaranteeing their operation under the American flag. As the shipping companies have been none too prosperous since the war and most of them have a surplus of tonnage, including some that are not altogether serviceable, a firm with pretty strong financial backing is likely to be the successful bidder. Of these, companies, the I. M. M. in the American group is one of the strongest financially, but there is also the Dollar Line, whose round-the-world tours with former Shipping Board vessels were described yesterday as a 100 per cent. business success, and the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, as well as the United American Line backed by the Harrimans.

The Pacific Mail officials here deny that their company is negotiating for the United States Lines ships, and Dollar Line representatives here said they knew of no negotiations by their firm. The Dollar Line recently concluded the purchase of five of the President ships for their service between San Francisco and the Orient. The line already operates seven of the President ships in its round-the-world service. President Robert Dollar is on his second annual circling of the globe since the unique service was established in February, 1924.

ACCUSED OF NOTE THEFT.

Tobacco Merchant Failed to Offer Security, Is Charge.

Charles Solomon, 54 years old, of 545 West 111th Street, was held in $5,000 bail for examination tomorrow by Magistrate Edward Weil in the Tombs Court yesterday in connection with the alleged theft of $30,000 in promissory notes from David Brandwine, credit manager of the Kranz Mercantile Company, 632 Broadway.

Solomon, according to Detective Minturn of the Old Slip Station, was in the tobacco business at 160 Front Street for thirty years until he failed recently. It was alleged that to meet obligations of creditors Solomon had planned to obtain loans on notes. He was also said to have induced David Krans, head of the mercantile company, and Brandwine to indorse notes for him on May 5 promising to deliver collateral for them later. The collateral had not been delivered, it was alleged by Brandwine. Solomon pleaded not guilty to the charge.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., May 27.—When red apples are pictured in orange hues and a bluebird in a variety of colors, how are children in the primary grades to learn the true colors?

This is the situation that confronted the Montclair Board of Education last night in the selection of suitable readers for the lower grades of the town schools.

In several of the books under consideration the subjects are colored in tints not true to nature. In one instance a child is shown pointing to a fruit, and the caption below reads "See the big red apple." The Education Board believes that the big red apple looks more like a pumpkin or squash than anything else. Another picture, of a bluebird, is depicted in seven colors.

The board will take up the matter with the publishing companies.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—A step toward taking the Government out of the business of operating ships was taken today when the Shipping Board adopted a resolution authorizing the sale of 200 vessels for scrap, under terms and conditions that will be announced later.

At the same time it was made known that Henry Ford contemplates the purchase of nine refrigerator ships, which he plans to use in the South American trade.

In a statement following the meeting of the board, at which the decision to scrap obsolete ships was reached, Chairman T. V. O'Connor announced that the board would at once proceed to sell as many other ships as possible, and that favorable terms would be offered to those who would guarantee sustained service for a period of years.

The 200 vessels to be scrapped have a total of 817,130 deadweight tons. Included are fifty oil burners and sixty-seven lake type vessels.

Whether Mr. Ford will make a bid for the scrap material in the 200 vessels is considered doubtful in view of a statement made at Detroit yesterday by William B. Mayo, the chief engineer of the Ford Company, who indicated that Mr. Ford was more interested now in buying cargo carriers than ships for scrapping.

Following today's meeting of the board Chairman O'Connor left for Detroit, where he will meet Mr. Ford tomorrow for a further discussion of the latter's proposed purchase of nine refrigerator ships. Mr. O'Connor hopes to make this sale, and he will urge Mr. Ford to buy more Government tonnage.

Advices here are that if Mr. Ford takes the nine refrigerator ships he will use them to take automobiles and parts to South America, bringing back fruits and other South American products.

Announcement was made today that Chief Engineer Mayo of the Ford Company will come here next week to confer with the Shipping Board officials on Mr. Ford's plans to buy Government vessels. Chairman O'Connor today authorized this statement:

"When the Chairman went to Detroit to interest Henry Ford in the purchase of Shipping Board vessels for operating and scrap, he and Mr. Ford went thoroughly into the various classes of Government vessels, the Chairman describing in detail to Mr. Ford the possibilities for commercial use of various ships which the Government wanted to sell.

"One of the classes of vessels Mr. Ford became interested in was the refrigerator ships. Mr. O'Connor told Mr. Ford that of the eleven refrigerator ships owned by the board, nine were for sale.

"Mr. O'Connor believes that if Mr. Ford buys some of these vessels he will Dieselize them and so recondition them as to carry Ford parts South and bring fruit North as return cargo.

"The reports from Detroit printed in this morning's newspapers appear to indicate that Mr. Ford is going forward with the idea he and Chairman O'Connor discussed regarding the use to which the refrigerator ships might be put.

"The proposed trip East next week of William B. Mayo, the chief engineer of the Ford Company, is to enable him to make an offer on the part of Mr. Ford to buy refrigerator ships, which the board will be glad to consider. These ships have been idle and tied up for several years.

Six coal burners, lake type, 3,364 dead weight tons each.

Fifty oil burners, 5,670 to 5,340 dead weight tons each.

"Today's action by the board is a source of great gratification to me," said Chairman O'Connor, just before his departure for Detroit.

"This matter of scrap ships has never claimed a great deal of our time. Now that the scrapping of useless ships is definitely under way, we shall turn our attention to useful active ships, and make every possible effort to get bids for them from private American citizens, who will make the ships more useful.

"The Dieselizing of a ship is very expensive, but it is economy. If private operators make bids for American ships and guarantee to Dieselize them and to operate them under the American flag for a period of years, they should receive extremely favorable consideration as to price and terms of payment. We have talked for some time about getting a privately owned American merchant marine. The thing to do now is to go out and get one if possible. To do this, the board will bend every effort."

If Chairman O'Connor's views prevail in the board the Government's fleet will be materially reduced within the coming year. The Emergency Fleet Corporation, the operating agent of the board, is now running less than 300 vessels in the ocean and coastwise trade. Approximately 900 ships are tied to docks and practically all are listed as obsolete. Indications are that the board will decide to scrap at least 400 ships, including the 200 so designated today. A fleet of 400 vessels will be kept in reserve, and the rest will be kept for the time being for the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

Estimates vary as to the amount that will be paid for the 200 ships to be scrapped. The tonnage amounts to 817,130 dead weight tons. Some officials say that the material will bring at least $5 a ton, or $4,085,650. Other officials think that the material should bring offers of $10 a ton, which would yield $8,171,300.

MAKE SUBWAY STATION BIDS

Companies Submit Offers on Queensboro Terminal.

Bids for construction of the Queensboro subway station at Fifth Avenue and Forty-second Street were opened yesterday by the Board of Transportation. Three bids, ranging from $117,000 to $127,000, were received and referred to the engineering division of the board. They were: Werner-Mitchell Company, $117,000; Charles, Mead & Co., $120,000; Charles H. Brown, $127,000.

The Fifth Avenue station, 500 feet long, will be an island platform, with three entrances and exits. Two entrances will be on the south side of Forty-second Street, one near Fifth Avenue, alongside the New York Public Library, and the other in front of Bryant Park, near Sixth Avenue. The third will be on the north side of Forty-second Street, midway between Fifth and Sixth Avenues.

The contract calls for completion of the work within six months. The station will be used temporarily as a terminal until the Queensboro subway is completed all the way to Eighth Avenue.

Robber Loses in Battle With Grocer; Felled by Barrage of Canned Goods

When Frederick Greenfield of 80 Featherbed Lane, the Bronx, picked out the store at 2,803 Eighth Avenue from among the scores of stores operated by Daniel Reeves, the grocer, to stage a holdup last night, unfortunately for him he selected one that had as manager Dennis O'Brien of 25 Convent Avenue.

"Stick 'em up and be good, and I won't shoot," he said. O'Brien stuck up one hand just far enough to reach a can of peas on the shelf behind him. Then the battle began. O'Brien's aim was not very good and Greenfield's was worse. Both were liberally supplied with ammunition, for on the side of the counter where the would-be bandit stood were half a dozen shelves loaded with cans of peas, tomatoes, beans and other edibles. He did not shoot.

After two or three dozen volleys of canned goods were exchanged without any other effect than to wreck the store, the manager scored a hit. An extra large can of corn was the the missile and Greenfield's head was the target. Greenfield went down and O'Brien vaulted the counter and grappled with him. The robber wrenched himself free and dashed from the store. Before taking up the chase O'Brien paused long enough to hurl one final can at the fleeing man. It missed the mark but crashed through the plate glass window of the store.

The noise of breaking glass brought Patrolman Fred Christ of the West 135th Street Station. He joined O'Brien in the pursuit. So did a crowd of forty or fifty persons who saw Greenfield speeding down Eight Avenue to 146th Street and then to Bradhurst Avenue. Christ was afraid to shoot for fear of hitting some one, and Greenfield proved a much better sprinter than marksman. He gained on his pursuers, turned down 148th Street and ran into the doorway of a tenement at No. 148.

On the ground floor of the house Joseph Cavanaugh was just sitting down to dinner with his family. The apartment door flew open and Greenfield ran in. He dashed through to the kitchen and was just crawling through the window to the street when the policeman grabbed his coattails.

Then he capitulated. He told the policeman he did not have a revolver and that carrying his hand in his coat pocket was all a bluff. He asked the officer to call an ambulance.

Greenfield was locked up and will be arraigned in court today. O'Brien locked up the day's receipts of the store.

SEEKING WHITE HERE FOR SHEPHERD TRIAL

CROWE SECLUDES KELLEY

Much Mystery Made in Chicago About Man Thought to Know of White's Flight.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 27.—With detectives in New York today looking for Robert White, the missing State witness, much mystery has been thrown about the questioning of John J. Kelley, the "Mr. O'Reilly" of the letters written by White in connection with the Shepherd case.

Kelley was held all day in the State's Attorney's offices, where he made a statement which has been jealously guarded. Indeed, it is almost the only subject so far in this case which State's Attorney Crowe has not been willing to discuss.

Kelley is said to know as much as any one else about the events leading up to White's disappearance. And with White still at large, and the selection of the jurors no further advanced, interest has been attracted to him by the obvious importance which Mr. Crowe attached to his story.

Kelley was brought into the case by Arthur Byrne, an organizer for the Order of Owls, who made a deal with C. C. Faiman, head of the National University of Sciences, to obtain clients for the university. In this way he became acquainted with White, who was an instructor for Faiman. When White's name was mentioned as a possible witness Byrne is alleged to have told Stewart and O'Brien, attorneys for Shepherd, that he might be able to learn if White told the truth before the Grand Jury. This story differs from Byrne's, who said that Stewart asked him to keep an appointment with "O'Reilly."

When Byrne met White to talk over the case Kelley was present, according to some reports of his story today, and is believed to have heard of the alleged transaction between Byrne and White, in which, Byrne said, White demanded $5,000 to make an affidavit repudiating his Grand Jury testimony, it now appears probable that the $5,000 was not paid. After White's letters were received Kelley was arrested, but whether his story agrees with that of Byrne is not yet known. He is held, however, without being permitted to see any one, and it is believed that tomorrow Mr. Crowe will make a definite move regarding what Kelley told him.

There was quite a flurry in court this morning when Edward J. McCarthy, attorney for James and Callan, charged with having approached a talesman in the case, asked where his client was. Callan was due in court at 10 o'clock, but he did not appear, and McCarthy appeared quite perturbed.

"My client is not in court," he said to Judge Lynch. "Do you know where he is?"

Judge Lynch solemnly shook his head.

"Is he in the hands of the State's Attorney," asked McCarthy, turning to Judge Crowe, who held out his hands.

"My hands are empty and my pockets clean," Crowe said.

Callan's hearing was then set over until 2 o'clock this afternoon and nobody would admit knowing anything about him until he came into the building about ten minutes before the appointed time with Joseph P. Savage, an Assistant State's Attorney.

Then his attorney asked for a continuance until tomorrow morning, so that he could have a few minutes conversation with his client. He also protested because Callan had been in the custody of Mr. Savage in spite of what Mr. Crowe had said. The delay was granted.

Nothing further has been heard of Robert White, and Detective Devereux, who has been searching for him in New York, wired Mr. Crowe today for further information.

No jurors were obtained.

White Got Trunks Here on Monday.

Robert White has been traced to New York and is being sought by detectives of the West Forty-seventh Street Station.

His trunks were at the American Express Company's depot in West Fifty-fifth Street, but were called for by White and delivered to him on Monday, Detectives Maskell and Kennedy learned.

The address he gave the company, 113 Stanton Street, was fictitious, the detectives said yesterday.

The search here for White started yesterday, when a telegram was received at Police Headquarters from State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe in Chicago that White is touring the East in an automobile bearing Illinois license plates 169-012.

VILLAGERS SILENT AS KIRBY IS HELD

HE GOES OVER CRIME SCENE

Special to The New York Times.

WINTHROP, Me., May 27.—Harry A. Kirby, alias Lewis Blunt, charged with the murder of Aida Hayward and attempt to kill her aunt, Mrs. Emma Towns, and with burning their Lake Marancook cottage a week ago, came back here this afternoon to point out to the officers the places where, he said, he found Miss Hayward's body and threw away his revolver.

Kirby had been in town earlier in the day for arraignment in Municipal Court. He was clean shaved and composed as he faced the Winthrop villagers, who glared at him and many of whom had threatened to take his life if opportunity offered. But no violence was attempted.

He pleaded not guilty to the charge of murder and was held without bail for the September Grand Jury.

On his return this afternoon Kirby guided the officers over the route he says he took when he carried Aida Hayward's body to the cottage he lived in.

Kirby shuddered when he approached the Gray Cottage and refused to reenter it. He told Sheriff Cummings he would go anywhere with them when he was on the piazza he averted his gaze and would not look in a window, and when he passed a storm-door he turned away and banged it shut with his shoulder, as if to block out from sight and memory the scenes he last saw there.

The return of the prisoner to this town was voluntary. He told the county officers and detectives that he was willing to tell them everything he knew about the affair, but he repeated his protestations that he did not kill Aida Hayward.

Kirby walked firmly down familiar paths, across the railroad tracks and to the Edgewood Cottage, in which he told the officers he found Miss Hayward's body. He said he knew where the key to the back door was kept in the ice chest, used it to enter, and walked into the sitting room, where he saw the woman's body, unclothed, the clothing having been tossed under a table.

He pointed out the couch and table, retraced his steps, and then went down to the shore where he stood when he tossed the revolver into the lake.

He held back as the Sheriff walked with him to the gray cottage where the body was found and declared he would not enter the place. When the officers asked him to go to the bedroom window from which he said he saw the flames which consumed the Hayward cottage, Kirby would not go near it, but told them to look for themselves toward a point a mile distant along the lake shore.

The prisoner was quite at his ease when the inspection was finished and he climbed into the rear of the automobile and was returned to jail.

New York detectives are expected here soon to talk with Kirby about a murder in that State. He says he knows nothing of it except that there was such a murder and that detectives questioned him about it.

State Attorney Southard said tonight, after his return from the lake, that he was well satisfied with the progress made in the investigation and was ready to present the case to the Grand Jury at any time.

Seek to Link Kirby With Nyack Crime.

Advices received here from Nyack, N. Y., say that Dr. Anna Hochfelder, Assistant Corporation Counsel, left for Maine yesterday, accompanied by Captain Grant Williams, whose reconstruction convinced the White family that the skeleton found on a mountain near Haverstraw was that of Lillian White. This identification was not accepted by the Rockland County Grand Jury and an attempt will be made to connect Harry A. Kirby, who confessed to being the "Crawford" who vanished from Letchworth Village during the investigation following Miss White's disappearance, with the latter.

Julius Hochfelder, Dr. Hochfelder's husband, wrote District Attorney Lexow demanding that a special Grand Jury be called to investigate the new facts which have come up since Kirby's arrest and confession. He declared that if Mr. Lexow refused he would turn over the facts in his possession to Governor Smith and urge the Governor to appoint a Special District Attorney "or take other suitable action."

Mr. Lexow said last night that the Rockland County Grand Jury had gone over the Lillian White case thoroughly three years ago and had dropped it because the identity of the skeleton as that of Lillian White had not been proved.

CHARITY GOT FUND, PEDDLERS INSIST

GRAUBARD AGAIN CALLED

Alderman Says He Aided Pushcart Man, but Does Not Remember Getting Any Thanks.

Alderman Morits Graubard, Mollie Barasch, known in Orchard Street as the "Queen of the Pushcart Peddlers," and Morris Loopesko, President of the Combined Peddlers' Association, were the principal witnesses yesterday in the investigation, in the City Hall before Magistrate George W. Simpson, into charges of graft and oppression among these open-air merchants.

Mollie Barasch insisted the fund collected by her and several others at Christmas time last year was for a wholly charitable purpose. Nathan Blottinger, Loopesko and two other men, as well as herself, assisted in making the collection, she testified, and the beneficiary of the fund was a peddler named "Coonie" Wirth, who had become ill with consumption and who had a wife and children. The money, she declared, had been used to send him first to Liberty, N. Y., then to the Montefiore Home and later to Denver.

Mrs. Barasch said that she personally had collected $120 of the fund and had turned it over to Blottinger without taking a receipt. "He trusted me," she said.

"Did you not tell the peddlers the money was 'for the boys,' meaning the Market Supervisors?" asked Assistant District Attorney Jacob Gould Schurman, the examiner.

Woman Denies Threat.

"No, I said it was for a boy in the block who was sick and in need of help," she replied.

The witness denied that the Market Supervisors were commonly referred to in Orchard Street as "the boys."

Magistrate Simpson questioned Mrs. Barasch closely concerning testimony given earlier by Samuel Lehrer and by his thirteen-year-old daughter, who corroborated him. Lehrer swore that Mollie Barasch had called at his shop last Saturday and had warned him that he should not say anything about the collections she had made from peddlers. Lehrer's wife also corroborated this statement.

"Did you go to Samuel Lehrer or to his wife," asked the Magistrate, "and say to them that they must not tell anything or you would fix them?"

"No," replied with an emphatic "No," but her memory seemed faulty under further questioning by Magistrate Simpson. She said she had kept no list of subscribers to the fund and could not now name a single one.

Lehrer testified that Mrs. Barasch had turned over a roll of bills to the committee in June, depositing the money in a hat then being passed by the committee. He couldn't say just who held the hat. No lists of the contributors had been made, he said.

Loopesko's testimony also developed that he had been the active head of several peddlers' associations or combinations without any special organization, formed to obtain concerted action in times of political activity or when the peddlers' interests needed combination, including the endorsement of political candidates at election times. Among the associations of which Loopesko said he was the head were the East Side Peddlers' Association and the Yorkville Peddlers' Association.

Aid for Charity, He Says.

Alderman Graubard at the afternoon session reiterated that he knew nothing of any collections having been made in Orchard Street except for charitable purposes. To such funds he himself was constantly contributing. He said he knew "Coonie" Wirth and that he was a good fellow and deserved help.

The Alderman admitted that he was no longer in the good graces of Mrs. Louis Reed Welzmiller, Deputy Commissioner of Markets, who was formerly in charge of open air stands. He declared, however, that whenever he had gone to her to intercede for a constituent he had done so in his capacity "as a public official."

Mr. Schurman then wanted to know whether the Alderman had ever taken an automobile ride with Mrs. Welzmiller.

"Only as a public official," shouted the witness, and added: "I have ridden as a public official with our present Governor, the next Presi—"

"That will do, Alderman," interjected the Assistant District Attorney.

Mr. Schurman then asked Alderman Graubard if he had not procured a place on Orchard Street for a peddler named Holdner in 1921, when the market had then been opened for only six or seven months. The Alderman said he had, and added that he could not remember that he had ever received any thanks for it.

"We public officials," the Alderman said, "get little thanks. But we expect people who get favors from us to remember us with their thanks at election time. If we got then all the thanks we are entitled to," continued the Alderman, grinning at the Assistant District Attorney, "you Republicans wouldn't get a vote."

The hearing was adjourned until tomorrow morning.

PAROLE BOARD DELAYS ACTION ON BRINDELL

Wants Untermyer to Apply for Public Hearing—He Thinks It Is Unnecessary.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., May 27.—George W. Benham, Chairman of the State Board of Parole, who visited Sing Sing today expressed willingness to act on the suggestion of Samuel Untermyer that a public hearing be held to investigate charges of violation of parole against Robert P. Brindell, provided Mr. Untermyer apply in writing for such a hearing.

Brindell was sent to prison four years ago for blackmailing builders in New York by striking in his capacity as head of the Building Trades Council. Mr. Untermyer prosecuted the case. Before being released on parole from Great Meadow Prison last Dec. 26, Brindell was ordered to refrain from becoming an officer, delegate or agent of any union.

Recently, it was charged that Brindell had presided at a meeting of the Dockbuilders Union, and Mr. Untermyer publicly asserted that Brindell is again "raising the devil" with the building situation.

Mr. Benham, who lives at Auburn, N. Y., said: "We took no final action at our meeting at Great Meadow today, with regard to Brindell. There were no charges, no complaints and nothing else laid before us. I thought there would be. If Mr. Untermyer wishes to be heard before the board let him file an application at Sing Sing Prison and we will act on it at our meeting tomorrow. We will be glad to receive one."

Neither Mr. Benham nor Commissioners James L. Long and Dr. Elmer Larkin, the other members of the board, would say what action they would take if Mr. Untermyer applied for a public hearing to enable persons who know of Brindell's recent labor activities to testify concerning them.

"We have asked our custodians to investigate the charges appearing against Brindell in the newspapers," Mr. Benham said.

When Mr. Untermyer was asked last night if he would make application for a public hearing he said he thought it was up to the board to show some willingness to act first. "If, as was announced in the public print some days ago, the Parole Board has ordered an investigation of Brindell's activities," Mr. Untermyer said, "it seems strange that no one has yet approached the sources where the information can be obtained. The board has known for the past ten days of the charges against Brindell. It has done nothing and possibly will do nothing."

Mrs. Burnett to Be Honored By Memorial in Central Park

A memorial garden to Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," who died last year, will be constructed in Central Park soon, according to the plans of a memorial committee, it was learned yesterday. The committee is headed by Miss Elizabeth Robins. The committee announced that the cooperation of Park Commissioner Gallatin and the Municipal Art Commission had been obtained.

The plans for the memorial call for the construction of a "secret garden" at some spot in the park not yet selected. The garden will be copied after that on Mrs. Burnett's estate at Plandome, L. I. There will be a marble play table for children bearing reliefs of Little Lord Fauntleroy and other well-known characters from the author's books. Heavy banks of shrubs and flowers will surround the garden.

WOMAN IS ENTICED INTO HALL AND SLAIN

SLAYER MANIAC, POLICE SAY

An unidentified taxicab chauffeur, known to the police only as "Harry," was sought last night as the insane murderer of Mrs. Eleanor Quinn, 31 years old, who was found unconscious from mutilating knife wounds and other injuries early yesterday in the hallway of 515 Willow Avenue, Hoboken. She was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, Hoboken, where she died at 5:45 o'clock last evening.

Mrs. Quinn had revived sufficiently to give some details of the attack on her and a meager description of her assailant. Inspector John Coughlin assigned a score of detectives to the case after she had told this story:

She entered the cab driven by the man now sought last Tuesday night on Sixty-sixth Street, between Columbus Avenue and Broadway, where there is a taxicab stand. She had been invited to take a ride by "Harry," a chauffeur driving a red cab whom she had known for some time. A memorandum book was found in Mrs. Quinn's clothing which contained frequent reference to "Harry," and other information. It was turned over to the New York detectives.

Fought Until Unconscious.

After driving through miles of streets, they crossed the river to Hoboken. She remembered taking one drink from a bottle which the chauffeur gave her and of entering the dark hallway of the Willow Street house. There the man tried to attack her. She resisted and was knocked unconscious.

Walter Lang, a milkman, of 232 Beacon Avenue, Jersey City, entered the hall to deliver milk at 6 o'clock in the morning, heard moans and swept the gloom with his flashlight. Mrs. Quinn lay near a rear door opening into a washroom. Her body had been dragged several yards toward it. She had been badly hacked.

Lang called the police and Mrs. Quinn was taken to the hospital in an ambulance.

The police believed that the murderer was familiar with the house, including a saloon on the ground floor. On that theory they arrested five men they found in the place, who said they were John Tobin of 515 Willow Avenue, the proprietor; Michael O'Connor, 222 Willow Avenue; John Campbell, 215 Brown Street; Edward McMahon, 515 Willow Avenue, and John McGuire, 723 Willow Avenue. Tobin and O'Connor were charged with violation of the State prohibition law. The three others were charged with being disorderly persons.

The prisoners were questioned for hours by the Hoboken police. They will be arraigned today.

Police Records Searched.

As soon as word of the crime was received at police headquarters here detectives of the Homicide Squad accompanied by policemen from Hoboken, who had listened to Mrs. Quinn's description of her assailant, searched the Rogue's Gallery. Another detail of detectives went over records of chauffeurs' licenses and combed the neighborhood in which the woman had entered the cab.

The police also want to find a man known to them as Ralph Rice, who Mrs. Quinn said was her husband. She declared that they had separated eight years ago and that his present whereabouts were unknown to her, so no suspicion is attached to him, but it was believed he might possibly know something of his wife's associates.

Conflicting New York addresses were given by Mrs. Quinn. At 226 West Thirty-ninth Street, where she at first said she lived, no such person was known, although it was said that a Mrs. Quinn once had lived there.

SAYS "FRAZIER" IS LOPEZ.

Army Nurse Testifies Insurance Claimant Admitted Imposture.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 27 (AP).—Arthur Lopez-Frazier murmured, "I got in so deep I couldn't get out," when he broke down last February and confessed he was Arthur Lopez, Miss Ann Griffin of Minneapolis, chief nurse of the United States Veterans' Bureau, testified in Federal Court today.

Miss Griffin, a Government witness in the trial of the suit whereby Lopez-Frazier seeks to be legally identified as Arthur Frazier, Sioux Indian war hero, said he wept ten minutes and then picked up a picture, which he previously had said he did not recognize, and declared:

"Yes, that's my uncle, Steve Acosta."

FOUR DRY AGENTS INDICTED

Two Are Accused in Philadelphia of Embezzling Car of Alcohol.

PHILADELPHIA, May 27 (AP).—A Federal Grand Jury today returned indictments against four Federal prohibition agents and one former investigator of the Law Enforcement League. Those named were Karl K. Knoll, Levin M. Price, James L. Worcester and James L. McManus, at one time Federal agents in the prohibition service, and George D. Du Pont, associated with the Law Enforcement League.

The indictments charge Knoll and Price with embezzlement of a carload of seventy drums of alcohol; Worcester and Du Pont with extortion of $200 from a saloonkeeper to protect him, and McManus with giving another prohibition officer a bribe of $1,100 to prevent reports of alleged manufacture of alcohol by the Burlington Industrial Distilling Company, of Burlington, N. J.

GUGGENHEIMS MAY CONTINUE CONCERTS

Delighted to Give Them if Suitable Place Is Found, Letter to Mrs. Zilberman States.

OFFER CONSIDERED CLOSED

Hylan's Refusal Believed to End Park Question—Family Hoped to Stay Out of Controversy.

The Guggenheim family will be "delighted" to continue the Goldman Band concerts this year if a suitable place can be found for them, according to a letter on the subject by Daniel Guggenheim, which was made public yesterday.

Regarding the question of giving the concerts in Central Park, Mr. Guggenheim said that the matter was regarded as "closed" by the Mayor's refusal of the offer. Mr. Guggenheim's explanation of the position of himself and his family was a reply to a letter from the Citizens' Committee on Music which claims more than 350,000 signatures to a petition to Mayor Hylan to lift the ban on the Goldman concerts which followed the refusal to call them "Mayor Hylan's Free People's Concerts." Mr. Guggenheim's letter, addressed to Mrs. Bella Zilberman, President of the Citizens' Committee, follows:

"We acknowledge receipt of your letter on behalf of many music lovers in the City of New York requesting that we arrange to continue the Goldman Band concerts this Summer, even though they might be given in a place less ideal than Central Park. We had hoped that we would not be drawn into the distasteful controversy that seems to have arisen from a very simple motive and act on our part, and we must refuse to enter into this controversy, except in so far as properly to answer your request.

"On Nov. 17, 1924, we wrote to Mayor Hylan, offering to continue the Goldman concerts in Central Park for the season of 1925 under exactly the same conditions as during the season of 1924. We received no word of acceptance or refusal until January, when we were informed by the Chamberlain that our offer was not acceptable to him and the Mayor. We informed the Chamberlain that our sole desire was to provide music of educational and recreational value, exactly in the same manner, and, we felt sure, with the same success, as in the past seasons for the benefit and enjoyment of the largest possible number of the people of New York City.

"We recognize fully the Mayor's power to accept or refuse our offer to donate these concerts for the people of New York, and, in so far as we are concerned, the matter has been closed, since we received his refusal.

"With the above explanation you will perhaps understand our viewpoint. If a suitable place can be found where the Goldman Band concerts can be so given as successfully to carry out our aim, we shall be delighted to continue the concerts this Summer."

THOUSANDS TO SING IN OPEN-AIR FESTIVAL

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—Philadelphia talent will present a spectacular affair next Wednesday in the Spring music festival on Franklin Field under the auspices of the Philadelphia Music League. Five thousand mixed voices will take part.

Apparatus is to be installed whereby every person in the audience will be able to hear the music.

The proceeds will be devoted to the treasury funds of the various participating choruses and to the fund of the Music League to provide bedside radio equipment for shut-ins of the city.

Most of the city's leading choruses will take part. Ninety members of the Philadelphia Orchestra will accompany the singers. There will be ballets by 800 dancers. Among the numbers will be a costume dance by North American Indians now living in the city, who are being trained under the leadership of the Anthropology Department of the University of Pennsylvania.

The best amateur bands in the city under the leadership of John Philip Sousa, will participate. The grand finale will be the presentation of the second act of "Aida" by the Philadelphia Civic Opera Company, under Alexander Smallens, reinforced by the chorus and the ballet dancers.

Meyerbeer's "Coronation March" will be played by an amateur band of 1,000 pieces, led by Albert N. Hoxie. Trumpets will sound a fanfare from all corners of the field.

"LOYALTIES" WINS VIENNA.

Reinhardt Also Has a Success in "Juarez and Maximilian."

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, May 27.—Galsworthy's play "Loyalties" had its fiftieth performance at Max Reinhardt's Theatre tonight. It is one of the season's greatest successes. Owing to the success of "Loyalties" Reinhardt has been obliged to rent another theatre for his other plays.

Last night's extraordinary success of Franz Werfels's chronicle play, "Jaurez and Maximilian," may even necessitate Reinhardt leasing a second theatre for the play.

Hortense Ragland, Soprano, Pleases.

Hortense Ragland, soprano, gave a recital at Chickering Hall last evening and made an excellent impression. She is attractive to look at and her voice, though small in volume, is of silvery quality and was used with charming effect.

Miss Ragland's style is lyric; she pleases most when she is most herself, and needs only to perfect her runs and grace notes to round out a desirable program. Her intonations were very good and her articulation almost always quite clear.

70 Voices Tried for Summer Opera.

Nearly seventy persons were heard during the voice trials at Town Hall this week for the open air operas to be given at Ebbets Field Aug. 1, 5 and 8 under the direction of Josiah Zuro. Mr. Zuro commented on the general good quality of the voices. Not all of them, however, will be suited to the trying conditions of open-air singing. Ten singers have been picked for a second trial, possibly at Ebbets Field.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The opening of "Red Kisses," announced for next Monday at the Central Theatre, has been postponed until Wednesday.

A special matinee of "The Family Falling," by Elfrida and Clarence Derwent, will be given at the Princess Theatre on Tuesday, June 9.

"The Garrick Gaieties," recently presented by the Theatre Guild for special performances, will become the regular attraction at the Garrick Theatre, opening Monday night, June 8. "The Guardsman," now at the Garrick, will close on June 6.

Fred Hildebrandt and Eleanor Griffith have been engaged for the cast of the impressionistic revue soon to be produced by Mulligan, Fisher and Trebitsch.

A benefit performance in aid of the Relief Fund of the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering will be held at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre on Sunday night, June 7.

TWO GIRLS IN FAMILY ELOPE IN TWO WEEKS

Alberta Sutton, 19 years old, of 87 Van Wagenen Avenue, Jersey City, returned home Tuesday after an unexplained absence of three days, tacked a marriage license on the wall, kissed her mother and walked out again.

"Irving Levine," repeated Mrs. Sutton as she read from the license the name of her daughter's new husband. But she was not surprised.

"I'm used to it now," she explained.

Two weeks ago Alberta's younger sister, Mary, 18 years old, eloped with Harold Waldstein, son of a Jersey City clothing merchant and one year her senior. Mr. Sutton had refused to sanction the marriage and had told young Waldstein not to call again. A few days later, however, Mary returned from work, packed a suitcase and disappeared. Then she telegraphed news of her marriage to her parents.

"Alberta wouldn't do anything like that," Mr. Sutton declared at the time. "She has too much common sense."

Last Saturday, however, Alberta and Irving went to the office of Acting Judge Edward Markley in the First Criminal Court, Jersey City, and were married. Schoolmates of Irving acted as witnesses. For the present the bride and bridegroom will remain with his parents. But next Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Sutton will give a party for them.

"We like Mr. Levine," Mrs. Sutton said, "and think he will make a fine husband. Besides, what can we do about it?"

The bridegroom is 19 years old and will be graduated this year from Dickinson High School. Next year he intends entering a law school.

Mr. and Mrs. Waldstein are now living in Canada, where he has a position. They are very happy, their letters say.

PLAN WAR MEMORIAL FOR HOSPITAL UNIT

It Will Be a Gift to the New Medical Centre at Broadway and 168th Street.

Plans to memorialize the services of the Presbyterian Hospital unit in the World War through the gift of a twelve-bed ward and solarium at the new hospital in the Medical Centre at Broadway and 168th Street, were made yesterday at a meeting at the home of Mrs. William Barclay Parsons at 121 East Sixty-fifth Street.

The memorial is expected to cost $80,000, of which $30,000 has already been subscribed. Persons who wish to participate in its establishment, it was announced, may give a bed or any part of the ward, retaining the right to dedicate such a part to any one they wish irrespective of any connection with the unit.

The Presbyterian Hospital unit was known officially as United States Base Hospital No. 2, and out of it developed Mobile Military Hospital No. 2, which was cited by General Pershing for services in the front line trenches. It was organized by the Red Cross in the Fall of 1915 and sailed for France on May 4, 1917, with twenty-four doctors and sixty-five nurses, all from the Presbyterian Hospital staff, and 250 enlisted men and six civilians.

First it took over the British Base Hospital at Etretat, which it retained until the Armistice, but with the arrival of American troops the Mobile Hospital was formed and saw service at Chalons in the Champagne sector, and at Chateau-Thierry and St. Mihiel, getting its citation for service at Bussy-Chateau, near Chalons.

WARNS BRITAIN ON COMPACT

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 27.—Ramsay MacDonald, speaking at Birmingham tonight, denounced in forceful terms the idea of substituting a four or five power compact for the Geneva protocol. He said that in a four or five power compact the British Army and Navy would be mortgaged, or France at the present moment would never sign it.

A Labor Government, he declared, would never carry out the military obligations of the compact. He had heard speeches from the Liberal benches, he said, which led him to believe that they were not in sympathy with a four or five power compact. Therefore today they were threatened by a minority Government with a four or five power compact that the nation would never carry out.

The British Cabinet did not consider today the explanations received from Paris of the proposed French reply to the German security compact suggestions, owing to the need for close analysis of certain technical points. The discussion, therefore, was postponed for a day or two. It is felt that each is needed to measure the exact differences between a local and limited view of the compact that on the whole prevails here and the broader and more elaborate implications that are favored in Paris.

PROTESTS 69TH'S REVIEWER

Major Kelly Objects to Honoring General O'Duffy.

Major Michael A. Kelly, former president of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, who was decorated four times for his services with the old 69th Regiment during the World War, made public a telegram to Colonel John J. Phelan, present commander of the organization, yesterday, in which he protested against that officer's action in inviting General Owen O'Duffy, Chief Commissioner of the Irish Civic Guards, who has been attending the International Police Conference, to review the 69th next Monday night. The telegram referred to General O'Duffy as "a servant of his Britannic Majesty."

When the telegram was called to his attention, Colonel Phelan said that he had not yet received it, but that he would not give it any consideration.

"This regiment did not take sides in the Republican-Free State controversy," said Colonel Phelan, "and we have no intention of doing so at this time, when the issue is settled. We honored de Valera, when he was here, in the same manner and for the same reason that we are honoring General O'Duffy."

WOULD BAN TAX ON ESTATES

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 27.—An influx of wealthy New Yorkers into the suburban communities of New Jersey and coast resorts can be expected, if New Jersey's legislators consent to wipe out inheritance and over-heavy income taxes, according to State Senator Emerson L. Richards, who advocated the proposed measure before a meeting of the Atlantic City Real Estate Board tonight.

Senator Richards advocated an amendment to the State Constitution banning such supertaxes. He admitted that he had first received the idea from similar action taken by the State of Florida. He declared to the real estate men that such action also would bring millions in mortgage money into the State from big estates whose possessors now seek to escape the alleged practical confiscation of their holdings through taxing at death. Senator Richards, who is a Republican, is seeking re-election to the State Legislature.

MOFFAT HELD INCOMPETENT

Attempts to Kiss Woman in Court Corridor—Says He Has Kissed Many.

A jury in Justice Norman S. Dike's part of the Brooklyn Supreme Court yesterday decided that Henry Clay Moffat was incompetent to care for himself and his property, which includes an estate he inherited from his mother. A committee will be appointed in a few days to take charge of his property. Judge Alonzo G. McLaughlin in the Kings County Court committed Moffat to the Kings Park State Hospital on Tuesday.

During the examination before the jury yesterday Moffat was asked, "What were you arrested for?"

"For kissing a girl," replied Moffat. Asked if he had ever kissed a girl before, he answered "Oh, yes, thousands of times." While in the corridor of the court yesterday Moffat attempted to kiss a young woman who was passing by.

"The Bird Cage" at Two Matinees.

The Ram's Head Players of Washington, as guests of the Stagers, will present "The Bird Cage," a pantomime, at the Fifty-second Street Theatre on the afternoons of June 2 and 5. The story for the pantomime was written by F. Bessier and the music by Mario Costa. The regular evening attraction of the Stagers will continue to be "Rosmersholm," which will be succeeded by W. S. Gilbert's "Engaged" on June 15.

REDS OUST FRENCH COUNCIL

PARIS, May 27 (AP).—Communists today invaded a meeting of the City Council at the town of Villeneuve-Le-Roi and compelled the members of the Council to sign a document proclaiming the dissolution of that body.

The Communists then forced the Councilors to leave the room in the City Hall where they had been in session. Later gendarmes, summoned by the ousted city officials, attacked the invading Communists and routed them. The reports made no mention of casualties.

The SHOW-OFF Speaks

I have been here 71 weeks. For 71 long weeks, through wind and rain, through snow and sleet and summer's heat, I have made theatregoers laugh and cry in turn. Dramatic critics have declared me the finest morsel of American characterization on the stage. Audiences have gone a step further and have said I am the funniest guy in America. It must be so or I wouldn't have been permitted to hang around town so long.

But, alas, all good things must end, so I am forced to announce the

BIG HOTEL PROJECT ENDS IN AN AUCTION

BIDDING PROVES SPIRITED

The last chapter in the history of the Commonwealth Hotel project was written on the auction block yesterday when Joseph P. Day, as Special Master, under order of Judge Francis A. Winslow sold the last remaining holdings of the defunct corporation to a syndicate headed by John Gerosa for $2,640,000.

The auctioned property comprised the Sonoma and Rockingham apartment houses and the Thorndyke Hotel, embracing the block front on Broadway between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth Streets, with a Broadway frontage of 207.5 feet extending to a depth of 121.3 feet on Fifty-fifth Street and 172.3 feet on Fifth-sixth Street. The site contains approximately 30,000 square feet.

The property was first offered in single parcels. The Sonoma, a twelve-story building on a plot 75.6 by 121.3 feet, irregular, on the northeast corner of Broadway and Fifty-fifth Street, was offered first. The original bid was $700,000, from which it was advanced to $920,000.

The Rockingham, a six-story apartment on a plot 181.9 by 122.7 feet, irregular, on the southeast corner of Broadway and Fifty-sixth Street, was bid in for $1,050,000. The first offering was $1,000,000.

The Thorndyke, an eight-story hotel, on a plot 50 by 120.2 feet, irregular, adjoining the Rockingham on Fifty-sixth Street brought $400,000, to which it was advanced from an original bid of $250,000.

The Rockingham and Thorndyke were then offered as a single parcel above the combined bid of $1,450,000. Bidding on this was spirited. It was struck down for $1,605,000, to Theodore Friedeberg.

The properties were then offered as a whole over the aggregate bid of $2,525,000. The first bid was $2,525,000. From that figure it advanced to $2,640,000, where it was struck down to Mr. Gerosa, who had not taken part in the previous bidding.

The other members of the syndicate headed by Mr. Gerosa are Henry Rothman, Nathan Schoen and Dr. Henry Stark, represented by Nathan Friedman as attorney.

Englewood, N. J., May 26.

When selling the Hotel Commonwealth tomorrow please do not forget the many women wage earners who so hopefully invested their earnings in this hotel, the stock of which was offered them with glowing promises of comfort and security. I cannot afford to lose $1,600.

LUCIE C. KELLOGG.

Mr. Day said that the 22,000 Commonwealth Hotel creditors would receive a substantial return.

The sale started promptly at noon, when the Court decree ordering the sale was read. At 12:30 Mr. Day mounted the stand from which he retired fifty minutes later. More than 2,000 realtors, bidders and spectators attended. Among the bidders were Bing & Bing, Louis Gold, John H. Scheier and Max Natanson.

When the Hotel Commonwealth was planned it created much interest because it was described as a structure to be twenty-eight stories high, to contain approximately 2,500 rooms. The total cost was estimated at $15,000,000. In December, 1919, Miss Harriet Swan sued the Commonwealth Hotel Construction Corporation to recover $3,000 paid for thirty shares of stock in the enterprise, on the ground of alleged misrepresentation on the part of the agent that he would resell the stock at a large profit. Officials of the corporation denied that there was any ground for Miss Swan's complaint.

Friction between various interests in the project developed almost from the start and there were actions in all the courts until the matter finally came before Justice Guy in the Supreme Court. The Stockholders' Protective Committee, through its Chairman, former Assistant Corporation Counsel Gustavus A. Rogers, stated that 16,000 stockholders were ready to sell the properties, which were described as "only a hole in the ground." It was shown that on Oct. 31, 1923, the amount of stock full paid and outstanding was common, $3,119,000, and preferred, $118,000, a total of $3,237,000. The total stock subscribed and not fully paid brought the amount, it was said, up to $4,088,700.

Finally the quarrels reached the Federal courts and there was a question of whether the matter should be handled there or in the State courts. During the squabbling Federal Judge Winslow signed an order in an equity receivership suit begun by Hugh McAtamney, who was Secretary of the Realty Corporation, for $2,800 salary. Charles H. Wilson, Robert H. Richards and Wendell P. Barker were appointed receivers and it was under their administration that part of the property was sold last July.

Ground Broken for Model Home.

Hundreds of persons, including many notables, gathered at Eastern Parkway and Washington Avenue, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon to witness the breaking of ground for the construction of "the American home," which, when completed, will be shipped to the Grand Palais, Paris, and exhibited there during the international exhibit of household appliances and labor saving devices, next November and December.

CITY BREVITIES.

The American Division of the Federation Universitaire Internationale (Geneva Federation) has been established at 250 Park Avenue. The work will be under the direction of Owen D. Young. Chairman. Arrangements have been completed for the delivery of a course of lectures at Geneva by Professor Alfred E. Zimmern.

The commencement exercises of the Benjamin School for Girls took place last evening. The Gustav Piermont Medal for the highest average for the year was awarded to Ruth Fish of the graduating class. The Rev. Dr. Israel Goldstein delivered the address.

The Women's Democratic Club of New York City will hold its annual spring outing on Saturday, June 6, at the Hotel Shelburne, Brighton Beach.

Dr. and Mrs. William Holland Wilmer will sail for Europe on the Resolute on June 2. Dr. Wilmer, who is head of the Wilmer Institute of Ophthalmology of Washington, D. C., in connection with the Johns Hopkins University Medical School and Hospital, will visit the chief European clinics dealing with blindness and kindred ailments.

Scott Nearing of the Rand School of Social Science will lecture at noon today on "American Imperialism" at the College of the City of New York.

R. N. Fellows of Chicago will deliver an address on "Does Your Advertising Pay?" at the Advertising Club, 23 Park Avenue, tomorrow at 12:30 P. M.

The fifteenth annual meeting of the National Council, Boy Scouts of America, convenes at noon today at the Hotel Commodore for a two-day session. Nearly 1,200 delegates are expected to attend.

The Vocal Teachers' Guild launched a campaign to raise $100,000 for building a New York headquarters of the guild, at a meeting in the studios of Meta Schumann, 209 West Seventieth Street, last night. Speakers included Dr. Alexander Savine, opera composer and conductor; Mrs. William Cowen, Chairman of Stadium concert auditions, and Miss Anna Ziegler, President of the guild.

GOTO SAID LAST WEEK WAR WAS NOT LIKELY

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKIO, May 27.—"The exclusion of the Japanese from the United States is not a life and death matter to Japan, and is not a cause for war," Viscount Goto told your correspondent last week before leaving Tokio on his trip south, when a general discussion on Japanese-American relations followed a request for an interview on Hawaiian fortification.

He declined to comment on the subject, saying that he did not wish to be quoted on the same old yarn.

"I don't like to hear or to repeat the old story about a possible war between America and Japan. I can say nothing new on the subject, but only repeat what I have often said—that we must now dismiss all talk of war as it is idle nonsense, betraying a lack of intelligence and ignorance of the international political situation. It is for us now to work for peace, the general welfare of mankind, the progress of civilization, and the ever closer and more sympathetic cooperation between nations and races.

"Nor do I mean this as an idle platitude, for I am firmly convinced that this is the responsibility we owe to God and man after witnessing the terrible sufferings caused by the World War and its results.

"Regarding the agitation for increasing the Pearl Harbor fortifications, I have nothing to say. But before any one suggests the need of additional fortifications because of war chances let him consider the relations now existing between Japan and America.

"Exclusion is not a matter of life and death to Japan and is not a cause for war. Both countries have everything to gain from a growing intimacy and no reason for wishing war. America buys enormous amounts of silk from Japan and Japan takes a volume of commodities from America. A brief study of trade relations will convince any one of average intelligence that war is not impending.

"Japanese leaders are determined to do all in their power to avoid chances for friction with America. Those who have a degree of faith in the prophecy of war between Japan and America and who believe it is possible to excite the peoples to a point where they desire war should come to Japan and learn how foolish are their fears."

The Berlin Vossische Zeitung of Tuesday carried an interview with Viscount Goto in which the Viscount was quoted as saying that "the colonization of California by the Japanese is a life and death question for Japan."

LUCILLE CHALFANT GETS PARIS OVATION

PARIS, May 27 (AP).—Lucille Chalfant of the American Grand Opera Company made a brilliant début tonight in grand opera in Europe at the Gaite-Lyrique Theatre as Gilda in "Rigoletto." A crowded house greeted her and many American tourists joined in the enthusiastic reception.

The American singer was recalled six times at th eend of the third act. She was ably supported by the tenor, Giacomo Lauri-Volpi, of the Metropolitan Opera House.

Miss Chalfant was the prima donna of the 1922 edition of the Greenwich Village Follies. Previous to this engagement, she had appeared with Kolb and Dill in "The High Cost of Loving" and had been the leading singer at the Capitol Theatre during its first weeks of operations.

After graduation from the University of Southern California, in Los Angeles, Miss Chalfant was a reporter on Los Angeles newspapers before coming East to go on the stage. After leaving the Greenwich Village Follies, she gave several concert recitals here.

C.A. WORK DIVORCED IN PARIS

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 27.—Mrs. Charles A. Work, formerly Effie Brooks Abell, obtained an absolute divorce decree in the Paris court today against her husband.

The couple, whose address was given as 25 Franklin Street, Morristown, N. J., were married in New York City on May 20, 1914. A petition was originally filed by the husband alleging that his wife abandoned him at Spring Lake, N. J., and refused to return. She filed a counter-claim, charging cruelty, and the court gave a verdict in her favor.

Charles A. Work resided for several years at Beechwood, the large estate of Horace A. Hutchins at Madison, N. J. Mr. Hutchins, a director of the Standard Oil Company, was the father Mr. Work's first wife, who died. Following her death Mr. Work in 1914 married Miss Abell, who was at the time acting as housekeeper at Beechwood. His second wife is a sister of Assemblyman Frank D. Abell of Morristown, N. J., who is now a candidate for State Senator.

About ten years ago Mr. and Mrs. Work moved to Morristown, where they made their home at 25 Franklin Avenue. For the past few years Mr. Work has lived in New York and has spent the Winters in Palm Beach, Fla., with his son, Horace Hutchins Work.

CANADIANS TO MARCH HERE

Will Be First Foreign Troops in a Memorial Day Parade.

Troops of a foreign nation will participate in a Memorial Day parade for the first time when a detachment of the Fifth Royal Highlanders, the Canadian Black Watch, marches with the American Legion and the British Great War Veterans of America on Fifth Avenue Saturday morning. The detachment under the command of Major W. E. MacFarlane will arrive at Grand Central at 8 o'clock Saturday morning.

Plans for the Queens Memorial Day parade have been completed by the Citizens' Committee. The paraders will march through the streets of Jamaica. G. A. R. members will ride in automobiles. Richmond Hill will be represented by 10,000 marchers, including 700 students of the Richmond Hill High School accompanied by the school band.

The members of the Twentieth Century Taxicab Association held a meeting yesterday and voted to put their caps at the disposal of the G. A. R. and disabled veterans of the World War for their participation in the Memorial Day parades.

SAVED FROM FIRE ON LAUNCH

Harry Hoehn of 568 West 173d Street and his wife narrowly escaped being burned when their motorboat, moored to a float in the Hudson River about 200 feet from the foot of West 203d Street, caught fire last night. They were rescued by Patrolman Hollingsworth of the Wadsworth Avenue Station and two other men, who came to their assistance in a rowboat.

Mr. Hoehn was preparing his boat for a week-end cruise and turned over the motor. It backfired, the flames spread to the woodwork and thence to a gasoline tank aft. Hoehn and his wife sought refuge in the bow and their plight was seen by Hollingsworth. He turned in an alarm and then got the rowboat to go to their aid.

Firemen were forced to lay more than 1,000 feet of hose to reach the burning boat after it had been towed to the river bank.

NEW BOOKS

Advertisements for insertion in The Times are subject to censorship.

The work of one who has given his entire life to the study of Man, Animal, Plant and Food. In his defense of truth, of purity, he has been plaintiff or defendant in 206 libel suits—most of them brought by the richest profiteers—and won every one of them. Some of his opponents he sent to jail. He has never lost a case—oral, written or legal.

He is the best-equipped man in the world today to handle Darwinism, Wellsism, barnyard materialism—Evolution.

Colleges, Academies and Schools the country over—many of them religious—of nearly all denominations—are teaching Evolution, teaching your children that they and you are come from a Gorilla.

Recovery on Stock Exchange—Sterling Slightly Lower, Franc Declines Again.

Under the familiar professional auspices, and with attention devoted principally to the personally conducted industrial shares, prices were advanced again on the Stock Exchange yesterday. There was no change whatever in the character of the movement, and it had as little significance as most movements of the last few weeks have had. It may be assumed to mean that the professional speculators and their highly speculative outside following are able to borrow money cheaply for a "turn in the market," also that the bidding-up process has not attracted such sales by actual holders as would imperil the speculation. This, to a certain extent, reflects increased confidence in the general situation; but it is negative rather than positive testimony, and no one knows better than the professional leaders that if the bidding-up process were to be carried imprudently far, such selling would be invited. In yesterday's market advances of 2 or 3 points were fairly numerous, but in very few instances did the standard investment shares respond by more than a trifling fraction.

Sterling went slightly below Tuesday's closing rate, but only after the early London market had carried the price to the highest figure reached in that market since 1914. The Bank of England lost $332,000 gold, of which the greater part went to India. The gold that goes to this Far Eastern market is sent strictly because of India's large trade balance on merchandise account; its exports since the beginning of 1925 have been running considerably more than double its imports. If sterling were to go reasonably above the par of exchange, the Indian demand would undoubtedly be met by gold exports from the United States, and that is not an improbable solution of the difficulty.

The franc went below 5 cents yesterday, for the first time in ten months. Press cables from Paris ascribed the weakness (which was accompanied by a rise in sterling at Paris to the highest rate since March of 1924) to sales of exchange by French importers, and not to political considerations. But this explanation is not in the least convincing. If the French trade balance, present or immediately prospective, were the single influence, the rate would be advancing rapidly. It is the mixture of motives created by a troublesome budget and currency situation, and by dislike at the taxes which are the unavoidable remedy, which causes this curious movement.

The car-loading returns, which of late have been showing somewhat remarkable increase over other recent years, have lost some of their hold on public interest because of the numerous unfavorable statements of gross earnings by the railways. Gross receipts of all railways decreased $27,600,000 in the first quarter, or nearly 2 per cent., and several Middle Western systems have shown up badly for April also; therefore it has been asked impatiently if the "car-loadings" really tell the truth. But the fact of the matter is that in February and March there was practically no increase in loadings over 1924 and that in April, although the total for the country increased more than 200,000 cars, the Middle Western district reported actual decrease from last year.

Curiously enough, the decrease in the Western districts was largely in grain loadings; which seems to be explainable only by the fact that the reserve of wheat had been mostly used up in the very large shipments earlier in the season. But the weekly loadings for May not only have broken all records for the month, but they appear to have been much better distributed than in preceding months; therefore a better comparison should be made by this month's earnings. Even in April, as was shown by the St. Paul's earnings statement of yesterday, the change had come in the Northwest.

MONEY.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 27, 1925.

Call loans on Exchange call money loaned at 4 per cent., as on Tuesday. Market was extremely quiet between slight demand for new loans, and the amount taken down by the interior. Some money was placed in the outside market at 3½ per cent. Time money market also was dull, at prevailing quotations. Renewals made up the bulk of the day's business. Commercial paper and acceptances were steady and unchanged.

FRANC SLIPS TO 4.98, BUT GOES UP AGAIN

THE CAUSES OF THE SELLING

Broad activity in French francs, which dropped to a new low record and then scored a spirited rally, was the feature of the foreign exchange market yesterday. As against a close on Tuesday at 5.01⅛ cents, early quotations yesterday went below five cents for the first time this year, and declined to a low point of 4.98 cents. This brought strong buying. The close was at 5.00¼ cents.

Francs have been sold heavily for the last few days, and until yesterday the market has been almost entirely without support. It is understood that one of the motives of the selling has been the report that France will enter the American market next Fall for large purchases of commodities, and that in order to finance these purchases she will be compelled to sell francs.

This theory is supported by the steadily increasing discount at which francs have become available in the dealings in futures. Recently the discount of three-month bills under spot quotations was 7 points, and yesterday it was 9 points. For transactions maturing in October the discount under spot francs is 13 points, for November 15 points and for December 17 points.

Recent selling of francs has also been associated with the taxation proposals of the Caillaux Government, which is believed to be causing a movement of funds out of France, and also to the Riffrian campaign, which is now declared to be costing more than had been anticipated, and to call for further considerable capital outlays.

The buying of francs that developed late yesterday is understood to have come from several powerful international banking groups, and visibly heartened the market. This buying called attention to the general stabilization that has been apparent in foreign exchanges of late, which has resulted in the currencies of most of the nations of the world maintaining a relatively steady position in relation to one another.

Sterling exchange was slightly easier in the New York market yesterday, and this attracted some attention in view of the fact that in London the pound advanced to the highest point reached since the war, the cable transfer rate on New York touching $4.86 7-8. Parity in London for cable exchange is $4.87. The New York market on sterling was not affected, however, the close here being at $4.85 7-8, below the closing of the previous day. Trading in sterling here was quiet, with good support apparent.

The point reached by francs in the New York market was the lowest since July 31, 1924, when under the influence of talk of an interallied debt conference and uncertainty regarding the outcome of the Dawes plan, a low quotation of 4.97½ was recorded. International support for the franc developed after that and the market had been steady until the last week. Francs were lower also in the London market yesterday.

EATON AXLE AND SPRING RESUMES DIVIDENDS

Declares It Is in a Strong Cash Position — Other Companies Announce Extra Payments.

Directors of the Eaton Axle & Spring Company resumed dividend payments on the common stock yesterday by declaring 50 cents a share, payable Aug. 1 to stockholders of record July 15. This is the first dividend since last July, when 40 cents a share was paid. It was announced that the company had no bank loans outstanding and "is in a strong cash position."

An extra dividend of ¼ of 1 per cent. was declared on the cumulative preferred stock of the International Silver Company in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. Both dividends are payable July 1. The extra dividend was declared on account of back dividends due on this issue.

The Penn Central Light and Power Company announced an extra dividend of 10 cents a share on the preference shares, in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of $1 a share. Both dividends are payable July 1 to stockholders of record June 10.

A quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share was declared by the Stromberg Carburetor Company, payable July 1, to stockholders of record June 8. The company reports net profit of $160,305 for the first quarter of 1925, against $204,305 in the same period last year.

The American Bank Note Company announced the declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the preferred stock, payable July 1, to stockholders of record June 15.

ST. PAUL HAS GAIN UNDER RECEIVERS

The April report of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company, which covers the first full month under the operation by receivers, shows net income of $54,903, against a deficit of $691,856 for April of last year. Gross of $11,740,479 compares with $11,707,719 in April, 1924.

The deficit last year, it was remarked yesterday, precipitated a series of analyses of the financial position of the road which foreshadowed the receivership of March 18. The current report, on the other hand, was regarded as favorable by those taking an active interest in the progress of the reorganization.

For the four months ending April 30 the St. Paul showed $48,412,174 gross, compared to $50,153,218 for the corresponding period of 1924. Net operating income for the same period was $3,366,70. in 1925 and $3,775,629 in 1924. For the first three weeks of May car loadings on the St. Paul were reported as 127,928, against 117,809 for the corresponding period in 1924.

The Baltimore & Ohio reports $18,223,554 gross for April and $2,654,468 net. These figures compare respectively with $18,374,172 and $2,828,123 the year before. Four months' gross was $72,214,551, against $73,197,876. Net operating income of $9,104,942, compared with $9,233,302.

The April gross of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy was $11,438,998, compared to $12,288,572, and net operating income, $1,242,818, compared with $1,675,046. Gross for the four months of $48,398,662 and net of $6,278,911 compare with $51,835,927 and $7,905,179.

Members of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce will hold their regular meeting at the local offices on June 4. Trade promotion in its various aspects will be discussed. They will elect five directors to fill the places of those whose terms expire.

BEGINS EXCHANGE OF STOCK

Republic Light Common Is Deposited for Penn-Ohio Securities.

Under a plan of exchange submitted to the common stockholders early this year a substantial amount of common stock and voting trust certificates of the Republic Railway and Light Company has been deposited and exchanged for securities of a new holding company, the Penn-Ohio Securities Corporation. The latter was organized to acquire Republic Railway and Light common shares and certificates so deposited, but it does not affect the present voting trust, which is to continue until July, 1926. Holdings of the common have become more centralized than before, which, it is said, may have some effect upon control of the company should the voting trust be terminated next year.

In the exchange just effected, Republic Railway and Light common stockholders who deposited under the plan received for each share of their common stock $25 face value in 7 per cent. collateral trust three-year bonds and two shares of no par stock of the Penn-Ohio Corporation. The preferred stock did not figure in the exchange.

SEE CHESTER FIGHT NEARING ITS CLOSE

AMERICAN CONTROL SOUGHT

Only 7,000 Shares Favor British Domination—It Is Believed These Can Be Acquired.

Two developments yesterday in connection with the Ottoman American Development Company's billion-dollar Chester concession for railway and other industrial projects in Turkey, made it appear that the fight for control of the concession may be terminated momentarily. At a meeting of stockholders on Tuesday 13,000 shares were voted in favor of control being vested in American interests, including the Chesters, as against 7,000 shares favoring British control which would take in the interests of C. A. Barnar dand K. E. Clayton-Kennedy. The Chesters, however, were not represented at the meeting and their 20,000 shares were not voted.

Admiral Colby M. Chester, who obtained the concessions, had conferences yesterday with Henry Woodhouse, the head of the stockholders' group which is committed to American control. Mr. Woodhouse reported that the Admiral was pleased with the outcome of Tuesday's meeting. There had been considerable speculation as to whether the Admiral and his two sons, Commander Arthur Chester and Colby M. Chester Jr., were willing to forego the British offer to take over the concession.

Mr. Woodhouse said he had received in yesterday's mail a letter from the opposition's representative, understood to be an American, who cast the 7,000 votes Tuesday against the control reverting to the Chesters, offering to sell the 7,000 shares to the Woodhouse group if proper terms were submitted within five days. According to Mr. Woodhouse, the offer will probably be accepted. This, he said, would mean virtually 100 per cent. control by the Americans, since the shares held by the British factions are considered as belonging to the Chesters by default on the payment to them.

It was said that Admiral Chester would make a statement after he confers with his sons, which he will do within the next few days. If this statement accords with the prediction made by Mr. Woodhouse, the several years of controversy within the Ottoman American Development Company, which has been of international interest by reason of the political and economic problems involved, will be terminated.

The Bagdad Railway construction concession is one of those included in the group covered by the grant of Nationalist Turkey to Admiral Chester and his associates. A survey of the railway's equipment is to be one of the first steps in carrying out the terms of the concession. In addition there are valuable oil and mineral rights to be developed. The concession is intact, notwithstanding differences resulting from the British domination of Mosul, and that of France in a portion of the territory covered by the concession terms.

STEEL REVIEWS SEE STABLE SITUATION

The reviews of the iron and steel trade issued today indicate a more stable situation and lead to the prophecy by journals of the trade that necessary readjustments in the industry have been about completed. The Iron Age says:

"The final week in May has added to the indications in the previous fortnight of a nearly completed adjustment of finished steel production to demand and of a more stable situation in prices of the three leading products—plates, shapes and bars. In both these respects May has been a better month than April, at the same time showing improvement, even though slight, in the amount of new business booked.

"While there is no change in the short delivery policy of buyers, evidence appears of a firmer attitude of producers, as their unit cost has risen with reduction of output. More cases are reported of the refusal of orders to which buyers have attached prices $1 to $2 a ton below those for which the larger companies have been standing for two or three weeks.

"With production continuing at close to 70 per cent. of capacity, the market is expected to give early evidence of the extent to which needs that have been deferred to get the lowest price have become urgent. The week has developed some cases of this sort. Orders for quick shipment are more numerous."

The Iron Trade Review says:

"Incoming steel business in May has run ahead of April, with some tendency to keep increasing, but the tonnage is not yet up to the level of shipments. Unfilled orders, consequently, are undergoing continuing shrinkage and production is subject to some further readjustments. The better side of this situation comes from the fact that new buying again is becoming more diversified and frequent. While still essentially of a hand-to-mouth character, it is spread over many sources in which fresh demands seem to be originating with well-sustained regularity.

"The industry appears to be having difficulty in keeping itself above the 70 per cent. mark in operations. The Steel Corporation is on this basis so far as ingot operations, but its finishing mills are 80 per cent. engaged. Chicago has dropped several points to 87 per cent. of ingot capacity. Pittsburgh is down to 65 per cent. average. The Youngstown district continues at 70 per cent.

"The buying movement in pig iron still is under way and has attained impressive proportions. Since May 1 sales easily have run above 500,000 tons. The past week has brought out many new inquiries and at least 150,000 tons of new sales. Prices still are soft, though showing more firmness in some quarters."

BUSINESS MACHINE STOCK.

International Offers New Issue to Shareholders on Record June 6.

The International Business Machine Company, it was announced yesterday, is offering its stockholders the privilege of subscribing to fifteen additional shares of capital stock at $100 a share for each 100 shares now held. Stockholders of record at the close of business June 6 receive the right to subscribe. Proceeds of the sale, it is understood, will provide the management with funds for improvements and extensions and provide additional working capital.

After notice was sent to the Stock Exchange of the proposed increase in stock, the Exchange's Committee on Securities ruled that all transactions in the stock be quoted ex rights June 6. The rights, under the Exchange's ruling, may be dealt in on a when-issued basis, on and after today, but must be settled by June 16. The right to suscribe to the new stock expires June 20. The shares closed at 121½ on the Exchange yesterday.

Will Address Banking Students.

George V. McLaughlin, State Superintendent of Banking, will address the Staten Island students of the American Institute of Banking and the employes of Staten Island banks and building and loan associations tonight at the Staten Island Masonic Club at St. George.

STOCK EXCHANGE ADOPTS PENSIONS

After more than three years' study of various insurance methods by which employes may be protected in their old age, the Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange has agreed upon a pension plan which will be adopted at once and which will provide protection for the 1,200 employes of the Exchange and its affiliated organizations. E. H. H. Simmons, President of the Exchange, announced the details yesterday, following a meeting of the Board of Governors. He said that the board considered the plan adopted as a sound and scientific method of providing for all employes by means of a retirement allowance. A contributory clause, he said, places the plan on a basis where it cannot be considered either as charity or a gift.

Insurance Company to Administer It.

The entire administration of the plan, according to the Exchange's announcement, has been awarded to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. With few exceptions as to details, the system is similar to that now in force in many other large organizations, inasmuch as it provides pensions for old and faithful employes. The exceptions to the average plan, it was pointed out, are improvements, inasmuch as the Stock Exchange's system is not only on a contributory basis under which the employes are allowed to participate, but the future pension obligation is funded each year through the purchase of annuities payable to each employe as he reaches the age of 65 or becomes disabled.

The official announcement by Mr. Simmons states that every employe is allowed, if he desires, to make monthly deposits toward the purchase of an annuity for himself, which is entirely separate and distinct from the service annuity purchased for him by the Exchange, should the employe show sufficient interest in his own future financial independence to make this purchase, the Exchange offers to double the service annuities from the time the employe begins his payments. Employes who leave the Exchange's employ, it was stated, will be permitted to continue their payments directly to the insurance company or to have their money refunded in full.

In connection with the disability clause, it was explained that in the event of an employe's disability after twenty years of service he would not only receive the full amount of the service annuities purchased for him up to that time but that all deposits on his individual annuity would be waived during disability so that the value of his own annuity would continue to increase without any payments by him.

The Committee's Report.

In the report of the investigation, submitted to the Exchange Governors, the Special Committee on Pensions said:

"The Special Committee on Pensions, appointed Nov. 9, 1921, begs to report that after the investigation of many pension and retirement systems, and discussion with those who have become expert on the subject, it is convinced that the following principles should govern the formulation of a retirement system:

"It should be based on definitely calculated retirement benefits rather than on final salaries of employes. The latter basis has been used in many instances, and changes in the wage situation with consequent changes of benefit, which could not be predicted, have brought embarrassment upon plans that had every appearance of being soundly set up.

"We have become convinced also that a pension promise made today should be covered by financial provision made today, rather than left as a responsibility for a future board. In other words, that the system should be set up on a reserve basis in such fashion that its assets may always equal its liabilities, and that if change or abandonment becomes necessary or desirable in future years, such change or abandonment may take place without the breach of any promise or the deposit of any additional funds.

Where Others Failed.

"We have found that many plans, originally well conceived, have come to grief because of changes in rates of mortality and seemingly minor alterations of benefits in later years without coincident financial provision. We have further found that the experience in England, where pension plans have been long in existence, is that those administered by insurance companies are not only guaranteed as to their benefits but have actually in experience given greater money return for the investment than the privately administered funds.

"It is the consensus of opinion that pension funds conducted on a contributory basis under which the employes are permitted to share in the cost and at the same time to increase their benefits are not only more highly appreciated by employes but serve as a desirable incentive to thrift.

"Your committee therefore recommends the adoption of a plan: (1) with definite benefits, (2) set up on a reserve basis, (3) administered by a financial institution, and (4) on a contributory basis."

The committee reported that "the plan, as submitted, is the same in principle and very similar in detail to the retirement plan recently adopted by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, into whose hands it is recommended that the administration of our own plan be given."

CORN AND WHEAT HIT BY WEATHER

Past Week Fair for Cotton, but Too Cool for Corn and Too Dry for Wheat.

The weekly weather report of the Department of Agriculture issued at Washington yesterday in part follows:

"The weather during the week was rather favorable for cotton and very good progress was noted in most sections until near the close, when growth was checked in northern and eastern portions of the belt by cool weather. Late planted cotton, however, is beginning to show need of moisture in many localities.

"In Texas cotton grew well in the north and the Rio Grande district; elsewhere the early planted made fair progress, but the late crop needed moisture; there was little complaint of insect damage. In Oklahoma and Arkansas progress was very good, except that late cotton made only fair advance in the former State and coolness the latter part of the week checked growth in the latter. Growth was generally satisfactory in Louisiana, with plants squaring heavily.

A Bit Too Cool for Cotton.

"Advance was rather slow in Mississippi and Alabama because of cool nights, and stands are irregular in the latter State, although mostly good. Growth, stands and general condition of the crop are mostly satisfactory in Georgia, although late cotton is very irregular and its growth was slow. Improvement was noted in Florida and showers were beneficial in the Carolinas, but cool weather near the close of the week was unfavorable. Germination has been rather poor in Virginia, but stands are mostly good in Southern Illinois, and conditions were favorable for cotton in the far Southwestern State.

"Corn suffered a severe setback by cold weather in the latter part of the week in the middle Mississippi and Ohio Valley States and considerable damage was done in some localities, which will necessitate replanting, although much of the damaged corn will recover. While corn was badly frosted in some localities of Iowa, the permanent damage appeared to have been slight with the general condition and progress of the crop fair and better than last year. Progress was very good in Kansas and Nebraska and fair in Oklahoma, although rain is needed in some localities of the latter State. Rains were beneficial in the middle Atlantic area, but moisture is needed in most of the South.

Not Good for Wheat.

"Deficient moisture in many section of the Winter wheat belt and unusually high temperatures in the western portions have had an unfavorable effect on Winter wheat. The progress of the crop ranges from fair in most of the Ohio Valley to poor in Oklahoma and parts of Texas. Some deterioration was reported from Illinois and there has probably been frost damage in Missouri. In Oklahoma, rain has been badly needed and wheat is generally poor. The crop is beginning in southern Kansas and shedding has begun as far north as the Ohio Valley and southern Iowa. While Spring wheat is generally doing well, growth was slow and the crop is in need of moisture in some sections, especially in parts of South Dakota and Minnesota. Good rains occurred in the Red River Valley, but rain is badly needed in southern Minnesota, and progress was slow in that State. In North Dakota wheat is recovering nicely from the freeze of last week."

Los Angeles Gas & Electric Co. Sells Mortgage Bonds—Other New Financing.

Public utility issues make up the largest part of the new bond offerings announced for today. In addition there is a wide range of State and municipal offerings and several real estate mortgage issues.

John Nickerson & Co., Hambleton & Co. and the Federal Securities Corporation of Chicago comprise a syndicate which is offering $14,000,000 Associated Gas and Electric Company 6 per cent. secured gold bonds, series of 1925, at a price of 95½ and interest, to yield 6.34 per cent. Proceeds are to be used to reimburse the company for expenditures made in the acquisition of new properties and for other corporate purposes. There will be substantial new construction, particularly on the Staten Island Edison property.

Bond & Goodwin and Tucker, Inc., of San Francisco, Mercantile Securities Company of California and E. H. Rollins & Sons, Harris, Forbes & Co. and Blyth, Witter & Co. of New York announce the sale of a new issue of Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation general and refunding mortgage 5½ per cent. gold bonds, due Oct. 1, 1949. For the twelve months ended April 30 net earnings of the company were $7,269,340, or more than twice the annual interest requirements.

A. M. Lamport & Co., Inc. obtained an issue of $1,419,000 State of Michigan 4½ per cent. bonds, due 1940, and it is expected that public offering of the bonds will be made soon.

G. L. Miller & Co., Inc., announce the offering of a new $900,000 first mortgage 6½ per cent. real estate gold bond issue secured by the Blind Brook Lodge to be erected on a site facing the Boston Post Road and Milton Road in Rye, N. Y. The property has been appraised at $1,415,300.

Hibernia Securities Company, Inc., and B. J. Van Ingen & Co. are offering a new issue of $450,000 Manatee County, Fla., 5½ per cent. highway and bridge bonds, due 1950 and 1955, at prices to yield 4.50 per cent.

S. W. Straus & Co. are offering two issues, totaling $410,000, first mortgage 6 per cent. serial coupon gold bond certificates, secured by a modern apartment building and a commercial building in Suffalo, both completed and occupied and appraised at $631,822.

A syndicate consisting of H. L. Allen & Co., Gibson & Leefe, New York, and G. L. Austin & Co., Hartford, is offering $320,000 City of New Britain, Conn., 4¼ per cent. school bonds, due 1925 to 1953, inclusive, at prices to yield 3.50 to 3.90 per cent. according to maturity.

A $120,000 issue of Rockford, Ill., twenty-year 4¼ per cent. bonds, to finance a fire station and municipal garage, is offered by Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc.

300 BANKERS MEET EXCHANGE LEADERS

About 300 bankers from all sections of the State attended a conference at the New York Stock Exchange yesterday; called for the purpose of giving the banking representatives who handle the investment problems of the public in their respective communities first-hand information of the day-to-day operations in the leading securities market of the world. The entire day was given over by the chief executives of the Exchange to entertaining the visiting bankers and in explaining to them the operations of the institution, from the time an order for the purchase or sale of securities is given to a broker up to the time it is cleared through the Stock Clearing Corporation and payment made.

Representatives of the Stock Exchange pointed out that such conferences have been held heretofore for the benefit of partners of Exchange members, branch office managers and other representatives of Stock Exchange firms. They have proved so successful that this year they were extended to the banking fraternity, inasmuch as a large volume of the investment business reaching Wall Street originates through the banks. The visiting bankers represented not only National and State banks but also savings banks and trust companies.

E. H. H. Simmons, President of the New York Stock Exchange, addressed the visitors in the Governing Room of the Exchange. He reviewed the history of American banking from its inception down to the present day, taking in the formation of the Federal Reserve System and the operations of the securities markets in the same period, and pointed out the need of the one for the other and the contacts which exist between American banks generally and the leading American market for capital.

Mr. Simmons pointed out that "it is mainly through the banks that securities come to be issued and listed on the Exchange and also that funds can be found to carry them in the floating supply until they can be distributed to the outright buyers and investors of the land. On the other hand, bankers look to the Stock Exchange for a variety of indispensable services in corporate financing—for the maintenance of a ready, free and open market, for reliable quotations and for integrity of method in security dealings."

Land Bank Shares on Market.

A syndicate headed by the Guy Huston Company, Inc., and Jackson & Curtis is offering today 11,000 shares of Southern Minnesota Joint Stock Land Bank capital stock at $158.50 per share and accrued dividends. The present 9 per cent. dividend, it is stated, will be increased July 1 to 10 per cent.

NICKEL CO. DOUBLES NET PROFIT IN YEAR

FOREIGN BUSINESS BETTER

Earnings of the International Nickel Company for last year were the best since the close of the World War, according to the annual report submitted to stockholders yesterday by Robert C. Stanley, President of the organization. Total income for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1925, aggregated $5,109,199, against $3,025,654 in the previous year. After allowing for all expenses, and deduction of reserves for depreciation, depletion and other charges, the company reported net profit of $2,924,057 for the year, against $1,206,486 in the previous year. This was equal, after allowing for preferred dividends, to $1.43 a share earned on the 1,673,384 shares of capital stock of $25 a share par value outstanding, against 40 cents a share earned the year before.

Improvement was also recorded during the year in the working capital position of the company. The figures showed net current assets of $15,563,316 and net current liabilities of $1,427,553, leaving working capital of $14,135,763. At the close of the previous year current assets were $11,830,956, current liabilities $947,833 and working capital $10,833,123. The profit and loss surplus was increased from $10,749,841 on March 31, 1924, to $13,139,143 on March 31, 1925.

Accompanying the annual report, the company submits figures showing operations by quarters which indicate that the greater part of the year's profits accrued during the last half of the fiscal year. Profits for the quarter ended June 30, 1924, amounted to $359,698, for the September quarter they were $435,737, for the December quarter $838,518 and for the quarter ended March 31, 1925, $1,290,083.

In his report of operations Mr. Stanley told the stockholders that "distribution of nickel and rolled products is steadily becoming more diversified, a condition which should lead to increased and stabilized earnings. The general plan of exploitation, including research, field service, publicity, and advertising, introduced during the last three years, has shown gratifying results and will be continued and its scope extended as the volume of permanent business grows.

"The company's foreign business is improving, both in volume of sales and realizations, and it is fair to assume that exports will continue to increase as general business conditions abroad improve."

PUBLIC UTILITY TAXES TO EXCEED $3,700,000

TRENTON, N. J., May 27.—Public Utility corporations of New Jersey will pay a gross receipts tax of $3,712,802.35 for 1925, it was announced today by the State Board of Taxes and Assessments. The tax is in lieu of the levy on the personal property of these corporations. The State Board has just completed the computation and certification of the gross receipts tax to the seventy-four utility corporations affected and the various taxing districts of the State.

The law providing for the imposition of this tax was passed in 1919, and it is designated to be a more equitable scheme of taxing personal property of these corporations than the old plan of allowing utility property to be valued for assessment by local assessors.

This year's tax is $252,587.37 in excess of the 1924 assessment, and it is levied on sixteen street railway and fifty-eight electric and gas companies. The total gross receipts of these corporations amounted to $90,594,751.19, and the tax was levied at the "average rate" for the year 1925, which is $3.728 per $100 of valuation. This tax is levied only against the street railway, gas and electric companies, and does not include other utilities.

Of the total tax 80 per cent., or $2,987,049.63, is paid by the Public Service Corporation. The receipts of the Public Service Railway Company this year amounted to $22,106,318.30, an increase of $1,078,983.31 over last year. The tax on the Public Service Railway Company this year amounted to $824,123.55, an increase of $32,210.16.

The receipts of the Public Service Gas and Electric Company amounted to $58,018,403.33, an increase of $3,510,079.44. The tax on the Public Service Gas and Electric Company this year amounted to $2,162,926.08, an increase of $161,925.51.

This tax is paid to the taxing districts in which the property of the utility corporations is located and no part of it goes for State purposes.

Board of Consuls Elects.

The following officers were elected at the annual meeting of the Board of Consuls of the New York chapter of the American Institute of Banking: President, Charles D. Wheelock, the Corn Exchange Bank; First Vice President, Edwin C. Estes, the South Brooklyn Savings Institution; Second Vice President, Louis H. Ohlrogge, the National Park Bank; Treasurer, Nelson M. McKenna, Irving Bank-Columbia Trust Company, and Consul, Alfred E. Schneider, the American Exchange National Bank.

BLAIR SYNDICATE GETS NORSE BONDS

New Competition Over Foreign Issues Revealed in This and Argentine Deal.

LOAN IS FOR $33,000,000

Runs Forty Years and Bears 5½ Per Cent. Interest—Retirement of Old 8s Expected Soon.

A new development in the spirited competition that has grown up among New York banking groups for the bond issues of foreign Governments was revealed yesterday with the announcement that a syndicate headed by Blair & Co., Inc., had purchased about $33,000,000 forty-year bonds of the Kingdom of Norway.

The announcement follows closely upon completion of terms for an issue of $45,000,000 Argentine bonds by J. P. Morgan & Co. and the National City Company. Argentine financing, in recent years, has been handled in New York by Blair & Co., Inc. All of the Kingdom of Norway bonds previously issued here have been brought out by a group headed by the National City Company and J. P. Morgan & Co., and Norway also had established a credit here through the National City for the support of her exchange.

Announcement of the Argentine offering and now of the Norwegian one, has caused considerable surprise in Wall Street banking circles. There have been reports that the apparent shifts of these countries from the connections through which they had been doing business meant a new alignment of New York banks in the international financing field, but these reports are generally discredited. It is said that with a ready market existing here for bonds, keen competition has developed for individual pieces of business, and that lines are being formed right along to handle certain issues which may be snapped over night as conditions alter.

In the case of the Argentine issue, it was reported that J. P. Morgan & Co. and the National City Company obtained the bonds at a price one point lower than the rival bid. Keen competition for the Norwegian issue also was reported, although details of the bids were not revealed. The high standing of Norwegian credit was illustrated by the fact that the new bonds bear 5½ per cent. interest, as against 8 per cent. paid on a previous Norwegian issue.

Associated with Blair & Co., Inc., in handling the new issue are Brown Brothers & Co., Chase Securities Corporation, White, Weld & Co., and Blyth, Witter & Co. The group has been identified with a number of Scandinavian issues in the past, but this is the first time that it has handled one of Norway's.

The former issues of Norwegian bonds are the 8s of 1940, which are expected to be called on Oct. 1 at 110 from the proceeds of the present issue; $18,000,000 of 6s of 1952, offered in October, 1922; $20,000,000 of 6s of 1943, offered in August, 1923, and $25,000,000 of 6s of 1944, brought out last August.

The new issue will reduce considerably the cost to Norway of her post-war borrowings. The savings in the rate of interest if the 8s are called in will more than offset the premium that must be paid on the outstanding bonds. It had been reported recently that Norway was undecided whether to call in these bonds, but it is reported now that a decision has been reached to take this step.

Public offering of the new bonds is expected within a week. The price has not yet been determined.

WILL MARKET FRENCH PIPE.

Head of Universal Company Tells of Deal With Manufacturers.

George A. Harder, President of the Universal Pipe and Radiator Company, said yesterday that his company had reached an agreement with French manufacturers to market all the French cast iron pipe shipped to this country. This arrangement, he said, would make Universal Pipe and Radiator one of the biggest water pipe companies in the United States. Mr. Harder has just returned from Europe.

The mission to France followed heavy selling of pipe in this country by French producers, who repeatedly underbid American manufacturers. The agreement is expected to remove this threat to producers in America.

REPORT OF MONTREAL BANK

Capital Stock and Deposits Increased by Merger.

The semi-annual statement of the Bank of Montreal sets forth that its capital stock has been increased from $27,500,000 to $29,916,700, due to the absorption of The Molsons Bank. The total assets of the bank now stand at $718,194,797 compared with $679,734,064 a year ago. Liquid assets of $424,673,558 are equal to 65.92 per cent. of public liabilities compared to $394,814,161 or 64.48 per cent. a year go.

Current loans nd discounts in Canada, including advances to towns, municipalities, &c. also were increased, as compared with $240,877,107 last year. The deposits of the bank now total $604,851,116, an increase of $30,529,291.

EUROPE'S PROGRESS TOWARD GOLD BASIS

IMPROVING SINCE 1922

In connection with the return of a great part of the world to a gold basis, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York has sketched the recent history of European nations in stabilizing their currencies. These moves, centreing around the announcement on April 26 of the British Government's decision to restore gold payments, the bank regards as an important series of events leading gradually to the reorganization of world trade and finance on a more normal basis.

Oct. 11—Russian Soviet State Bank authorized to issue chervonets, based on gold.

Nov. 1—Bank of Latvia established and new currency created, to become convertible into gold one year after the resumption of gold payments by the Bank of England.

Sept. 1—Reparation Commission proclaims the Dawes plan to be in effect.

Jan. 13—Government of the Union of South Africa announces intention to resume gold payments on July 1, 1925.

April 28—Great Britain reestablishes free gold market; Holland, Australia, New Zealand and Dutch East Indies withdraw embargo on gold exports.

The Federal Reserve Bank has prepared a chart showing the countries in Europe which have returned to a gold basis or a gold exchange basis. These countries are Great Britain, Holland, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Poland, East Prussia, Lithuania, Latvia, Sweden and Russia. In addition, the Swiss exchange is quoted above par, and the exchanges of a number of other countries have been held to fluctuations of very narrow limits.

The return to a free gold market in Great Britain is a particularly important step, because England for many years has been an international banker and a large part of the world's trade has always been carried on in sterling. The advantages of stabilized currencies include a lessening of exchange risks and restoration of a free flow of world trade, stability of commodity prices, stability in interest rates and increased international confidence.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

After yesterday's market for the French franc had opened at a decline of approximately 6 points, at 4.98¼ cents, a new low, the rate stiffened on the first sign of support accorded this bill on the present reaction. The demand came from a group of bankers and brokers whose activities in stopping speculative raids on the franc had met with success. With this buying bearing all the earmarks of organized support, speculators for the decline turned to covering, and the franc again went above the five-cent level, to 5.02½ cents. However, a limited amount of selling "future" francs went on, the discount on three months' being increased from 7 points to 9¼ points. October to December futures were discounted from 13 to 17 points.

Italian lira at 3.96¼ cents, a new low, was also supported after preliminary business, selling up to 3.99 cents, which coincided with Tuesday's final. Belgian franc was heavy with the French and Italian, sagging 1¾ points to 4.94½ cents.

Sterling was steady all day, moving over a range of ¼-cent, and finishing at $4.86, a fractional decline. Holland was firm at 40.16 cents, with a display of strength in the Spanish pesetas which lifted this bill 6 points to 14.51 cents. Scandinavians and Swiss documents were firm. There was a dull market in the South Americans and Far Easterns, rates being uniformly maintained.

Live Stock Markets at Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 27.—The leading packers came into the hog market as good buyers, and while the early market was only steady, the finish was 10@15 cents higher, with the average of $11.90 showing 10 cents above yesterday, while the top was lifted 25 cents to $12.50. Although a number of hogs were held off the market on orders from the country, the carryover was cut down to 16,000. Shippers took 5,000, largely light and butchers. Receipts were 16,000, with 23,000 expected tomorrow. Lambs were strong to 25 cents higher, and sheep steady; receipts of 9,000 were below trade requirements. Best California Spring lambs sold at $16.50, the highest since May 11, while the top on shorn Westerns was $13.75, the best in two weeks. Beef steers averaged 15 cents lower with yearlings about steady. The top on the latter was $11.50, and on heavy steers $11.25. Dressed beef market was slow and weak. Receipts were 12,000.

LIVE STOCK AND MEATS.

CATTLE — Four cars steers on sale Wednesday fairly active, unevenly steady; top, $10.25; two loads plain weighty cattle, $9.50 and $9.65.

Cows and bulls also steady; canners and cutters, mostly $2.50 to $3.75; bulk butcher grades, $4.25 to $5.50. Bologna bulls active, $5.00 to $5.75.

CALVES—1,280 head on sale; active, steady; good and choice, $13. to $13.50; in-between grades, mostly $11 to $12.50; few throwouts, $8 to $9; some 64 lb. bulls, $7.

SHEEP—Four cars Spring lambs on sale; general quality plainer; rather slow, steady; top, deck fat 63 lb. Maryland lambs, $17.25; bulk of offerings, $16.75 to $17; deck 60 lb. averages, $15.50. Sheep steady, mostly $7.50 down.

OIL PREMIUMS RISE IN MID-CONTINENT

TANK-CAR GASOLINE IS UP

First Drop in Week's Production of Country Recorded Since Early in March.

Due to the firmer tone to the gasoline market in the mid-continent section, refiners there have advanced the premiums offered for Garber crude oil, it was announced yesterday. The refiners are paying the Sinclair Oil and Gas Company $2.85 a barrel for Garber crude from the shallower sands, an increase of 15 cents, and $2.70 for crude produced from the deeper sands, an increase of 10 cents. The official posted price for these products is $2.35 a barrel.

In Texas, according to advices received here yesterday, gasoline in tank-car lots was advanced to 12½ cents a gallon from 12 cents.

Production of crude oil for the United States last week declined for the first time since the first week of March, according to figures compiled by The Oil and Gas Journal of Tulsa. The daily average production last week was 2,292,692 barrels, compared with 2,294,271 the week before. The output of the Smackover field, which has been chiefly responsible for the rapid gain in production in the past few months, dropped 17,137 barrels in the average daily output, the decline being from 401,427 barrels in the week of May 16 to 384,290.

	May 23	May 16
Kansas	102,085	100,210
North Texas	169,725	173,715
East Texas	126,100	130,900
Louisiana	53,148	51,930
*Arkansas	426,415	443,677
Gulf Coast	112,570	107,094
Southwest Texas	50,034	48,195
Rocky Mountain area	90,185	89,870
Eastern	105,650	105,725
Totals	2,292,692	2,294,271

*Includes Smackover production.

Besides being the first week in which production declined for the country as a whole since early in March, the trade paper points out that last week was the first time Smackover established a new peak since the deep sand was opened up.

COTTON GOES LOWER ON LIGHT TRADING

MORE CONDITION GUESSES

One Private Report Puts Crop at 75.2 and Another at 74.9 Per Cent. of 'Normal'—Inactivity at Ports.

A further decline occurred in cotton yesterday under an unusually light volume of business. The recent recovery of a cent to a cent and a half had reduced a floating short interest and predictions of rising temperatures, with showers in the southwestern part of the belt, where greatly needed, produced an easier market. A dragging tendency prevailed throughout and final quotations were the lowest of the session at a loss of 20 to 22 points. Two more private reports appeared, one by a local crop reporting agency with a condition of 75.2 and the other placing the figure at 74.9. The weekly weather report reflected uneven progress, with most of the early planted cotton showing a good stand but that recently planted being held back by cold nights and deficient moisture. For the second time this season there were no shipments of cotton at any port.

The fact that private reports all indicate a May 25 condition considerably above the ten-year average of 71.9 and very much better than the 67 average of the past five years continued to influence trading. With an increase in acreage of 5 per cent. or more, the largest area ever devoted to cotton, operated against outside buying. General public interest remained centred in grain and securities, with traders disposed to wait for the Washington report and also further progress in the growing crop.

Foreign quotations, after an early loss of a few points yesterday, ended the day but little changed from Tuesday. Covering of July contracts by one or two houses with Liverpool connections occurred during early trading, but aside from this buying few arbitrage orders were executed. Liquidation by local traders and some selling from Atlantic sections supplied contracts. The absence of any definite demand for cotton developed an easier tone and a sagging market. July broke through 23 cents, while October sold under 22.40, both being low levels of the week and $3 a bale from high records of Monday. Private reports that showers were falling in portions of Texas, where unsettled weather was predicted by the Weather Bureau, caused selling pressure toward the close which left prices at low levels of the day.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Previous Day.

BUT PRICES RALLY LATER

CHICAGO, May 27.—Scattered rains and showers over parts of the Southwest and Northwest, combined with a break of 2@2½ cents from the finish of the previous day resulted, but on all the declines there was a good class of commission-house buying, and a rally, coming at the last, made the finish on the July only ¼ cent lower, while September was unchanged. May lost ⅞ cent and December was ½ cent lower.

A local operator was credited with buying freely toward the last and caught the local element short, but the latter covered.

Out of twenty-four stations in Kansas reporting to the Weather Bureau, fifteen points showed moisture received, but in the main the amounts were small. A little rain was also shown in the Dakotas and at a few points in Oklahoma.

Cables from abroad claimed that foreigners regard reports of crop damage in this country as exaggerated, but the condition of Spring wheat is somewhat below normal for this season, and Le Count continues to report dry weather in parts of South Dakota. He does not look for a large crop this season, as the stand is light.

Crop Observer R. O. Cromwell confirms the outbreak of "Takeall" in Kansas, but says it is only one of the diseases which are damaging wheat this year, root rots taking a larger toll than Hessian fly.

An outstanding feature of the crop reports received during the day was a statement from northwestern counties in Kansas, where the outlook was the best in the State, that the crop there had deteriorated rapidly in the past few days.

Export demand remains decidedly small with sales estimated at 100,000 to 200,000 bushels in all positions. World's available supply decreased 12,201,000 bushels for the week and is down to 159,421,000 bushels against 192,947,000 last year.

Primary arrivals were 1,093,000 bushels; week ago, 1,048,000; last year, 587,000. Shipments were 699,000 bushels; week ago, 1,313,000; last year, 415,000.

The corn market showed a heavy undertone throughout the day and there was a noticeable lack of aggressive outside buying. This encouraged the local bears and they sold freely. The finish was on a rally, in sympathy with wheat; net losses were ½@1½ cents, May leading.

Charters were made during the day for 250,000 bushels to Buffalo, and it is understood that part of the grain taken in on May delivery will go to Canadian industries.

Crop reports were somewhat more mixed and while replanting will be necessary in many sections, the effect in others of the freeze is scarcely noticeable. Indiana was very hard hit in many sections.

Primary arrivals today were 965,000 bushels; week ago, 321,000; last year, 1,025,000, and shipments, 507,000 bushels; week ago, 427,000; last year, 206,000.

Oats closed 1/16@¼ cent lower in sympathy with corn, while rye was 1 cent lower to ½ cent higher, the former on May.

PLANS NEW POWER LINE.

Watertown Utility Seeks to Link Taylorville and Black River.

The Northern New York Utilities, Inc., of Watertown, which as a subsidiary of the Power Corporation of New York figures in the consolidation of Adirondack Power and Light Corporation, Power Corporation, Fulton County, Albany, Utica and Cohoes properties now being worked out, proposes to construct a steel tower transmission line from its switching station at Taylorville to its sub-station at Black River, a distance of twenty-seven and one-half miles. Taylorville is on the Beaver River. The estimated cost of the line, which will carry up to 110,000 volts, is about $500,000. The company has asked the Public Service Commission for approval of the project and for authority to issue securities to pay for it.

The Windham Valley Electric Company plans to transfer its franchises, works and system to the New York State Gas and Electric Corporation, the latter joining in the petition for the transfer. Extensions will be made to link up the two systems.

DESIGNERS DISPLAY CHILDREN'S STYLES

Children's clothes, illustrative of styles in various parts of the country, were shown last night at the Children's Style Show at the Hotel Pennsylvania which was held under the auspices of the United Women's Belt League of America. All the garments shown were entries in the league's recent contest to stimulate the creative powers of American designers of apparel for the younger element.

The models passed in review before a jury consisting of seven retail buyers of clothes for young people, five representatives of the Belt League and four children's dress manufacturers. They included Mrs. D. J. Woolridge, Bloomingdale Bros.; Miss A. C. Ike, Associated Merchandising Corporation; Miss Marie Murphy, Saks Herald Square; Miss M. McNamara, Franklin Simon & Co.; Mrs. M. L. Johnson, Lord & Taylor; Miss Henrietta Jacobson, Oppenheim, Collins & Co.; Miss E. Harburger, R. H. Macy & Co.; S. I. Phorpiles, Meyer Berlow, Jesse Herff, E. Metzger, J. I. Schaffer, J. S. Tenney, M. Spector, H. Epstein and S. H. Cohen.

The jury awarded the following prizes: first to Madame Andrea; second, to Miss B. A. Moore of Owensboro, Ky.; third, to Barney Davis, Miss Solomon, designer; fourth, to the Children's Rainbow Dress Company.

Prior to the appearance of the models, D. N. Mossesohn, Executive Chairman of the Associated Dress Industries, spoke briefly on the advantages of the contest to the industry. He stressed the point that this example of cooperation between manufacturers of accessories and garments, making for complete harmony in dress, was a distinct step forward for American designing.

Dresses from designers in Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Kentucky, Philadelphia and other centres which figure in the ready-to-wear world, were on display and were worn by juvenile models ranging in age from 4 to 14 years.

There is a persistent tendency to favor the styles of grown-ups in fashioning clothes nowadays for the younger generation. The colors are the same, the materials are much the same and there is a decided similarity in the cut of the garments, with the straight loose silhouette. One of the most interesting of the models shown last night was called Le Petite Cadet, no doubt because of its severity of line and its military touch in the large brass buttons that decorated it. It was of navy blue serge, cut straight and scalloped at the opening at the front. The buttons followed the opening to the belt line at the hips, and there three of the buttons on the dull blue leather belt finished the effect.

Another interesting model was of tan flannel trimmed with cocoa colored crepe de chine at the cuffs and around the throat. Small buttons of the silk were also used, in combination with a white kid belt stitched with black silk. A brown flannel dress with a rayon stripe had touches of red and a belt of brown suede.

Belts, of course, were featured on all the models. All them were leather, either suede, kid, patent leather or leather of dull finish, but some of them were so cleverly contrived that it was difficult to tell them from the fabric they matched or decorated.

$230,500 RECEIVERS' FEES.

Judge Praises Handling of $50,000,000 in Southern Cotton Oil Co.

Federal Judge William N. Runyon signed an order yesterday in Newark allowing receivers and attorneys in the $50,000,000 receivership of the Southern Cotton Oil Company, a subsidiary of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company, both New Jersey concerns, receivership and attorneys' fees of $230,500.

Arthur T. Vanderbilt, one of the joint receivers is allowed $100,000, and the other receiver, Charles G. Wilson, President of both companies, $50,000. The Court declared that the receivership, which embraced sixteen jurisdictions and handled $50,000,000 in assets, had been most efficiently handled. The law firm of Lindabury, Depue and Faiks, from which Judah Stryker represented the receivers as attorney, was allowed $50,000. Carlisle Garrison of Jersey City and his associate, George Tennile, were allowed $30,000, and Harry Lane, attorney for the defendant company $500.

The receivers were appointed in March, 1924. The receivership embraces sixty-three plants in several States. Many of these plants have since been closed by the receivers and others operated by them at a profit.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.
Yesterday—4 per cent. for the best names. Tuesday—4 per cent. for the best names. The quotations are for six months' paper.

Raw Silk Situation.

Interest in the raw silk market has centred on the opening of the cocoon markets in Japan. Cocoon prices for the new season started at 95 kake and are now quoted at 100 to 105 kake. This is the equivalent of close to 2,000 yen, according to E. Gerli & Co., Inc., or about 30 to 35 cents per pound higher than the present market level. This firm adds that it is difficult to see anything cheaper ahead than prices of from 90 to 95 kake, which fully equals the present market level. This, it is held, will be the case despite arrivals of medium grades of cocoons from the larger producing districts. In the local market, manufacturers have held back because of the advance in prices. At the close of business yesterday double extra crachs were quoted at $6.55 and double extra A at $6.40. Canton 14—16s were priced at $5.35 and 20—22s at $4.85. "Three dancers" steam filatures ruled at $6.55. In Italian silks, exquis were held at $6.90 and extra classicals at $6.50.

Good Interest in Golf Suits.

Although reorders have not figured large as yet, four-piece golf suits are beginning to sell more actively at retail in the metropolitan centres. The weather is held responsible for any lagging tendency to date. Manufacturers are convinced of the likelihood of permanent popularity for these suits and express no doubt regarding their place in the late Spring clothing lines. Consumer demand for separate knickers is growing, and the Summer prospects for these are considered very good. Linens, crashes and similar lightweight Summer fabrics are stressed in these garments.

Fall Prices About Unchanged.

Little change is anticipated in the prices of Fall lines of shirts. In most instances, it was said yesterday, the prices prevailing for Spring on the same grades of merchandise will continue to rule for Fall. One manufacturer, in discussing seasonal openings in this trade, said that any dividing line that may have formerly existed has now been done away with. There are a few concerns, he said, which still stage definite openings, but most of them now make the business practically a one-season one, with new patterns and styles being introduced throughout the year. The retailer's policy of small and frequent buying he described as the main factor in this development.

To Intervene on Flexible Tariff.

At its meeting yesterday the Flexible Tariff Committee of the National Council of American Importers and Traders recommended that the council intervene in the Norwegian Nitrogen Products case, which involves the constitutionality of the flexible cause of the tariff. It is very likely, Frank Van Leer, Secretary of the council, said, that the Board of Directors will ask permission as amicus curiae to file a brief setting forth the council's views on the flexible cause. The board is scheduled to meet within a week or so. The committee also gave considerable attention to the matter of the information required on import invoices in the so-called "column six." Within two weeks, it was stated, the committee will file a brief against the method of requiring foreign manufacturers to file such a large amount of import data on invoices. This, it is claimed, will create a great deal of confusion without advantage, as the Government can obtain the necessary information through other means.

Stripe Patterns in Neckwear.

Combinations of stripes and irregular checked patterns are among the newest offerings in men's neckwear. These are being shown in a large array of bright colors, with red continuing a leading shade in combination with others. For Fall, it was said yesterday, the trend is toward somewhat narrower stripes than those which rule at present time. This is the case in imports of some of the newest English cut silk neckwear. For immediate delivery, manufacturers here report a growing demand for foulards. Bow ties are getting a good start and, with the weather favorable, are believed to be headed for an active Summer call.

Use the Horrible Examples.

As part of its educational campaign to combat the activities of house-to-house canvassers, the retailers' division of the Chamber of Commerce of a certain up-State city is making use of "horrible examples." In other words, whenever executives of the division can get hold of any merchandise on which the consumer-purchaser has been defrauded, the stuff is bought and put on display with appropriate signs. The matter is then "played up" in the local papers. It is an adaptation and amplification of the method used by some of the live small town merchants in fighting mail order competition, and it seems to be working. One thing that did a good deal to further the campaign was the recent arrest of some "salesmen" who palmed off on a poor woman a roll of linoleum that was several yards shorter than it was represented to be. Although somewhat extreme, the incident made excellent ammunition.

Shoe Business Is Good.

With the exception of those manufacturers of women's shoes who go in entirely for the more extreme styles, reports from the trade indicate that there is not a great deal of reason for complaining about the business that is now being done. The jobbers are getting nice advance business in men's and boys' shoes, and in some of the semi-staple lines of women's goods as well. They are also getting in some good orders on tennis and other sport shoes, especially the better grades of crepe sole goods. In the higher priced lines the men's end is the more active, and advance business in this case shapes up very nicely in comparison with that of a year ago. There is no marked difference in the character of the demand from that for Spring, but the outlook for a good season was said yesterday to be even brighter than it was then.

Gray Goods Were Lifeless.

Snap was again lacking to trading in the local market for gray goods yesterday. In the printcloths first hands sold some spot 38½-inch 60-48s at 7¼ cents, and also some 38½-inch 64-60s for shipment early next month at 9¼ cents. Sheetings also were without much life, although trading took place in 36-inch 5.50s at 7¼ cents and in 40-inch 56-60, 3.60s at 11 cents. There was some inquiry for 37-inch four-leaf twills, but not a great deal of business was done in them, if any. The rest of the market was bare of feature.

Burlap Prices Irregular.

Irregularity of prices, as between standard spot light and heavy goods, is about the only feature of the burlap market here at the moment. Spot 40-inch 8-ounce cloths were quoted yesterday at 7 cents, against 7.10 cents a week ago, while the 40-inch 10½-ounce goods were held 10 points higher than last week at 9.20 cents. The lightweight goods were also quoted at 7 cents for June and July-September deliveries yesterday by C. E. Rockstroh & Co., Inc., with the heavy cloths held at 9.15 cents for those positions. Trading is limited, with most of the interest shown in afloat goods, especially heavyweights. The tone at Calcutta is bearish, but prices are steady despite it.

Fur Dealers Are Fairly Busy.

Although business in the raw skin end of the fur trade is none too active at the moment, the dealers are doing a fair volume on several of the leading varieties. Southern "rats" are moving well, although the higher priced skins are dragging somewhat, and there is also some trading going on in medium priced Northern muskrat, seal dyed, Civet cat and raccoon are sought as well. In the trimming furs Northwestern skunk is being sold quite freely, as are Northwestern wolf and beaver. German and Russian fitch also are sought for trimmings. In some quarters of the market the finer grades of silver fox are being touted for Fall wear, particularly the half and three-quarter silvery grades.

INSURANCE BUILDING TO COST $5,000,000

PLANS 18-STORY OFFICES

One of the largest building operations in the insurance district will be undertaken by the Royal Insurance Company, which, after months of negotiating, has assembled a block front on William Street for improvement with an eighteen-story structure. The operation will represent an investment of $5,000,000.

As a site for the new building, thirteen separate parcels have been assembled by Charles F. Noyes Company in connection with Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co. The property consists of almost an entire block of ground, taking in the entire block front on the easterly side of William Street, from Fulton to Ann Street, and including 144 to 154 William Street, 89 to 99 Fulton Street, and 78 to 86 Ann Street. This gives the buyers a plot with a frontage on William Street of 120 feet and about 175 feet on the side streets.

The new building will contain nearly 250,000 square feet of rentable area and will be erected from plans of Starrett & Van Vleck, architects.

In assembling the site purchases were made as follows: From the Old Glory Realty Company (Louis Annin Ames, President), 144 to 154 William Street; 95 and 97 Fulton Street, through to Ann Street, from the Reformed Dutch Church of America. This is the second property ever sold by this church and title dates back several hundred years. Nos. 91 and 93 Fulton Street were purchased from Elias A. Cohen, President of the Broadway John Corporation, who obtained a sixty-three-year lease on the property through the Charles F. Noyes Company about a year ago, with the option to purchase the fee, from the Robbins estate, and 89 Fulton Street, through to Ann, was purchased through Harry Hall of Wm. A. White & Sons, agents, who represented the owners.

Through the cancellation of leases in all buildings, the Royal Insurance Company obtains possession of the newly acquired site on Nov. 1 of this year, and it is planned to complete the eighteen-story improvement in the Fall of 1926. A statement from Charles F. Noyes on the sale said:

"The decision of the Royal to embark upon so large a building is understood to have been largely influenced by the needs of the allied company, the Royal Indemnity Company, whose business has made remarkable strides in recent years and who will find more commodious quarters, which will give elbow room for further expansion, in the new building. The Royal Insurance Company and the Queen Insurance Company will also leave the beautiful building which the Royal erected seventeen years ago at 84 William Street, as their business has in the interval grown in a way to create a demand for larger floor areas in the interest of economic administration. The construction of this building reinforces the stabilization of the Insurance district in the downtown section."

Deals on Fifth Avenue.

Other business building deals closed yesterday centred in Fifth Avenue properties, the leading transaction being closed by Frederick Brown, the operator.

Mr. Brown purchased from the Parsons family—Colonel William Barclay Parsons, H. de B. Parsons, the Eliza L. Parsons estate and the Farmers Loan and Trust Company—the eighteen-story office building at 505 Fifth Avenue, adjoining the twenty-seven foot wide Seymour Building at the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-second Street. The building is erected on a site 37 feet wide and 108 feet deep, which was purchased by an ancestor of the present sellers seventy-five years ago, who built on the site a house which was the Parsons homestead for many years.

The site cost $11,250, which was a big price for Fifth Avenue land in 1850. The property was purchased by Mr. Brown from the heirs of the old investor for close to $2,000,000. Less than a month's income from the property today would be in excess of the high record value which the purchase of this property established in 1850. The income from the building is $200,000 a year. The store in the building has just been leased to the Canadian National Railroad for a term of years at a rental of $55,000.

The five-story building at 557 Fifth Avenue, on a lot 25 by 100 feet, was sold by Charles E. Johnson and Charles G. Trussell as trustees to the R. G. L. Corporation. The Oceanic Investing Company, owners of the adjoining property at 559 to 561, southeast corner of Forty-sixth Street, are said to be the buyers of 557.

EAST SIDE RESALE.

Show Room Building Sold—Grand Street Deal.

Harry H. Jackson resold 40 East Twenty-eighth Street, the four-story store and show room building that he purchased from Alfred Neuhaus through Leon Stein. The buyer is an investing client of F. and G. Pflomm. The property was sold for $65,000.

Raymond Rubin sold the two-story business building on the northeast corner of Grand and Eldridge Streets to W. Chalson. The building rents for $25,000, and was held for $200,000. A. Isaacs was the broker in the transaction.

Louis Kleban Buys Loft.

Louis E. Kleban purchased the loft building known as 1,180 Broadway, 25 feet north of the northeast corner of Twenty-eighth Street covering a plot 25 by 90 feet, from the Rednollah Realty Corporation. The building is at the foot of the subway station at Twenty-eighth Street and Broadway and is leased to one tenant and was held by the seller at $250,000. Philip D. Shapiro, Esq., represented the purchaser and Samuel Luloff represented the seller.

Missionary Sisters Buy Site.

The Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart bought a large property on Washington Heights, adjoining their home on Northern and Fort Washington Avenues, north of 190th Street. The purchase was made from Charles B. Hill and involves the plot on the east side of Northern Avenue, 66.8 feet north of 190th Street, 124.9 by 230 feet, extending through to Fort Washington Avenue, where it fronts 177.6 feet.

$3,000,000 Madison Av. Apartment.

Plans were filed yesterday with the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings for a fifteen-story apartment house at 1,178 to 1,188 Madison Avenue and 16 to 18 East Eighty-seventh Street to cost $3,000,000. The building will occupy a plot 201 by 103 feet and will be erected from plans by Sugarman & Berger, architects. Massex Building Corporation is the owner of record.

Result at Auction.

By WILLIAM KENNELLY, INC.

West 129th Street, 5, north side, 150 feet west of Fifth Avenue, 20 by 29.11 feet, four-story dwelling; Anna Moskowitz against Perry Bradford, Inc., and others; due, $2,840.75; taxes, &c., $307.40; subject to two prior mortgages aggregating $10,750; withdrawn.

Happiness Candy Stores Leasing New Restaurant Locations

Happiness Candy Stores, Inc., will assume new leases this year involving $5,000,000 or more and it is probable that the sum total will be double that amount. Three leases have already been signed for an amount aggregating over $2,900,000, and additional leases are now under negotiation which will carry the total to around $5,000,000. Properties are being leased by the company in which new restaurants and tea rooms will be started.

The first restaurant was opened in New York a week ago. It is in the block bounded by Fifth and Madison Avenues and Thirty-eighth and Thirty-ninth Streets. Two other locations have been obtained, one in Baltimore on Lexington Avenue and the other in Washington on F Street. Additional leases on properties in New York and Philadelphia are expected to be signed in the next week or two.

TENEMENT HOUSE SALES A MARKET FEATURE

Transfers of Flats on the East Side a Feature of Active Trading.

The Mordonhart Realty Company sold the two five-story tenements with stores on plot 50 by 100 feet at 1,577-1,579 Madison Avenue. The purchaser is a client of Pallister & O'Connell. This is the first sale of the property since 1897. Ryan & Co. were the brokers.

Joseph Goldsmith sold 1,007 Second Avenue for a client to Nathan Feldman through Lowenfeld and Luxenberg.

James Purcell sold for J. Lemle & Sons, 533 East Eighty-seventh Street, a five-story apartment 25 by 100 to an investor.

Laura Seemann sold to Fanny Bennett, 10 West Ninety-ninth Street, on a lot 25 by 100 feet, a five-story triple flat, held at $40,000. Harry J. Schum & Son were the brokers.

Edward C. H. Vogler re-sold for the Cantor Realty Corporation, 109 West 111th Street, a five-story apartment house on lot 29 by 121 feet irregular, being the northwest corner of 111th Street and St. Nicholas Avenue. The purchaser is Henry R. Nolte.

The Sigley Realty Company, Samuel Beck, Sigmund Glatzer and Edward Unterman, resold to a client of Irving Mendelsohn the northeast corner of Ninety-seventh Street and Lexington Avenue, a five-story tenement on a plot 50 by 100 feet. The sellers were represented by William Glatzer.

Seward W. Ehrich purchased from Benjamin Fleischman 448 East Seventy-second Street, at the southwest corner of Seventy-second Street and Avenue A. It is 16 feet on the street and 75 feet on the avenue. The property has just been improved into stores, doctors' suites and apartments. It rents for $5,100 a year. H. Rheinheimer was the broker.

Isidor H. Kempner & Sons sold 779 Tenth Avenue, between Fifty-second and Fifty-third Streets, a five-story tenement with stores on a plot 25 by 100 feet to Fred Ehrsam. The property was held for $50,000.

BUSINESS BUILDINGS SOLD.

Robert E. Simon resold the property at the northeast corner of Lexington Avenue and Fiftieth Street, adjoining Loew's Lexington Theatre, a taxpayer, fronting 100 feet on Lexington Avenue and 47.3 feet on Fiftieth Street. The buyer is the E. & G. Development Corporation, which was represented by Ira L. Rosenson. The property was held at $400,000. The brokers were Nathan J. Nassof and Harry L. Weil of Morgenthau & Blackstone.

Fischer & Hammond, Inc., sold for M. Rosenthal to an investor the sixteen-story loft building with stores at 261 to 267 West Thirty-fifth Street, 76 by 100 feet. It has an aggregate rental of about $150,000 and was held at $1,200,000.

BENNETT ESTATE SELLS.

Rodman Wanamaker and the Guaranty Trust Company as executors of James Gordon Bennett sold to the Paterno Construction Company, Charles V. Paterno, President, nine lots which have a combined frontage of 225 feet on the easterly side of Riverside Drive near West 183d Street. This property immediately adjoins the large holdings of Dr. Paterno on the west side of Northern Avenue. David Stewart was the broker.

MORTGAGE LOANS PLACED.

Money Advanced to Finance Bronx and Manhattan Properties.

Ralph H. Waddell Company, Inc., have placed the following loans: $110,000 on a six-story apartment house to be built by the Glick Construction Company, Inc., on the southeast corner of Tremont and Bryant Avenues; $40,000 at 5½ per cent. for five years on premises 1,130 Longfellow Avenue; $20,000 at 5½ per cent. for five years on premises at 40 West Ninety-sixth Street.

Operators Buy on Drive.

Rosenzweig Brothers, operators, added another parcel to their holdings by acquiring the seven-story apartment house on plot 51.4 by 105.5 feet, at 126 Riverside Drive, with an "L" to 346 to 352 West Eighty-fifth Street, a six-story apartment house on a plot 100 by 102 feet known as the Red House. The combined plot contains about 15,000 square feet.

The two structures bring in an annual rental of $65,000. The transaction was negotiated by W. H. Ebbitt & Co.

Cooperative Buyers.

Harvey Craw sold apartments in the new 100-per cent. cooperative apartment house at 40 West Fifty-fifth Street to Miss M. P. Chapin and to Miss Mary D. Clarke.

Pease & Elliman report the sale of an apartment of nine rooms and four baths in the new 100-per cent. cooperative apartment house at 510 Park Avenue to Mrs. Alexander Mitchell Hall 2d.

Operator Buys Apartment.

David Shalek, operator, has purchased from the 340 West Fifty-seventh Street Corporation the nine-story elevator apartment house known as 34 West Sixty-fourth Street, between Central Park West and Columbus Avenue, showing a rental of about $65,000 and held at $450,000. Philip D. Shapiro represented the purchaser and J. J. Schecter represented the seller.

PLAN NEW HOTEL NEAR TIMES SQUARE

Barnett M. and N. C. House, builders and operators, purchased from the estate of Sophia A. Mazzetti 130 West Forty-ninth Street, a plot 25 by 100 feet. This is their third purchase on Forty-ninth Street, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues. Three months ago they completed a seven-story and basement store, office and apartment building at 109 West Forty-ninth Street. More recently they took title to a plot of 50 by 100 feet at 132-134 West Forty-ninth Street, which with their last purchase gives them a combined plot of 75 by 100 feet. The brokers in both transactions were John M. Thompson & Co., Inc.

Negotiations are practically completed with prominent builders for a resale of the property at a price which will set a new high level for land values in the Times Square section. Schwartz & Gross, architects, are drawing plans for immediate improvement of the site with an eighteen-story fireproof hotel building, to contain about 300 rooms, each with bath, to cost in the neighborhood of $1,500,000, with every modern improvement installed. The rear of the structure will overlook the Playhouse, and a novel feature in the utilization of this permanently unobstructed outlook will be the designing of a rear elevation which will be as attractive as the street facade.

DOWNTOWN BUILDINGS IN LONG-TERM LEASES

A. H. Mathews & Co. leased a five-story building, 522 Washington Street, about 25,000 square feet, for E. R. Finch to Vestry Warehouses for a term of years. Also six-story and basement building, 16 Greene Street, for Edward Blum to Manhattan Desk Company. Leased the six-story building at 20 Leonard Street to Casino Stores, Inc., in conjunction with William C. Walker's Sons. Leased 127 and 131 Chariton Street, containing 7,500 square feet, for General Electric Company to W. W. Ryerson. Manhattan's Changing
Streets and Avenues

SEVENTH AVENUE, as the northerly extension of the New Varick St., the route of the Interboro-7th Ave. subway, the location of the Pennsylvania Station, the new Equitable Building, the "Garment Center," the Metropolitan Opera House, Times Square, Carnegie Hall, the famous "Spanish" flats and one of the four southerly gateways to Central Park, has a "personality" to be reckoned with.

The transformation of Seventh Avenue began, in 1910, with the construction of the Pennsylvania-Long Island R. R. Station, the New General Post Office, adjoining on the West, and the Pennsylvania Hotel. Construction of the 7th Avenue subway stabilized values and ushered in the building movement, which since has absorbed practically all of the larger and more important sites available in the "Penn," Garment Center, Times Square, Fiftieth St. and Central Park Zones.

Values have mounted to levels not even dreamed of a decade or so ago, and the midtown loft building movement has spread along practically all of the side streets, as far to the west as 9th and 10th Avenues.

North of 42d St. the greatest activity recently has been in the section from 47th to 53d St., where the car barn block, at 50th and 51st St., is the center of interest, with several hotels and four new theatres planned to be erected, and 53d St. selected to be the route of a new cross-town connecting subway.

In the residential district north of 53d St. and south of Central Park, the 7th Ave. frontage of the square block assembled for the Commonwealth Hotel project is to be improved with two large apartment houses. Robert E. Simon recently purchased the Carnegie Hall and contiguous properties, totalling 57,000 sq. ft., and the Navarro apartment group were sold to Benjamin Winter, who has sold to the New York Athletic Club, the 7th Ave., 58th to 59th St. end of the group.

SALESMEN.

AMBITIOUS MEN WANTED (TEN).

1. THE AETNA LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF HARTFORD, CONNECTICUT, wants ten men, preferably between 25 and 40, to join its selling force in New York City.

2. You may earn as you learn the business. Personal instruction and supervision will be furnished by experienced life insurance and accident and health insurance supervisors, who will help you get started.

3. Not only will you be paid a commission on the sales you make, but nine service commissions will, in addition, be allowed on the renewal of the policies you sell, thus enabling you to build up a steady future income, plus the first-year commission you receive now.

4. Life insurance, with accident and health insurance, is now one of the fastest growing businesses in America, and the selling of this business is the best paid hard work in the world.

5. THE AETNA OFFERS:
(a) Training.
(b) Enormous financial strength.
(c) Low rate.

6. THE AETNA prefers men who have had no previous insurance experience; men who are acquainted with New York City and who have succeeded at their previous undertakings, but who feel that their present jobs do not offer them a proper chance to advance; men who want to work for themselves and attain independence and self-reliance and not spend the remainder of their lives working for somebody else.

7. THE AETNA has no pink-tea job to offer, but to men who want to go ahead badly enough to accept training, and apply that training industriously, it has a place for ten selected men that will afford an opportunity for them to go a long way in life.

8. As the ten places in the AETNA'S New York sales organization will be filled at once, so as to complete your training with as little delay as possible, you should immediately call at Room 700, 100 WILLIAM ST., and discuss the matter with MR. GREGORY, if your ambition is such as to cause you to desire to push forward into fuller opportunity for self-development, service and money making.

SEEKS 120 PATRONS TO HELP POOR BOYS

GIMBEL EXPLAINS PURPOSE

Each Patron to Raise or Contribute $600 a Year for Three Years to Instruct One Youth.

One hundred and twenty of the leading business men of New York City are to be asked to pledge themselves individually to contribute, or to raise among their friends and business associates, $600 a year for the next three years for the National Farm School, an agricultural institution conducted along philanthropical lines to give the poor boy an opportunity to learn scientific farming.

This announcement was made yesterday at a luncheon at the Hotel Astor by Adam L. Gimbel, Vice President of the Saks Company and Chairman of the Trades Committee of the New York branch of the school. Each of the 120 business men will be asked to give one boy a complete vocational education and thus equip him thoroughly for a successful life career upon the soil.

The executives of the school, who are anxious to raise $1,200,000 for additional buildings, consider that instead of raising the full amount in a drive the same purpose will be accomplished if they obtain merely the income from such a fund, which will be enough to answer all their immediate requirements. The 120 boys are to be selected from poor families in the city.

The $1,200,000, to be known as the New York Perpetual Scholarship Endowment Fund, it was figured, would not only maintain the boys at the school but with funds already raised and to be raised by the rest of the country, would enlarge the school and its Faculty immediately to take care of the increased student body.

"The plan to raise the full amount," said Mr. Gimbel yesterday, "has been discarded temporarily for two reasons. In the first place, the entire $1,200,000 would have to be raised at once. The school has grown so rapidly in the last three years, and we are still compelled to turn down so many scores of deserving applicants, that the $72,000 additional annual maintenance is needed right now.

"In the second place, New York has just about had its fill of 'drives' at this time, and we will not start another. Therefore we will raise the interest on the $1,200,000 by the novel method of having the necessary number of business men assume the obligation of caring for one boy each."

The National Farm School is located at Doylestown, Pa., near Philadelphia. It was founded 28 years ago by the late Rabbi Joseph Krauskopf, and grew out of a suggestion of Tolstoi, the Russian novelist. It has already trained hundreds of deserving boys, both Jews and non-Jews, from New York and other crowded cities for successful careers as practical scientific farmers. The school has trained these boys, Mr. Gimbel explained, with books, tuition, lodging, food, clothing and all equipment entirely free, through a three-year course.

Three years ago the National Farm School was compelled to begin a program of expansion, the first step in which was the raising of an initial million dollar building and general endowment fund. Two-thirds of this has already been raised. The balance is now being contributed by New Yorkers under the leadership of Abraham Erlanger, former head of the B. V. D. Manufacturing Company. He is Chairman of the New York branch of the school.

Municipal Body Fears a Gradual Restriction of Recreation Areas for a Single Class.

The Municipal Art Society issued a statement yesterday opposing the enclosure of any space in Central Park or the introduction of buildings and apparatus for special playground uses.

The first plan for the Heckscher playground included the suggestion that the area devoted to baseball and play apparatus should be fenced off. That feature has been dropped, but the present plan contemplates the introduction of swings and other children's playground apparatus. The statement issued by the Municipal Art Society follows:

"The directors of the Municipal Art Society consider it necessary to record their deliberate objection to the use of any part of Central Park as a playground segregated from the general use by any barriers of buildings or apparatus. Special playgrounds so defined divert as many acres as are taken from their original purpose of a playground for all the people.

"It may be observed that this general use goes on without interfering, or the interference of others, year by year for two thousand or more children each week—rowing, boat sailing, skating, football and tennis, down to small children's games. Its normal use as a playground for children will steadily increase in these ways, without loss to the public, for it will go on without restricting any part of the whole area to the use of a particular class.

"Ample as the park was for the population of thirty or forty years ago, it does not grow more ample with the doubling population, but less; its area should not be diminished as the use and pressure of multitudes of visitors increase beyond all conception of its founders."

BISHOP HELD AS SPEEDER.

Head of Delaware Episcopal Diocese Is Arrested at Laurel.

Special to The New York Times.

LAUREL, Del., May 27.—Quite a stir was created here this afternoon when State Road Chief of Police Wardell arrested Bishop Philip Cook of the Delaware Episcopal Diocese on a charge of speeding and reckless driving.

Justice Spicer postponed the trial until Monday, at the request of the Bishop, without hearing evidence other than the statement of Wardell, who said that Bishop Cook drove as fast as forty-seven miles an hour.

The Bishop said he had a pressing engagement and was pressed for time, so Justice Spicer postponed the hearing until 10 o'clock Monday morning. Bishop Cook is scheduled for an all-day service here Sunday.

Settlement Warns of Solicitors.

Directors of the Henry Street Settlement issued a warning to the general public yesterday against a group of salesmen who have been canvassing the city selling articles and soliciting funds for the settlement. No authorization to solicit funds or sell articles has been given by the settlement to any one, the directors said. They request that any one asked for contributions in the future communicate with them at Orchard 8200 or Caledonia 4900.

OLYMPIC Soccer & Tennis CHAMPIONS wear Keds

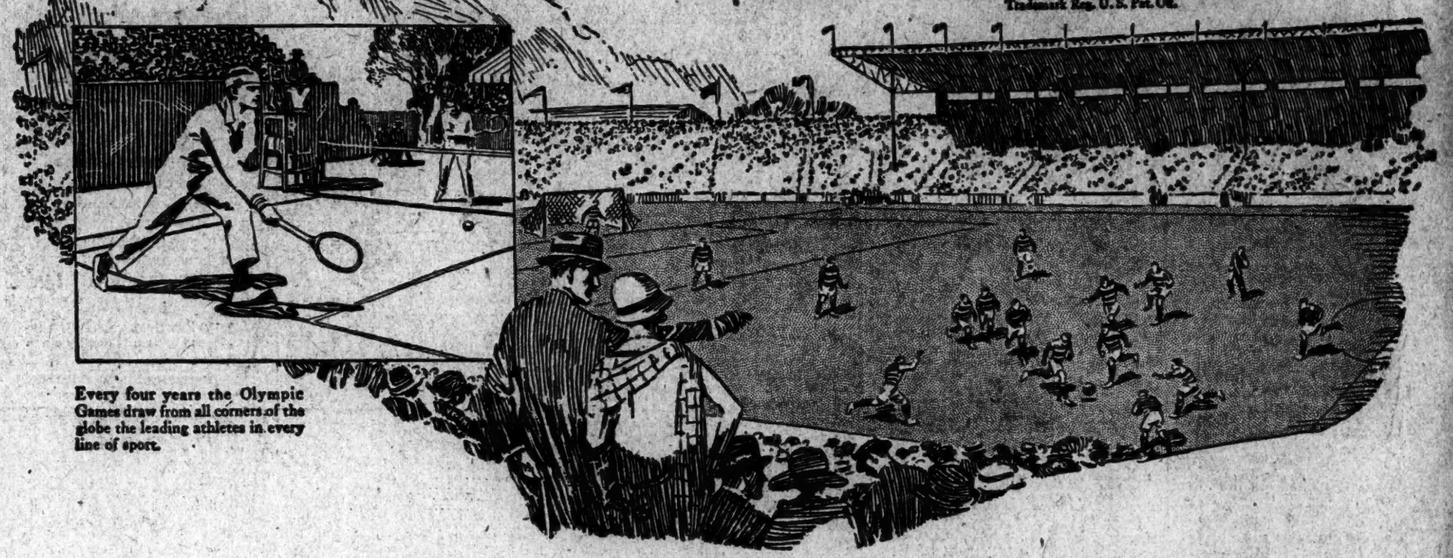
Trademark Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.



Every four years the Olympic Games draw from all corners of the globe the leading athletes in every line of sport.

ONE of the big surprises at the last Olympic Games in Paris was the Soccer Championship—hotly contested and finally won by the team from little Uruguay.

In addition, the Olympic Tennis Championships—men's and women's, singles and doubles—were won on these famous shoes.

More tributes to Keds! More proof that there's a real difference between Keds and other canvas rubber-soled shoes! Keds are made with soles of unusually tough, springy rubber—and uppers of canvas carefully selected for durability. They are the last word in cool comfort as well as long wear.

But remember—Keds are made only by the United States Rubber Company. And the name Keds is always on every pair.

It doesn't make any difference what style of Keds you want—for Keds come in all styles and at prices that range from $1.25 to $4.50. But it is important to get real Keds. No other shoe can give you Keds quality and value.

If you want the longest wear your money can buy—don't accept substitutes! Ask for Keds—and make sure the name Keds is on the shoe.

United States Rubber Company

{NOTE}

They are NOT Keds UNLESS the name Keds is on the shoe

THERE'S A KEDS model for every sports and vacation use—for children and grown-ups. There are athletic-trim Keds in lace-to-toe, and lace-to-instep patterns—Keds oxfords in brown or white canvas—Keds with crepe soles and Keds with corrugated and suction soles.
